College Adopts Simplified Plan Of Solicitations

The student body has now adopted the "One Drive System," which means that only one drive, covering all services, is to be held per year. This system has been used successfully at Vassar and others of the Seven Colleges, and will simplify the soliciting problem to a considerable extent.

The Drive, to be held in the fall, will come under the League, with a Relief Committee chairman chosen by a campus election. The Chairman will choose her own committee which will be concerned with solicitations and budget. The budget is to be drawn up on the basis of previous years' contributions and the new requests which have come in; a surplus is to be maintained which can meet emergencies.

If an agency were to apply in the middle of the year with an immediate need for money, its demand could be met from the emergency fund, not through solicitation. It is emphasized that only one solicitation is to be allowed per year, as this is the whole point of having a One Drive System.

At the same time, this new drive plan will not interfere with the traditional Activities Drive in the fall. It will include all the national charities such as Red Cross and Community Chest which now depend on individual solicitations.

Dulles Discusses Austrian Situation

Common Room, May 5. Speaking at Current Events tonight, Mrs. Eleanor Lansing Dulles, recently returned from Austria where she has been serving as financial attache to the American Legation, commented on developments in Austria and pointed out the necessity of continued discussion of various questions with the Soviet Union in order to achieve a lasting peace. Mrs. Dulles explained that the situation in Austria is such that it is almost impossible to talk about it without reference to Soviet relations.

Citing the 1945 elections in Austria and Czechoslovakia, Mrs. Dulles described the difference in temperament between the two countries which led to the contrast in pro-communist votes (40% in Czechoslovakia and 5% in Austria). The fact that Austria is still under a Control agreement and that no treaty has yet been signed, Mrs. Dulles ascribed to the lengthy discussions which have been held without any satisfactory compromise being effected. "Representatives of the four powers are now meeting in London, however," stated Mrs. Dulles, "and there have been a large number of concessions made by the Russians."

Mrs. Dulles also spoke briefly on the importance of the Marshall Plan for Austria. She asserted "The Austrians have made a fairly substantial recovery from almost nothing, but without the Marshall Plan the economic situation might revert to chaos." The necessity of raw materials and some machines in order to keep Austrian economy on an even keel was emphasized as well as the pressing need for food.

Merion's Concert In Wyndham Features Vocal, Piano Numbers

by Catherine Merritt '51 and Blaikie Forsyth '51

The lack of ashtrays, chairs and a well-tuned piano didn't dampen the enthusiasm of the audience for the second annual Merion Concert, which was, quite logically, held in Wyndham, May 4. Feeling the effects of spring, people reclined on the floor and absorbed the music, free cokes, and Awards Night lollipops.

The Double Octette opened the program with songs which are by now old favorites: "I Wonder When I Shall Be Married", "Riddle Song", "Grandma Grunts", and "I'm So Glad Trouble Don't Last Away". In one of the two Italian pieces they sang, there were four concealed animals. We only

Cadbury Speaks To B. M. Seniors At Commencement

This year's Commencement speaker will be the Reverend Henry Joel Cadbury, theologian and author. Dr. Cadbury was graduated from Haverford College and received his M.A. and Ph.D. from Harvard. In 1933 Haverford awarded Dr. Cadbury his Litt. D. degree, and four years later he received his degree of Doctor of Divinity from the University of Glasgow.

Dr. Cadbury has taught at Harvard, Haverford and the Yale Divinity School, as well as at Bryn Mawr. For eight years, from 1926 to 1934, he was Professor of Biblical Literature here at Bryn Mawr.

Dr. Cadbury is also the author of many books, among them: National Ideals in the Old Testament and Beginnings of Christianity. He has written many articles on Biblical subjects, on the Quakers and on immigration. He is chairman of the American Friends' Service Committee.

U. W. F. Announces Results of Poll

The results of the United World Federalist poll sponsored by Bryn Mawr's Student Federalist chapter reveal that 82 per cent of the students approached are in favor of World Government. However, many written comments by those favoring World Government indicated that although World Government is idealistically fine, it is impossible to achieve now.

