BRYN MAWR COLLEGE.

GRADUATE COURSES OF INSTRUCTION.

Bryn Mawr College, situated at Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania, five miles from Philadelphia, was endowed by Dr. Joseph W. Taylor, of Burlington, New Jersey, who purposed founding an institution of learning for the advanced education of women which should afford them "all the advantages of a college education that are so freely offered to young men." In the spring of 1885 the first program was issued, and the college opened for instruction in the following autumn.

Three classes of persons are admitted to the lectures and class work of the college—graduate students, undergraduate students, and hearers. For the convenience of graduate students the regulations of the graduate department and the graduate courses of instruction are published separately. No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses.

Regulations of the Graduate Department.

From the first it has been the policy of the Trustees of Bryn Mawr College to organise no department in which they could not provide for graduate as well as undergraduate study. Only such instructors have been chosen as are qualified to direct both graduate and undergraduate work. In each department a consecutive series of graduate courses pursued throughout three years provides preparation in the chief or major subject of the examination for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, and certain courses may be pursued for one or two years and offered as one of the two minor or secondary subjects.

Admission.

Graduate students must have presented a diploma from some college of acknowledged standing.* They may pursue any

* The certificates of the women's colleges of the English universities of Oxford and Cambridge, are regarded as equivalent to a first degree,—i. e. to the degree of Bachelor of Arts.
courses offered by the college for which their previous training has fitted them; but they must satisfy the several instructors of their ability to profit by the courses they desire to follow, and may be required to pursue certain introductory or auxiliary studies before they are admitted to the advanced or purely graduate courses. They are, moreover, entitled to personal guidance and direction, supervision of their general reading and furtherance of their investigations, from the instructors, and their needs will be considered in the arrangement of new courses of lectures; they must consult the President in regard to the courses they are to pursue, and must be duly registered for those courses at the President's office.

A reading knowledge of French and German is regarded as of the utmost importance to all graduate students, and is required of all candidates for a second degree. The undergraduate department will afford the student every opportunity for making good any deficiencies in this respect.

Fellowships and Scholarships.

The most distinguished place among the graduate students is held by the Fellows, who must reside in the college during the academic year. Twelve resident fellowships, of the value of five hundred and twenty-five dollars each, are awarded annually in Greek, Latin, English, German and Teutonic Philology, Romance Languages, History or Economics and Politics, Philosophy, Archaeology, Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry, and Biology. They are open for competition to graduates of Bryn Mawr College, or of any other college of good standing, and will be awarded only to candidates who have completed at least one year of graduate work after obtaining their first degree. The fellowships are intended as an honor, and are awarded in recognition of previous attainments; generally speaking, they will be awarded to the candidates that have studied longest or to those whose work gives most promise of future success.

The holder of a fellowship is expected to devote at least one half her time to the department in which the fellowship is awarded, and to show, by the presentation of a thesis or in some other manner, that her studies have not been without result.
All fellows may study for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, the fellowship being counted, for this purpose, as equivalent to the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Fellows that continue their studies at the college after the expiration of the fellowship, may, by a vote of the directors, receive the rank of Fellows by Courtesy.

A Research Fellowship in Chemistry has been founded and was awarded for the first time in 1907. It is open to graduate students who have received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy or who have completed equivalent work. The fellowship is of the value of seven hundred and fifty dollars, and the holder is required to reside at Bryn Mawr College for one year and to assist the head of the Department of Chemistry in research work.

Fellows are expected to attend all college functions, to wear academic dress, to assist in the conduct of examinations, and to give about an hour a week to the care of special libraries in the halls of residence and in the seminaries, but no such service may be required of them except by a written request from the president's office; they are not permitted, while holding the fellowship, to teach, or to undertake any other duties in addition to their college work. Fellows are required to reside in the college and are assigned rooms by the Secretary of the College. They are charged the usual fee of four hundred and five dollars for tuition, board, room rent, and infirmary fee.

Eighteen Graduate Scholarships, of the value of two hundred dollars each, may be awarded to candidates next in merit to the successful candidates for the fellowships; they are also open for competition to graduates of Bryn Mawr College, or of any other college of good standing. Scholars are expected to reside in the college, to attend all college functions, to wear academic dress and to assist in the conduct of examinations.

Ten Graduate Scholarships, of the value of four hundred and five dollars each, were founded in 1909 and are open, five to English, Scotch, or Irish women, and five to German women, whose academic work has reached a standard equivalent to that denoted by the Bachelor's degree of any American college or university of acknowledged standing. The amount of the scholarship, four hundred and five dollars, covers the fees for tuition, board, residence, and infirmary fee for the academic year. A furnished single room is assigned to each scholar, but this is not available in the Christmas and Easter vacations when scholars who remain at the College will have to pay the expenses of board and residence at approximately the same rate as is charged for graduate students during the academic year.

Application for resident fellowships or scholarships should be made as early as possible to the President of the College, and must be made not later than the fifteenth* of April preceding the academic year for which the fellowship or scholarship is desired. Blank forms of application will be forwarded to the applicants. A definite answer will be given within two weeks from the latest date set for receiving applications. Any original papers, printed or in manuscript, which have been prepared by the applicant and sent in support of her application, will be returned, when stamps for that purpose are enclosed, or specific directions for return by express are given. Letters or testimonials from professors and instructors will be filed for reference.

The Anna Ottendorfer Memorial Research Fellowship in German and Teutonic Philology of the value of seven hundred dollars applicable to the expenses of one year's study and residence at some German university is awarded annually to a graduate student who has completed at least one year of graduate study at Bryn Mawr College. The fellowship will be awarded to the candidate who has pursued the most advanced work, or whose studies afford the most promise of future success. She must show such proficiency in her studies or in independent work as to furnish reason to believe that she will be able to conduct independent investigations in the field of Teutonic Philology or German.

Two European fellowships, founded by Miss Garrett, of Baltimore, are open to graduate students who are enrolled as candidates for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. One, founded in 1896, and named by the donor the President M. Carey Thomas

* In the case of candidates for the Scholarships open to British and German women applications must be received by April the first. Applications for the scholarships should be accompanied by full particulars of the candidate's academic work, by diplomas or certificates and by letters of recommendation from professors and should be addressed in the case of British candidates to the President of Bryn Mawr College, Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania, U. S. A., and in the case of German candidates to Seiner Excellenz dem Herrn Staatssekretär des Innern, Reichsamt des Innern, Berlin, Germany.
Fellowship, is awarded annually on the ground of excellence in scholarship to a student in her first year of graduate work at Bryn Mawr College; the other, founded in 1894, and known as the Mary E. Garrett Fellowship, is awarded annually on the ground of excellence in scholarship to a student still in residence who has for two years pursued graduate studies at Bryn Mawr College. These fellowships, of the value of five hundred dollars each, are intended to defray the expenses of one year's study and residence at some foreign university, English or Continental. The choice of a university may be determined by the holder's own preference, subject to the approval of the Faculty.

Studies Leading to a Second Degree.

Graduates of Bryn Mawr College, and graduates of other colleges, who shall have satisfied the Academic Council that the course of study for which they received a degree is equivalent to that for which the degree of Bachelor of Arts is given at Bryn Mawr College, or who shall have attended such additional courses of lectures as may be prescribed, may apply to the Academic Council to be enrolled as candidates for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy and Master of Arts; admission to the graduate school does not, in itself, qualify a student to become a candidate for this degree. A separate degree of Master of Arts is open to graduates of Bryn Mawr College, but to them only.

The Degree of Master of Arts.

The candidate for the degree of Master of Arts must be a Bachelor of Arts of Bryn Mawr College and must have studied for one full year in the graduate school of Bryn Mawr College, devoting herself to systematic advanced work approved by the Graduate Committee of the Academic Council. The candidate must submit her proposed course of study for the approval of this committee on or before the second Wednesday in November. She must pass a special written examination on each subject to the satisfaction of the department in which she has studied, and must announce her candidacy to the President not later than the first day of May in the academic year in which the degree is to be conferred.
The Degree of Doctor of Philosophy and Master of Arts.

The degree of Doctor of Philosophy and Master of Arts may be conferred upon graduates of Bryn Mawr College, and upon graduates of other colleges who shall have satisfied the Academic Council either that the course of study for which they received a degree is equivalent to that for which the degree of Bachelor of Arts is given by Bryn Mawr College, or that it has been adequately supplemented by subsequent study.

The candidate must have pursued for at least three years, after having received the first degree, a course of liberal (non-professional) study at some college or university approved by the Academic Council, and must have spent at least two of these years at Bryn Mawr College. The course of study leading to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy and Master of Arts must consist of one principal, or major, subject and one or two subordinate, or minor, subjects and must be divided between at least two departments. Two-thirds of the candidate's time should be spent on the major subject and the remaining one-third on the minor subject or subjects, and the suggested combination of major and minor subjects for the final examination must have been submitted for approval to the Graduate Committee. The candidate may be required to pursue certain auxiliary studies in connection with the subject that she has elected; and the degree of Doctor of Philosophy is given to no one who cannot read French and German, or who is unacquainted with Latin. The candidate must have written, on some subject connected with her major subject of study, a dissertation approved by the Faculty that bears satisfactory evidence of original research and must pass written examinations and an oral examination in the presence of the members of the Faculty on both major and minor subjects. These examinations are held after the dissertation has been accepted by the department in which it is offered and must be taken within the academic year in which the candidate applies for the degree. The degree is not conferred until the candidate has satisfied the above requirements and deposited one hundred and fifty printed copies of her dissertation, bound according to a prescribed model, in the office of the Secretary of the College. The degree of Doctor of Philosophy will in no case be conferred by the college as an honorary degree.
Expenses.

For graduate students attending six or more hours a week of lectures, and for fellows and graduate scholars the tuition fee is one hundred and twenty-five dollars a year, payable half-yearly in advance. For other graduate students who do not wish to devote all their time to graduate work the fees are as follows, payable in advance: for one hour a week of lectures, ten dollars a semester; for two hours a week of lectures, twenty dollars a semester; for three hours a week of lectures, thirty dollars a semester; and for four or five hours a week of lectures, forty dollars a semester.* This arrangement is made especially for non-resident graduate students, but those who wish to take five hours a week of lectures or less may live in the college halls on the understanding that they must give up their rooms if needed for students who are taking the full amount of graduate work and paying the regular tuition fee. The tuition fee for the semester becomes due as soon as the student is registered in the college office. No reduction of this fee can be made on account of absence or for any other reason whatsoever. Graduate students are admitted to residence or to attendance on lectures at any time during the year, and in this case a proportionate reduction is made in the charges for board and room-rent and for tuition. Every student who enters the college must register immediately at the comptroller's office, and must register her courses at the president's office within two weeks after entrance under penalty of exclusion from the college. Any change made later in the courses registered must be reported immediately to the president's office, or the courses will not be permitted to count, and a charge of one dollar will be made for each change made in the course after it has been definitely registered.

* The fees charged are reckoned on the basis of the actual hours of conference or lecture, irrespective of the number of undergraduate hours to which the course is regarded as equivalent.

In counting the number of hours for which a graduate student is registered the following special arrangements are made in regard to laboratory courses: payment for a one hour lecture course in a scientific department entitles the student to four hours of laboratory work in addition with no extra charge except the laboratory fee. Students registered for laboratory work only, are charged the following tuition fee: for each two and one-half hours of undergraduate laboratory course and for each five hours of graduate laboratory course the same fee as for a one hour lecture course. The laboratory fees as stated on page 51 are charged in addition to the charge for tuition.
Graduate students taking courses in scientific departments (Physics, Chemistry, Geology, Biology, and Psychology) amounting to six or more hours a week of lecture courses or its equivalent in laboratory courses are charged a laboratory fee of eighteen dollars a semester, with the following exceptions: if the student takes, as a regular student, courses in subjects not enumerated above amounting to six hours a week the laboratory fee is reduced to twelve dollars a semester; and if she takes, as a regular student, courses in subjects not enumerated above amounting to ten hours a week the laboratory fee is reduced to six dollars a semester.

Graduate students taking less than six hours a week of lectures, or its equivalent in laboratory work, are charged a laboratory fee of ten dollars a semester for every laboratory course of four or more hours a week, and of five dollars a semester for every laboratory course of less than four hours a week.

In courses in geology each hour of field work counts as one hour of laboratory work.

Residence.

Residence in the college buildings is optional except for holders of resident fellowships and scholarships. In each hall of residence, except Merion Hall, a special wing or corridor is reserved for graduate students, and in order to secure entire quiet no undergraduate students are permitted to engage rooms in the graduate wings. The expense of board and residence in the graduate wings of the college halls is two hundred and seventy-five dollars. Of this amount two hundred dollars is the charge for board, and is payable half-yearly in advance; the remainder is room-rent, and is payable yearly in advance. Every student has a separate bedroom. Room-rent includes all expenses of furnishing, service, heating, and light.

Plans and descriptions of the academic buildings and of the halls of residence, Merion Hall, Radnor Hall, Denbigh Hall, Pembroke Hall West, Pembroke Hall East, and Rockefeller Hall, with a full account of the halls and tariff of rooms, are published as Part 4 of the Bryn Mawr College Calendar and may be obtained by application to the Secretary of the College. Each of the halls of residence (except Pembroke, which has a common dining-hall and kitchen for the two wings) has its separate kitchen and dining-hall, provides accommodation for from sixty to seventy students, and is under the charge of a resident warden.

Application for rooms should be made as early as possible. The demand for graduate rooms is very great, and since every room unnecessarily reserved may prevent some other student from entering the college, a deposit of fifteen dollars is required in order that the application may be registered. In case the applicant enters the college in the year for which the room is reserved, the amount of the deposit is deducted from the first college bill. If she changes the date of her application or files formal notice of withdrawal at the secretary’s office before July fifteenth of the year for which the application is made, the deposit will be refunded. If, for any reason whatever, the change or withdrawal be made later than July fifteenth, the amount will be forfeited. Students making application for a room in February forfeit the deposit if they do not file formal notice of withdrawal at the secretary’s office before December first of the academic year for which the room is reserved. In order to make application for a room it is necessary to sign a room-contract, which will be sent on application, and return it with the fee of fifteen dollars to the Secretary of the College. A deposit of fifteen dollars must also be made by each student in residence in order to insure the tenure of her room for the following academic year. This sum will be forfeited if formal notice of withdrawal is not filed at the secretary’s office on or before May first of the current year.

Every applicant giving up later than the first of September the room or suite of rooms assigned to her for the ensuing academic year is responsible for the rent thereof for the whole year. Every applicant for a room in February will be responsible for the rent of the room or suite of rooms assigned to her for one semester, unless she gives formal notice of withdrawal to the Secretary before the first of January. The charges for room rent are not subject to remission or deduction under any circumstances, being considered forfeit in case of withdrawal for any cause whatever. The applicant is not entitled to relet the rooms thus left vacant, but this right the college reserves to itself. No refund will be made to the applicant in case the room or suite of rooms thus left vacant are relet by the college. Any student who changes her room is required to pay an extra fee of fifteen dollars.

Students are expected to provide their own rugs and towels, but in every other respect the rooms are completely furnished. Electric reading lamps, table napkins, sheets, etc., are provided by the college. No part whatever need be taken by the students in the care of their own rooms.

There are open fire-places in nearly all the studies and in many single rooms, but the rooms are sufficiently heated by steam. The air in each room is changed every ten minutes, and the temperature is regulated by a thermostat in each room. The students’ personal washing may be done by any laundry recommended by the college for 50 cents a dozen, or about $8 a half-year for one dozen pieces a week.

No charge is made for sending meals to students that are in the infirmary by the order of a physician.

Accommodation is provided for graduate students that wish to remain at the college during the Christmas and Easter vacations at $1.25 a day or $8.75 a week.
The health of the students is under the charge of a Health Committee consisting of the President, the Dean of the College, the Director of Athletics, the Senior Warden, and the physicians of the College.

The Visiting Physician of the College is in her office in the college during the hours from four to six of every afternoon, except Sunday, and may be consulted by the students without charge.

Every student entering the college will be vaccinated unless she can furnish satisfactory proof that she has been successfully vaccinated not more than two years previously.

The conduct of the students in all matters not purely academic, or affecting the management of the halls of residence, or the student body as a whole, is in the hands of the Students’ Association for Self-Government, which was organised in 1892. All persons studying in Bryn Mawr College, whether graduates or undergraduates, are members of this association.

The college reserves the right to exclude at any time students whose conduct or academic standing renders them undesirable members of the college community, and in such cases the fees due to the college are not refunded or remitted.

In 1893 the Bryn Mawr Graduate Club was organised by the graduate students then in residence, its object being to further the social life of the graduate students and to facilitate interchange of opinion with other colleges and universities doing graduate work. A room in Denbigh Hall is set apart by the college to be used by the members as a club-room. Informal meetings are frequently held in these rooms, and several times during the year the club invites the Faculty and friends of the college to larger social gatherings, which are addressed by well-known speakers.

Summary of Expenses of Graduate Students.

Tuition for the semester, payable on registration:
  - For one hour* a week of lectures: $10.00
  - For two hours a week of lectures: $20.00
  - For three hours a week of lectures: $30.00
  - For four or five hours a week of lectures: $40.00
  - For six or more hours a week of lectures: $62.50

Room-rent for the academic year, payable on registration: $75.00

Board for the semester payable on registration: $100.00

See footnote page 53.
Students whose fees are not paid within one month of the date fixed are not permitted to continue in residence or in attendance on their classes.

Total expenses for the academic year:
- Tuition fee, for six or more hours a week of lectures: $125.00
- Room-rent: $75.00
- Board: $200.00
- Infirmary fee: $5.00

Total for tuition, residence, and infirmary care for the academic year: $405.00
Laboratory fees for the academic year: $10 to $36

The Students' Loan Fund of Bryn Mawr College was founded by the Class of 1890 for the purpose of receiving contributions, however small, from those who are interested in aiding students to obtain an education. The money thus contributed is distributed in the form of partial aid, and as a loan. It is as a rule applied to the assistance of those students only who have attended courses in the college for at least one year. The Fund is managed by a committee consisting of the President of the College and representatives of the Alumnae Association of Bryn Mawr College. The committee reports yearly to the Board of Trustees and to the Alumnae Association. The committee consists of the following members: President M. Carey Thomas; Miss Martha G. Thomas, Secretary and Treasurer, Bryn Mawr College; Miss Mary Taylor Mason, School House Lane, Germantown, Philadelphia; Mrs. George Edward Pfahler, Merion, Pa.; Mrs. Bernard Todd Converse, Ardmore, Pa., and Miss Anne Hampton Todd, 2115 Spruce Street, Philadelphia. Contributions may be sent to any member of the committee. Applications for loans should be sent to the Treasurer of the committee, and all applications for loans for any given year should be made before May 1st of the preceding academic year.

Libraries.

The fact that the college is situated in the suburbs of Philadelphia enables the student to make use of all the resources of the libraries of Philadelphia, as well as of those of the college proper.

The college library has been collected within the past twenty-four years, and is designed to be, as far as possible, a library for special study. There are at present on its shelves about sixty thousand bound volumes, and ten thousand doctors' dissertations and pamphlets, the collection including the classical library of the late Professor Sauppe, of Göttingen, which was presented to the college in 1894, and the Semitic library of the late Professor Amiaud, of Paris, acquired in 1892. A more detailed description of these two collections may be found on pages 66 and 89.

The sum of about five thousand dollars is expended yearly for books under the direction of the heads of the several collegiate departments, and, in addition to many gifts of books, about twenty thousand dollars has been presented to the library during the past ten years for expenditure in special departments. Over four hundred publications and reviews in the English, German, Greek, French, Italian, Spanish, Norse, and Swedish languages, are taken by the library, as follows:

The library is open daily from eight a.m. to ten p.m. Books may be taken out by the students unless specially reserved for library reference use.

There are in Philadelphia the following important libraries which are available for students:

The Philadelphia Library Company, which contains about 227,000 volumes and 30,000 pamphlets, and is at all times open to the students for consultation. Private subscription, for four volumes, $12 a year, or $10 for nine months.

The Mercantile Library, which contains about 190,000 volumes and 10,000 pamphlets. Private subscription, $2.00 a year for two separate works at a time.

The Library of the Academy of Natural Sciences, which contains about 60,000 volumes. The Council of the Academy has generously conceded the use of its library and of its museum to the students of Bryn Mawr College.

The Library of the University of Pennsylvania, which contains about 300,000 volumes and 50,000 pamphlets. The custodians of this library have always shown great courtesy in placing rare volumes at the disposal of the college.

The Free Library of Philadelphia, which contains about 340,000 volumes and 59,000 pamphlets, and is at all times open to the students for consultation.

Sanskrit and Comparative Philology.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Hans Weyhe, Associate in Teutonic Philology and Sanskrit, and Dr. Roland G. Kent, Non-resident Lecturer in Sanskrit.

Graduate Courses.

Dr. Weyhe offers in each year the following graduate courses:

Lectures on Comparative Philology, and Philological Seminary.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

Students entering this course are expected to be familiar with German and French. A short preliminary course in Sanskrit is also of great aid to the student. The lectures on comparative philology treat of the connection of the Greek and Latin languages with the related languages of the Aryan group, first, phonetically, secondly, from the point of view of grammatical forms, and lastly, from the point of view of syntax. In the first part of the course, which covers what during the last few years has been the field of the most active research, the student is introduced to the latest theories and discoveries in Aryan phonetics, and is expected to read and criticise the articles appearing from time to time in the philological journals, and to prepare reports on these articles. The same method is pursued during the investigation of the history of forms; and in the third part of the course the student begins the study of comparative syntax by a close comparison of the use of cases and verbal forms in Sanskrit, Greek, and Latin.

Elementary Sanskrit.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

Whitney's Grammar and Lanman's Reader are used.

The courses in Comparative Philology and in Elementary Sanskrit will not, as a rule, be given in the same year.

Dr. Kent offers in 1909–10 the following graduate course:

Advanced Sanskrit.

One hour a week throughout the year.

Lectures are given on the phonology and morphology of Sanskrit. The study of Lanman's Reader is continued and Kalidasa's Sakuntala, Act I. is read.

Greek.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Henry Nevill Sanders,* Professor of Greek; Dr. Wilmer Cave Wright, Associate Professor of Greek; Dr. George A. Barton, Professor of Biblical Literature and Semitic Languages, Dr. Caroline Louise Ransom, Associate Professor of the History of Art and Classical Archaeology, Miss Abby Kirk, Reader in Elementary Greek, and Dr. Isabelle Stone, Reader in Greek.

Exceptional facilities for the study of all departments of classical philology are offered by the large classical library owned by the College. The greater part of this library is formed by the well-known collection of the late Professor Hermann Sauppe, of Göttingen, which was acquired in 1894. This has been supplemented by purchases made by the college library, so that the classical library now numbers some seven thousand volumes, including complete sets of most of the important journals, and about seven thousand dissertations and monographs.

Graduate Courses.

The graduate courses in Greek are varied from year to year in two series, Attic Tragedy, Orators, and Historians, and the Homeric Question, Menander, Plato, and Aristophanes, in order that they may be pursued by a student for consecutive years. Students electing Greek as part of the work for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy are required to offer with each three hour seminary a two hour seminary and vice versa, so as to make up five hours of seminary work, but both seminaries need not be taken in the same year. Three five hour courses are required of students who offer Greek as a major subject in the examination for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy; two five hour courses are required when Greek is the only minor subject offered, and one five hour course when two minors are offered. The post-major courses also are open to graduate students. A large part of the work expected of graduate students consists of courses of reading pursued under the direction of the department; and reports of this reading are from time to time required of the students. A reading knowledge of French and German is required. The course in comparative philology conducted by Dr. Weyhe is recommended to graduate students of Greek. For graduate courses in History of Art and Classical Archaeology, which may be offered as a minor by students taking Greek as a subject for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, see page 103.

No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses.

