OFFICIAL NOTICES.

Unexcused cuts of undergraduates up to the number of eight in a semester shall be punished by the deduction of one point per cut from the grades of the courses in which the cuts are taken. Of these cuts, not more than one may be taken in a one-hour course, two in a two-hour or three-hour course, and three in a five-hour course. Cuts which exceed this number, or which are not distributed as specified in this rule, shall reduce the grade for the course in which they are taken by two points* for each cut, with the proviso that, when the cuts in any course amount to one-fifth of the (scheduled) semester's lectures of that course or major fraction thereof (the fraction one-half being counted as an additional cut), the number of points per cut shall be doubled.

The computation of the penalties to be inflicted under this rule, and the consequent reduction of the grades, shall be done by the college office. This rule shall go into operation immediately upon the completion of the present semester's registration.

*Dean Madison's office.

Registration of exercise begins next week, October 19th. This year long tramps taken by three or more students together can be registered for exercise if the distance walked is noted.—C. M. K. A.

BRYN MAWR IN THE WAR ZONE.

Miss Park, Miss Lord and Miss Langdon, in their flight to the seacoast, were driving through Belgium about five miles from the German frontier, in a dilapidated coupé, hitched to an old plow horse with ropes, when an excited peasant ran up to tell them that the Germans were invading. They came, soon afterwards, to a poplar-lined high road. Over it they saw the German Army marching, six abreast, in splendid order. They were coming as far as the eye could see on the rises of the road. They were cooking as they marched and marching fast. Placards were being distributed to the peasants, who had gathered at the crossroads. These placards were assurances from the German Emperor of his regret for having to march across Belgium and his promise to make no trouble, if he was allowed to go unhindered. A peasant woman took Miss Park, Miss Lord and Miss Langdon into her cottage and gave them cabbage soup, the first food they had tasted for over twenty-four hours. That night an aeroplane sailed over the house and the Germans fired on it. The aeroplane rose and escaped. For the next three days they heard the cannonading of Liège with only one intermission of four hours. The refugees and wagon loads of wounded passed before their door. Almost all day long they stood at the door of the cottage to get news from the refugees, hoping to hear of some way to get to the seacoast. They escaped finally by walking back four or five miles over the frontier, where a captain, who hoped there was going to be a German-American alliance, helped them to get to Aix la Chappelle.

DEBATING SOCIETY.

The Debating Society last spring finally made the change in its organization which was necessary if it was not to be at the mercy of an enthusiasm that would fluctuate whimsically from year to year. As a solid organization, or even as one divided arbitrarily into two parts, it could give rise to no natural rivalry, no genuine spirit of competition; instead of encouraging mere pretense or concern for which side won, the artificiality of which was often only too apparent. By the new plan, which Miss Dodd and the present president, Miss Hatton, arranged last spring, the society is to be divided on a class basis, on the same basis as all our other competitive college activities.

There are to be class teams, each with a captain and manager; there are to be frequent informal debates in the lecture rooms or the hall sitting rooms to determine on the class teams and monthly inter-class debates in the chapel. Finally, our hopes reaching so far, there will be a Varsity team ready to accept the challenges, which Vassar and the other colleges have long ceased to send, but which Vassar certainly will be quick to take a suggestion to send again. Perhaps we shall win again, this time to retain the high but brief distinction of an old Bryn Mawr Debating Society, which flourished here in the year 1904-1905, and as the culmination of its very short existence, before a crowded chapel, by the unanimous vote of three formidable judges, won a debate with older and tried debaters from the New York Law School.

E. A. SHEARER.

SUNDAY EVENING SERVICES.

Dr. George Barton preached the first sermon of the college year. He read the parable of the Good Shepherd from the third chapter of St. John. In response to President Wilson's request, he prayed for the warring nations and for all those suffering from the conditions there. He spoke from the text, "I am come that they may have life, and that they may have it abundantly." He enumerated some of the things that go to make up abundant life, and then spoke of the place of religion in such a life. He closed with a few words of special appeal to the entering students.

A very interesting and moving sermon was preached last Sunday night by the Rev. Samuel Higginbottom, of the Leper Settlement in Allahabad, India. He told us how, in spite of the repulsiveness and danger of such a work, he had been led to undertake it; he described how, in the eleven years that he had been at the head of it, the settlement had changed from a group of mud huts, where no lepers would stay except those who could walk no farther, to a well-organized institution with several good buildings, where each leper had his own work and his own allowance. Finally, he told of the life of a leper girl who had devoted herself to bettering the condition of the women and children in the settlement, and who so realized the need of the work that she "thanked God every day that she was a leper."