As a result of the poll, 26 new members were added to the chapter, setting the total membership at 84.

B. M. Club to Hold Party for Drive

The Bryn Mawr Club of Philadelphia and the Regional Scholarships Committee are staging a Benefit Bridge Party on Tuesday, May 18, at 2 o'clock in the Deanery. Following the bridge, a fashion show will be held at seven o'clock. The clothes will be on exhibition all day. A per centage of the money taken in will be for the benefit of the Drive, in particular for the benefit of the Regional Scholarships Fund. Students are invited and there will be food for sale!

detected two of them in spite of the super-realistic imitations by Mr. Goodale and the singers.

Inman's Technique Simple

When checking on Ann Inman's piano selections (they were Chopin's Prelude No. 6, Fantasia Impromptu and Prelude No. 15), we humbly asked her for a description of her technique. "I play with my fingers", she said. We attribute the terseness of her reply to the fact that her opponents in a bridge game had just made her partner's no-trump bid.

Even without moustaches, there is nothing more barbershop than Bryn Mawr's Quartette. Geib, Loomis, Henderson and Eberstadt, despite occasional difference of opinion as to pitch, were a great success with their renditions of "If I Had My Way", "My Sweet", "Mood Indigo" and "Lover Man". Their acting ability added greatly to these and other old favorites. Everyone seemed to agree that "The more we get together, the happier we'll be."

Concert Unveils Talent

Undaunted by one rebellious note on the piano, Cynnne Schwartz played, with her usual dash, popular songs familiar to the habits of the Rhoads smoker. Starting off with "The Continental" and "Just One of Those Things", she continued with requests from the enthusiastic audience.

This concert, as the last Drive Benefit of the year, gave additional evidence of varied musical talent on campus.

Glenn Will Talk At Baccalaureate

Dr. Leslie Glenn will deliver the Baccalaureate address on Sunday, May 30, in Goodhart.

Dr. Glenn is the rector of St. John's Church in Washington, D. C., and was the former rector of Christ Church, Cambridge, Massachusetts. He was the Chaplain of the Episcopal students at Harvard University and acted for four years as a commander in the U. S. Naval Reserve. He served as a Chaplain during the second World War, for the most part aboard the USS Alabama, which saw action at Saipan, Iwo Jima and Okinawa.

Dr. Glenn is well-known on the Bryn Mawr campus, since he gave two sermons here in the fall.

B. M., Haverford Join to Present Bright Comedy

Levinson Performance Climaxes Woolcott Comedy

by Hanna Holborn '50

A capable and enthusiastic Bryn Mawr-Haverford cast combined on Saturday evening to make The Man Who Came to Dinner one of the best, and certainly the most hilarious, performance of the year. They were aided by the inspired choice of a play which is funny under almost any circumstances and also by an unusually responsive audience; but all credit must go, finally, to the uninhibited group on stage.

As the man who came to dinner and stayed four weeks with a broken hip that wasn't broken, Henry Levinson made a superb and extremely redoubtable Sheridan Whiteside. The whole play revolved around him, and he never became static or tiresome; on the contrary, his every action was a matter of esger interest, from his opening yell of "Great dribbling cow!" right on to the end of the play. Mr. Levinson created a real character; he had a magnificent sense of timing and a feeling for the details of acting. The difficult mood swings, from egotistic dilittantism to sentimentalism ("in the faltering twilight, Eliss P. Crockfield made his way to the poor box"), from sarcasm to something resembling human emotion, he accomplished with finesse and assurance. It is impossible to single out specific points at which he excelled; he was good throughout.

Pantomime Good

Sheila Tatnall, playing Maggie Cutler, was perhaps a bit miscast. She was very good in her pantomime scenes—especially at the very beginning of the play as she stood by Whiteside's chair watching the confusion—and she did a wonderful job in her catty battle with Lorraine Sheldon; but her rather coy statements of "I'm in love" fully merited Whiteside's snort of "This is merely delayed puberty." This was perhaps not entirely her fault; Christopher Amussen (Bert Jefferson) who played opposite her was somewhat colorless; but the "love interest" on the whole did not go over too well in spite of a heroic attempt.