Dr. Sanders conducts in each year the following graduate seminary:

Greek Seminary.

In 1909–10 Greek orators are studied in the seminary. The work consists of the reading of large portions of all the orators and the critical interpretation of a selected part of each. Lectures are given on legal antiquities, the syntax, and the style of the various authors, in conjunction with which Dionysius of Halicarnassus and the Greek Rhetoricians are studied. The later rhetoricians are treated and their criticism of antiquity investigated. Students are expected to provide themselves with the Teubner text editions of Antipho, Andoelides, Lysias, Isocrates, Iseus, Æschines, Hyperides, and Demosthenes. The classical library is well equipped with works on the orators. The seminary met in 1909–10 during the first semester only.

In 1910–11 the main subject of the seminary is the Greek Historians. Thucydides is studied in detail and reports are made on data of history contained in Greek literature in general. Lectures are given by the instructor on subjects connected with Greek historiography, such as the composition of Thucydides's history, the syntax and style of Thucydides, the history of early prose, Greek historical inscriptions.

In 1911-12 the subject of the seminar is Attic Tragedy. The special work of the seminar is devoted to the editing of Euripides's Orestes. Members of the seminar report on special subjects and give critical summaries of current classical literature.

Dr. Wright conducts in each year the following graduate seminar:

Greek Seminar. Two hours a week throughout the year.

In 1909-10 the subject of the seminar in the first semester is Menander. A thorough study of all the extant fragments of Menander is made with reports by the students on Menander's style, metres, text, and influence on Latin Comedy. The recent discovery of considerable remains of Menander's Comedies and the publication of the Cairo Menander (1907) have provided sufficient material to make such a course profitable to students of the Greek drama.

In the second semester the subject of the seminar is the Homeric Question, and the work consists of a review of the discussions of the Homeric poems since the publication of Wolf's Prolegomena. The various texts that have been applied to the poems by archaeologists, linguists, historians of myths, and aesthetic critics are taken up and criticised in detail.

In 1910-11 the subject of the seminar is Aristophanes. The aim of the seminar is to make the students familiar with the more important Aristophanic literature up to the present day. Portions of the text are interpreted by the class and reports on assigned topics, literary, historical, and archaeological, connected with the plays are expected from all the members. All the comedies of Aristophanes are read in the course of the year; lectures are given by the instructor on the metres and syntax of Aristophanes, on the dramatic structure of the plays and on the history of Attic comedy. Part of the work consists of analyses of Latin and German dissertations on Aristophanes which are presented by members of the class. Every member of the class should provide herself in advance with a complete text of Aristophanes. The Teubner (Leipsic) or Clarendon Press (Oxford) editions are recommended.

In 1911-12 the seminar will be on Plato. The work is mainly literary and critical. Lectures on the style, philosophy, and chronology of the dialogues are given by the instructor; a detailed interpretation of a portion of Plato, and reports on topics set for discussion are given by the class. The students are expected to read the Republic, Theaetetus, Parmenides, and Sophist and discuss certain problems arising from these dialogues. The aim of the course is to lay a foundation for independent work by familiarising the students with the achievements of German scholarship and the general field of Platonic literature up to the present day. Analyses of German and Latin dissertations are expected from the class. Lutoslawski's Origin and Growth of Plato's Logic will be studied and criticised in detail. Every member of the seminar should provide herself in advance with a complete text of Plato. The Teubner (Leipsic) or Clarendon Press (Oxford) editions are recommended.

Dr. Wright conducts in 1909-10 the following graduate seminar:

Seminary in Plato. Two hours a week during the second semester.

Post-Major Courses.

Dr. Sanders offers in 1909-10 the following post-major courses, open to graduate students:

AESCHYLUS, ORESTEIA. Two hours a week during the first semester.

Aristophanes, ACHARMIANS, KNIGHTS. One hour a week during the first semester.
Dr. Sanders offers in 1910–11 the following post-major courses, open to graduate students:

Private Orations of the Attic Orators.  Two hours a week during the first semester.
Sophocles, Antígone.
Eschylus, Agamemnon.
Bacchylides.  One hour a week during the first semester.

Dr. Sanders offers in 1911–12 the following post-major courses, open to graduate students:

Lucian.  Two hours a week during the first semester.
Sophocles, Trachiniae.
Greek Prose Composition, Rhetoric, and the Theory of Imitative Writing.  One hour a week during the second semester.
Greek Melic Poets.  One hour a week during the second semester.
Euripides, Heracles.  One hour a week during the second semester.

Dr. Wright offers in 1909–10 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

Theocritus.  One hour a week during the second semester.

Dr. Stone offers in 1909–10 the following post-major courses, open to graduate students:

Pindar.  Two hours a week during the second semester.
Sophocles, Electra.  One hour a week during the second semester.

FREE ELECTIVE COURSES.

Free elective courses, amounting to five hours a week, are offered in Classical Art and Archaeology; see page 104.

A free elective course of two hours a week is offered in New Testament Greek; see page 93.

Latin.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Arthur Leslie Wheeler, Professor of Latin, Dr. Tenney Frank, Associate Professor of Latin, and Miss Elizabeth Andros Foster, Reader in Latin.

GRADUATE COURSES.

The graduate work in Latin is conducted according to the seminary method, and is intended not only to broaden the student's knowledge, but also to teach methods of work. The graduate courses in Latin are varied from year to year in two series, Roman Comedy, Lyric Poetry and Elegy, and Roman History, Epigraphy and Literature, or Syntax. Students electing Latin as part of the work for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy are required to offer with each three hour seminary a two hour seminary and vice versa, so as to make up five hours of seminary work, but both seminaries need not be taken in the same year. Such students are recommended to attend the Journal Club. Three five hour courses are required of students who offer Latin as a major subject in the examination for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy; two five hour courses are required when Latin is the only minor subject offered and one five hour course when two minors are offered. It is desirable that all students who intend to do advanced work in Latin should have some knowledge of Greek. A reading knowledge of French and German is also necessary.

No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses.

Dr. Wheeler conducts in each year the following graduate seminary:

Latin Seminary. Three hours a week throughout the year.

In 1909-10 the subject of the seminary is Latin Comedy. All the plays of Plautus and Terence are read by the students: single plays form the basis of special work on the language, text, metres, etc.

Students should provide themselves with the text edition of Plautus, edited by W. M. Lindsay, Oxford, 1903-04, and with Dziatko's text of Terence, Leipsic, Tauchnitz, 1884. The plays of Plautus, annotated by Brix, Leipsic, Teubner, 1888-1901, and by Lorenz, Berlin, Weidmann, 1876-86, and the plays of Terence, annotated by Dziatko (revised by Hauer), 1898 and 1903 (Teubner), and by Spengel, 1879 and 1903, Weidmann, are also recommended. P. Terentii Afric Comoediae, edited by S. G. Ashmore, Oxford University Press, New York, 1908, is a convenient commentary.

In 1910-11 the subject of the seminary will be the Roman Lyric in the Period of the Republic. After a rapid survey of the fragmentary lyric remains of the predecessors and contemporaries of Catullus, the poems of Catullus himself will be studied in detail. Students should have Catulli carmina (Oxford text, 1904), edited by Robinson Ellis, and either the same scholar's Commentary on Catullus, Oxford, Clarendon Press, 1890 (second edition), or G. Friedrich's Catulli Veronensis liber, Leipsic und Berlin 1908 (Teubner).

In 1911-12 Roman Elegy as represented by Tibullus, Propertius, and Ovid is the subject of the seminary. In addition to a careful study of selected poems an effort is made to trace the history of elegy among the Romans. The various topics connected with the subject are treated in detail as far as time permits, and the students are encouraged to familiarise themselves with the best literature in editions, periodicals, and dissertations. The text recommended is the Oxford Clarendon Press edition of Catullus, Tibullus, and Propertius edited by Ellis, Postgate, and Phillimore, 1906 (one volume).

Dr. Frank conducts in each year the following graduate seminary:

Latin Seminary. Two hours a week throughout the year.

In 1909-10 Roman History from the sources is the subject of the seminary. The object of this study is to examine in detail the course of events during the last years of the Roman Republic, and to familiarise the student with the sources of historical knowledge for that period. The course consists largely of research work on the part of the student.

In 1910-11 the work of the seminary is Latin Epigraphy and Paleography. About two-thirds of the course is devoted to the study of the Corpus Inscriptionum. The questions assigned for investigation deal mainly with Roman political institutions. public and private life, and with historical grammar. Dessau's Inscriptiones Latiae Selectae is used in the class room. The paleographical facsimiles of Chatelain, Zangemeister and Wattenbach, and Arndt form the basis for work in the latter part of the course.

In 1911-12 selected topics in Roman Literature will be studied. The work consists of studies in the beginnings of the Roman epic, tragedy, and prose, special attention being paid to the relation of the literature to historical events and native influences. The students will read reports on special subjects assigned to them. A study of Latin Syntax may be substituted.

Dr. Wheeler and Dr. Frank together conduct the journal club.

Latin Journal Club. One and a half hours once a fortnight throughout the year.

The advanced students and the instructors meet to report on and discuss recent reviews and critical articles.

Post-Major Courses.

Dr. Wheeler offers in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

Roman Satire, its Origin and Development.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

The subject is treated historically in order to give an outline of the origin and development of Satire. The class reads selections from Horace, Persius, Seneca, Petronius, and Juvenal, together with some of the fragments of Ennius, Lucilius, and Varro. The readings are supplemented by occasional lectures. Each student is required to prepare one or more papers on assigned topics in each semester.

Dr. Wheeler offers in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

Roman Elegy, its Origin and Development.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

An effort is made to trace historically the development of this branch of poetry among the Romans. Selections from Catullus, Tibullus, Propertius, and Ovid are read. The readings are supplemented by occasional lectures. Special attention is devoted to the structure and reading of the elegiac distich and to the characteristics of Roman poetic diction. Each student is required to prepare one or more papers on assigned topics in each semester.

Dr. Frank offers in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12 the following post-major courses, open to graduate students:

Lucretius.

Three hours a week during the first semester.

The first three books of the De Rerum Natura and selections from the fourth, fifth, and sixth books are studied.

Lectures on Roman History.

Two hours a week during the first semester.

Collateral reading is assigned from the Latin sources and independent reports on special topics required.

Advanced Latin Prose Composition.

One hour a week throughout the year.

Ciceron and Caesar.

Three hours a week during the second semester.

An effort is made by means of lectures, discussions and extensive reading to gain an intimate acquaintance with the literary work and the political careers of Ciceron and Caesar.
Catullus, and Horace, Epistles.  Two hours a week during the second semester.

In connection with the reading of Horace's Ars Poetica special stress is laid upon his theories of literary criticism.

Dr. Frank offers in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13 the following post-major courses, open to graduate students:

The Life and Works of Vergil.  Three hours a week during the first semester.

The larger part of the Aeneid, two books of the Georgics and some of the Eclogues and Pseudo-Vergiliana are read and discussed.

Pliny, Letters; Martial.  Two hours a week during the first semester.

Special attention is paid to a study of the political and social conditions of the period included in the course.

Advanced Latin Prose Composition.  One hour a week throughout the year.

Roman Prose of the Empire.  Three hours a week during the second semester.

Selections from Velleius, Seneca, Quintilian, Tacitus, Suetonius, Apuleius, and Minucius Felix are read.

Seneca and Lucan.  Two hours a week during the second semester.

Three tragedies of Seneca and portions of Lucan's Pharsalia are read.

Modern Languages.

English.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. M. Carey Thomas, Professor of English, Miss Lucy Martin Donnelly, Associate Professor of English, Dr. Clarence Carroll Clark, Associate Professor of English, Dr. Carleton Fairchild Brown, Associate Professor of English Philology, Mr. Samuel Arthur King, Non-resident Lecturer in English Diction, Dr. Orie Latham Hatcher, Lecturer in Elizabethan Literature, and Associate (elect) in Comparative Literature and Elizabethan Literature, Miss Katharine Fullerton, Dr. Regina Katharine Crandall, Miss Georgiana Goddard King, Dr. Lillie Deming Loshe, and Miss Content Shepard Nichols, Readers in English.
Graduate Courses.

There are offered each year distinct graduate seminaries and courses in English literature and in English language, and these seminaries and courses are varied so as to enable candidates for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy to pursue graduate work for three or more successive years. The graduate courses in literature presuppose at least as much knowledge as is obtained in the two years' course of undergraduate lectures on English literature and in one of the literature years of the English major; and the graduate courses in Anglo-Saxon presuppose as much knowledge of Anglo-Saxon as is obtained in the language year in the English major.

Students who choose English as their chief subject in their examination for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy must have, if they specialise in literature, at least as much knowledge of Anglo-Saxon, and if they specialise in language, at least as much knowledge of literature, as is obtained in the courses required of those students who make English one of the chief subjects of undergraduate study, and must have taken at least the equivalent of the essay work in the required English course.

The graduate instruction in English literature includes the direction of private reading and the assignment of topics for investigation.

No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses.

Dr. Clark conducts in each year the following graduate seminary:

Seminary in English Literature. Three hours a week throughout the year.

In 1909-10 seventeenth century prose writers are studied. The authors usually chosen for discussion are Bacon, Milton, and Hooker.

In 1910-11 the literary movement of the eighteenth century will be studied in connection with Johnson.

In 1911-12 romantic criticism is the subject of the seminary. The overthrow of eighteenth century standards, and the rise of a new school of criticism is studied in the works of Coleridge, Hazlitt, and Lamb.

Dr. Brown conducts in each year the following graduate seminary:

Seminary in Middle English. Three hours a week throughout the year.

In 1909-10 the beginnings of English Drama are the subject of the seminary. Though the cycles of the mystery plays are considered in general, the larger part of the time is devoted to the study of the English morality plays. Particular attention is given to the connection between the moralities and the didactic treatises and the debates. The moralities and the secular drama are studied historically up to the time of Heywood. In addition to the reading and discussion of selected plays, lectures are given by the instructor with the object of setting various elements of dramatic development in proper proportion. Critical reports on assigned topics are required from the students.

In 1910-11 the subject will be the Middle English Romances. All the romances represented in Middle English will be read, and the relation of these English versions to their Latin and Old French originals will be discussed. The romance cycles will be taken up in the following order: Troy story, Alexander saga, romances of Germanic origin, Arthurian cycle, Charlemagne cycle. Special investigations of various elements in individual romances will be undertaken from time to time by the members of the seminary.

In 1911-12 the seminary will undertake the study of The Vision of Piers the Plowman and the works of Chaucer. Attention will be devoted not so much to the critical reading of the texts themselves as to the examination of the questions of authorship and chronology which have recently been raised. These poems will also be discussed in their relation to the other literature of the fourteenth century. Special subjects for individual investigation will be assigned to the members of the seminary.

Dr. Brown offers in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12 the following graduate course:

Cynewulf and Cædmon. \[Two hours a week throughout the year\]

Several of the poems traditionally ascribed to these authors are critically studied. Lectures are given with a view to furnishing a thorough introduction to Anglo-Saxon Christian poetry and the literary problems connected with it. This course is open to graduate students who have already taken the course in Anglo-Saxon grammar and reading of Anglo-Saxon texts or its equivalent.

Dr. Brown offers in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13 the following graduate courses:

Beowulf. \[Two hours a week throughout the year\]

This course gives in the first place a general survey of Beowulf criticism, including textual problems, theories as to the composition of the poem, and an enquiry into its historical and mythological elements. In this connection a study is also made of the other pieces of Anglo-Saxon heathen poetry. This course is open to graduate students who have already taken the course in Anglo-Saxon Grammar and reading of Anglo-Saxon Texts, or its equivalent.

English Historical Grammar. \[Two hours a week throughout the year\]

In this course the development of the English Language is traced from the earliest times. After an outline has been given of the history and external relations of English, the change and decay of inflections, the use of prepositions and the more important points in historical syntax are discussed. The course presupposes a knowledge of Anglo-Saxon and Middle English.

Dr. Hatcher conducts in each year the following graduate seminary:

Seminary in Elizabethan Literature. \[Three hours a week throughout the year\]

Shakespeare is the subject of the seminary in 1909-10. In the first semester as detailed a review as is practicable is made of the results of Shakesperian scholarship as regards critical problems of biography, authorship, chronology and source material of the plays, a comparison of varying versions of separate plays, the influence of earlier and contemporary dramatists, etc. Dramatic records relating to Shakespeare are also examined at first hand and evidences of his participation in the general dramatic activities of his time noted. In the second semester students are given individual problems for investigation.

In 1910-11 Spenser will be studied in the light of Medieval and Renaissance culture. The subjects taken up will be the inspiration, models, and sources of Spenser's poetry; the many influences working upon him, and those emanating from him, as shown in the significant blending of classical, medieval, and Renaissance tendencies in his poetry, and his initiative in solving the literary problems of his time. In the first semester all the works of Spenser will be read and the results of Spenserian research examined. The second semester will be devoted largely to the investigation by each student of some special problem.
In 1911-12 English drama from 1558 to 1642 will be studied, as the chief literary expression of the period. The conditions of its origin and continued production, its nature, extent, variety, development and decadence are discussed and a reasonable proportion of the extant plays of the period are read continuously as a background for other work. A brief introductory study is made of dramatic genres and of the broader principles of dramatic construction, and the remainder of the first semester is devoted to the examination of contemporary documents and other sources of information in regard to Elizabethan drama. In the latter half of the year each student investigates some special problem, such as dramatic inter-relationship or authorship, and gives reports upon her work.

Dr. Hatcher offers in 1909-10 the following graduate course:

Dramatic Theory and Technique in England until 1642.

One hour a week throughout the year.

The course inquires into the critical origins of English dramatic theory and into the technique of the various types of drama appearing in England before the closing of the theatres in 1642. An attempt is made to differentiate important sub-types of comedy and tragedy, and the essential characteristics of tragic-comedy, masque, and pastoral are noted. The inquiry includes references to foreign models and analyses of representative English plays of each type. The course is related to the seminar for 1909-10, dealing with Shakespeare, but may be elected separately.

Dr. Hatcher offers in 1910-11 the following graduate course:

The Drama as a Reflection of Contemporary Life.

One hour a week throughout the year.

Some one period in the development of the drama is chosen as the basis of study, usually the classical, the Elizabethan, or the modern, and the drama of that period is related as far as practicable to the social, economic and religious conditions of the time. The themes, situations, moral codes, and technical construction of the plays of the period selected are examined. In 1910-11 the modern period will probably be chosen and the material taken from recent and contemporary drama in Europe and America. The course is related to the seminar in Elizabethan literature but may be elected separately.

Dr. Hatcher offers in 1911-12 the following graduate course:

The Indebtedness of Elizabethan Literature to Continental

One hour a week throughout the year.

The course deals with the stimulus of earlier literary activity in the Romance countries and the consequent earlier development there of critical theories, the arts of versification, and of definite literary types. The models contributed to English literature by Italy, France, and Spain in epic, pastoral, tragedy, comedy, lyric, etc. are studied as well as the material actually borrowed and incorporated into Elizabethan literature. The significance of Elizabethan translations is emphasised. The course is related to the seminar in Elizabethan literature but may be elected separately.

Dr. Clark, Dr. Brown, and Dr. Hatcher together conduct the journal club.

English Journal Club. One and a half hours a fortnight throughout the year.

The advanced students and the instructors meet to report on and discuss recent reviews and critical articles.

The following advanced undergraduate courses may be attended by graduate students:

Miss Donnelly offers in 1910-11 the following course:

English Poetry from 1780 to 1832. Two hours a week throughout the year.
This course consists of a detailed study of the poetry of Cowper, Burns, Wordsworth, Coleridge, Scott, Byron, Shelley, and Keats: special attention is paid to the rise and development of the Romantic movement in English poetry, with occasional reference to similar movements in France and Germany.

Dr. Hatcher offers in 1909–10 and Miss Donnelly offers in 1911–12 the following course:

English Drama.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

This course is intended to give students that have completed the required course in English a more intimate knowledge of the later Elizabethan and the Jacobean drama. The lectures follow the development of the realistic and romantic tendencies in the comedy and tragedy of the period both as an expression of the national life and of the individual genius of the various dramatists. Selected plays of Shakespeare, Middleton, Ben Jonson, Beaumont and Fletcher, and other dramatists are read in connection with the lectures.

Dr. Clark offers in each year the following courses:

Classical and Romantic Prose.

Three hours a week throughout the year.

In the first semester the writings of Edmund Burke are considered with special reference to Classicism and Romanticism, and to the ideas of the French revolution. In the second semester the works of Lamb, Hazlitt, and De Quincey are studied.

English Critics of the Nineteenth Century.

Three hours a week throughout the year.

The essayists and critics after 1832 are studied. In the first semester the authors usually chosen are Carlyle, Matthew Arnold, and Newman. Short papers and one long essay must be prepared by the students attending the course. In the second semester Ruskin, Pater, and Swinburne are discussed.

Dr. Brown offers in each year the following course:

Anglo-Saxon Grammar and reading of Anglo-Saxon Texts.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

The course begins with an outline of Anglo-Saxon grammar as presented in Bright's Anglo-Saxon Reader. Selections in prose and verse from Bright's reader are next read with the class. In the second semester after a brief study of alliterative verse selections from Beowulf are read. Throughout the year lectures are given outlining the literature of the period and texts are read in translation.

Dr. Brown offers in 1909–10 and again in 1911–12 the following courses:

Middle English Poetry.

Three hours a week during the first semester.

The course begins with an outline of Middle English grammar sufficient to enable the students to read ordinary texts intelligently. Selections are then read from Layamon's Brut, Robert of Gloucester's Chronicle, Barbour's Bruce, Richard Rolle, Robert of Brunne's Handling Syne, Langland's Vision of Piers the Plowman, Gower's Confessio Amantis, and other pieces of Middle English literature. Lectures are given on the development of the language and literature during this period. The course is designed as an introduction to the course on Chaucer given in the second semester but may be taken independently.

Chaucer.

Three hours a week during the second semester.

In this course the best of the Canterbury Tales are studied, also the Legend of Good Women, The House of Fame, and portions of Treitius and Criseyde. The lectures discuss Chaucer’s sources and literary art, and his relation to the English, French, and Italian literature of his time. Students taking this course are recommended, but not required, to have taken the course in Middle English poetry.
Dr. Brown offers in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13 the following course:

Middle English Romances.
Three hours a week throughout the year.

Selected romances are read by the members of the class. The lectures deal with the development of Romance literature in English with special reference to the romances of Germanic origin and the Arthurian cycle.

Dr. Hatcher offers in 1910-11 and in each succeeding year the following courses:

The Epic.
Three hours a week during the first semester.

The course is devoted to study of translations of the greater epics, but deals especially with those representing the classical tradition, the Iliad, the Odyssey, the Aeneid, and the greater Renaissance epics, Orlando Furioso, Jerusalem Delivered, the Faerie Queen and with Paradise Lost. The lectures discuss the literary value of the epics read and the origins and significance of epic poetry, and relate the artistic form of the epics studied to the critical theories of Aristotle and those of the Italian Renaissance.

The Pastoral.
Three hours a week during the second semester.

The course deals with the best literature which has grouped itself round the pastoral tradition. It is devoted largely to literary appreciation, and significant pastoral literature not available in adequate translations is discussed in the lectures, to include the Eclogues of Mantuan, the Arcadia of Sannazzaro, the Diana of Montemayor and l'Astrée of d'Urfé. The lectures trace the pastoral idea from its rise in the Idylls of Theocritus, through the romance and later classical eclogue into the Renaissance types of eclogue, pastoral lyric, novel, and drama. The reading for the course will include the Idylls of Theocritus, Bion and Moschus; Daphnis and Chloe, Vergil's Eclogues, Tasso's Aminta, Guarini's Il Pastor Fido, Sidney's Arcadia, Lodge's Rosalynde, the Mantuan Eclogues of Barclay and others, Spenser's Shepherd's Calendar, Fletcher's Faithful Shepherdess, and Jonson's Sad Shepherd.

