Who Lies Under Beach Umbrella Remains Secret Until Sat. Night

By Louise Ervin, '49, and Harriet Ward, '48

The indefatigable counter-spy of the War Department will go so far as to say that Top Secret is still top secret, but the general public will get to see it at 8:30 on Saturday in Goodhart, when they present "Top Secret," a play which was produced at the Bryn Mawr College Fund Hospital. Undergraduate, Radical list and inquiries even the fact of the making of the play itself.

Auction, Supper Planned to Aid Drive

Everything from Dr. Taylor's paint box to clocks and Whittier prints will be auctioned at two sessions this afternoon, at 4 and 7 o'clock, in the evening at the other end. If it is good weather the auction will be held in front of the Delaware Armory in the Great Court. Articles will be on display from 10 o'clock on. All students are invited to come.

The auction, under the management of President T. Freeman Cope, will have on sale such rare items as two sets of Napoleon plates, as well as other valuable items, an egg stand used nowadays as a center for an electric light, which belongs to the King College and an old pair of shoes and friends of the college.

Supper will be served at the Delaware Armory, where the men and women of the college have an opportunity to purchase at the cost of their own dinner, which is guaranteed to cost only two cents.

The morning session, from 10 to 12, will include talks by Dr. Taylor, William, Yale University, and "Greek and Modern Concepts of History" and "Economic History," Professors of the University of North Carolina, on "Dialectic in History," having the afternoon session.

The program, from two to four, Professor Leo Strauss, of the New School for Social Research, will talk on "Political Philosophy and History," and Professor John H. Randall, Jr., of Columbia University, will discuss "Historical Determination and Historical Decision.")

CLARK STRAIN, the governor of Ohio, is in New York in connection with the Democratic National Convention, and is expected to arrive here this afternoon.

The convention is to be held in the gymnasium of the College of the City of New York on Thursday afternoon.

The convention is expected to be well attended, and is expected to be well attended.

The SDA

The controversy over the newly-formed organization on campus has dominated an unfortunate local as well as national tendency to point the finger and cry "Red!" in any political group. It is hardly mature to make hasty judgments without objective consideration of the facts involved. Any group that is made defensive over itself and to carry the principles in which it believes; while you may not believe in these principles, you have no right to deny freedom of expression to the group which does, unless it endangers "the public welfare.

However, this privilege of expression involves certain conditions which the Bryn Mawr chapter of the SDA has so far failed to meet. The principles of such a group must be stated in clear and concrete terms that leave no room for misinterpretation. Their present constitution lays itself open to justified attack, through its ambiguous clauses and a platform in which a variety of varying significances are hazily lumped together. We cite especially the end of the preamble and Section 3 of the "Basic Principles."

We updated the formation of any liberal organization, with the definite provision that its program be made absolutely comprehensible to all.

First Recognition

The Katherine Fullerton Gerould Memorial Prizes, presented on May Day along with the established scholarships and awards, were the first in the field of creative writing, marks the first academic recognition at Bryn Mawr of the creative arts. We feel that it is an important and necessary step toward formalization of the arts on the Bryn Mawr campus.

Other prizes are awarded for excellence in scholarship and critical work; the talents of the artist, submerged as they are beneath the artist's own ambition and critical work, have been relegated to second place. It is hardly necessary to point out that the creative ranks brim, if not above, the critical, but it is satisfying to find this formally recognized.

Perhaps this will be the first in a series of awards designed and offered to stimulate work in the fields of art and music as well as writing. We congratulate the founders as well as the first recipient of the Gerould Prize.

Welles Discusses Contemporary Music

Bela Bartok and Vaughan"guitars were compared in that each uses folk-tunes as the basics for his work and the latter was cited as having been instrumental in the development of an English school of music.

Dr. Welles concluded his lecture by saying that the public should consider music with an unbiased mind. Recently, however, this has not been the case, since music and politics seem to have become intricately woven. In the last analysis it will have to be the general public who is to determine whether or not the music of a specific composer has a lasting and intrinsic value.
B. M. Team Wins Tennis Victory

Bryn Mawr’s varsity tennis team retaliated for last year’s loss, 6-love, to Germantown, by winning with a score of 4-3 in a tournament played here last Wednesday. Gwen Groves, who played first for the second time for the college, played a good game, defeating her opponent, 6-3, 6-1. Pinocchio Johnson also played commendable tennis, winning, 6-4, 6-4, on an older opponent. Helen Poland, in a well-played game, beat her closely matched opponent, 6-4, 6-7, 8-6. Of the doubles met here played in the same tournament Gwen Groves and Betty Coleman won one for Bryn Mawr, 6-1, 7-5.

On Friday, May 2, the three-day Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament was opened at Swarthmore. The tournament was originally scheduled to take place at Bryn Mawr, but was moved to Swarthmore’s indoor courts because of the rain. Bryn Mawr’s five entries in the tournament were Nancy Harwirth, Gwen Groves, Betty Coleman, Helen Poland, and Clara Falsenstock. Gwen Groves won two matches, and lost the third to Lamp, of William and Mary. Clara Falsenstock met the champion of last year’s tournament, and played an exciting game, losing by a score of 6-3, 6-4.

The sports events to be held this week are as follows:

What To Do

FOR NEXT YEAR
Slips for college jobs are posted on the full bulletin boards and will be taken down May 15. Remember that the other campus jobs are getting filled, too, such things as the library jobs, showing lantern slides, reading to Mr. Hubbard, and so forth. The Girl Scouts are interested in social science majors for positions as professional staff assistants in many parts of the country. Beginning salaries about $2,000.