For some years there has been a question as to whether a cut rule was necessary for Bryn Mawr, and now that it has come the undergraduates perhaps are so busy with their own point of view that they do not consider that of the faculty. President Thomas in her announcement of this rule in Chapel said that when she first came to Bryn Mawr she believed in absolute freedom, but she had been forced from her position and now stood with her back to the wall. Many regulations have been made during these last few years. Required gymnasium has been found necessary for the health of the students, then a rule was needed to bring students back from vacations and to prevent them from leaving early. President Thomas gave several reasons as to why we needed a cut rule, in the first place statistics show that there has been a great amount of cutting, and even though a girl is clever enough to pass her examinations without going to lectures, certainly it is not good for her. Then too the parents of those girls who have been forced to drop out of college on account of their poor work have said that they did not know that the college really wanted the girls at lectures. She closed by asking for our loyal support for this rule, which she considered a very mild one.

STUDENTS' LOAN FUND.

This fund established by the class of 1890, now amounts to between seven and eight thousand dollars. Students who need money to finish their college course may borrow to the extent of two hundred dollars in any one year, but not more than four hundred dollars during the four years' course. Applications for such loans should be made in the spring preceding the year for which the money is needed; but small sums may be borrowed on short notice as long as the fund lasts. The student is charged two per cent. interest on the loan after she leaves college, and is expected to pay back the whole within five years. Miss Martha

Thomas, Pembroke, as Chairman of the Alumnae Committee, is always glad to receive any contributions, however small.

THE WAR IN MAGAZINE AND PAPER.

Of foreign periodicals—the French and German having ceased publication at the outbreak of war—there are only the English. They arrive tardily, but are full of engrossing matter, which is heartily commended in lieu of that written from the outside point of view of American chroniclers.

The college library does not subscribe, but German newspapers for the Philadelphia to Bryn Mawr train-ride may be bought at Broad Street.

The "Independent" is the best commentary, being neutral, constructive and intelligent. The "New Statesman," an English weekly, is the organ of economic and political writers, and presents the vital domestic developments accompanying the foreign. The "Masses," (monthly) calls a spade a spade. In it and the "International Socialist Review" may be found an aggressive stand against war. The contributions to the "North American Review" are sane and scholarly. "Harper's Weekly" is anti-German.

"Punch" calls attention to its spirited pictorial interpretations: "In each of the great conflicts of the past seventy years, 'Punch' has been famed throughout the world for its splendid series of cartoons. In the tremendous struggle now beginning, the war cartoons and patriotic cartoons of 'Punch' will constitute a feature of no ordinary interest."

The "War Manual" of the "World's Work" (September, 1914), the "Masses" for the same month, containing the "Traders' War," and "Collier's" for August 15th, with Dr. A. K. Graves' sensational "German War Machine," repay looking over.

PHILANTHROPIC PARTY.

About 120 people attended the very successful party which the Philanthropic Committees gave in the Gymnasium on Saturday evening, M. Scattergood, 1917, spoke first on the work at Lighthouse Settlement, telling of the various classes which are held there and of the children's enthusiasm for these classes. M. Haskell, 1916, gave a pathetic picture of the two hospitals which are visited, the Homœopathic Hospital, but more particularly, the hospital for crippled children. After hearing her speak I am sure that many will try to visit one of these hospitals. Miss Applebee told of all the places to which Junk is sent and reminded every person not to throw away anything, but to give it to the Junk collector, for it is sure to be useful somewhere. L. Harris, 1917, talked about the sewing committee, and called attention to the many dresses which were made by the students during the summer. She also said that this year sewing would not be done on a special evening, but would be distributed to be done at any time, and for those who did not care to sew there would be Red Cross work such as rolling bandages, etc.

CORRESPONDENCE COLUMN.

(The Editors do not hold themselves responsible for the opinions expressed in this column.)

Probably those most to be sympathized with in the present European War are the women and children, who have no power to stop or stay the conflict, a conflict which drives them destitute from their homes without so much as the poorest military fare to sustain them, nor a single soldier's weapon to protect them from dishonor, only worse than lingering death!