Dr. Hatcher offers in 1911-12 and in each succeeding year the following courses:

The Sonnet and Minor Lyric Forms.
Three hours a week during the first semester.

The lectures trace the rise of modern lyric poetry among the Troubadours and the spread of Provengal and other early Romance lyric forms from Italy, France, and Spain into England. The development of the sonnet form is emphasized and the English sonnet studied from its beginnings down to the present time with special reference to the sonnets of Sidney, Spenser, Shakespeare, Milton, Wordsworth, and Rossetti. The reading includes Ballades and Rondours, Scott's translations; Ballads and Lyrics of Old France, Andrew Lang's translations; Smith's Troubadours at Home, Rossetti's Early Italian Poets, Petrarach's Sonnets, Bullein's Elizabethan Lyrics, Sidney Lee's Elizabethan Sonnets, and selected lyrics from The Oxford Book of English Verse. Previous study of Latin and French is assumed.

The Drama.
Three hours a week during the second semester.

The object of the course is to suggest the many forms in which the human instinct for dramatic expression has manifested itself in different countries and periods, and to acquaint the student with the more significant of these forms in their historical order. The lectures inquire into the nature of the dramatic essence underlying all these forms, and attempt some comparison of the dramatic ideals and canons of the classical period with those of the Renaissance and with those of our own time. A few representative types of drama are studied in plays selected from different literatures and periods.
Dr. Clark offers in 1909–10 and again in 1911–12 the following free elective courses:

Victorian Poets. Two hours a week during the first semester.
The works of Tennyson, Arnold, Clough, Fitzgerald, and Landor are studied.

Victorian Poets (continued). Two hours a week during the second semester.
The Pre-Raphaelite movement is considered, and the works of Morris, Rossetti, Swinburne, and Browning are studied.

Dr. Clark offers in 1910–11 the following free elective courses:

English Fiction in the Nineteenth Century. Two hours a week during the first semester.
The history of the novel up to the nineteenth century is presented briefly. The novels of Jane Austen and Walter Scott are studied as an introduction to the work of the second semester.

English Fiction in the Nineteenth Century (continued). Two hours a week during the second semester.
The development of fiction is considered in the works of Thackeray, Dickens, Trollope, George Eliot, George Meredith, and others.

Dr. Brown offers in 1909–10 and again in 1911–12 the following free elective course:

The English Ballad. One hour a week throughout the year.
The course is designed as an introduction to the study of popular poetry. Selections from the ballad literature of England and Scotland, representative of various types and periods, are read in class. The lectures illustrate the origins and history of the ballad as developed in English and other literatures, together with a study of various imitations of the genuine ballad.

Dr. Hatcher offers in 1909–10 the following free elective course:

The Elizabethan Age in Non-dramatic Literature. Two hours a week throughout the year.
The lectures trace the national and foreign influences creating the first great body of English literature, and show the making of vocabulary, critical theories of prose and poetry, and the development of various types of literature,—epic, pastoral, novel, sonnet, and minor lyric and prose forms. The reading involves the best representatives of each of these types and some acquaintance with the critical literature of the period.

Miss Fullerton offers in each year the following free elective course:

Descriptive and Narrative Writing. Two hours a week throughout the year.
Lectures are given on the theory and practice of description and on the style and methods of the best modern writers of short stories, both English and French. Students are required to write papers each week.

Dr. Crandall offers in each year the following free elective course:

Argumentation. Two hours a week throughout the year.
In the first semester the technique of argumentation is studied, and in the second semester the relation between the laws of thought emphasized in the first semester and the ordinary forms of prose composition is established.

Miss King offers in 1909–10 and again in 1911–12 the following free elective course:

Imitative Writing.
Two hours a week throughout the year.

This course consists of a study of the formation of style by the method of imitation. The lectures deal with the elements and the psychology of style, and as far as may be necessary, with the authors selected for imitation.

Miss King offers in 1910–11 the following free elective course:

Theory and Practice of Verse Composition.
Two hours a week throughout the year.

This course is not historical but theoretical and practical. The lectures deal with the theory of poetry, the difference between poetry and prose and the laws of verse in English. Students are required to write short exercises in verse every week.

Mr. King offers in 1909–10 and again in 1911–12 the following free elective course in Elocution:

Reading of Shakespeare.
One hour a week throughout the year.

This course is open only to those students who have taken the course in general reading of prose authors. A special study is made of the principles of correct delivery of blank verse. The needs of those students who intend to teach English literature, and desire to read Shakespeare to their pupils, are given special attention.

Mr. King offers in 1910–11 and again in 1912–13 the following free elective course in Elocution:

General Reading of Prose Authors.
One hour a week throughout the year.

This course is open only to those students who have attended the required course in elocution or who have done equivalent work.

German.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Karl Detlev Jessen, Associate Professor of German Literature, Dr. Hans Weyhe, Associate in Teutonic Philology and Sanskrit, and Miss Rose Chamberlin, Reader in German.

Graduate Courses.

The graduate courses offered in German philology may be found under the head of General Teutonic Philology.

Graduate work in the history of modern German literature is conducted according to the seminar method. The courses are so varied that they may be followed by graduate students throughout three successive years and cover the work required of students who offer German literature as a major or a minor for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses.
Dr. Jessen conducts in each year the following graduate seminary:

Seminary in German Literature. Two hours a week throughout the year.

Although the seminary meets only two hours a week throughout the year, the amount of reading required makes the course equivalent to five hours a week. It is hoped that the students will become familiar in these courses with the methods of scientific literary criticism and investigation.

In 1909–10 Goethe as a lyrical poet is studied.
In 1910–11 Goethe's life and works will be the subject of the seminary. Goethe's views on aesthetics and philosophy, translations by and from Goethe, Goethe and romanticism, text criticism applied to selected works, studies of Goethe's style and use of words, and similar subjects will be investigated.
In 1911–12 the Romantic School and the Volkslied are studied.

Dr. Jessen offers in 1909-10 the following graduate courses:

Goethe's Weltanschauung. One hour a week during the first semester.

In this course the philosophy of Goethe is studied with a view to its importance in understanding the currents of thought underlying modern German culture. Its unorthodox character gives it special interest. The students are referred to the writings of Wilhelm Bode, Moritz Heynacher, Hermann Siebeck, and others on the subject.

Germanic Antiquities. One hour a week during the second semester.

This course deals with the study of ethnic conditions and characteristics, the racial and social conditions of the Germanic peoples and the important influences exerted by classical study and the Christian religion. The recent scientific discussions of Comte Gobineau, H. St. Chamberlain, and others have emphasised the importance of the subject. Tacitus's Germania will be read with reference to Mülenhoff, Deutsche Altertumskunde.

Dr. Jessen offers in 1910–11 the following graduate courses:

German Metrics. One hour a week during the first semester.

This course consists of lectures on Deutsche Metrik or Verslehre, with an introduction to phonetics, this being an indispensable Hilfswissenschaft for the study of German literature.

German Poetics. One hour a week during the second semester.
Lectures will be given on Deutsche Poetik and Stilistik.

Dr. Jessen offers in 1911–12 the following graduate courses:

German Literary Criticism. One hour a week during the first semester.

The lectures trace the development of literary and aesthetic criticism in Germany from Leibnitz to Schiller and Goethe. The course is comparative, and French and English literary criticism are also considered. Lessing's Laokoon and Hamburgische Dramaturgie and Schiller's essays on aesthetics are specially studied. The course is open to those students only who have a reading knowledge of French and German.

The German Essay. One hour a week during the second semester.

The history of the essay in German literature is studied and the most eminent German essayists, Schopenhauer, Herman Grimm, Karl Hillebrand, Friedrich Nietzsche, etc., are discussed. The influence of French, English, and American writers, in particular Montaigne, Macaulay, and Emerson, is traced, and incidentally the evolution of modern German prose style is treated.
Dr. Jessen offers in each year, if the time of the department permits, the following graduate course:

Goethe's Faust.

_Two hours a week throughout the year._

This course is intended to give a detailed introduction to the problems of Faustphilologie, dealing with both the first and second part of *Faust._

Dr. Jessen and Dr. Weyhe conduct in each year the Germanic journal club.

Germanic Journal Club.  _Two hours once a fortnight throughout the year._

At the meetings recent books and articles are reviewed and the results of special investigations presented for discussion, comment and criticism.

Post-Major Courses.

Dr. Jessen offers in 1909–10 and again in 1911–12 the following post-major courses, open to graduate students:

German Literature from 1850 to the present time.

_Two hours a week during the first semester._

The subject of this course is, in the first semester, the *Epigonen-Literatur._ The development of the modern German Novelle is discussed and Keller’s, Storm’s, and C. F. Meyer’s works are specially studied. A full account of the poets of the Münchener Schule is given, in particular of Richard Wagner, Reuter, Groth, Freytag, Spielhagen, Scheffel, Raabe, Geibel, Heyse, and Schack.

German Literature from 1850 to the present time (continued).

_Two hours a week during the second semester._

In the second semester among the subjects discussed are the influence of French, Russian, and Scandinavian literatures, especially of the work of Zola and Ibsen on German literature; modern German realism and naturalism as represented by Fontane, Anzengruber, Wildenbruch, Hauptmann, Sudermann, Liliencron, and Rosegger; the increased importance of women in literature, and the work of Marie von Ebner-Eschenbach, Luise von François, Ricarda Huch, Helene Böllau, Isolde Kurz, Clara Viebig and others; the significance of Nietzsche for German life and literature; neo-romanticism and *Heimatsdichtung._

Dr. Jessen offers in 1910–11 and again in 1912–13 the following post-major courses, open to graduate students:

Lectures on the History of German Literature from the Romantic School till 1850.

_Two hours a week during the first semester._

This course begins with a general study of the principles of philosophy, life, art, and poetry, as represented by the Romantic School, which is followed by lectures on the literary movements, expressed mainly in lyric poetry and in the novel, which supersede the Romantic *Weltanschauung._ The lyrics of the war of liberation, the *Weltanscherz, and the political revolution; the novel of *Jungdeutschland; the drama of Heinrich von Kleist; the works of the Schlegels, Tieck, Hölderlin, Jean Paul, Novalis, Uhland, Lenau, Heine, Immermann, Freiligrath, Herwegh, Gutzkow, Mörike, and Gotthelf, are the principal topics discussed.

German Drama in the Nineteenth Century.

_Two hours a week during the second semester._

The drama of Heinrich von Kleist is studied with special reference to that of the classical period, and to the dramatic efforts of the Romanticists. The place of Grillparzer in German literature is defined, as well as the significance of Grabbe and Raimund.
This leads to Otto Ludwig and to Friedrich Hebbel, who is the central figure, chronologically as well as in importance, of the German drama during the nineteenth century. The course ends with a review of Anzengruber, Wildenbruch, Sudermann, Hauptmann, and of other modern writers.

Dr. Jessen offers in each year the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

Advanced Critical Reading. One hour a week throughout the year.

The reading is selected from works discussed in the post-major lectures on literature. The students give reports on dramas or novels, the object of the discussion being to trace the characteristics of the author, as shown in his works. Special attention will be paid to the needs of students who intend to teach German.

Dr. Weyhe offers in each year the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

Elementary Middle High German. One hour a week throughout the year.

This course has been arranged primarily for undergraduate students who wish to be able to read the Middle High German classics in the original. Wright's Middle High German Primer (2nd edition, Oxford, 1890) is used.

Free Elective Course.

Miss Chamberlin offers in each year the following free elective course:

Advanced German Prose Composition and Reading of Modern German. Two hours a week throughout the year.

Attention is given in this course to the needs of students wishing to make teaching their profession. Each student is required to lecture to the class at least once during the year.

General Teutonic Philology.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Hans Weyhe, Associate in Teutonic Philology and Sanskrit.

Special attention is called to the facilities for the study of comparative teutonic philology offered by Bryn Mawr College. The English and the German departments together have provided for a complete course in teutonic philology, comprising both the study of the individual languages (Gothic, Norse, Anglo-Saxon, Old Saxon, Old High German, Middle High German, Platt-Deutsch, etc.) and the study of general comparative philology.

The courses in introduction to the study of teutonic philology, Gothic and Middle High German grammar (first-year course), are designed for students in their first year of graduate study in Teutonic languages, and the remaining courses for students in their second or third year.
Students intending to elect Teutonic philology are advised to study Greek for at least one year during their undergraduate course.

Graduate Courses.

Dr. Weyhe offers the following graduate courses:

Introduction to the Study of Teutonic Philology.

One hour a week throughout the year.

These lectures deal with the following topics: a discussion of Teutonic in its relation to the cognate Aryan languages; a brief sketch of the single Teutonic languages, accompanied by an account of the chief grammatical and lexicographic works on each; a discussion of the aim and method of historical and comparative grammar, including problems such as those of the relationship of dialects and the consistency of phonetic laws; a brief history of Teutonic philology, and finally the outlines of general phonetics.

Gothic.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

Gothic phonetics and inflection are studied in connection with the elements of comparative Aryan grammar. Brünne's Gotische Grammatik (6th ed., Halle, 1905); or Streitberg's Gotisches Elementarbuch (2nd ed., Heidelberg, 1906) are used as text-books.

As a thorough knowledge of Gothic is the foundation of the study of historical and comparative Teutonic grammar, every graduate student of Teutonic grammar is advised to take this course as early as possible.

Middle High German Grammar and reading of Middle High German Texts (first-year course).

Two hours a week throughout the year.

This course includes a brief abstract of Middle High German grammar, with special reference to the difference between Middle High German and Modern German, and a study of the most prominent authors in Middle High German. Part of Hartmann's Arner Heinrich is read, and is followed by selections from the Nibelungenlied, a brief account being given of the "Nibelungenfrage" and of the manuscripts of the Nibelungenlied.

Students of Middle High German should be provided with Paul's Mittelhochd. Grammatik (6th ed., Halle, 1904), or Michels's Mittelhochd. Elementarbuch (Heidelberg, 1900).

For a more complete treatment of the subject T. Wright's Historical German Grammar (Vol. 1, Oxford, 1907) is recommended.

This course is required of all students that make German the minor subject in their examination for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

The private reading includes the works of the authors treated in the course.

Old High German.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

This course is offered to students acquainted with Gothic and Middle High German, or at least Modern German, and includes a practical study of Old High German grammar, and a comparison of the Old High German sounds and forms with those of Middle and Modern High German. Selections are read from Old High German texts, arranged so as to proceed from easy to more difficult pieces, and to illustrate the differences between the Old High German dialects.

Middle High German (second-year course).

One hour a week throughout the year.

This course is intended for students that have followed the first year's course in Middle High German. The first semester is devoted to the Hoftesches Epos (Veldeke, Wolfram, Gottfried von Strassburg, Rudolf von Ems, Conrad von Würzburg), and the second semester to Minnesangs Frühling and Walther von der Vogelweide.

Old Saxon.

Two hours a week during the second semester.

The work presupposes on the part of the students a sufficient knowledge of Gothic and Anglo-Saxon. Holthausen’s Altsächsisches Elementarbuch (Heidelberg, 1899); the Héïland (in Sievers’s or Heyne’s or Behaghel’s edition), and Zangemeister-Braune’s Bruchstücke der altsächsischen Bibeldichtung (Heidelberg, 1894) are used. The reading is supplemented by a discussion of the West Germanic alliterative verse with reference to versification and poetic style in Anglo-Saxon.

Old Norse.

Two hours a week during the second semester.

This course may, by request, be substituted for the course in Old Saxon.

Students entering this course are supposed to be acquainted with Gothic and with Anglo-Saxon or Old High German grammar. In the grammatical part of the course attention is paid to the relation between Gothic and Norse, and to the differences between the East Teutonic and West Teutonic branches. Among the texts read, selections from the younger and the older Edda take a prominent place.

The books used are Sweet’s Icelandic Primer (Oxford, 1886), or Holthausen’s Altsächsisches Elementarbuch (Weimar, 1895), and Hildebrand’s Edda (2nd edition, Paderborn, 1904), with Gering’s Glossar (3rd edition, Paderborn, 1907). For advanced students the reading of one of the larger Islendinga sögur preceded by an introduction to the history of Iceland, may be substituted.

Attention is called to the facilities afforded for the study of Old Norse. A considerable portion of the library of the late philologist, Th. Wisen, of Lund, was acquired by Bryn Mawr College, and hence the library is probably as well supplied as any other college library in the United States with Old Norse texts, Norse periodicals, and works on Old Norse language and literature.

Comparative Teutonic Grammar.

One hour a week throughout the year.

The study of comparative Teutonic philology is recommended to those students only who are acquainted with the single old Teutonic languages, and have studied Gothic, Old High German, Old Saxon, Anglo-Saxon, and Norse. The object of the course is to compare the various old Teutonic languages with each other and with the related Aryan languages,—or in other words (1) to reconstruct the primitive Teutonic language; (2) to point out the characteristic features of primitive Teutonic in distinction from primitive Aryan; (3) to carry down the history of early Teutonic from the period of unity into the early stages of the individual Teutonic languages.

Teutonic Seminary.

One hour a week throughout the year.

This seminar is arranged for the benefit of the most advanced students in Teutonic philology. Its object is to encourage independent work on the part of the students. The exercises consist mainly of the discussion of special topics by the instructor and the students. The subjects for discussion are announced in advance, and the members of the seminar are expected to study the literature on these subjects, and to make an effort to contribute some additional material, or an independent opinion of their own.

In addition to the above courses, others in Old Frisian, Dutch, Middle Low German, or Modern Low German may be arranged for students that have previously studied Gothic, Old and Middle High German, Anglo-Saxon, and Old Saxon.

Romance Languages.

French.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Albert Schinz, Associate Professor of French Literature, Dr. Richard Thayer Holbrook, Associate Professor of French Philology and Italian, Mr. Frederiek A. Blossom, Lecturer in French, and Dr. Clara Leonora Nicolay, Reader in Elementary French.
GRADUATE COURSES.

There are offered each year three distinct graduate courses in French, two in literature and one in language, and these courses are varied so that they may be followed by the graduate student throughout three years. Graduate students interested in the study of literature will find it to their advantage to attend the lectures on French literature two hours a week throughout the two years of the major course in French. No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses.

Dr. Schinz conducts in each year the following graduate seminar:

Seminary in French Literature. Three hours a week throughout the year.

In 1900-10 and again in 1911-12 the subject of the seminar is Victor Hugo. The seminar deals with his lyrical works. The following subjects are treated: Victor Hugo as a Royalist and Catholic poet; his indebtedness to Chateaubriand, Sainte-Beuve, Nodier and other contemporaries; his attitude towards Napoleon I, the Republic of 1848 and Napoleon III.; and his social, political and religious ideas in the period of his maturity and of his old age.

In 1910-11 Rousseau is the subject of the seminar. In the first semester, after a discussion of his life, a study is made of the Confessions, Réveries, and Correspondance. Special attention is paid to the controversy Confessions versus Mémoires d'Épinay, as transformed by the discoveries of Mrs. MacDonald. The questions of Rousseau's insanity and suicide are discussed. The second semester is devoted chiefly to the study of Texte's Jean Jacques Rousseau et le cosmopolitisme littéraire. The Lettre à d'Alembert and the Nouvelle Héloïse will serve as a text to this theory.

In 1912-13 the subject of the seminar will be Montaigne. Various problems connected with his life, his relations to Protestantism and to the political problems of his time, the question of the authorship of the Discours sur la servitude volontaire, the origin and sources of the essays, Montaigne and the Renaissance, and Montaigne and Plutarch will be discussed. A special study will be made of Montaigne's style and of the Apologie de Raymond de Sébonde.

Mr. Blossom conducts in each year the following graduate seminar:

Seminary in French Language and Literature. Two hours a week throughout the year.

In 1910-11 the work of the seminar is an analytical study of the modern French language. Questions of syntax, style and vocabulary are discussed with a view to acquiring a thorough command of the idiomatic language. In 1913-14 the seminar in Molière will be substituted for the above. The subjects studied will be: French Comedy before Molière, Molière's comedies, their Latin, Italian, and French sources, his style and method of composition, the nature of his "comique," his philosophy and his morality are discussed.

In 1911-12 the subject of the seminar is La 'Matiere de Bretagne' et l'épopée courtoise. The course includes a careful study of the Lais of Marie de France, the poems referring to Tristan, and the Romans of Chrétien de Troyes; these are studied in connection with the question of their origin in Celtic countries and their later development in France. The different theories that have been proposed as to their origin and evolution are examined and discussed and an attempt is made to determine their comparative value.

The subject of the seminar in 1912-13 is Ronsard and the Pléiade, the object being to determine the origin, the extent, and the success of the Renaissance movement in France. The chief works of Ronsard and his successors, especially Du Bellay and Baïf, will be read and discussed.

The course in Old French Philology is intended for students in their first year of graduate study; that in Provençal and the Old French Seminary for students in their second or third year of graduate study; the Journal Club may be attended by students in their first, second, or third year of graduate study. The course in Old French Readings is designed to be taken in connection with the seminary in Old French.

Dr. Holbrook offers in each year the following graduate courses:

Old French Philology. Three hours a week throughout the year.

This course consists of lectures on the phonology, morphology, and syntax of Old French, and is designed not only for students whose main pursuit is Romance philology, but also for those who wish to acquire more precise knowledge of the French elements in Middle English. The main principles of Historical Grammar are studied in the Extrait de la Chanson de Roland, published by Gaston Paris, and in various texts in L. Constans's Chrêstomathie. Other books used are Passy's Sounds of the French Language, Grandgent's Introduction to Vulgar Latin, Nyrop's Grammaire Historique de l'Ancien Français, and Schwan's Grammaire de l'Ancien Français.

Old French Readings. Two hours a week throughout the year.

Various typical Old French masterpieces are studied from a scientific standpoint. The essential facts of Old French grammar are reviewed and rare or difficult locations are minutely examined for the sake of precise interpretation; dialectal features are considered and attention is given to the relation of manuscripts to printed texts. In addition to the works named below, students are expected to supply themselves with Gaston Paris's Littérature française au moyen âge.

The following courses may be rearranged to suit the needs of students in any particular year.

In 1906–10 and again in 1911–12 epic and historical literature is the subject of the course. The texts required are Stengel's edition of the Chanson de Roland (Leipsic, 1900); the Pelerinage de Charlemagne (ed. by Koschwitz, Leipsic, 1900), and the Extrait des Chroniqueurs Français (Villehardouin, Joinville, Froissart, Commines), ed. by G. Paris and A. Jeanroy, Paris, 1893.

In 1910–11 dramatic literature will be studied. Various mysteries and miracle plays will be examined; but the course will deal mainly with purely medieval comedy (ca. 1260–ca. 1530). The texts used are Adam de la Hale's Jeu de la feuillée (edition of Rambeau, Marburg, 1886, and of Langlois, Paris, 1895); Paul Laeroix's Recueil (Paris, 1859), and the facsimile of Guillaume Le Roy's Patelin (1486?), printed for the Société des textes Français modernes.

Old French Seminary. Two hours a week throughout the year.

The work of the seminary is on the most important Old French dialects. Texts in Norman, Picard, Francian and Franco-Provençal are studied with reference to their dialectal features in order that the student may acquire the power to determine approximately the origin of other texts in which the same dialectal features occur.

Old Provençal. Two hours a week throughout the year.

This course is intended for students of Old French who wish to begin the study of the language and literature of the Troubadours. The books required are Grandgent's Outline of the Phonology and Morphology of Old Provençal (Boston, 1905) and Appel's Provenzalsiche Chrêstomathie (latest edition).
Dr. DeHaan, Dr. Schinz, Dr. Holbrook and Mr. Blossom, together conduct the journal club in Romance languages.

Romance Languages Journal Club.

One and a half hours a fortnight throughout the year.