Weary Geologist Describes Hunt For Rocks, Deer and Trilobites

Dear family,

(We've been in a bus three days looking for rocks. They were all on tops of mountains or half way up precipices. I found lots on Friday but they were all the wrong ones; so Saturday I stopped finding them and sat down instead. When we got to the Delaware Water Gap we stopped to take a closer look at a deer bear and a ba deer. Friday night we each had our own bed but Saturday night we were at Tamaqua which has its own sleeping customs. It was all up and down stairs from one street to the next, but that was easy for us because of our practice in going up and down mountains from one rock to the next.

On Sunday Dr. Dryden showed us a remarkable syncline that made coal by pinching it tightly, but I couldn't find it any place. We left our eggs from our Friday box lunches in the coal mine because by Sunday something unpleasant had happened to them. That's about all, except that Dr. Watson caught on fire, someone fell off a cliff and started an avalanche, and Miss Lutz watched Miss Boudreau catch a trilobite—after three years of laying for him. It was all very interesting but I got hungry and misplaced a valuable pickax, and am advertising in the Stroudsburg Super, the Tamaqua Yearly, and the Pottsville Conglomerate.

Services Drive

We have chosen the efficiency and simplicity of a one-drive system to support national charities. Whether or not the choice was a good one rests entirely on student cooperation. There are two difficulties presented to us when we inaugurate the new plan on campus next fall. We must meet the increased goal at once, and at the same time we must continue support of campus drives.

The services drive in the fall will include such national charities as the Community Chest and the Red Cross; its goal will be a composite one larger than former individual aims. We must maintain the support we have shown under the present system and strive to better our contributions. We must also maintain our support of campus efforts such as the Activities Drive.

To do this, let us remember the broad results of the plan, the efficiency which we have chosen. And let us seriously undertake to justify our choice.

Just Supposin'

If there should be a railroad strike
 And all folks took to sea,
 Life would continue at B. M. C.,
 And where o where would we be?

Two choices would face us—dreaming up some novel means of transportation (river-boat schedules may be obtained in the NEWS room on request) or competing with the summer theatre by spending the summer here.

Let's see, the main reading room could be converted into an open-air dining hall (in keeping with Wadham College, Oxford). Arrangements could be made with the weather bureau to provide continual showers for those who do not care to make use of the new enlarged cloister pool. The brook behind Rhoads could be stocked with minnows, while the subterranean passages of Rock and Goodhart would provide game-hunting.

But all of this is purely NEWS speculation and perhaps out of character with the seriousness of the national crisis. We are not oblivious to the need for an immediate, fair settlement. But the American public now stands impotent. Therefore, we are left only to argue, condemn, wave a banner, or . . . just speculate on a summer at Bryn Mawr.

Earle, Johnson, Greeley, Iglehart Named For Head of Service Drive

The Board of the Bryn Mawr League and Alliance have jointly nominated the following candidates for the post of Chairman of the Services Drive next fall. Voting will take place in the halls after lunch on Thursday, May 13.

Louise Earle

Last year, Lou was the president of the freshman class, hall representative to the Alliance, and a representative to the Model Congress. This year she was the hall representative in charge of soliciting for the Community Chest Drive. She is next year's First Junior Member to Undergrad.

Priscilla Johnson

Priscilla has been President of the B. M. chapter of the UWF for two years. She was Freshman Member to Undergrad last year. She has been on the Alliance Board since she came to Bryn Mawr, and is now Publicity Chairman.

Dixie Greeley

Besides being Vice President of Pem West, Dixie serves on the League Board as head of the Haverford Community Center. She has been working on next year's Freshman Handbook.

Anne Iglehart

Anne has been Vice-President-Treasurer of the freshman class this year. She managed the props for Freshman Show, and has been active with the Student Federalists. She was elected as next year's Second Sophomore Representative to Self-Gov.