While the world in general is contributing solely to the Red Cross Fund, let us not forget that there are also ways in which we might send help to the refugees.

For further information, apply to
SUSAN F. NICHOLS, '15.

(We hear that "Junk" is sending boxes of clothes for the refugees.—Ed.)

To the Editors:

For years at Bryn Mawr we have been getting into a rut. Day after day we have been driven by routine over the traditional path to knowledge. The path has been worn into a rut; the rut worn deeper and deeper until, before we realized it, the sides closed in and shut the world out. No longer able to gaze upon the outside world, we looked constantly down the narrow path. Our point of view was completely changed. We lost sight of the vital things in looking constantly upon the scholastic things. We were helpless to climb out of the rut by ourselves. Some of us did not even want to get out. But at last from the "new organ" we hear the note of live interest in the outside world, of free thought. It rouses us; it stimulates us; we hope it may ever give us a lift out of the rut.

CAMPUS NOTES.

Chapel. President Thomas spoke on Wednesday of the success of the Government in averting war with Mexico, while at the same time upholding the Monroe doctrine; also of President Wilson's praiseworthy policy of strict neutrality toward the European war, instancing his decision in regard to the use of the wireless stations on United States soil.

On Friday, taking Shakespeare for the author of the week, Miss Thomas criticized the one omission in the plays—the modern woman; but added that it was not Shakespeare's fault that in his day he could not imagine a modern Ophelia to match his Hamlet. Next week the discussion will be on Shelley.

The Fire Captains are: Chief, I. Zeckwer, '15; F. Kellogg, '16, Pem. E.; F. Hatton, '15, Pem. W.; H. Harris, '17, Rock.; G. Bryant, '17, Denbigh; M. Chamberlain, '15, Merion; L. Branson, '15, Radnor. The captains have been investigating the methods of fire companies in other colleges and are drawing up new plans and regulations for this year.

Mr. and Mrs. McLaughlin (Miss Elizabeth Gray) have a daughter, born October 7th.

At the reception to the Graduate Students at the Deanery last Thursday, President Thomas gave an informal talk on the advantages of a woman's college as compared with co-educational institutions. Dean Maddison outlined the college requirements for the higher degrees.

Choir Appointments: Leader, I. Smith, '15; organist, M. Chamberlain, '15; first soprano, L. Davidson, E. Freer, M. M. Thomson, D. Deneen, I. Knauth, C. Westling; second soprano, D. Perkins, K. McCollin, L. Goodnow, T. Smith, H. Harris; first alto, M. Free, I. Smith, E. Seelye, E. Atherton; second alto, H. Bradford, M. Andrews, M. Russell, M. Allen. Substitutes: R. Glenn, E. Houghton, M. Winsor, J. Hemenway, F. Johnson, A. Kerr.

1915. Class Elections, Thursday, October 15th.

1916. Class Elections, Friday, October 16th. E. Porter, ex-1914, has joined the Junior Class.

1917. H. Harris has been elected Cheer Leader.

1918. M. Allen is temporary Secretary; E. Atherton is temporary Cheer Leader.

FIRST GLEE CLUB MEETING.

A Glee Club meeting was held last Thursday. Thalia Smith, '17, was elected Assistant Business Manager. The resignation of Margaret Russell, '16, as Business Manager was accepted with regret. The first regular rehearsal of this Club will be to-night.

NATIONAL ARCHERY ASSOCIATION TOURNAMENT.

The Archery Tournament was held in August, at the Merion Cricket Club, at Haverford. There were events for both men and women.

Facing the club-house on the hockey field were thirty targets, about ten yards apart, for the men, one hundred yards from the shooting line; for the women, sixty yards. At a bugle call by a Boy Scout each contestant shot six arrows, and then all walked up together to their targets to score their hits and bring back their arrows. This is repeated four or eight times, and then the targets are brought forward for a shorter range.

This year was a record tournament for the women, all the shooting being better than usual, and the team shoot record being broken by the Wayne team. The score in this event was 1405, 1321 having stood since 1885.

There is practically no sport which is more interesting to a beginner than archery. One contestant, who had shot only four or five times in her life, won a medal for the Handicap National Round; and another who had been shooting about four months was within two points of winning the Columbia Round Championship. There are many trophies, too, that are likely to be won by beginners; some even are restricted to those who are shooting in their first National Tournament.