The journal club is intended to make the advanced students familiar with all the important European periodicals and with new books dealing with Romance Philology. For each session of the club an important article chosen from some one of the various periodicals is assigned to a student for review. The student is also referred to previous articles or publications treating of the same subject as that of the review, and is expected to present to the club a chronological outline of the history and stages of the discussion on the given point. Thus the students become familiar with the names of leading Romance scholars and with the particular lines of research in which each of the latter excels. At the same time such reviews prepare the way for seminary work and original investigations.

Post-Major Courses.

Dr. Schinz offers in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

The Short Story (Nouvelle) in the Nineteenth Century.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

The genre nouvelle is studied in connection with the following writers: Xavier de Maistre, Chateaubriand, Nedier, de Vigny, de Musset, Balzac, Mérimée, Gautier, Laboulaye, Daudet, Bourget, Maupassant, France, Bazin, Rod, Coppée, Loti, Villiers de l'Isle Adam, de Régnier, and others. In 1909-10 this course was given one hour a week throughout the year.

Dr. Schinz offers in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

French Lyric Poetry of the Nineteenth Century.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

In the first semester the lectures treat lyric poetry until the year 1866. Special attention is paid to the period from 1850 to 1866, while Lamartine, Hugo, Sainte-Beuve, de Vigny, and de Musset are treated only so far as is necessary for the understanding of the evolution of lyric poetry in their successors, Baudelaire, Gautier, de Banville, Leconte de Lisle, etc. The lectures of the second semester treat contemporary lyric poetry from 1866 to 1900. A careful study is made of the Parnassian and Symbolist schools.

Mr. Blossom offers in each year the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

Teachers' Course in Advanced French. One hour a week throughout the year.

This course is especially intended to give students the practical knowledge of French required for teaching the language. A correct pronunciation is taught by means of a study of French phonetics, of the comparative value of sounds, of the tonic and oratorical accents, and of the rhythmical language. Classical texts are analysed as a preparation for exercises in composition and lectures on the principles of French rhetoric will be given.

Mr. Blossom offers in 1909-10 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

The Evolution of the French Novel. Two hours a week throughout the year.
In this course the development of the novel is studied from its rise with Astrée through the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries to the end of the romantic period. Students are required to read and report on representative novels of each epoch.

Mr. Blossom offers in 1910-11 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

French Lyric Poetry to the End of the Eighteenth Century.

One hour a week throughout the year.

After a study of the principles of French versification, the history of lyric poetry in France is studied from its origin to the end of the eighteenth century, particular attention being paid to the works of Rutebeuf, Charles d'Orléans, Villon, Marot, and Ronsard.

Mr. Blossom offers in 1911-12 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

The Romantic Drama of the nineteenth century.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

The lectures deal with the origin and development of the romantic drama in the works of Victor Hugo, Alexandre Dumas père, Alfred de Vigny, and Alfred de Musset. Its renaissance in the latter part of the century in Richepin and Edmond Rostand is then discussed.

Mr. Blossom offers in 1912-13 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

Origin, development, and decline of realistic comedy.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

The lectures treat of the origin of realistic comedy in Beaumarchais; its period of highest development in Augier, Dumas fils, Pailleron, and Sardou; its decline, the comédie naturaliste; new systems and new writers, Jules Lemaître and Edmond Rostand.

Italian.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Richard Thayer Holbrook, Associate Professor of French Philology and Italian.

Graduate Courses.

Dr. Holbrook offers in each year the following graduate courses:

Italian Philology.

One hour a week throughout the year.

This course presupposes a knowledge of Old French Philology and the equivalent of the minor and major courses in Italian offered at Bryn Mawr College. The work is founded upon the treatise entitled Die Italienische Sprache by D'Ovidio and Meyer Lübke in Gröber's Grundriss (Strassburg, 1906). Various passages from thirteenth and fourteenth century authors are examined critically from a phonological and morphological point of view.

Old Italian Readings.

One hour a week throughout the year.

Students should provide themselves with the first volume of D'Ancona and Bacci's Manuale della Letteratura Italiana (Florence, 1904).
Dr. DeHaan, Dr. Schinz, Dr. Holbrook and Mr. Blossom together conduct the journal club in Romance languages.

Romance Languages Journal Club.

One and a half hours a fortnight throughout the year.

Dr. Holbrook offers in each year the following undergraduate courses, open to graduate students:

First Year.

Modern Italian. Three hours a week throughout the year.
This course is designed to prepare beginners for the study of Italian literature, as well as for the practical use of the language. Reading is taken up from the start, a careful pronunciation is insisted upon, and the essentials of the grammar are taught by a critical observation of the texts used and by graded exercises in the rendering of English into Italian. The books used are the following: C. H. Grandgent's Italian Grammar; Bowen's Italian Reader and Hecker's Il Piccolo Italiano; Giuseppe Finzi's Petrarca (1900); De Marchi's Storie; selections from the verse and prose of Renato Fucini and others.

Representative Italian Classics in English Translations Two hours a week throughout the year.
This course deals with typical masterpieces of Italian literature from Dante to Cellini. The author's life, character, and surroundings, his place in literary history, and his translators are discussed.
The works studied are as follows: Dante and his Circle (for early lyrics), Vita Nuova, most of the Inferno, parts of the Purgatorio and Paradiso; Boccaccio, Life of Dante and several tales translated by John Payne and J. M. Rigg; Petrarch, selected Letters, Sonnets and Triumphs; Ariosto, Orlando Furioso; Tasso, Jerusalem Delivered; Castiglione, The Courtier; Cellini, Life. Knowledge of Italian is not required.

Second Year.

Italian Classical Literature. Three hours a week throughout the year.
The work in this course is to translate most of the Inferno and parts of the Purgatorio and Paradiso; then selections from Ariosto and Tasso. For these two the study of difficult modern prose and poetry may be substituted, with exercises in writing and speaking. Training in pronunciation will be given throughout the course. The lectures on literature are delivered in Italian.

Spanish.
The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Fonger DeHaan, Professor of Spanish.

Graduate Courses.

Dr. DeHaan offers in each year the following graduate courses:

Lectures in Spanish on Spanish Literary History till the death of Calderon (1681). One hour a week throughout the year.
The lectures are supplemented by extensive private reading of important works.

Essays in Spanish. Two hours a week throughout the year.

Spanish Philology. One hour a week throughout the year.

Old Spanish Readings. One hour a week throughout the year.
Dr. DeHaan, Dr. Schinz, Dr. Holbrook and Mr. Blossom together conduct the journal club in Romance languages.

Romance Languages Journal Club.

One and a half hours a fortnight throughout the year.

Post-Major Courses.

Dr. DeHaan offers in each year the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

Spanish.
Two hours a week throughout the year.

This course in composition and conversation is offered to those students who have completed the major course.

Dr. DeHaan offers in each year the following undergraduate courses, open to graduate students:

First Year.

Spanish.
Five hours a week throughout the year.

The object of this course is to give beginners a good knowledge of modern Spanish, and to ground them thoroughly in the essentials of the grammar. As a preparation for understanding the spoken language, two half-hours a week during the second semester are devoted to dictation. The books studied are the following (taken up in the order indicated): DeHaan's Cuentos Modernos; Pérez Nieva, Tomás el torero (Madrid, Colección Klong); De Haan's Selected Works of G. A. Béquer; Hartzenbusch, Los Amantes de Teruel (Obras, vol. III.); Zorrilla, Granada (Madrid, 1895, 2 vols.).

Private reading: Palacio Valdés, José; Galdós, Marianela.

Second Year.

Lectures in Spanish on Spanish Literary History of the Nineteenth Century.
Two hours a week throughout the year.

Spanish Composition.
One hour a week throughout the year.

Critical Reading in Spanish.
Two hours a week throughout the year.

Private reading: Private reading supplementing the lectures on literary history comprises representative works in the various branches of literature.

Semitic Languages and Biblical Literature.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. George A. Barton, Professor of Biblical Literature and Semitic Languages, and Miss Maud Downing, Reader in Semitic Languages.

The college was particularly fortunate in securing in the year 1892 the library of the late M. Arthur Amiaud, of Paris. While M. Amiaud was especially eminent as an Assyriologist, he was also prominent as a general Semitic student. His library was the collection of an active scholar, and forms a working library for the student in every department of Semitic study. It is especially rich in the Hebrew, Syriac, and Assyrian languages, containing several works, indispensable to the student, which are now out of print. Another Semitic library containing many works on the Talmud and on Jewish literature was acquired in 1904. Mr. Albert J. Edmunds presented to the college in 1907 his library of 200 volumes on the history of religion. The contents of these libraries, together with the books already owned by the college and those easily accessible in neighboring libraries, form an exceptionally good collection of material for the specialist in Semitic languages. A good working collection of cuneiform tablets is under the control of the department, and affords an excellent opportunity for students of Assyrian to become familiar with original documents.

Graduate Courses.

The graduate courses in Semitic languages are varied from year to year, as indicated below, so that they may be pursued by a student for four successive years. Those who offer Semitic languages as the major subject in the examination for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy are required to spend in Semitic work half their time for at least three years.

The work of the department is so arranged that students may specialize in Hebrew or Assyrian. Students who offer Hebrew or Assyrian as the major subject in the examination for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy must possess a knowledge of the grammatical forms of five Semitic languages and in this enumeration Syriac and Jewish Aramaic may not count as separate languages. Students that offer Semitic languages as the minor subject in the examination for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy must show that they have a knowledge of three Semitic languages.

The regular alternation of courses is indicated below and at least five hours a week will be given in each year, the courses being selected according to the needs of the graduate students. Graduate students may enter in any year of the four years' course, as there will be afforded each year an opportunity for graduate students to begin Hebrew.

No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses.

Dr. Barton offers in 1909-10 the following graduate courses:

Assyrian Seminary. One hour a week throughout the year.
The work of the seminary consists of a critical study of Sumerian texts.

Hebrew Seminary. One hour a week throughout the year.
The Psalter and the book of Job, Canticles, Ecclesiastes or one of the historical or prophetic books is discussed.
Aramaic Seminary.

One hour of the course is devoted to Jewish Aramaic including a study of the Talmud and Aramaic inscriptions. The remaining hour is spent on Syriac and the Sinai gospels and the poetry of Ephraim are studied.

Comparative Semitic Grammar.

One hour a week throughout the year.

The course is devoted to Semitic phonetics and grammatical forms with a comparison of old Hamitic. In connection with the work selected Egyptian texts are read, to supply the student with Hamitic linguistic material. The first semester is devoted to phonetic material and its laws, the second to the pronoun and the verb.

Ethiopic.

One hour a week throughout the year.

The grammar and Chrestomathia of Praetorius and Dillmann are used, and in the latter part of the course selections are read from the book of Enoch.

Seminary in Arabic Literature.

One hour a week throughout the year.

The work of the seminar is a study of the pre-Islamic poets, the Coran, and the traditions.

Dr. Barton offers in 1910–11 the following graduate courses:

Semitic Seminary.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

This seminar is devoted to Hebrew or Assyrian, the languages that may be offered as major subjects for the doctor's degree. The time may be devoted to one of these languages, or may be divided between the two, according to the needs of the students. In Assyrian the subject may be chosen from one of the following: The oldest Babylonian inscriptions, temple archives of Telloh, Sumerian hymns, the code of Hammurabi, or mythological poetry. In Hebrew, one of the following subjects may be selected: Job, the Psalter, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ecclesiastes and the Song of Songs, or Hebrew Epigraphy. In the Hebrew seminar the students are trained in textual criticism through the use of the ancient versions.

Elementary Semitic Languages.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

This course may be devoted to the elements of Hebrew, or of Aramaic (Syriac and Jewish Aramaic), or Assyrian, or Arabic according to the needs of the students. The time may, if necessary, be divided between two of these languages.

Hebrew, The Prophets.

One hour a week throughout the year.

The text of one or more of the Prophets is critically interpreted, and Hebrew syntax and composition are studied.

Hebrew Literature.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

This course is devoted to a study of the Prophets, the Pentateuch, and the historical books of the Old Testament.

Ethiopic.

One hour a week throughout the year.

This course is a continuation of that given in 1909–10.

Dr. Barton offers in 1911–12 the following graduate courses:

Semitic Seminary.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

The work of the seminar is continued as given in 1910–11.

Seminary in Aramaic and Arabic.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

This seminar is devoted to Arabic or Aramaic, the languages that may be offered as minor subjects for the doctor's degree. The time may be devoted to one of the languages, or may be divided between the two, according to the needs of the students. In Arabic the subject may be chosen from one of the following: the Coran, pre-Islamic poetry, Arabic geographers, or South Arabic inscriptions. In Aramaic, one of the following subjects may be selected: a comparative study of the Syriac Versions of the Gospels, the Syriac Version of one of the Old Testament books, the writings of Gregory Bar Hebraeus, or of Efraem, the Targum or one of the Old Testament books, the Talmud, or Aramaic inscriptions.

Comparative Semitic Grammar. One hour a week throughout the year.
The grammar of Brockelmann is used as a basis with comparisons from the Egyptian and other Hamitic languages.

Egyptian. One hour a week throughout the year.
The elements of Egyptian and Coptic grammar are taught, and some texts in each language interpreted.

Seminary in New Testament Greek. One hour a week throughout the year.
A thorough study is made of some book of the New Testament, and the students are guided in critical studies, both textual and historical.

Miss Downing offers in 1909–10 the following graduate courses:
Elementary Aramaic. One hour a week throughout the year.
Elementary Arabic. Two hours a week throughout the year.

This course consists of a study of the elements of the language, the interpretation of selections from Brunnow's Chrestomathia and from the Thousand and One Nights, together with Arabic prose composition.

Free Elective Courses.
The courses in Biblical Literature and Oriental History are intended primarily for undergraduate students, but may be elected by graduate students also.

Dr. Barton offers in 1909–10 and again in 1911–12 the following free elective courses in Biblical literature:

New Testament Biography. Two hours a week throughout the year.
The first semester of this course is devoted to a careful study of the life and teaching of Christ; the second semester to the life and teaching of St. Paul. The Gospels and Epistles are read, together with the most helpful of the modern works on these topics. The course is illustrated by photographs of the most important places connected with the lives of Christ and St. Paul.

History of the Old Testament Canon. One hour a week throughout the year.
In this course the history of the composition and collection of the books of the Old Testament is studied. The instruction is given in lectures, and reading is assigned in the Old Testament and in modern literature concerning it.

Dr. Barton offers in 1910–11 and again in 1912–13 the following free elective courses in Biblical literature:

History of Christian Doctrine. Two hours a week throughout the year.
In the first semester Christianity is studied as presented by its Founder and by the apostles, and in the second semester the history of Christian doctrine from 100 A.D. to the present time is briefly reviewed, and problems presented by modern thought are touched upon.

History of the New Testament Canon. One hour a week throughout the year.
This course consists of a study of the New Testament, similar in its methods and aims to the course on the Old Testament Canon.
Dr. Barton offers in each year the following free elective course:

Oriental History. _Five hours a week throughout the year._

This course treats in broad outlines the history and civilization of the Classical Orient. The beginnings of the Hamito-Semitic race, and the influence of environment upon its primitive institutions are first studied. The separation of the races into the different nations is then traced, and the history of the principal Oriental nations, Egyptians, Babylonians, Assyrians, Phœnicians, Hebrews, Hittites, Sabœans, and Persians; of Alexander and his successors; of the Parthians, and the oriental empire of the Romans, is followed in outline. Special attention is paid to the history of the Hebrews, and to their unique religious contribution to the civilization of the world. The course concludes with a study of the Arabic caliphas, and of Mohammedan civilization. The lectures are illustrated by archaeological specimens and by photographs. Either semester may be elected separately.

Dr. Barton offers in each year, when the time of the department permits, the following free elective courses:

Biblical Geography and Archaeology. _Two hours a week throughout the year._

The course begins with a survey of the physical features of Palestine and an estimate of their effect upon its civilization. The succession of races dominant in Palestine since the beginning of history is then reviewed, after which the positions of the places important in the Biblical narratives are carefully noted. The principal Biblical narratives are studied in connection with the geography of the country and the archaeological remains of the period. In this way the narratives of the Patriarchs, Kings, Prophets, and Apostles, as well as the life of Christ, are illustrated. The course is illustrated by photographs. Use is made throughout the course of the publications of the Palestine Exploration Fund, and of other modern explorers.

New Testament Greek. _Two hours a week throughout the year._

This course presupposes a knowledge of classical Greek. After some introductory lectures on the formation and peculiarities of the New Testament Greek, one hour a week during the first semester is devoted to lectures on the history of the New Testament text, both in its written and in its printed form, the helps extant for emending it, and the method of using them. The remainder of the time is devoted to the interpretation of the New Testament Epistles, especially those of Paul. The students are expected to read privately during the first semester the text of one of the Gospels, and during the second, either the _Acts of the Apostles_, the _Apocalypse_, or the _Epistle to the Hebrews._

History.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. William Henry Allison, Associate in History, and Dr. William Roy Smith, Associate Professor of History.

Graduate Courses.

Two distinct seminary courses in English history and in American history are offered to graduate students in history in addition to a course in Historical Method and Criticism and the direction of private reading and original research.

No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses.
Dr. Allison conducts in each year the following graduate seminary:

Seminary in English History. Three hours a week throughout the year.

In 1909–10 the subject of the seminary is special privileges in England, 1559 to 1660. The social, political, and economic conditions in England in the period from the accession of Elizabeth to the Restoration are investigated for the purpose of discovering the special privileges enjoyed by particular classes, local groups or individuals. The origin and nature of some of these are further studied with their general and specific effects as discernible in English history. In part it is a study of feudal survivals, in part a study of post-Reformation developments.

In 1910–11 seventeenth century English Puritanism will be the subject of the seminary. Problems in the historical development of Puritanism will be assigned to the students for investigation and some of the typical writings examined. Each student will make a special study of one particular Puritan of the period.

In 1911–12 genetic studies in the reform period of English history, 1815 to 1845, will be the subject of the seminary. The reform movements which sought legislative support in Parliament will be discussed and an attempt will be made to discover the various forces, especially the organised forces, favoring or opposing these movements.

Dr. Allison offers in each year the following graduate course:

Historical Method and Criticism. Two hours once a fortnight throughout the year.

The questions dealt with in this course are the scope of historical work and its relations to allied subjects; the outlines of historical bibliography; the great collections of printed material; archives and MSS.; editing, criticism, and evidence.

Dr. Smith conducts in each year the following graduate seminary:

Seminary in American History. Three hours a week throughout the year.

In 1909–10 the revolution, the confederation and the constitution are the subjects of study. American history from 1776 to 1789 is discussed primarily from the local point of view as a step in the conflict between the seaboard aristocracy and the democracy of the frontier. The social and economic forces which led to the adoption of the Federal Constitution and the subsequent formation of national political parties are investigated.

In 1910–11 the American colonies in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries will be the subject of the seminary. The political, constitutional, and social problems of the colonies in the seventeenth century will be studied in the first semester. In the second semester, special stress is laid upon the development in the eighteenth century of the imperial administrative machinery and upon the ethnical distribution of population in the colonies.

In 1911–12 the subject of the seminary will be slavery and the negro problem. After a preliminary survey of the history of slavery in the colonial period such topics as the slavery compromises of the constitution, the growth of slavery in the South, the abolition of the slave trade, the Missouri Compromise, the anti-Slavery movement, nullification, the Mexican War, the Wilmot Proviso, the compromise measures of 1850, the Kansas-Nebraska bill, the Dred Scott decision, the abolition of slavery, and the adoption of the thirteenth, fourteenth, and fifteenth amendments are discussed. Special attention is paid to the conflict between sectionalism and nationalism and to the connection between slavery, territorial expansion, and the development of constitutional theories.
Dr. Smith and Dr. Allison conduct in each year the historical journal club:

Historical Journal Club. Two hours once a fortnight throughout the year.

The instructors in the department of history and the graduate students who are pursuing advanced courses in history meet once a fortnight to make reports upon assigned topics, review recent articles and books, and present the results of special investigations.

Post-Major Courses.

Dr. Allison offers in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12 the following post-major courses, open to graduate students:

The Reform Period of English History, 1815-1845. Two hours a week during the first semester.

Beginning with a brief survey of conditions at the close of the Napoleonic period, the various liberalizing and reform movements will be considered both in their internal developments and in their reactions upon English life. Among the movements considered will be Catholic emancipation, parliamentary reform, philanthropic enterprise, the Chartist agitation, the repeal of the corn laws.

British Imperialism. Two hours a week during the second semester.

This course will study the causes of British expansion and its directions, the events in colonial history important in their reaction upon English politics, and especially the history of the British imperial system.

Dr. Allison offers in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13 the following post-major courses, open to graduate students:

England in the Tudor Period. Two hours a week during the first semester.

This course consists of a survey of English history during the reigns of the five Tudor sovereigns, noting particularly the significance of the period for the constitutional, political, social, and religious development of England.

England in the Stuart Period. Two hours a week during the second semester.

This course follows the same general lines as the course on the Tudor period.

Dr. Smith offers in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

American Constitutional History to 1789. Three hours a week throughout the year.

The text-books used in the course are MacDonald's Select Charters of American History and Select Documents of the History of the United States. The members of the class are also systematically referred, not only to the general authorities, but also to colonial charters and constitutions, the records of the colonial governments as far as they are available, the Journals of Congress, and other documentary materials.

Dr. Smith offers in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

American Constitutional History, from 1789 to the present time. Three hours a week throughout the year.

The lectures deal with the leading aspects of the political, constitutional, and economic history of the United States from the ratification of the constitution to the present time. The text-books used are MacDonald's *Select Documents of the History of the United States and Select Statutes of United States History, but frequent additional references are given to the leading secondary authorities. To a limited extent use will be made of such documents as are available in the library, and special topics will be assigned for discussion and report.

Economics and Politics.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Charles Clarence Williamson, Associate in Economics and Politics, and Dr. Marion Parris, Associate in Economics and Politics.

Graduate Courses.

In addition to the post-major courses, which may be elected by graduate students, six hours of graduate lectures and seminar work are offered in each year.

No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses.

Dr. Williamson offers in each year the following graduate seminar:

Economic Seminar.

Three hours a week throughout the year.

In 1909–10 labor problems are studied in the seminar. The rise of the problems is traced, the history and functions of labor organizations are discussed and considerable attention is paid to the principles of labor legislation.

In 1910–11 various important social and economic problems caused by the growth of monopolies will be studied. The aim is to develop general principles upon which a democratic state should proceed in an effort to subject its railroads, trusts, and other more or less non-competitive industries to a wise social control.

In 1911–12 the seminar will make a study of the history and theories of socialism, the purpose being to trace the origin and development of current socialistic doctrines and movements and to examine carefully the arguments for and against socialism in order to reach some conclusion as to the possibility or practicability of making socialistic theories a basis for economic and social reforms.

Dr. Parris offers in each year the following graduate seminar:

Economic Seminar.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

In 1909–10 the subject of the seminar is a critical study of modern theories of value. A short historical introduction serves as a review of the principal economic theories of value in the English and German schools.

In 1910–11 the modern German theory of value is the subject of the seminar. The main object of the seminar is to define certain psychological and philosophical positions. The works of Ehrenfels, Meinong, Kraus, Kreibig, and Chuel are studied and criticised.

In 1911–12 the theories of capital and interest of modern German, Italian, and American economists will be studied and critically compared.

Dr. Williamson and Dr. Parris conduct in each year the economic journal club:

Economic Journal Club.

Two hours once a fortnight throughout the year.

At the meetings recent books and articles are reviewed and the results of special investigations presented for discussion, comment, and criticism.
Post-Major Courses.

Dr. Williamson offers in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

Industrial Problems.
Three hours a week throughout the year.