Opinion

Curriculum Comm. Asks Co-operation, Reports Plans

To the Editor:

Now that the Student Curriculum Committee is organized for next year, we would like to report on some of our plans.

Earlier this year we received requests for a typing course with or without credit. Such a course can not be included in our curriculum; however, we would be happy to sponsor a student organized group, if a sufficient number of people are still interested in learning to type. During the next few days a representative in each hall will take the names of any students wishing to do so.

Requests have also been made for a course in painting to be counted for credit towards the degree. Before acting on this question we would like to know how many people would take such a course. If you are in favor of this proposal, please speak to a member of the committee or sign the list in Taylor on the Curriculum committee bulletin board before Friday, May 21.

We are also continuing discussion on the orals system and are waiting for a faculty decision on suggestions already presented. Any further constructive suggestions would be appreciated.

Finally, we would like to point out that we are a student elected committee serving as an intermediary between the students and the faculty on questions concerning the curriculum. Without student cooperation we have no function; so please bring us your ideas, suggestions, or complaints.

The Student Curriculum Committee

Ernest W. Stanley respectively, made a very realistic small town couple, helpless in the face of Mr. Whiteside. David Thomas, playing the prolific Dr. Bradley, had a tendency to overact but gave a very lively performance.

Others in the cast included: Susan Kramer as Miss Preen; James Ranck as Richard Stanley; Jane Roller as June Stanley; Paul Cates as John; Claireve Grandjovan as Sarah, and Daniel Oppenheim as Professor Metz.

Special credit must also go to Stage Manager Charles Gilbert and his crew for a good set and excellent lighting. And, finally, to Mr. Thon goes the distinction of having added another to his list of polished and enjoyable productions.

Ivy, Pioneer Spirit of Radnor Mark Magic Growth of New Hall

by Louise Ervin, '49

Quoth an ancient B(e)ard: "Radnor Hall is just like Oxford!" However, Anne Bobis, next year's temporary president of that ancient ivy-clad edifice, is at present entertaining many doubts as to whether or not the still and scholarly aura ascribed to Radnor will survive the undergraduate invasion scheduled for the autumn of 1948.

Smokers on every floor (tidy under the graduate regime), wash-tubs and ironing boards in the basement, and fireplaces scattered throughout promise to accommodate the most varied tastes. As yet Radnor has been unable to discover either piano or victrola. (The present inhabitants, it would seem, are little concerned with the more noisy forms of recreation.) Donations are therefore welcome! There is one more deficiency, only one telephone; please limit your calls.

Because of Radnor's proximity to the gym, it is expected that occupants will have a minimum of difficulty fulfilling sports requirements. A bicycle brigade will facilitate unavoidable excursions to such central points as Taylor and the vill.

Freshman Week in Radnor will present problems of geography to freshmen and upperclassmen alike. The usual welcoming committee plans to arrive a day early in hopes of learning their way in time for the freshmen. New furniture, new paint, will appear this summer, but prospective Radnorites (Oxfordians?) remain secretive concerning "traditions." Presumably these will appear before too long. Perhaps an ivy chain will vie with Vassar's daisies.

Sports

Lacrosse

Bryn Mawr was defeated by the University of Pennsylvania in a lacrosse game last Thursday, May 6. The score was 18 to 1 favor of Penn and 4 to 3 favor of Bryn Mawr.

Next game will be with Swarthmore, on Thursday, May 13th, at Swarthmore, at 4:30.

Softball

Bryn Mawr had another defeat last Thursday. In a softball game with Swarthmore, they lost with a score of 22 to 3.

Tennis

The college has not been successful in its spring tennis matches. In the first matches of the season with Merion Cricket Club results were as follows: Groves vs. Vosters, 6-0, 6-1, favor of Vosters; P. Johnson vs. Townsend, 6-3, 6-3, favor of Townsend; Fahnestock vs. Madeira, 6-2, 6-1, favor Madeira; Harrington vs. Mrs. Warton Balis, 6-1, 6-3, favor Balis.