Next year the tournament is to be held at Chicago, and we want Bryn Mawr to shine in it. Why not have "stars" in archery as well as in all other sports? And nobody knows what they can do in anything or how much they like it till they try.

On the bulletin board in the gymnasium are posted a program and several photographs of this year's tournament.

C. WESSON, '09.

PSYCHOLOGICAL INVESTIGATION.

This summer Dr. Ferree and Dr. Rand, supplementary to their work on lighting, made an investigation of the effect of moving pictures on the eyes. They fitted up a little room at the Bryn Mawr theatre and made tests there after watching the pictures for periods of two hours. The results of these tests show that if the observer sits well back from the screen, after two hours there is no more strain on the eyes than there is after the same period of reading by the greater part of the direct lighting and much of the semi-indirect lighting now in actual use. This is interesting in view of the fact that a great many people object to moving pictures on the ground that they are bad for the eyes, and yet these same people are content to read for two or three hours at a time with bright light sources in the field of vision.

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION.

Athletic Board. Last year Varsity skirts were continually misplaced. To remedy this, the Board has decided to charge a deposit fee of $1.00 for each skirt and tie taken for the season, or 25 cents each time.

Outdoor Manager. New backstops, costing $150, have been put on the professors' court and on the courts by the lower hockey field.

Indoor Manager. The bahyland rope is not to be removed, and unauthorised swimmers will please keep within the rope limit.

Archery. We hope that Miss Wesson's article on archery will bring out more people for practice, as the establishing of class teams and an inter-class tournament is under consideration.

Hockey Practice Schedule.

- 1918. Wednesday (U), Thursday (L), Friday (U), 3.30; Tuesday, Friday, 4.20.

Training Rules.

In bed by 10.30. Nothing may be eaten between meals, except fruit and one cup of tea or lemonade. Directly after a meal, i. e., within a quarter of an hour, anything may be eaten. As these rules have been reduced to the simplest form possible, the Captains expect them to be strictly kept.

UNDERGRADUATE ASSOCIATION

The Undergraduate body, in the last meeting, pledged itself to support a general college Red Cross movement, by charging admission at class plays, by contributing money which would otherwise have gone into concerts, and by sewing on the garments needed by the Red Cross and refugees. The Association decided to ask the faculty and the Graduate Club to co-operate in this work. In order to make our pledge good, every individual must help, must contribute money or work, or both, if possible. If you have suggestions to make or questions to ask, go to the Red Cross Committee. The Senior members are E. G. Noyes, E. Rapallo and D. Moore. The rest of the committee will be appointed later.

The following members have been elected to the Students' Building Committee: 1915, M. G. Brownell, L. Branson; 1916, H. Robertson, A. Grabau; 1917, K. Blodgett, M. Andrews; 1918, E. Strauss, H. Butterfield.

The Debating Club Captains and Managers are as follows: 1915, F. Hatton, J. Foster; 1916, I. Bridges, M. McCay; 1917, D. Shipley, V. Litchfield; 1918, M. Senior, V. Kneeland.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

At the first meeting of the year the constitution was read. O. Erbsloh, '15, gave an account of the Eaglesmere Conference and of the part the Bryn Mawr delegates had in it. A. Lee, '16, spoke of the work of the Daily Vacation Bible School in Germantown during the summer and of the loyalty of the children to Bryn Mawr. M. Dodd described the Bates House at Long Branch and the Spring Street people who spent their vacation there. L. Garfield, '16, read a letter from Jean Davis, '14, describing the work at the "foyer" in Geneva among the girls stranded there on account of the war. The meeting afforded a splendid opportunity to all students to learn what the Christian Association is accomplishing outside of college.

Mission Study and Bible Classes.—The plan for the first semester includes five lectures by Miss Palmer to be given on five consecutive Wednesdays at 7.30. Miss Caroline Palmer is from the New York Bible Teachers' Training School and has recently made several trips to the foreign field to investigate mission work. The first meeting will be held on October 21st, in Room F. of Taylor Hall, at 7.30. No books or preparatory work are required for the course. For three consecutive Wednesdays outside speakers will lecture under the auspices of the Bible Study Committee. During the second semester the Bible and Mission Study Classes will be held Wednesdays at 7.30.

Employment Bureau.—Don't forget that the Employment Bureau gets work done for you. It does the work you haven't time to do yourself; typewriting, copying notes, reading aloud, and anything else you want done. Learn particulars from A. Werner, 4-8 Denbigh.