The lectures of this course deal with certain economic problems which involve political action. Among the more important subjects taken up are the following: problems of money and banking; the commercial policy of the principal countries, with special reference to the tariff situation in the United States; the rise of the transportation problem and a comparison of the methods of government control in use in various countries; industrial combinations, their development and their relation to the state. Typical combinations are studied and the results of anti-trust legislation examined. The aim is to put before the student the significant facts of our commercial and industrial development, accompanied by an economic analysis of the problems created and a discussion of the political factors to be reckoned with in their solution.

Dr. Williamson offers in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

Public Economy.
Two hours a week throughout the year.

This course begins with a discussion of the nature of the public economy and its relation to private economics. An examination of theories of the economic activity of the modern state is followed by a discussion of public expenditure, its objects, its growth in modern democratic societies, and its social and industrial effects. Problems of public health, care of the dependent classes, the economic burden of war and the preparation for war, state forestry and the general problem of the conservation of natural resources, are discussed in this connection. The tax system in American states and cities, together with the general principles of taxation, are discussed fully. Attention is also called to the nature and significance of the non-tax revenues. The course concludes with a brief study of state and local budgets and public debts.

Dr. Parris offers in 1909-10 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

Theoretical Sociology.
Two hours a week throughout the year.

The first semester's work is a history of sociological theory. The students read selections from Auguste Comte, Herbert Spencer, Professor Giddings, and others. In the second semester the various social problems confronting the modern state are considered, such as the congestion of population, housing and transportation problems in American and Continental cities, immigration and race problems in America, the standard of living among various economic groups, etc. The lectures are supplemented by written reports on specially assigned reading and by written and oral quizzes.

Dr. Parris offers in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

Utilitarian Theory in Economics.
Three hours a week throughout the year.

The object of this course is to study the influence of utilitarian ethical theory in shaping the thought of the English classical school. Hume, Paley, Bentham, Adam Smith, James Mill, Ricardo, Malthus and J.S. Mill are read critically. The lectures are supplemented by written reports on specially assigned reading and by oral and written quizzes.
Dr. Parris offers in 1911–12 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

Sociology and the Social Institutions. Two hours a week throughout the year.

This course is designed to introduce the students to the problems of modern sociology. The first semesters' work will be a review of the literature of sociology. The students will read selections from the works of Comte, Spencer, Giddings, Ratzenhofer, Small, and others. In the second semester the genesis and history of the social institutions will be studied; the family, church, state, the institution of private property, corrective and preventive institutions, etc. The lectures are supplemented by written reports and specially assigned reading, and by written and oral quizzes.

Free Elective Courses.

Dr. Parris offers in 1909–10 and again in 1911–12 the following free elective course, open to graduate students:

Methods of Social Research. Two hours a week throughout the year.

The course begins with a brief account of modern institutions for social research and social reform. Various methods of social research will then be studied and reports required on special problems in social statistics, and the collection and graphical representation of material. Booth's Life and Labour in London, Bailey's Modern Social Conditions and Henderson's Modern Methods of Charity will be used as text-books. The course is open only to those students who have attended the minor course in economics and politics.

Dr. Williamson offers in 1910–11 the following free elective course, open to graduate students:

Municipal Problems. Two hours a week throughout the year.

This course consists of a general survey of the more important social, political, and economic problems of American cities. The chief topics treated are, the growth of urban population with its economic and political results, political parties in municipal government, civil service reform, the municipal functions such as police and fire protection, police courts, sanitation and public health, education, institutions of public charity and correction, playgrounds, parks, city planning, and the liquor traffic. The policy of municipal ownership of public utilities will be examined in its various aspects. The course is open only to those students who have attended the minor course in Economics and Politics.

Philosophy.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Theodore de Leo de Laguna, Associate Professor of Philosophy, Dr. James H. Leuba, Professor of Psychology and Education and Director of the Psychological Laboratory, Dr. M. Phillips Mason, Associate in Philosophy, Dr. Clarence Errol Ferree, Associate in Psychology, and Miss Marion Reilly, Reader in Philosophy.

Graduate Courses.

In addition to the post-major courses, which may be elected by graduate students, ten hours of graduate lectures and seminary work are offered in each year. The laboratory of experimental psychology is open to graduate students for research work.

No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses.

Dr. de Laguna conducts in each year the following graduate seminar:

Ethical Seminary. Three hours a week throughout the year.

The subject of the seminar is either a study of one of the chief problems of ethics or a critical examination of some important movement of thought.

In 1909–10 Hume and his contemporaries are studied. A brief preliminary survey is made of the course of English ethical thought from Hobbes to Shaftesbury. This is followed by a more careful examination of selected writings of Mandeville, Butler, and Hutcheson, with a view to tracing their probable influence upon Hume. Finally, the principal task of the year is a comparative study of the ethical doctrines of Hume’s Treatise on Human Nature and Enquiry into the Principles of Morals, with incidental reference to Hartley and Adam Smith.

In 1910–11, the subject will be English evolutionary ethics, as exemplified in the writings of Darwin, Clifford, Spencer, Stephen, Alexander, and Hobhouse, and as criticized by Green, Sorley, Huxley, and Pringle-Pattison. Special attention is given to the problem of determining the nature and limitations of the generic method as applied in ethical research.

In 1911–12 the subject of the seminar will be the ethics of Plato. The dialogues in which moral questions are prominently discussed are read in approximate chronological order; and the development of Plato’s ethics is studied in the light of its interrelations with his theories of knowledge and of reality.

Dr. Mason conducts in each year the following graduate seminar:

Metaphysical Seminary. Two hours a week throughout the year.

The subject of the seminar is usually an examination of one of the more important metaphysical theories of recent times. The chief object of the inquiry is to indicate the fundamental postulates and tacit agreements of contemporary philosophical thought.

In 1910–11 the subject of the seminar will be the theory of knowledge. The general nature of knowledge, its structure and its relation to the mind, are studied. An attempt is made to develop the criteria of truth and to show what bearing these criteria have on experience. The work centres in a study of Kant’s Critique of Pure Reason.

In 1911–12 the subject of the seminar will be the relation of knowledge to natural science and to the normative sciences. The fundamental postulates of the world of facts and the world of values are studied critically, and special attention is given to the logical basis of psychology. Pearson’s Grammar of Science is used as the foundation of the work.

In 1912–13 the subject of the seminar will be the relation of knowledge to being. Various ontological systems are studied with a view to determining the limits of knowledge and the ultimate nature of reality. Bradley’s Appearance and Reality is used as the foundation of the work.

Dr. de Laguna and Dr. Mason conduct in each year the journal club.

Philosophical Journal Club. Two hours once a fortnight throughout the year.

The advanced students and the instructors meet to report on and discuss recent reviews and critical articles.
Dr. Leuba offers in each year the following graduate seminary:

Psychological Seminary. Two hours a week throughout the year.

As the foundation of the work of the seminary one or two of the following subjects will be chosen each year: a comparative study of Wundt, William James, James Ward, Stout, and other psychologists; language, myths, customs; attention, apperception, the will; the psychology of religion and of ethics; psychology of the beautiful; psychiatry and criminology; animal and child psychology, comparative psychology.

Dr. Ferree offers in each year the following graduate course:

Systematic Psychology. Three hours a week throughout the year.

This course is intended, primarily, to give a systematic presentation of the literature of experimental psychology. Due consideration, however, will be given to all points of systematic importance. The work is grouped about the following topics: sensation, the simpler sense complexes, perception and idea, feeling and the affective processes, attention, action, and the intellectual processes (memory, association, imagination, etc). The course covers three years; but the topics chosen and the time devoted to each vary from year to year according to the needs of the students.

Dr. Leuba and Dr. Ferree together conduct in each year the journal club and the laboratory work.

Psychological Journal Club. One hour a week throughout the year.

The advanced students meet with the instructors once a week to hear or read reports on the literature of the subject and on the work done in the laboratory.

Psychological Laboratory Work.

The laboratory work consists of individual practice and research.

Free Elective Courses.

Dr. de Laguna offers in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12 the following free elective course, open to graduate students:

Rousseau's Social Philosophy. One hour a week throughout the year.

In this course Rousseau's theories of art, politics, and religion are discussed.

Dr. de Laguna offers in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13 the following free elective course, open to graduate students:

Theory of Pragmatism. One hour a week throughout the year.

A brief introduction gives a sketch of the Darwinian theory of evolution and of its application to functional psychology. The greater part of the second semester is devoted to class discussion of Professor James's book on Pragmatism.

Dr. Mason offers in each year the following free elective courses, open to graduate students:

Elementary Logic. One hour a week during the first semester.

This course is an introduction to deductive and inductive logic, including the theories of definition, classification, the transformation of judgments, the canons of the syllogism, the formation of concepts, the general methods of observation and experiment, analogy, and the use of hypotheses.
The Philosophy of Nature.

One hour a week during the second semester.

This course is an introduction to the study of the fundamental postulates of natural science. Such problems as the following will be discussed: The value of mathematical principles in natural science, the necessity of time and space as fundamental principles, the meaning of induction, the relation of the inorganic world to the organic, the relation of psychology to natural science, and finally the place of natural science in the world of knowledge and its relation to ethics and aesthetics.

Post-Major Courses.

Dr. Mason offers in each year the following post-major courses, open to graduate students:

Types of Metaphysical Theory.

Three hours a week throughout the year.

Each semester is devoted to the examination of some important type of metaphysical theory. After the historical development of the theory under investigation has been traced, its implications and relationships are examined and criticised. The particular subjects selected vary from year to year.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

Typical theories of knowledge, both idealistic and empirical, are examined. The discussion centres around the nature of truth, and an attempt is made to show how it is related to the mind and to the empirical world.

Dr. Leuba and Dr. Ferree offer in each year the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

Advanced Experimental Psychology.

Three hours a week throughout the year.

The object of this course is to provide the preparation in laboratory work necessary for graduate work in psychology. The course consists of one lecture a week given by Dr. Ferree and five hours of laboratory work, in qualitative and quantitative psychology, conducted by Dr. Leuba and Dr. Ferree.

Education.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. James H. Leuba, Professor of Psychology and Education, and Director of the Psychological Laboratory. The instruction offered covers five hours of lectures a week, in addition to the time devoted to the seminary; it includes two hours a week of free elective work, and three hours a week of graduate work.

It is the purpose of the department to offer to students intending to become teachers an opportunity to obtain a technical preparation sufficient for their profession. Hitherto practical training has been thought necessary for teachers of primary schools only, but similar training is very desirable for teachers in high schools and colleges also. Indeed, it is already becoming increasingly difficult for college graduates without practical and theoretical pedagogical knowledge to secure good positions. In addition to the lectures open to undergraduates, courses will be organised for graduate students only; conducted with special reference to preparation for the headship and superintendence of schools. Education cannot be studied to the best advantage unless an acquaintance with at least the rudiments of psychology is presupposed. The elementary experimental course in psychology is therefore earnestly recommended to all students of education.

Graduate Courses.

Graduate students are recommended to follow the work offered in the undergraduate course mentioned below.

No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses.

Dr. Leuba offers in each year the following graduate courses:

The Psychology of Mental and Bodily Growth with reference to Education.
One hour a week throughout the year.

A knowledge of elementary psychology is assumed in this course.

Lectures upon school-hygiene; physical training; organisation of education in the United States and in Europe; the training of teachers, etc.
Two hours a week throughout the year.

Free Elective Course.

Dr. Leuba offers in each year the following free elective course, open to graduate students:

Education.
Two hours a week throughout the year.

This course deals with the great educators and their systems considered with reference to modern educational methods and the problems of to-day.

History of Art and Classical Archæology.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Caroline Louise Ransom, Associate Professor of the History of Art and Classical Archæology, Miss Georgiana Goddard King, Reader in English, and Miss Caroline Vinia Lynch, Demonstrator in the History of Art and Classical Archæology.

An archæological seminary of two hours a week throughout the year is offered to graduate students who have done elementary archæological work, and also a journal club meeting one and a half hours a fortnight.

The undergraduate work is divided into courses of three hours a week, and two hours a week, and these change from year to year so that every student has an opportunity, during the course of four years, of taking each undergraduate course offered in the department. The courses in the Art of the Greek and Roman, Early Christian, Medieval, and Renaissance periods are designed to give an outline of the history of European architecture, sculpture, and painting. Students wishing a more complete introduction to the history of art are advised to elect also the course in Egyptian Art. Additional courses in classical art and archaeology are offered for students of Greek and Latin wishing to study classical antiquities.

In addition to the graduate courses announced, other courses will be provided as need for them arises, and individual students will be directed in special work by means of private conferences.

GRADUATE COURSES.

Two courses are offered to graduate students in addition to the elective courses which are open also to undergraduate students. A reading knowledge of French and German is indispensable for graduate work in art and archaeology.

No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses.

Dr. Ransom conducts in each year the following graduate seminary:

Archaeological Seminary. Two hours a week throughout the year.

This course is open only to graduate students who have had some previous training in classical archaeology.

In 1909-10 Roman architecture and topography are the subjects of the seminary in the first semester and Greek vases of the fifth century are studied in the second semester.

In 1910-11 the subjects of the seminary will be Cretan antiquities in the first semester and Greek and Roman pottery in the second semester.

In 1911-12 Greek and Roman coins will be studied in the first semester and Greek and Roman sculpture will be the subject of the seminary in the second semester.

Dr. Ransom and Miss Lynch conduct the journal club in each year:

Archaeological Journal Club. One and a half hours once a fortnight throughout the year.

The graduate students and the instructors meet for the presentation and discussion of topics of current archaeological literature.

FREE ELECTIVE COURSES.

Dr. Ransom offers in 1909-10 the following free elective courses, open to graduate students:

History of Architecture. Three hours a week throughout the year.

This course consists of a survey of Greek, Roman, Early Christian, Medieval, and Renaissance architecture; it is illustrated with lantern slides.
Egyptian Art.
Two hours a week throughout the year.

The architecture, sculpture, pottery, and other material remains of ancient Egypt are considered beginning with the prehistoric period and continuing to the time of the Roman supremacy in Egypt. Special attention is given to subjects bearing on the art of Greece. The lectures are illustrated with lantern slides.

Dr. Ransom offers in 1910-11 the following free elective courses, open to graduate students:

History of Painting.
Three hours a week throughout the year.

This course consists of a survey of the history of painting in Europe beginning with the art of painting among the Greeks and ending with the sixteenth century schools. The lectures are illustrated with lantern slides.

Greek and Roman Vases.
Two hours a week throughout the year.

A good collection of original material for illustration is in the possession of the department.

Dr. Ransom offers in 1911-12 the following free elective courses, open to graduate students:

History of Sculpture.
Three hours a week throughout the year.

Greek and Roman sculpture are studied in the first semester and Renaissance sculpture in the second semester. The lectures are illustrated with lantern slides.

The Seventeenth and Eighteenth Century Schools of Painting.
Two hours a week throughout the year.

The lectures are illustrated with lantern slides.

Miss King offers in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12 the following free elective course, open to graduate students:

Italian Renaissance Painting from the Middle of the Thirteenth to the Middle of the Sixteenth Century.
Two hours a week throughout the year.

In the first semester the Italian Primitives are studied, chiefly in the schools of Florence, Siena, and Umbria; in the second semester the painters of the High Renaissance, with special attention to those of Venice and the north of Italy.

Miss King offers in 1910-11 the following free elective course, open to graduate students:

Gothic Architecture.
Two hours a week throughout the year.

The first semester is devoted to Romanesque and pointed architecture in Italy and Germany, with special attention to the introduction of Gothic into Italy by the Cistercians, and the second semester to the development of Gothic in France with parallels from English ecclesiastical architecture.

Mathematics.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Charlotte Angas Scott, Professor of Mathematics, Mr. J. Edmund Wright,* Associate Professor of Mathematics, Dr.

* Died, February 20th, 1910. The courses offered by Professor Wright will be given by an instructor whose appointment will be announced later.
Isabel Maddison, Associate in Mathematics, and Dr. Virginia Ragsdale and Dr. Helen Elizabeth Huff, Readers in Mathematics.

Graduate Courses.

The graduate courses consist of lectures and seminary work, supplemented by private reading under the direction of the instructors, the courses being arranged each year with reference to the wishes and degree of preparation of the students concerned.

No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses.

Dr. Scott offers in 1909–10 the following graduate course:

Theory of Algebraic Invariants.  Two hours a week throughout the year.

In this course binary and ternary forms are considered by means of Aronhold's symbolic notation. During the first semester the work is purely algebraic, during the second semester more attention is paid to the geometrical applications. A general knowledge of plane algebraic curves is necessary for students taking this course.

Dr. Scott offers in 1909–10 the following graduate seminary:

Seminary in the Theory of Plane Algebraic Curves.

Two hours a week during the second semester.

Dr. Scott offers in 1910–11 the following graduate course:

Theory of Surfaces.  Two hours a week throughout the year.

A general knowledge of plane algebraic curves is necessary for students taking this course.

Dr. Scott offers in 1911–12 the following graduate course:

Plane Algebraic Curves.  Two hours a week throughout the year.

The course deals with the general theory of plane algebraic curves, with special attention to topological investigations.

The following graduate course will be offered in 1910–11 by an instructor whose appointment will be announced later:

Elliptic Functions.  Two hours a week throughout the year.

A knowledge of the elementary properties of elliptic functions is presupposed; the properties of the theta functions are considered and some time is spent on the transformation theory. In the latter portion of the course the properties of modular functions are discussed.

The following graduate course will be offered in 1911–12 by an instructor whose appointment will be announced later:

Theory of Functions.  Two hours a week throughout the year.

A knowledge of the elements of the theory is presupposed. The course will contain some account of the theory of functions of more than one independent variable and in particular will include a discussion of the properties of multiply periodic functions.

The following graduate course will be offered in 1912–13 by an instructor whose appointment will be announced later:

Linear Differential Equations.  Two hours a week throughout the year.
This course consists of a discussion of the general theory of these equations, particular attention being paid to those of the second order. A detailed account is given of those equations whose singular points are regular. The expression of the variables as uniform functions of a parameter is dealt with and in this connection the elementary properties of automorphic functions are given. Solution by means of definite integrals and equations of the type which arise in connection with mathematical physics are discussed.

Dr. Scott and Mr. Wright* together conduct the journal club.

Mathematical Journal Club. One hour a fortnight throughout the year.

The journal club holds fortnightly meetings at which reports on special topics or memoirs are presented by the instructors and the graduate students.

Post-Major Courses.

The post-major courses in mathematics are designed to bridge over the interval between the ordinary undergraduate studies and advanced work. They deal, therefore, with the subjects of the major course, carried to higher developments and treated by higher methods. As the order of mathematical studies differs in different colleges, graduate students frequently find it advisable to devote a part of their time to these courses. Regular written work is expected from all mathematical students, and a reading knowledge of French and German is presupposed.

The post-major courses in any one year amount to four or five hours a week. The courses given are the following, with occasional modifications:

I. (a.) Lectures Introductory to Modern Analytical Geometry, in connection with Salmon's Conic Sections and Scott's Modern Analytical Geometry, Dr. Scott.

or, I. (b.) Lectures on Modern Pure Geometry, Dr. Scott.

or, I. (c.) Lectures on Special Topics in Geometry, such as Homogeneous Coordinates, Circular Coordinates, Families of Curves, Certain Transcendental Curves, Geometrical Transformations, etc., Dr. Scott.

Special permission to take this course before completing the two years of the major course may be granted to students whose work in the major course has shown that they are able to profit by the lectures.

II. (a.) Lectures Introductory to Modern Algebra, in connection with Salmon's Modern Higher Algebra, and Elliott's Algebra of Quantities, Mr. Wright.*

or, II. (b.) Lectures preparatory to the Theory of Functions, in connection with Harkness and Morley's Introduction to the Theory of Analytic Functions and Chrystal's Algebra, Vol. II, Mr. Wright.*

or, II. (c.) Lectures on Differential Equations, ordinary and partial, Mr. Wright.*

or, II. (d.) A general course in Analysis, dealing with the higher development of subjects only touched upon in the major course, such as Deter-minants, Fourier's Series, Infinite Series, Definite Integrals, etc., Mr. Wright.*

III. (a.) Lectures on Analytical Geometry of Three Dimensions, Dr. Maddison.

or, III. (b.) A practical course in Differential Equations, Dr. Maddison.

or, III. (c.) Lectures on the Theory of Envelopes, Dr. Maddison.

In 1909–10 the following post-major courses are offered:
I. (a.) Dr. Scott.  Two hours a week throughout the year.
II. (b.) Mr. Wright.*  Two hours a week during the first semester.
III. (a.) Dr. Maddison.  One hour a week throughout the year.

In 1910–11 the following post-major courses are offered:
I. (c.) Dr. Scott.  Two hours a week throughout the year.
II. (d.)         Two hours a week during the first semester.
II. (c.)         Two hours a week during the second semester.
III. (a.) Dr. Maddison.  One hour a week throughout the year.

In 1911–12 the following post-major courses are offered:
I. (a.) Dr. Scott.  One hour a week throughout the year.
II. (d.)         Two hours a week throughout the year.
III. (c.) Dr. Maddison.  One hour a week throughout the year.

Free Elective Courses.

Dr. Scott offers in 1909–10 and again in 1911–12 the following free elective course, open to graduate students:

Graphical Mathematics. One hour a week throughout the year.

The course deals with statistical work, probability, and theory of errors. It is recommended to students of economics as well as to students of physics. A knowledge of mathematics equivalent to that obtained in the minor course or in the course in mathematical processes and computations is presupposed.

Dr. Scott offers in 1910–11 the following free elective course, open to graduate students:

Fundamental Theorems of Algebra and Geometry. One hour a week throughout the year.

This course is offered in alternate years. Certain standard problems of historical interest are considered in order to elucidate some of the fundamental principles of mathematics. Either semester may be taken separately. No knowledge of mathematics beyond the requirement for matriculation is presupposed. It is hoped that the work will prove useful to those intending to teach elementary mathematics.

SCIENCE.

Physics, Chemistry, Geology, Biology.

In January, 1893, the Trustees opened Dalton Hall, a large building, containing ample laboratories, lecture-rooms, research-rooms, special libraries, and professors' rooms for the work of the scientific departments. The chemical, geological, biological, and physical laboratories and the laboratory for experimental psychology are open for students from nine to six daily.

The chemical department includes a lecture-room, a large laboratory for the first-year students, and several smaller ones for advanced and special work, a special room for physical chemistry, preparation and balance rooms, and a chemical library. The supply of apparatus and chemicals has been carefully selected for the purpose of instruction and research, and is increasing from year to year. The chemical library contains, besides necessary treatises and reference books, complete sets of the most important chemical journals.

The biological laboratories are equipped with the best (Zeiss) microscopes, microtomes, etc., and are supplied with apparatus for the study of experimental physiology.

The physical laboratories are carefully furnished with the apparatus necessary for thorough work.

Graduate work in the natural sciences is highly special, and consists of laboratory work, private reading, and special investigations pursued by the student under the guidance of the instructors.

Physics.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. William B. Huff, Professor of Physics, Dr. James Barnes, Associate in Physics, and Dr. Frances Lowater, Demonstrator in Physics.
Graduate Courses.

The graduate courses consist of lectures, laboratory work, and original research work under the direction of the instructors, the lecture courses varying from year to year so that they may be pursued by students through consecutive years. A good working library containing the current and bound numbers of all the important physical journals is kept in the laboratory.

No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses.

Dr. Huff offers in 1910–11 the following graduate courses:

Radioactivity.  Three hours a week during the first semester.

The earlier lectures deal with the motion of a charged particle in the field. A discussion of the methods of measuring the velocity of a moving charged particle, and the ratio of its charge to its mass follows. After a discussion of the various radioactive processes a brief account of the theories of the structure of the atom is given.

Discharge of Electricity through Gases. Three hours a week during the second semester.

The lectures deal primarily with the study of ions and the part they play in the mechanism of the electric discharge.

Dr. Huff offers in 1912-13 the following graduate course:

Mathematical Theory of Electricity and Magnetism. Three hours a week throughout the year.