In the doubles matches the scores

Deanery Tea

The Deanery regrets that it is no longer able to serve daily tea, since the demand has not been sufficient. It will be delighted, however, to serve tea on 24-hour notice.

Chorus in the Cloisters

The Bryn Mawr College Chorus invites everyone to an informal concert in the Cloisters, at 7:30, on Thursday, May 13. The program will include songs familiar to all B. M. Chorus concert-goers, and there will be other added numbers.

Dante Paper Published

Elizabeth McClure, '48, has been notified that her essay Dante's Place in the History of Humanism has been accepted for publication by The Personalist, a quarterly journal of Philosophy, Religion and Literature. The journal is sponsored by the School of Philosophy at the University of Southern California.

Gymnasium Hours

During the examination period, the gymnasium will be open from 9 A. M. to 1 P. M. and from 2:30 P. M. to 9 P. M. The swimming pool may be used any time during these hours provided two B. M. life savers are present. There will be a General Dip twice daily, from 4 to 5 P. M. and from 8 to 9 P. M. Life savers will be provided at these times. The pool will be closed over the week-ends.

Undergrad Scholarship

The Undergraduate Association has announced that the annual foreign scholarship has been awarded for next year to Elizabeth Douli, of Athens, Greece. She will be graduated in June from the Pierce School there.

Experimental Theatre Award

A cast of Bryn Mawr and Haverford students won third prize in the Philadelphia Experimental Theatre's series of broadcast plays over Station WIP. The group presented "Monoliths," an original

What To Do

See the hall bulletin boards for a list of summer positions, excluding camps. There may not be anything wonderful on it but there are many fairly good jobs which offer good experience.

For Next Year:

Camp Fire Girls need local field directors in many parts of the country. Training courses are given. Can take beginners at $1,800 if "they have shown leadership ability."

For more advanced students, there are executive director positions from $2,400 to $4,500.

Mr. Macdonald, of the Pennsylvania State Employment Service will come to the college two extra days, Tuesday, May 11th, and Thursday, May 13th, to register students for permanent and summer positions in Pennsylvania or other states. The schedule of appointments is posted outside of Room H, in Taylor Hall. Be sure to get a form to fill in before your appointment.

For the Summer:

The Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston is asking for inexperienced laboratory workers on a volunteer basis. Although we have not heard directly from other hospitals, we think many others will undoubtedly welcome volunteers.

The Sleighton Farm School for Girls near Philadelphia will take attendants at $50 a month and living. The training and experience are recommended by Miss Kraus. Graduate and undergraduate students.

Some Interesting Summer Training Courses:

The Columbia Institute in Philadelphia offers a short course in Radio—July to early September. Tuition is $130 for about ten weeks. Course will include producing shows on the air.

Radcliffe College offers two courses.

One is in Publishing Procedures,

The other is in Typing and Shorthand, same dates. Tuition $50, board and lodging, $111.

Incidentally

There was a rude interruption in the gym last week when an inquiring student investigated the music of the rusty pipes only to discover that a male voice really was singing in the shower! Moral: no stinging in the shower!

It seems that inhabitants of the more infernal regions of Taylor refer in hushed voices to those "up there." The students are evidently not alone in their awe of Second-Floor-Taylor.

The annotated copy of the NEWS referred to in the issue of May 4 mysteriously disappeared from its place of prominence on the NEWS bulletin board. But our Sherlocks have a clue; it looks as though we were unappreciative of the sense of humor involved. Deepest apologies!

WHY... I smoke Chesterfield

(FROM A SERIES OF STATEMENTS BY PROMINENT TOBACCO FARMERS)

"I think Chesterfield is a good-smoking cigarette and I like them. They have a good, ripe-tobacco taste and they're mild."

"Nobody pays a higher price to get good-smoking tobacco than Chesterfield. They buy sweet, ripe tobacco. Looks like a gold dollar in the barn."