The lectures are based on Maxwell's standard work, and include a somewhat detailed account of the later development of the theory.

Dr. Barnes offers in 1909-10 the following graduate course:

Thermo-dynamics and Radiation. Three hours a week throughout the year.

The modern developments of thermo-dynamics and radiation are considered. Attention is paid to the application of the laws of thermo-dynamics in physical chemistry.

Dr. Barnes offers in 1911-12 the following graduate course:

Physical Optics. Three hours a week throughout the year.

This course gives a general mathematical discussion of physical optics. Students are expected to give detailed reports on the methods and results of investigations which illustrate the theory.

In each year Dr. Huff and Dr. Barnes together conduct the seminary, the journal club, and the laboratory work.

Physical Seminary and Journal Club. One hour a week throughout the year.

The advanced students meet with the instructors once a week to hear or read papers on assigned topics in physics.

Laboratory work.

The laboratory work is arranged for the purpose of familiarising the student with the methods of research; the student begins by repeating methods and investigations of well-known experimenters, with any modifications that may be suggested, passing on to points of investigation left untouched by previous experimenters, and finally to the study of new methods and the prosecution of original research. Students taking physics as their chief subject for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy are expected to spend all the time possible in the laboratory. In the basement there is a constant-temperature vault designed for accurate comparison of lengths, etc., and the laboratory is provided with special rooms for magnetic, optical, and electrical work. A well-equipped shop and a trained mechanic make it possible to have special forms of apparatus constructed which are needed in research work.

Post-Major Courses.

Dr. Huff offers in 1909-10 the following post-major courses, open to graduate students:

Properties of Matter. Three hours a week during the first semester.

The lectures cover the general subject of the properties of matter studied from the point of view of the Molecular Theory. The different theories of matter are discussed and an account of recent investigations concerning the relations of matter and electricity is given. Poynting and Thomson's Properties of Matter is read in connection with the course.

Theory of Sound. Three hours a week during the second semester.

The lectures form an introduction to the theory of modes of vibration of pipes, strings, and rods. The theory of music and of musical instruments is then studied. Poynting and Thomson's Sound is used during the earlier part of the course, and frequent references are made to Helmholz and Rayleigh.

Dr. Huff offers in 1911-12 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

Electricity and Magnetism. Three hours a week throughout the year.

The lectures of this course treat typical mathematical and experimental problems chosen from the various parts of the entire subject. Emphasis is laid upon giving clear ideas of physical phenomena. A large number of problems on potential and attraction are assigned.

Dr. Barnes offers in 1910-11 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

Spectroscopy. Three hours a week throughout the year.

The course begins with a complete discussion of the apparatus used in this subject; the results of past and present investigations are then considered, and problems for investigation are pointed out. The many important applications of spectroscopy to astronomy are not neglected. The standard book of reference is Kayser's Handbuch der Spectroscopie. Detailed reports of laboratory investigations are required and in this work Mann's Manual of Advanced Optics will be found useful.

Dr. Barnes offers in 1912-13 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

General Optics. Three hours a week throughout the year.

These lectures give a general discussion of the theories advanced to explain many phenomena in light. Students are required to have a good knowledge of elementary optics and to be sufficiently familiar with optical apparatus to undertake a detailed study of some special problem.
The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Elmer P. Kohler, Professor of Chemistry, Dr. Frederick Hutton Getman, Associate in Chemistry, and Miss Gertrude Langden Heritage, Demonstrator in Chemistry.

Graduate Courses.

The advanced courses in chemistry consist of lectures upon inorganic, organic, and physical chemistry, seminary work, reports upon current chemical literature, and laboratory exercises. In the laboratory work the students are required to become familiar with the literature bearing upon the subjects they are studying, and it is therefore necessary for them to have a reading knowledge of French and German.

The lecture courses are varied from year to year to meet the requirements of students and to form a consecutive course for those who wish to make chemistry the chief subject in the examination for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. Such students may specialise either in organic chemistry, under the direction of Dr. Kohler or in inorganic and physical chemistry, under the direction of Dr. Getman, but students who make organic chemistry the major subject of examination must take physical chemistry as one of their minor subjects, and students who make inorganic chemistry the major subject, must take organic chemistry as one of the minor subjects.

No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses.

Dr. Kohler conducts in each year the following graduate seminary:

Chemical Seminary, Organic Chemistry. One hour a week throughout the year.

The students who specialise in organic chemistry present formal reports upon assigned topics.

Dr. Getman conducts in each year the following graduate seminary:

Chemical Seminary, Inorganic Chemistry. One hour a week throughout the year.

The course consists of lectures, required reading, and reports on various topics. Modern determinations of atomic weight, the constitution of the chromic chlorides, the separation of the rare earths and radio-activity have been among the subjects treated. The needs of the individual students are considered in selecting the subjects for discussion.

Dr. Kohler offers in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13 the following graduate course:

Advanced Organic Chemistry. Three hours a week throughout the year.
Dr. Getman offers in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12 the following graduate course:

Physical Chemistry. \textit{Three hours a week throughout the year.}

The lectures give a general survey of the subject, including the laws of gases, the elements of Thermodynamics, the theory of solutions, chemical kinetics, equilibria, thermo-chemistry, and electro-chemistry.

The laboratory work in connection with the course includes the determination of specific gravities of solids and liquids, the molecular weights of vapors and dissolved substances; the study of reaction velocities, calorimetry, and electro-chemical measurements.

Dr. Kohler and Dr. Getman together conduct the journal club.

Chemical Journal Club. \textit{One hour a week throughout the year.}

The advanced students, with the instructors, meet to hear reports and discussions on recent scientific articles.

Post-Major Courses.

Dr. Kohler offers in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

Organic Chemistry, selected topics. \textit{Three hours a week throughout the year.}

The aim of this course is to lay the foundation for independent work in organic chemistry. The lectures begin with a study of current problems as illustrated by some particular class of organic compounds. This is followed by a discussion of the laboratory methods available for the solution of such problems.

The laboratory work is varied to meet the wants of the individual students. In general the student begins with the preparation of some of the more important substances that are discussed in the lectures. This is followed by organic analyses, molecular weight determinations, and the transformations necessary to establish the structural formulas of the substances prepared. In the second semester some elementary problem in organic chemistry is assigned to each student.

Dr. Getman offers in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

Inorganic Chemistry. \textit{Three hours a week throughout the year.}

The aim of the lectures is to extend the students' knowledge of inorganic and theoretical chemistry and to lay a foundation for independent work in this subject. One hour a week is given to a discussion of the laboratory work and subjects suggested directly by it.

The laboratory work includes the calibration of instruments; the preparation of pure substances; advanced quantitative analysis, comprising the elements of gas and water analysis; and such physico-chemical measurements as the needs of the individual student may indicate.

Geology.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Florence Bascom, Professor of Geology, and Mr. Chester Albert Reeds, Lecturer in Geology.

The instruction offered in geology includes, in addition to the minor and major courses, two hours a week of free elective work, two post-major courses of three hours a week open only to graduates and to undergraduates that have completed the major course in geology and three graduate courses of five, three, and two hours a week respectively.

Post-major courses in petrography and paleontology are offered in each year, and are designed to train the student in petrographic methods for the exact determination of rock species and rock families and in the principles of invertebrate and vertebrate paleontology. They are an essential preliminary to research work in the science.

Excellent illustrative material for the graduate and undergraduate courses is furnished by the geological collections of the college, including the Theodore D. Rand rock and mineral collection, which alone contains over 20,000 specimens, by the private collections of the instructors, and by material lent by the United States Geological Survey. The department is also fortunate in its proximity to the museum of the Academy of Natural Science of Philadelphia. Within easy reach of the college there are excellent collecting fields for fossil, mineral, and rock specimens.

Graduate Courses.

The graduate courses in petrology and mineralogy should be preceded by the major and post-major courses or their equivalents and are intended primarily for graduate students wishing to make geology a major subject for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. The graduate course in mineralogy is also intended to meet the needs of graduate students in chemistry who wish to make mineralogy a minor subject for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. The graduate course in historical geology is designed primarily for graduate students wishing to make geology a major subject for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy; it may also be taken by graduate students in biology who wish to make historical geology a minor subject for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. Further graduate courses in petrology will be arranged to suit the requirements of candidates for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy and research problems will be assigned.

No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses.

Dr. Bascom offers the following graduate courses:

Lectures on Petrology.
Field Work.
Laboratory Work.

One hour a week throughout the year.
Four hours a week throughout the year.
Eight hours a week throughout the year.

The lectures deal with the problems of metamorphism of both aqueous and igneous rocks. The character of metamorphic processes and the conditions which control these processes, the megascopic and microscopic structures, and the criteria determining the origin, classification, geographic distribution, and geologic occurrence of metamorphic rocks are treated. Direction is given in research-work, map making, and advanced field work. The amount of laboratory, field work, and private reading required makes the course the equivalent of five hours a week.

Lectures on Mineralogy. One hour a week throughout the year.
Laboratory Work. Three hours a week throughout the year.

Both the lectures and laboratory practice deal with crystal measurement by means of the two-circle goniometer, with crystal projection, and crystal drawing. The works of Goldschmidt, Hintze, Groth, Tschermak, and Dana are used as reference books.

Mr. Reeds offers in each year the following graduate course:
Lectures on Advanced Historical Geology. One hour a week throughout the year.
Field Work. Three hours a week throughout the year.
Laboratory Work. Three and a half hours a week throughout the year.

A detailed study is made of the rocks of one or more geological periods. The faunas and floras in these rocks are studied with respect to their development and to their associations in the various geographic areas and zoologic provinces. The student will study the literature bearing on the periods under consideration and, in the field, will make a systematic investigation of an assigned area in the vicinity of the college.

Dr. Bascom and Mr. Reeds together conduct the journal club:
Geological Journal Club. One hour a week throughout the year.
The graduate students and the instructors meet for the presentation and discussion of recent geological literature.

Post-Major Courses.

Dr. Bascom offers in each year the following post-major course, open to graduate students:
Lectures on Petrography. Two hours a week throughout the year.
Field Work. Three hours a week throughout the year.
Laboratory Work. Two and a half hours a week throughout the year.

During the first semester the lectures deal with the principles of optical crystallography, the optical means of mineral determination, and the petrographic characters of rock-forming minerals. In the second semester the structure, composition, characters, origin, geographical distribution, and geological associations of the igneous rocks are treated. Practice is given in the quantitative chemical classification of igneous rocks for the purpose of determining their position in the new system. Petrographical investigation in the field and laboratory is included in the course. The works of Groth, Rosenbusch, Zirkel, and Michel Lévy are used for reference. Special field problems are given to the students for independent solution.

Mr. Reeds offers in each year the following post-major course, open to graduate students:
Lectures on Palæontology. Two hours a week throughout the year.
Field Work. Three hours a week throughout the year.
Laboratory Work. Two and a half hours a week throughout the year.

The course presupposes a knowledge of Historical Geology. A systematic study is made of the various classes of animals which are found in a fossil state. Special attention is given to the relations of these classes to each other as bearing on their origin and on the theory of evolution. Weekly excursions are made to neighboring fossiliferous localities to collect fossils, and to observe their occurrence in the rocks. The student has access, not only to the representative palaeontological collection of Bryn Mawr College, but also to the large collections of the several academies and institutes in Philadelphia.

Free Elective Courses.

Mr. Reeds offers in each year the following free elective courses, open to graduate students:

Lectures on Meteorology. Two hours a week during the first semester.

The course consists of lectures on atmospheric phenomena illustrated by a selected series of lantern slides. Weather maps and forecasts are received daily from Washington and, by means of these, weather conditions in the United States are studied and observations are made on phenomena attending storms.

Lectures on Oceanography. Two hours a week during the second semester.

The course consists of a study of the ocean. The lectures treat of the relief of the sea bottom, the various sediments laid down thereon, animal life in the sea, the conditions under which it exists, and causes of and barriers to the migration of faunas.

Biology.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. David Hilt Tennent, Associate Professor of Biology, Dr. Joseph W. Warren, Associate Professor of Physiology, Dr. Nettie Maria Stevens, Associate in Experimental Morphology, and Dr. Harriet Randolph, Demonstrator in Biology and Reader in Botany.

Graduate Courses.

The advanced courses are varied from year to year, so as to form a consecutive course for students that wish to make biology one of the chief subjects of the examination for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. Such students may specialise either in animal morphology under the guidance of Dr. Tennent and Dr. Stevens, or in animal physiology under the guidance of Dr. Warren.

No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses.

Dr. Tennent offers in 1909–10 the following graduate course:

Problems in Embryology. One hour a week throughout the year.

The embryology of invertebrates with special reference to germinal organisation, cleavage, and differentiation, and to the problems of inheritance and development is studied.
Dr. Tennent offers in 1910–11 the following graduate course:
The Evolution of Organisms.
One hour a week throughout the year.
This course of lectures deals with the growth of the idea of organic evolution, the greater part of the course being devoted to a critical examination of the work of Lamarek, Darwin, and De Vries.

Dr. Tennent offers in 1911–12 the following graduate course:
Adaptation of Organisms.
One hour a week throughout the year.
In this course the adaptation of organisms to environment, the origin of adaptations and the theories that have been advanced to account for adaptation are considered.

Dr. Warren offers in 1909–10 the following graduate course:
Selected Problems of Nutrition with special reference to recent discussions of standard diets.
One hour a week throughout the year.

Dr. Warren offers in 1910–11 the following graduate courses:
The Interstitial Secretion of Glands (“Internal Secretion”).
One hour a week during the first semester.
Selected Problems in Respiration and their bearing on the Nature of Metabolism, and the Problem of Animal Heat (Thermometry and Calorimetry).
One hour a week during the second semester.

Dr. Warren offers in 1911–12 the following graduate courses:
An Introduction to the History and Literature of Animal Physiology.
One hour a week during the first semester.
The Problem of the Knee-jerk, and a Discussion of the Graphic Method in its Application to Physiology.
One hour a week during the second semester.

Dr. Stevens offers in each year the following graduate course:
Advanced Experimental Morphology.
One hour a week throughout the year.
The topics treated in this course vary from year to year according to the needs of the graduate students attending the course and the work being done by prominent investigators in the field of experimental morphology. Special use is made of the recent periodical literature. The subjects considered in 1905–10 were experimental morphology from a historical standpoint, Darwin’s experimental work, some problems in regeneration, problems in experimental embryology, statistical methods for the study of biological variation, sex determination, the mutation theory and Mendelism. A selection from these topics will be given in 1910–11, unless some other subjects seem more desirable. Problems for laboratory research are assigned to students who desire to do research work in experimental morphology or cytology.

Dr. Tennent, Dr. Warren, and Dr. Stevens together conduct the journal club, the seminary, and the laboratory work.

Biological Journal Club.
One hour a fortnight throughout the year.
The advanced students and the instructors meet fortnightly for the discussion of topics of current biological literature.

Biological Seminary.
One hour a fortnight throughout the year.
The graduate students and the instructors meet fortnightly for the formal presentation of assigned topics.
Laboratory Work.

There is no regular course of laboratory instruction for graduates. Each student desiring to devote a considerable portion of her time to such work is given a problem for verification or extension. The nature of the work depends in each case on the qualifications of the student.

Post-Major Courses.

Dr. Tennent offers in 1908-09 and again in 1910-11 the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

Embryology.

One hour a week throughout the year.

This course consists of lectures and laboratory work on the embryology of the vertebrates. In the lectures an effort is made not only to discuss the embryology of specific forms but also to consider carefully the fundamental questions of embryological interest. The development of Amphioxus, Ascidian, Amia, Lepidosteus, Squalus, Ctenolabrus, Necturus, Rana, Chrysemys, Chick, and Mammal is studied. After the study of these forms some elementary problem in embryology is assigned to each student.

Dr. Tennent offers in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12 the following post-major courses, open to graduate students:

Comparative Anatomy and Embryology of the Protochordates.

One hour a week during the first semester.

This course consists of lectures, assigned reading, and laboratory work intended to supplement the major course in zoology. Types of the principal groups of the protochordates are studied in the laboratory and some individual work is assigned.

The Structure of Protoplasm and the Cell.

One hour a week during the second semester.

The structure of protoplasm, the mechanism of cell division, fertilisation, reduction, and some of the problems of cell organisation are described and studied.

Dr. Warren offers in each year the following post-major courses, open to graduate students:

Advanced Physiology.

One hour a week throughout the year.

The topics selected depend upon the previous training of the students, and as far as possible the preferences of the students are consulted. Occasional conferences are held for the discussion of essays prepared by the students and presenting the more important evidence concerning the fundamental problems of physiology. By this means it is hoped to familiarise the student with the literature and with the methods of investigation. In suitable cases and by special permission of the instructor this course may be extended by laboratory work and private reading. In this way it may be made equivalent to a course of two or three hours a week.

Lectures on the Structure and Function of the Central Nervous System.

One hour a week throughout the year.

This course may, under special circumstances, be taken at the same time as the major course. The finer structure of the nervous system of the higher vertebrates is discussed in considerable detail. The physiology of the cord and brain is presented as fully as the time will permit. This course may also be taken as a one hour elective by properly qualified students.

Lectures and Demonstrations in Physiological Chemistry.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

The instruction in this course is given by lectures and conferences on selected topics and also by laboratory work of about three hours a week. It treats of the problems of secretion and excretion, and also of the principal questions of nutrition in considerable detail and with reference to the more modern theories relating to these processes. The lectures are intended to supplement those of the major year, and a preliminary training in chemistry equivalent to that obtained in the minor course is required. This course may be taken as a two hour elective by properly qualified students.

Human Osteology.

One hour a week throughout the year.

This course is intended for students in the preliminary medical course; it may also be taken as a free elective course by properly qualified students receiving special permission. Two hours laboratory work is required in connection with the course.

Dr. Stevens offers in each year the following post-major course, open to graduate students:

Problems in Experimental Morphology. One hour a week throughout the year.

The object of this course is to give a general historical view of experimental morphology, to discuss some of the methods employed, to point out the results already obtained, and to indicate the nature of the work now being done in this subject. The students will be referred to the most recent literature on the subject and an attempt will be made to make them familiar with the most interesting present day research problems in experimental morphology and cytology. This course may be taken in exceptional cases as a one hour course with one and a half hours laboratory work or assigned reading, but it is recommended that it be taken with five hours laboratory work as a three hour course.

Dr. Tennent, Dr. Warren, and Dr. Stevens conduct laboratory work in connection with the above courses:

Laboratory Work.

It is desirable that as much laboratory work as possible should be done in connection with the courses offered above. The object of the laboratory work is to give the student experience in the use of apparatus and in adapting it to research. Some special problem is assigned to each student; at the end of the year the results of the work are presented in writing.

Free Elective Course.

Dr. Tennent offers in each year the following free elective course, open to graduate students:

Theoretical Biology. One hour a week throughout the year.

This course deals chiefly with the subjects of evolution and heredity, and is open to students who have taken a minor course in biology, chemistry, geology, or physics, or have done equivalent work. A considerable amount of assigned reading will be required.

COLLEGE BUILDINGS.

The college buildings are situated at Bryn Mawr, in the suburbs of Philadelphia, five miles west of the city, on the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The site of the college is four hundred and twenty feet above sea level, in the midst of a beautiful rolling country made accessible by good roads in every direction. The college grounds cover fifty-two acres, and include lawns, tennis courts, and two large athletic fields, one of which is converted in winter into a skating-pond.

Taylor Hall (named after the founder), a large building of Port Deposit stone, contains a general assembly room, ten lecture-rooms, and the offices of administration.

The library, the gift of the friends, graduates, and students of the college, begun in April, 1903, was completed in February, 1907. It is built of gray stone in the Jacobean Gothic style of architecture of the period of 1630, and forms three sides of a closed quadrangle. The main building, devoted to the library proper, faces east and is opposite and parallel to Taylor Hall at a distance of about fifty yards; the principal entrances of the two buildings face each other and are connected by a broad cement path. The east front is one hundred and seventy-four feet long and contains a three story stack with accommodation for eighty-eight thousand volumes, and above this a large reading-room with desks for one hundred and thirty-six readers, each desk screened to a height of two feet, as in the British Museum reading-room, to secure privacy to the reader. No books of reference are kept in the main reading-room. Beyond the reading-room on the south side is the newspaper and magazine room, and reached through this a student's study room. On the north side is the Art Seminary, containing collections of photographs, vases, and coins. The main building contains offices for the librarians and cataloguers, a study room for the non-resident students, and four cloak rooms. The wings of the building, running symmetrically about two hundred feet in length from the north and south ends of the main building, contain twelve seminary rooms and twenty-five professors' offices. The books needed for graduate study and research are kept in the seminary rooms and graduate lectures are held in them. The seminaries are arranged as follows: Greek, Latin, English, German, French, Italian and Spanish, and Philosophy in the north wing; Mathematics, History, Economics, Psychology, and Semitic Languages in the south wing. The total book capacity of the library, including the seminary libraries and the books for general study which are kept in the stack, is 168,449 volumes. The building is absolutely fire-proof. Professors' offices for the senior professors in each department adjoin the seminary rooms. There are also two seminary lecture-rooms accommodating about fifteen students, one general lecture-room accommodating forty-two students, four interview rooms, and a library for the use of the Christian Union.

On the first floor of the south wing the department of experimental psychology has two large laboratories, one for general work and one for research. The basement of the north wing contains rooms for the Monograph Committee of the Faculty, the Alumnae Association, the Students' Association for Self-Government, and fire-proof safe rooms for the records and archives of the college. The quadrangular court enclosed by the building is surrounded by cloisters and in the centre of the grass enclosure is a fountain, the gift of the class of 1901.

The library is open for students on week-days from 8 a. m. till 10 p. m. and on Sundays from 2 p. m. till 10 p. m. It is open for the faculty at all hours.

In January, 1893, the scientific departments of the college were transferred to Dalton Hall, a stone building erected by the Trustees out of funds in large part contributed by the generosity of friends of the college. Dalton Hall is entirely occupied by the scientific departments, the special scientific libraries, and the consultation-rooms of the professors of science. The first floor and the basement are reserved for physics, the second floor is reserved for biology, the third floor for chemistry, and the fourth and fifth floors for geology. In December, 1893, a greenhouse designed for the use of the botanical department was added to Dalton Hall as the gift of the alumnae and students.

Around Taylor Hall the Trustees have erected halls of residence for the accommodation of students. Plans, drawings, and descriptions of the six halls of residence, Merion Hall, Radnor Hall, Denbigh Hall, Pembroke Hall East, Pembroke Hall West, and Rockefeller Hall, the gift of Mr. John D. Rockefeller, and of the academic buildings, Taylor Hall, the Library, and Dalton Hall, are published in a separate pamphlet to be obtained from the Secretary of the College.

The new gymnasium, erected on the site of the first gymnasium and the gift of the Athletic Association, the alumnae and thirteen neighbors of the college, was completed in February, 1909. It is open to the students from 8 a. m. till 10 p. m., daily, contains a large hall for gymnastic exercises, with a running or walking track for use in rainy weather; a room for the director, and an adjoining room for the examination and record of the physical development of the students, a waiting room, and cloak rooms. In the basement are bathrooms for use after exercise and a swimming-tank, sixty-nine feet long, twenty feet wide, and from four to seven and a half feet deep, given in 1894 by the alumnae, students, and friends of the college, and well supplied with spring boards, life preservers, and other apparatus for the teaching of swimming. The gymnasium is under the charge of a director and two assistants.

There is on the grounds, separated from the other buildings, a cottage infirmary, or hospital, with accommodation for patients and nurses, and its own kitchen and bathrooms.

A central power-house, which was erected in 1903 as part of the gift of Mr. John D. Rockefeller, furnishes heat, electric light, and hot water for all the college buildings. Steam is conducted through tunnels underground to coils in the basement of each building. Air brought in from the outside is blown through the heaters by powerful fans and distributed to the various rooms, and the piping system is so adjusted as to change the air completely in every room once in every ten minutes throughout the day and night. The temperature is regulated by thermostats in the heating coils as well as in the individual rooms. The electric lights, including electric reading-lamps for each student, are installed in the most approved manner and the voltage is kept constant so that there is no fluctuation. A constant and abundant supply of hot water is laid on and maintained at a temperature of 180 degrees, during all the twenty-four hours of the day, in all the bathrooms and stationary washstands and tea pantries.

The Delaware and Atlantic Telegraph and Telephone Company, a branch of the long-distance Bell Telephone Company, maintains telephone pay stations in each of the halls of residence, in the library and in the gymnasium, by means of which the students may be communicated with at any time. Near the college are a Postal Telegraph-Cable Company office (service 6 A.M. to 12 P.M.), an Adams Express office, a United States money-order office, and two banks. There are good roads in every direction. Horses for riding and driving may be kept at livery near the college, at a cost of twenty-five dollars a month.

BRYN MAWR COLLEGE.

Bryn Mawr College was founded by Dr. Joseph W. Taylor, of Burlington, New Jersey, who died January 18th, 1880. By his will he left the greater portion of his estate for the purpose of establishing and maintaining an institution of advanced learning for women. The college is situated in the suburbs of Philadelphia, at Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania, five miles to the west of the city. The site was purchased by the founder on account of its healthfulness and beauty, and the college buildings were begun during his lifetime. In 1880, the year of his death, the college was incorporated by the authority of the State of Pennsylvania, and invested with power to confer degrees. A circular of information was issued by the trustees in 1883. A president and a dean of the faculty were elected in the spring of 1884, and during the remainder of the year plans were matured and appointments made in the faculty. The courtesy of the presiding officers and instructors of existing universities and colleges facilitated an acquaintance with the prevailing college curriculum, and the domestic organisation of the woman's colleges, Vassar, Smith, and Wellesley, received careful consideration. To the Johns Hopkins University acknowledgment is especially due, since from it has been borrowed the system of major and minor electives in fixed combination to which Bryn Mawr College first gave the name of the Group System. In the spring of 1885 the first program was issued, and the college was opened for instruction in the autumn of 1885.

Three classes of persons are admitted to the lectures and class work of the college—graduate students, undergraduate students, and hearers.

Graduate students must have presented a diploma from some college of acknowledged standing. They may pursue any courses offered by the college for which their previous training has fitted them; but they must satisfy the several instructors of their ability to profit by the courses they desire to follow, and may be required to pursue certain introductory or auxiliary studies before they are admitted to the advanced or purely graduate courses.* They are, moreover, entitled to personal guidance and direction, supervision of their general reading and furtherance of their investigations, from the instructors, and their needs are considered in the arrangement of new courses of lectures.

The most distinguished place among the graduate students is held by the fellows and graduate scholars, who must reside in the college during the academic year. Four European traveling fellowships, thirteen resident fellowships and eighteen graduate scholarships are awarded annually. The conditions of the award and the duties of holders of fellowships and scholarships are stated on pages 68 to 70.

Undergraduate students must have fulfilled the requirements for matriculation, and may enter the college at any age at which those requirements have been fulfilled. The studies leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts are stated on pages 57 to 64.

Those students who do not wish to study for a degree are permitted to pursue any undergraduate courses offered by the College for which their previous training has fitted them; they will, in the event of a change of plan, be credited with such of their studies as may have coincided with the studies leading to a degree. Attention is called to the fact that the Group System enables all candidates for a degree to specialise in two or more subjects.

Hearers. Hearers are excused from passing the matriculation examination; but they are strictly distinguished from matriculated students, and are entitled to reside in the college only when by so doing they exclude no matriculated student, and when the courses pursued by them are equivalent in number to those ordinarily pursued in each year by candidates for a degree. They must be women of at least twenty-five years of age, and must furnish proof that they have at some time pursued the studies included in the matriculation examination. They must satisfy the several instructors that they can profit by the courses that they desire to follow, and their admission to recitations, examinations, and laboratory exercises depends on the express consent of the instructor in charge. Hearers differ, moreover, from matriculated students in that they are not recognised by the College, and may receive only such certificates of collegiate study as may be given them by the several instructors. They may not receive degrees.

*For the convenience of graduate students the courses offered in the graduate departments of the college are reprinted from this in a separate part of the calendar, Part 2, Graduate Courses, which may be obtained free of charge by applying to the Secretary of the College.

The examination for matriculation must be taken by all who wish to pursue their studies in the undergraduate department of the college, either as candidates for a degree or as students pursuing special courses, with the exception of such applicants for admission as present a certificate of honorable dismissal from some college or university of acknowledged standing.*

*The examinations of the College Entrance Examination Board which are designated by Bryn Mawr College as equivalent to the matriculation examinations of the College will be accepted, subject to the same conditions which govern the Bryn Mawr College examinations.

The passing mark for both sets of examinations is the same, sixty per cent.

The matriculation examination may not be taken in more than two divisions; but, if this rule be observed, candidates may divide the divisions as they please between the examination of Bryn Mawr College and of the College Entrance Examination Board; both divisions may be taken in the Bryn Mawr College examination, or in the examination of the College Entrance Examination Board; or one division may be taken in the Bryn Mawr College examination, and the other in the examination of the College Entrance Examination Board.

Not more than one calendar year and the summer vacation may elapse between the two divisions of the examination for admission. There is no other restriction as to time; for example, candidates may present themselves for the first division of their examination in the spring examination of Bryn Mawr College, held during the last week in May and the first week in June, and for the second division at the examination held by the College Entrance Examination Board in the fourth week of June of the same year; or if they fail in the spring examination of Bryn Mawr College they may try the same subjects again in the examination of the College Entrance Examination Board three weeks later.

In case a sufficient number of sections to secure admission is not passed in two divisions of the examination the sections taken in one division must be cancelled, and all the sections offered in the cancelled division (except those sections which have been also offered in the division which is to be counted) must be offered again, together with a sufficient number of the sections in which the candidate has been conditioned to ensure her passing in the required number of sections.
The examination for matriculation is open to those also who wish to take it as a test of proficiency in elementary studies, but have no intention of entering the college; and certificates are given to those who are successful in passing the examination.‡

Candidates who have passed the fifteen sections necessary for admission may remove conditions by passing the corresponding examinations in the Bryn Mawr College or the College Entrance Examination Board examination; in the case of a condition in French or German, however, the entire examination in the language must be taken, unless the condition is in grammar only, in which case it may be removed by passing the Bryn Mawr College examination in grammar; and in the case of a condition in English Composition incurred in the Bryn Mawr College examination the entire examination in English, a and b must be passed in order to remove the condition by passing the College Entrance Examination Board's examination.

Candidates taking the College Entrance Examination Board's examination will not be considered in the awarding of the eight Bryn Mawr competitive entrance examination scholarships, unless the final division of the examination be taken in the spring Bryn Mawr College examination. Candidates are not eligible when the finals are taken in the autumn examination.

*Printed sets of matriculation papers may be obtained for thirty cents from the Secretary of the College.

‡ For the eight competitive entrance scholarships, awarded annually, see page 77.
Blank forms of application for admission may be obtained from the Secretary of the College.

Examinations are held in the spring, autumn, and winter of every year at Bryn Mawr College, and in the spring of every year may be held at other places; they are always held in the spring at the regular centres: Baltimore, Boston, Chicago, New York, Pittsburgh, Portland (Oregon), Richmond and London (England), and candidates taking examinations at these places are charged a fee of five dollars for the whole or any part of the examination. Examinations may also be held by request at other places, but in this case the candidates must defray the whole expense of the examination, the minimum fee being five dollars. In the past six years examinations have been held by request at the following places:

California: Berkeley, Los Angeles, Pasadena, San Francisco; Colorado: Denver; Connecticut: Greenwich, Washington; District of Columbia: Washington; Georgia: Savannah; Indiana: Fort Wayne, Indianapolis; Iowa: Dubuque; Kentucky: Louisville; Massachusetts: Cambridge, Fall River; Michigan: Detroit; Minnesota: Minneapolis; Missouri: St. Louis; New Jersey: Trenton; New York: Binghamton, Buffalo, New Rochelle, Rochester, Utica; North Carolina: Biltmore; Ohio: Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus; Pennsylvania: Carlisle, Harrisburg, Lititz, Pittsburgh, Scranton, Wilkes Barre; Rhode Island: Providence; Virginia: Richmond; Wisconsin: Fond du Lac, Madison, Milwaukee; France: Paris; Asia Minor: Tarsus.

Candidates who intend to present themselves for examination at Bryn Mawr College must apply to the Secretary of the College at least two weeks before the date set for the beginning of the examinations and the application should be made on a form to be obtained from the Secretary of the College, and must be accompanied by the fee of five dollars, charged for each division of the examination. Candidates who do not apply two weeks before the date of the beginning of the examinations will be charged an additional fee of five dollars. Candidates intending to take examinations elsewhere than at Bryn Mawr College must apply to the Secretary of the College at least six weeks before the date set for the beginning of the examinations. Candidates who fail to do this will be charged a fee of five dollars in addition to the fee charged for the examination.

Tabular Statement.—In order to obtain a certificate of admission to Bryn Mawr College the candidate must be examined in all* of the following subjects, counted as equivalent to twenty sections, must take the examination in not more than two divisions, and must pass not fewer than four sections in the first division and not fewer than fifteen sections in the two divisions. No candidate will be admitted to Bryn Mawr College if conditioned in more than five sections.

Total 20

The number of sections allotted to each subject indicates approximately the time which should be devoted to preparation for that subject. Thus if, for example, the candidate studies five subjects in each year during the last four years of preparation for college, then Mathematics, Latin, and English should be studied for all four years, since each counts as four sections of the examination; History and Science should be studied for one year, since each counts as one section; and the two languages (Greek and German, or Greek and French, or German and French) should each be studied for three years, since each counts as three sections, or three-twentieths of the examination.

The examination may not be taken in more than two divisions, and in each division the candidate may offer any sections she pleases, provided that, if she offer French or German, she offer in the same division of the examination all the three sections grammar and prose and verse translation.

If more than one calendar year and the summer vacation elapse between the two divisions of the examination for admission the first division is cancelled and must be repeated. In case a sufficient number of sections to secure admission is not passed

* Candidates are expected to show by their papers that all the subjects required for matriculation have been studied for a reasonable length of time. Total failure in the second division of the examination in any subject, when such failure is of a character to indicate that the subject has been presented as a mere form, prevents the candidate from receiving any certificate, unless she can produce satisfactory evidence that the subject in question has been faithfully studied for a reasonable length of time.
in two divisions of the examination the sections taken in one division must be cancelled, and all the sections offered in the cancelled division (except those sections which have been offered in the division which is to be counted) must be offered again, together with a sufficient number of the sections in which the candidate has been conditioned to ensure her passing in the required number of sections.

Candidates who have passed the fifteen sections necessary for admission may remove conditions by passing the corresponding examinations before or after entering the college. All entrance conditions must be passed off within twelve months after the student enters the college, under penalty of exclusion from full college work during the following year. A fee of three dollars is charged for each condition examination except conditions in spelling and punctuation for which the fee is one dollar. Students with entrance conditions in Greek, Latin, English, German, French, or Mathematics are not permitted to attend the college courses in these subjects until the conditions have been passed off.

The candidate may offer for examination before entrance the remaining language (either French, or German, or Greek,* whichever was not included by the candidate in the above twenty sections), and if this subject is not passed before entrance, the candidate must pass an examination in it before receiving the degree of Bachelor of Arts.†

Candidates desiring to enter with advanced standing may offer for examination before entrance trigonometry; and solid geometry. These subjects are not necessarily included in the

---

* Students that have omitted Greek in the examination for matriculation may substitute for the matriculation course in Greek the minor course in Latin. The minor course in Latin may also be offered for examination by candidates for matriculation that desire to enter the college with advanced standing, and, at their discretion, by matriculated students without attendance on the college classes, provided it is offered before the beginning of the student's junior year. The minor course is considered for this purpose as comprising two sections, constituted as follows:

A. Cicero, Selected Letters, 1, 2, 3, 5, 6, 7, 8, 10, 11, 16, 17, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 30, 31, 33, 37, 38, 39, 42, 44, 45, 47, 48, 49, 52, 75, 76, 91, 92 (Letters of Cicero, edited by F. F. Abbott, Boston, Ginn and Company), Livy, Book xxi., Latin Prose Composition, including a detailed knowledge of the more abstruse Latin constructions and some facility in turning simple English narrative into Latin.

B. Horace, Odes, except i, 25, 27, 33, 36; ii, 5; iii, 6, 15, 20; iv, 1, 10, 13; Epodes, except 3, 5, 8, 11, 12, 15, 17; Carmen Secularis; Satires i, 1, 5, 6, 9; ii, 6; Epistles i, 1, 5, 6, 7, 8, 10, 14, 20.

No substitutions are allowed for any part of the above requirements, except in the case of students entering with advanced standing from other colleges.

There are two examinations, one in Section A and one in Section B, each three hours in length. These examinations may be taken in different years, and in the order preferred by the candidate; or one section may be studied in the college class, and the other offered for examination without attendance upon the class. Examinations in Latin are held only at the time of the regular matriculation examinations at the beginning and end of the college year, and in February.

† If this examination is not passed before the beginning of the student's third year in the college, she must enter the college class in the subject.

‡ For examinations in the College Entrance Examination Board equivalent to those which may be offered for advanced standing, see page 50.
requirements for the degree of Bachelor of Arts, but students that have passed these examinations are credited with the equivalent number of hours of free elective work, each examination counting for this purpose as equivalent to two hours a week of free electives for one semester. Such advanced standing examinations will enable the student to lighten her work in college or to enlarge her choice of elective studies, but will not enable her to shorten the time of obtaining the Bachelor's degree, which represents in every case four years of study in the college classes.

Mathematics

I. Mathematics.—(1) and (2) Algebra. (3) and (4) Plane Geometry.

The examination in Algebra comprises Elementary Operations, Quadratic Equations, Problems, Ratio, Proportion, Variation, Arithmetical and Geometrical Progressions, the Binomial Theorem for Positive Integral Exponents.

While there is no formal examination in Arithmetic, an adequate knowledge of the subject is required throughout the mathematical examinations: in all the papers there are some numerical problems, and the correct solution of a fair number of these is regarded as essential.

In Algebra, C. Smith's Elementary Algebra (American edition, revised by Irving Stringham), and in Geometry, Phillips and Fisher's Elements of Geometry (abridged edition) or Wentworth's Geometry, will serve to indicate the preparation required for these examinations.

II. Latin.—(1) Grammar and Composition. (2) and (3) Translation at sight of simple passages in Latin prose. (4) Translation at sight of simple passages in Latin poetry. Due allowance is made for unusual words, and there are questions testing the candidate's practical knowledge of grammar and prosody.

The so-called Roman method of pronunciation as explained in one of the standard Latin grammars is required.

As many schools are introducing the "natural method" as a substitute for thorough grammatical training, attention is called to the fact that special stress is laid on an accurate and ready knowledge of grammatical forms. A knowledge of paradigms and parts of irregular verbs is insisted upon.

III. History.—(1) The outlines of the History of Greece and Rome; or the outlines of the History of England; or the outlines of the History of the United States.

English.

—(1) English Grammar. (2), (3) and (4) English Composition. The examinations in grammar and composition may be divided and may be taken in either division of the entrance examination. The examination in English composition consists of a critical composition, and, in addition, in order that the three sections of the examination may not depend solely on this critical paper, of one or two paragraphs in which the candidate is asked to give in descriptive or narrative form the substance of important parts of the required reading.

In 1910 candidates must be familiar with Chaucer's Prologue and Knight's Tale; Shakespeare's Richard II, Henry IV (expurgated), Henry V, Macbeth, and The Merchant of Venice; Milton's Lycidas, Comus, L'Allegro, and Il Penseroso; the Sir Roger de Coverley Papers in the Spectator; Matthew Arnold's Essay on Gray; Gray's Elegy in a Country Churchyard; Burke's Speech on Conciliation with America; Wordsworth's Michael, Intimations of Immortality, "Three years she grew in sun and shower," The Solitary Reapers, "O Nightingale! thou surely art," "The world is too much with us," "Earth has not anything to show more fair," "It is not to be thought of that the flood"; Coleridge's Ancient Mariner and Christabel; Shelley's Adonais, Sensitive Plant, and To a Skylark; Keats's Eve of St. Agnes, Ode to Autumn, and Ode to a Nightingale; Tennyson's Passing of Arthur; Carlyle's Essay on Burns; Scott's Ivanhoe; Hawthorne's House of the Seven Gables; Thackeray's Henry Esmond.

In 1911 candidates must be familiar with Chaucer's Prologue and Knight's Tale; Shakespeare's Richard II, Henry IV (expurgated), Henry V, Macbeth, and As You Like It; Milton's Lycidas, Comus, L'Allegro, and Il Penseroso; the Sir Roger de Coverley Papers in the Spectator; Matthew Arnold's Essay on Gray; Gray's Elegy in a Country Churchyard; Burke's Speech on Conciliation with America; Wordsworth's Michael, Tintern Abbey, "Three years she grew in sun and shower," The Solitary Reapers, "O Nightingale! thou surely art," "The world is too much with us," "Earth has not anything to show more fair," "It is not to be thought of that the flood"; Coleridge's Ancient Mariner and Christabel; Shelley's Adonais, Sensitive Plant, and To a Skylark; Keats's Eve of St. Agnes, Ode to Autumn, and Ode to a Nightingale; Tennyson's Passing of Arthur; Carlyle's Essay on Burns; Scott's Ivanhoe; Hawthorne's House of the Seven Gables; Thackeray's Henry Esmond.

In 1912 candidates must be familiar with Chaucer's Prologue and Knight's Tale; Shakespeare's Richard II, Henry IV (expurgated), Henry V, Macbeth, and The Merchant of Venice; Milton's Lycidas, Comus, L'Allegro, and Il Penseroso; the Sir Roger de Coverley Papers in the Spectator; Matthew Arnold's Essay on Gray; Gray's Elegy in a Country Churchyard; Burke's Speech on Conciliation with America; Wordsworth's Michael, Tintern Abbey, "Three years she grew in sun and shower," The Solitary Reapers, "O Nightingale! thou surely art," "The world is too much with us," "Earth has not anything to show more fair," "It is not to be thought of that the flood"; Coleridge's Ancient Mariner and Christabel; Shelley's Adonais, Sensitive Plant, and To a Skylark; Keats's Eve of St. Agnes, Ode to Autumn, and Ode to a Nightingale; Tennyson's Passing of Arthur; Carlyle's Essay on Burns; Scott's Ivanhoe; Hawthorne's House of the Seven Gables; Thackeray's Henry Esmond.

In 1913 candidates must be familiar with Chaucer's Prologue and Knight's Tale; Shakespeare's Richard II, Henry IV (expurgated), Henry V, and The Merchant of Venice; Milton's Paradise Lost, Books I and II; the Sir Roger de Coverley Papers in the Spectator; Matthew Arnold's Essay on Gray; Gray's Elegy in a Country Churchyard; Burke's Speech on Conciliation with America; Wordsworth's Michael, Tintern Abbey, "Three years she grew in sun and shower," The Solitary Reapers, "O Nightingale! thou surely art," "The world is too much with us," "Earth has not anything to show more fair," "It is not to be thought of that the flood"; Coleridge's Ancient Mariner and Christabel; Shelley's Ode to the West Wind, To a Skylark, To a Cloud, and "Swiftly walk over the Western Wave"; Keats's Eve of St. Agnes, Ode to Autumn, and Ode to a Nightingale; Tennyson's Passing of Arthur; Macaulay's Life of Johnson; Scott's Ivanhoe; Hawthorne's House of the Seven Gables; Stevenson's Kidnapped.

The following books agreed on for the years 1910, and 1911 by the Associations of the Colleges and Schools of the New England States, the Middle States and Maryland, the North Central States, and the Southern States, will be accepted in those years as equivalents for the books prescribed for the English examinations of Bryn Mawr College: Chaucer's Prologue; Shakespeare's Henry V, Macbeth, and The Merchant of Venice; Milton's L'Allegro, Il Penseroso, Lycidas, and Comus; the Sir Roger de Cover-Science.—(1) The elements of one of the following sciences: —Physics, or Chemistry, or Botany, or Physiology, or Physical Geography.

Carhart and Chute's Elements of Physics, or Mann and Twiss's Physics; Renssen's Introduction to the Study of Chemistry (Brief Course); Atkinson's Elementary Botany or Barnes’s Plant Life or Bergen and Davis’s Principles of Botany used in connection with Spalding’s Introduction to Botany or Caldwell's Plant Morphology; Hough and Sedgwick’s Elements of Physiology, or Fitz’s Physiology and Hygiene will serve to indicate the preparation required. Candidates are advised, whenever possible, to offer Physics, as this study forms the best basis for scientific work. It is recommended that candidates should have some knowledge of the metric system.

IV. Two of the following languages:

Greek.—(1) Grammar and Composition. (2) Translation at sight of simple passages in Attic prose, such as Xenophon’s Anabasis or Memorabilia. (3) Translation at sight of passages of average difficulty from Homer. In (2) and (3) due allowance is made for unusual words and there are questions testing the candidate's practical knowledge of grammar and prosody.

White's First Greek Book will serve to indicate the preparation required in prose composition.

French.—(1) The examination in French is in three divisions, one to test the candidate’s knowledge of ordinary grammatical forms, the other two, her power to read at sight ordinary French prose and verse.

For the examination in reading no texts are assigned, the examination being intended to test the candidate’s ability to read any ordinary French whatsoever. Candidates preparing for these examinations are advised to acquire as large a vocabulary as possible; they are further advised in their study of verbs to concentrate their attention on the regular verbs, the auxiliaries être, avoir, such important irregular verbs as aller, devoir, diré, faire, mettre, prendre, pouvoir, souloir, tenir, venir, voir, écrite, lire, écrire, boire, and the typical verbs conduire, craindre, paraître, partir, and to acquire a fair knowledge of the use of the various past tenses and of the rules of the subjunctive.

Teachers preparing students that wish to elect French in the college are advised to train their pupils to write French from dictation in order to enable them to understand lectures delivered in that language.
German.—(1) The examination in German is similar to that in French, and tests the candidate’s knowledge of ordinary grammatical forms, and ability to read ordinary German at sight.

Every candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Arts must have passed examinations on work amounting to one hundred and twenty hours* and must have obtained an examination grade above that of "passed," that is, the grade of seventy per cent or over, on half of these one hundred and twenty hours; she must also possess at the time of graduation a reading knowledge of French and German and some acquaintance with Latin. In the last year before graduation, oral examinations are held to test her ability to read French and German at sight. She must have been in attendance on college classes in Bryn Mawr College, or in some other college of high standing, for a period of four years; she must have exercised regularly four hours a week in accordance with the rules of the department of Physical Culture.

If a student at the end of her junior year, or in February of her senior year, has received a grade below seventy per cent in as many as one-half of the hours that she has taken out of the one hundred and twenty to be offered for the degree, she will not be allowed to graduate at the end of her senior year; but if she wishes to continue her studies at Bryn Mawr College, must plan to remain for an additional year. She will be on

* The word hour here means one hour a week for one semester. In calculating the standing of students under this rule every course offered for examination, including the fourth language, trigonometry, and solid geometry, when offered for advanced standing in the matriculation examination, must be included except as explained below. A grade once obtained in an examination may not be cancelled, the first one hundred and twenty hours of examinations offered qualifying, or disqualifying, for a degree. Grades received on examinations offered for work not taken in the college classes must be counted in these one hundred and twenty hours, except in the case of students who enter with advanced standing from other colleges, and give notice within the first two weeks after their entrance of a desire to offer for examination subjects already pursued. Such students will, in case they fail in these examinations, be granted the privilege of cancelling them so that they shall not count in estimating their standing under the merit law, provided they enter the corresponding courses as regular students without further examination. A similar privilege will be granted to students who offer trigonometry or solid geometry or a fourth language in the matriculation examination before entering the college and also to students who offer proof within two weeks after entering the college that they have studied these subjects in school or college classes or under private tuition. These students are not required to enter the corresponding college classes provided they fail in the examination. Since this rule was passed no student who has not fulfilled the requirements as above stated has received a degree. probation during these two years and her work will be prescribed by a committee of the Faculty, the object being to enable her to raise the standard of her work so that she may not ultimately be disqualified by her grades from obtaining a degree.

No student who, at any time during her course, has received a grade below seventy per cent in as many as one-half of the hours that she has taken will be permitted to hold office in any of the organisations of the College, to take part in entertainments requiring preparation, or to undertake any paid work.

The following course of study must be pursued by every candidate for the degree of Bachelor of Arts:

Required
Studies.

Greek or French or German,* five hours a week for one year, when this subject has not been included in the examination for matriculation. Those students, however, who wish to omit Greek may substitute for the required course in Greek the minor course in Latin.†

English, five hours a week for two years.

Philosophy, five hours a week for one year.

Science, five hours a week for one year.

Science, or History, or Economics and Politics, or Philosophy, or Mathematics, five hours a week for one year.

Two Major Courses, of five hours a week for two years each, constituting one of the following Groups: any Language with any Language;‡ Comparative Literature with English, or Italian, or Spanish;§ History with Economics and Politics; Economics and Politics with Philosophy; Archeology and History of Art with Greek or Latin; Philosophy with Greek, or English, or Mathematics, or Physics; Mathematics with Greek, or Latin, or Physics, or Chemistry, or Geology; any Science with any Science.

Free Elective Courses.

Free Elective Courses, amounting to ten hours a week for one year, to be chosen by the student. It should be noted that a single study may be taken as a free elective, without electing the group that includes it, and any courses open as free electives, may be chosen without taking the remainder of the minor course of which they may form a part.

* The College provides matriculation classes, five hours a week throughout one year, for those students who in the examination for matriculation may have omitted Greek, French, or German. Attendance on these classes is not obligatory before the begining of the junior year, the student being free until then to make good her deficiencies by private study.
† A student choosing Latin as one of the languages of her Group, and not wishing to study Greek, may substitute for the year of minor Latin five hours a week for one year of post-major Latin, or of French, or of German, or of Italian, or of Spanish.
‡ For the purpose of forming a Group, Italian and Spanish may count as one language, they may be combined so as to form a course of five hours a week for two years, as explained on page 122.
The studies required for a degree may for convenience be tabulated as follows:

Required Courses (Five hours a week for One Year Each).

1 and 2. English. [Two Courses.]

3. Philosophy.

4. Science: Physics, or History, or Chemistry, or Economics and Geology, or Biology.

5. Science, or History, or Matriculation French, or Economics and German, or Matriculation Philosophy.

6.* Matriculation French, or Matriculation German, or Matriculation Greek (or Minor Latin).

Two Major Courses (Five hours a week for Two Years Each).

Free Elective Courses.

Ten hours a week for one year in any subject, or subjects, the student may elect.

All candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Arts must elect their courses in accordance with the Group System, and a comprehension of it is essential to an understanding of the courses of instruction.

In all departments as yet fully organised there is a course of five hours a week for two years, called a Major Course. Whenever one year of this course is of such a nature that it may be taken separately, it is marked as a Minor Course. It is required of every candidate for a degree to take two such major courses as shall be homogeneous, or shall complete each other, and major courses which fulfil this condition are designated as Groups. The object of this system is to enable the student to acquire the foundations of a specialist's knowledge; and the Required Courses, namely, English, philosophy, science, (or, if a second year of science be not elected, history, or economics and politics, or philosophy, or mathematics) are intended in part to supplement the Group, and in part to insure a more liberal training than could be obtained if every student combined elective studies at pleasure.

The required two years' course in English serves as a general introduction to the study of language and comparative literature. The required two years in science (or the substitute permitted of one year's course in science and one year's course in history, economics and politics, philosophy, or mathematics), permit the student of chemistry and biology to pursue advanced courses in one or both of these branches, or to take a major course in physics; and they give for one year at least to the student of history and literature the same kind of instruction and discipline as is received by the scientific student. The one year's course in philosophy is a general introduction into the study of the laws, conditions, and history of thought.

In almost all departments post-major courses, truly advanced courses which answer to graduate courses in many colleges, are organised and may be elected by students that have completed the major, or group, work in the subject.

All minor courses that do not presuppose required courses may be elected by any student, and special free elective courses of one, two, or three hours a week, are offered in many departments.

The following may serve as examples of some of the many combinations of studies that may be made by those candidates for a degree who wish to specialise as far as possible in particular departments: Matriculation French, Matriculation German, Matriculation Greek, and Minor Latin are bracketed as being properly included in the examination for matriculation. These bracketed courses may be offered for examination before the beginning of the junior year without attendance on the college classes.

Classics. As Required Studies, [Matriculation French, or Matriculation German, or Matriculation Greek], English, Philosophy, Science (Physics, or Chemistry, or Geology, or Biology), another Science, (or Mediaeval, or Oriental History, or Minor Economies and Politics, or Minor Philosophy, or Minor Mathematics). As a Group, Greek and Latin. As Free Electives, Post-major Greek and Latin, or Art and Archaeology, ten hours a week for one year.

Modern Languages (other than English). As Required Studies, [Matriculation French, or Matriculation German, or Matriculation Greek, or Minor Latin], English, Philosophy, Science (Physics, or Chemistry, or Geology, or Biology), another Science, (or Mediaeval, or Oriental History, or Minor Economies and Politics, or Minor Mathematics). As a Group, German and French, or German and Italian and Spanish, or French and Italian and Spanish. As Free Electives, Italian and Spanish, or Post-major French or German, ten hours a week for one year.
ENGLISH. As Required Studies, [Matriculation French, or Matriculation German, or Matriculation Greek, or Minor Latin], English, Philosophy, Science (Physics, or Chemistry, or Geology, or Biology), another Science, (or Mediæval, or Oriental History, or Minor Economics and Politics, or Minor Philosophy). As a Group, Greek and English, or Latin and English, or English and German, or English and French, or English and Italian and Spanish, or English and Spanish, or English and Comparative Literature, or English and Philosophy. As Free Electives, Latin and German, ten hours a week for one year.

MATHEMATICS (with Greek). As Required Studies, [Matriculation French, or Matriculation German, or Matriculation Greek], English, Philosophy, Physics, another Science, (or Post-major Mathematics, or Mediæval, or Oriental History, or Minor Economics and Politics). As a Group, Mathematics and Greek. As Free Electives, Trigonometry, Post-major Mathematics, and Post-major Greek, ten hours a week for one year.

MATHEMATICS (with Physics). As Required Studies, [Matriculation French, or Matriculation German, or Matriculation Greek, or Minor Latin], English, Philosophy, Chemistry, another Science, (Geology, or Biology), or Post-major Mathematics. As a Group, Mathematics and Physics. As Free Electives, Trigonometry, Post-major Mathematics, and Post-major Physics, ten hours a week for one year.

HISTORY. As Required Studies, [Matriculation French, or Matriculation German, or Matriculation Greek, or Minor Latin], English, Philosophy, any Science, another Science, (or Oriental History, or Post-major History, or Economics and Politics, or Minor Philosophy, or Mathematics). As a Group, History and Economics and Politics. As Free Electives, Post-major History and Economics and Politics, ten hours a week for one year.

PHILOSOPHY (with Greek). As Required Studies, [Matriculation French, or Matriculation German, or Matriculation Greek], English, Philosophy, Science, (Physics, or Chemistry, or Geology, or Biology), another Science, (or Mediæval, or Oriental History, or Minor Economics and Politics, or Minor Mathematics). As a Group, Greek and Philosophy. As Free Electives, Post-major Greek and Post-major Philosophy, ten hours a week for one year.

PHILOSOPHY (with English). As Required Studies, [Matriculation French, or Matriculation German, or Matriculation Greek, or Minor Latin], English, Philosophy, Science, (Physics, or Chemistry, or Geology, or Biology), another Science, (or Mediæval, or Oriental History, or Minor Economics and Politics). As a Group, English and Philosophy. As Free Electives, Post-major Philosophy and Comparative Literature, ten hours a week for one year.

PHILOSOPHY (with Economics and Politics, or with Mathematics, or with Physics). As Required Studies, [Matriculation French, or Matriculation German, or Matriculation Greek, or Minor Latin], English, Philosophy, Science, (Physics, or Chemistry, or Geology, or Biology), another Science, (or Medieval, or Oriental History). As a Group, Philosophy with Economics and Politics, or with Mathematics, or with Physics. As Free Electives, Post-major Philosophy, Trigonometry and Post-major Economics, or Mathematics, or Physics, ten hours a week for one year.

Archeology and Art (with Greek). As Required Studies [Matriculation French or Matriculation German, or Matriculation Greek], English, Philosophy, Science (Physics, or Chemistry, or Biology, or Geology), another Science, (or Medieval, or Oriental History, or Minor Philosophy, or Mathematics). As a Group, Greek and Archeology and Art. As Free Electives, Post-major Archeology and Art, Post-major Greek, or Minor Latin, ten hours a week for a year.

Science. As Required Studies, [Matriculation French, or Matriculation German, or Matriculation Greek, or Minor Latin], English, Philosophy, Science, (Physics, or Chemistry, or Geology, or Biology), another Science, (or Medieval, or Oriental History, or Minor Economics and Politics, or Minor Philosophy, or Minor Mathematics, or Elective Mathematics). As a Group, Physics and Chemistry, or Physics and Geology, or Physics and Biology, or Chemistry and Geology, or Chemistry and Biology, or Geology and Biology. As Free Electives, Mathematics and Physics, or Chemistry, or Geology, or Biology, ten hours a week for one year.

Preliminary Medical Course. As Required Studies, [Matriculation French, or Matriculation German, or Matriculation Greek, or Minor Latin], English, Philosophy, Minor Physics, Major Physics. As a Group, Chemistry and Biology. As Free Electives, Post-major Biology and Post-major Chemistry, or Minor Latin, (if not taken as a required study) ten hours a week for one year.

The following combinations may be adopted by those who wish to pursue a three years' course in history, economics and politics, or science, or English, yet do not wish to elect an historical, economic, or a scientific or language group.

I. As Required Studies, [Matriculation French, or Matriculation German, or Matriculation Greek, or Minor Latin], English, Philosophy, any Science, Mediæval History. As a Group, any Language with any Language, or Chemistry and Biology. As Free Electives, Modern History, five hours a week for one year, and Post-major History five hours a week for one year.

II. As above, but for Mediæval History substitute Minor Economics and Politics, and for Modern History, Major Economics and Politics, and for Post-major History, Post-major Economics and Politics.

III. As Required Studies, [Matriculation French, or Matriculation German, or Matriculation Greek, or Minor Latin], English, Philosophy, Physics and Chemistry, or Geology, or Biology. As a Group, any Language with any Language. As Free Electives, Major and Post-major Physics or Chemistry, or Geology, or Biology, five hours a week for two years.
IV. As Required Studies, [Matriculation French, or Matriculation German, or Matriculation Greek, or Minor Latin], English, Philosophy, Science, (Physics, or Chemistry, or Geology, or Biology), another Science, (or Medieval, or Oriental History, or Minor Economics and Politics, or Minor Philosophy, or Minor Mathematics, or Elective Mathematics). As a Group, Greek and Latin. As Free Electives, Minor and Major English, five hours a week for two years.

Every student is expected to consult the President in regard to the details and best arrangement of her various studies, and to register her course of study in the president’s office before entering upon college work.

The studies leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts, may, as a rule, be taken in any order preferred by the student, but students are advised to plan their work carefully in advance with reference to the lecture schedule in order that a conflict of hours may not later in their course prevent them from electing all the studies which they desire. Students who elect English as a major study, for example, must take the general English literature lectures and essay work in their first and second years in the college because they are required to complete this work before entering the major course in English; again, a student choosing philosophy as one of her major studies must take the general course in philosophy in her first year if she wishes to elect post-major work in philosophy. Students choosing a scientific group, such as chemistry and biology, must arrange their courses so as to avoid conflicts in the hours for laboratory work. Trigonometry is required for the work of the minor course in mathematics and for the work of the major year of the group course in physics.

Those students who have not decided on their group may in the first year pursue required studies only, or may elect one of the courses belonging to the group to which they most incline, with the understanding that if they should desire to change their group that course will be counted as a free elective; those students whose tastes are already fully formed, or who are uncertain how many years they shall remain in college, may enter at once on free elective studies and on the study of both subjects of their group. There are obvious advantages for the student in deferring as long as possible the choice of her free electives and her group, inasmuch as the required studies, by accustoming her to the methods of laboratory work, and to the study of languages, literature, and history, afford her every opportunity of ascertaining her true tastes and aptitudes.

The students are not divided into the traditional college classes, and there is no limit of time for graduation; in order to pursue a wider course of reading in connection with single subjects, or to attend a greater variety of lectures, the ablest students may choose to defer graduation; personal considerations only determine the time spent in completing the studies required for a degree. Nevertheless these requirements constitute strictly a four years' course; that is to say, if the time given to lectures and class work be, as is usual, fifteen hours a week, a student passing the ordinary matriculation examination, and availing herself of the preliminary courses of the college in the subjects which that examination did not include, in all cases requires precisely four years. To give more time for advanced studies and to lighten the college course, students are permitted to take examinations in certain subjects included in the course without attending the college classes in these subjects. Trigonometry and the fourth language (Matriculation French, or German, or Greek, or Minor Latin) may be taken in this way if offered before the beginning of the junior year. A student who can furnish proof that she has acquired advanced knowledge of German or French by attendance on regular advanced classes conducted by a school, or college, or by visiting teachers, or by residence abroad, or by study under German or French governesses at home, is permitted to take examinations for advanced standing in reading and composition in these languages, but only in the first three weeks after entering college. It is impossible for a student to reduce the length of the college course by one year unless she enters with knowledge considerably in advance of that required by the entrance examinations; otherwise the student will not be permitted to undertake the extra work which is too much to be accomplished during the summer vacations. Students entering college at the beginning of the second semester are not permitted to register for more than fifteen hours of college work, or to offer advanced standing examinations in order to complete the work required for a degree in less than four years.
Graduates of Bryn Mawr College, and graduates of other colleges who shall have satisfied the Academic Council that the course of study for which they have received a degree is equivalent to that for which the degree of Bachelor of Arts is given by Bryn Mawr College, or who shall have attended such additional courses of lectures as may be prescribed, may apply to the Academic Council to be enrolled as candidates for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy and Master of Arts; admission to the graduate school does not in itself qualify a student to become a candidate for this degree. A separate degree of Master of Arts is open to graduates of Bryn Mawr College, but to them only.

The candidate for the degree of Master of Arts must be a Bachelor of Arts of Bryn Mawr College, and must have studied for one full year in the graduate school of Bryn Mawr College, devoting herself to systematic advanced work approved by the Graduate Committee of the Academic Council. The candidate must submit her proposed course of study for the approval of this committee on or before the second Wednesday in November. She must pass a special written examination on each subject to the satisfaction of the department in which she has studied, and must announce her candidacy to the President not later than the first day of May in the academic year in which the degree is to be conferred.

The degree of Doctor of Philosophy and Master of Arts may be conferred upon graduates of Bryn Mawr College, and upon graduates of other colleges who shall have satisfied the Academic Council either that the course of study for which they received a degree is equivalent to that for which the degree of Bachelor of Arts is given by Bryn Mawr College, or that it has been adequately supplemented by subsequent study.

The candidate must have pursued for at least three years, after having received the first degree, a course of liberal (non-professional) study at some college or university approved by the Academic Council, and must have spent at least two of these years at Bryn Mawr College. The course of study leading to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy and Master of Arts must consist of one principal, or major, subject and of one or two subordinate, or minor, subjects and must be divided between at least two departments. Two-thirds of the candidate’s time should be spent on the major subject and the remaining one-third on the minor subject or subjects, and the proposed combination of major and minor subjects must have been submitted for approval to the Graduate Committee. The candidate may be required to pursue certain auxiliary studies in connection with the subject that she has elected; and the degree of Doctor of Philosophy is given to no one who cannot read French and German, or who is unacquainted with Latin. The candidate must have written, on some subject connected with her major subject of study, a dissertation approved by the Faculty that bears satisfactory evidence of original research and must pass written examinations and an oral examination in the presence of the members of the Faculty on both major and minor subjects. These examinations are held after the dissertation has been accepted by the department in which it is offered and must be taken within the academic year in which the candidate applies for the degree. The degree is not conferred until the candidate has satisfied the above requirements and deposited one hundred and fifty printed copies of her dissertation, bound according to a prescribed model, in the office of the Secretary of the College. The degree of Doctor of Philosophy will in no case be conferred by the college as an honorary degree.

The Bryn Mawr European Fellowship of the value of $500 was founded in 1889. It is awarded annually to a member of the graduating class of Bryn Mawr College on the ground of excellence in scholarship. The fellowship is intended to defray the expenses of one year's study and residence at some foreign university, English or Continental. The choice of a university may be determined by the holder's own preference, subject to the approval of the Faculty.

The President M. Carey Thomas European Fellowship of the value of $500 was founded in 1896 by Miss Garrett of Baltimore and is awarded annually on the ground of excellence in scholarship to a student in her first year of graduate work at Bryn Mawr College. The fellowship is intended to defray the expenses of one year's study and residence at some foreign university, English or Continental. The choice of a university may be determined by the holder's own preference, subject to the approval of the Faculty.
The Mary E. Garrett European Fellowship of the value of $500 was founded in 1894 by Miss Garrett of Baltimore and is awarded annually on the ground of excellence in scholarship to a student still in residence who has for two years pursued graduate studies at Bryn Mawr College. The fellowship is intended to defray the expenses of one year's study and residence at some foreign university, English or Continental. The choice of a university may be determined by the holder's own preference, subject to the approval of the Faculty.

The Anna Ottendorfer Memorial Research Fellowship in German and Teutonic Philology of the value of $700 was founded in 1907 by Mrs. Anna Woerishoffer of New York City in memory of her mother. It is intended to defray the expenses of one year's study and residence at some German university and is awarded annually to a graduate student who has completed at least one year of graduate study at Bryn Mawr College but is not necessarily still in residence when making application for the fellowship. The fellowship will be awarded to the candidate who has pursued the most advanced work, or whose studies afford the most promise of future success. She must show such proficiency in her studies or in independent work as to furnish reason to believe that she will be able to conduct independent investigations in the field of Teutonic Philology or German. The choice of a university may be determined by the holder's own preference subject to the approval of the Faculty. Application for the fellowship should be addressed to the President.

Twelve resident fellowships, of the value of $525 each, are awarded annually in Greek, Latin, English, German and Teutonic Philology, Romance Languages, History or Economics and Politics, Philosophy, Archaeology, Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry, and Biology. They are open for competition to graduates of Bryn Mawr College, or of any other college of good standing, and will be awarded only to candidates who have completed at least one year of graduate work after obtaining their first degree. The fellowships are intended as an honor, and are awarded in recognition of previous attainments; generally speaking, they will be awarded to the candidates that have studied longest or to those whose work gives most promise of future success. All fellows may study for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, the fellowship being counted, for this purpose, as equivalent to the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Fellows that continue their studies at the college after the expiration of the fellowship, may, by a vote of the directors, receive the rank of Fellows by Courtesy.

A Research Fellowship in Chemistry of the value of $750 was founded in 1907. It is open to graduate students who have received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy or who have completed equivalent work. The holder is required to reside at Bryn Mawr College for one year and to assist the head of the Department of Chemistry in research work.

Fellows are expected to attend all college functions, to wear academic dress, to assist in the conduct of examinations, and to give about an hour a week to the care of special libraries in the halls of residence and in the seminaries, but no such service may be required of them except by a written request from the president's office; they are not permitted, while holding the fellowship, to teach, or to undertake any other duties in addition to their college work. They are required to reside in the college and are assigned rooms by the Secretary of the College. They are charged the usual fee of four hundred and five dollars for tuition, board, room-rent, and infirmary care.

The holder of a fellowship is expected to devote at least one half her time to the department in which the fellowship is awarded, and to show, by the presentation of a thesis or in some other manner, that her studies have not been without result.

Eighteen Graduate Scholarships, of the value of $200 each, may be awarded to candidates next in merit to the successful candidates for the fellowships; they are also open for competition to graduates of Bryn Mawr College, or of any other college of good standing.

Ten Graduate Scholarships, of the value of $405 each, were founded in 1909, five for English, Scotch, or Irish women, and five for German women, and are open for competition to all women of the prescribed nationality whose academic work has reached a standard equivalent to that denoted by the Bachelor's degree of any American college or university of acknowledged standing. The amount of the scholarship, four hundred and five dollars, covers the fees for tuition, board, residence, including light, heat, and service, and infirmary care for the academic year. A furnished single room in the graduate wing of one of the halls of residence is assigned to each scholar.

Scholars are expected to reside in the college, to attend all college functions, to wear academic dress and to assist in the conduct of examinations.

Application for resident fellowships or scholarships should be made as early as possible to the President of the College, and must be made not later than the fifteenth* of April preceding the academic year for which the fellowship or scholarship is desired. Blank forms of application will be forwarded to the applicants. A definite answer will be given within two weeks from the latest date set for receiving applications. Any original papers, printed or in manuscript, which have been prepared by the applicant and sent in support of her application, will be returned, when stamps for that purpose are enclosed, or specific directions for return by express are given. Letters or testimonials from professors and instructors will be filed for reference.

For graduate students attending six or more hours a week of lectures, and for fellows and graduate scholars the tuition fee is one hundred and twenty-five dollars a year, payable half-yearly in advance. For other graduate students who do not wish to devote all their time to graduate work the fees are as follows, payable in advance: for one hour a week of lectures, ten dollars a semester; for two hours a week of lectures, twenty dollars a semester; for three hours a week of lectures, thirty dollars a semester; and for four or five hours a week of lectures, forty dollars a semester.† This arrangement is

*In the case of candidates for the Scholarships open to British and German women applications must be received by April the first. Applications for the scholarships should be accompanied by full particulars of the candidate’s academic work, by diplomas or certificates and by letters of recommendation from professors and should be addressed in the case of British candidates to the President of Bryn Mawr College, Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania, U. S. A., and in the case of German candidates to Seiner Excellenz dem Herrn Staatssekretär des Innern, Reichsamt des Innern, Berlin, Germany.

†The fees charged are reckoned on the basis of the actual hours of conference or lecture, irrespective of the number of undergraduate hours to which the course is regarded as equivalent.

In counting the number of hours for which a graduate student is registered the following special arrangements are made in regard to laboratory courses: payment for a one hour lecture course in a scientific department entitles the student to four hours made especially for non-resident graduate students, but those who wish to take five hours a week of lectures or less may live in the college halls on the understanding that they must give up their rooms if needed for students who are taking the full amount of graduate work and paying the regular tuition fee. The tuition fee for the semester becomes due as soon as the student is registered in the college office. No reduction of this fee can be made on account of absence or for any other reason whatsoever. Graduate students are admitted to residence or to attendance on lectures at any time during the year, and in this case a proportionate reduction is made in the charges for board and room-rent and for tuition. Every student who enters the college must register immediately at the comptroller's office, and must register her courses at the president's office within two weeks after entrance under penalty of exclusion from the college. Any change made later in the courses registered must be reported immediately to the president's office, or the courses will not be permitted to count, and a charge of one dollar will be made for each change made in the course after it has been definitely registered.

Graduate students taking courses in scientific departments (Physics, Chemistry, Geology, Biology, and Psychology) amounting to six or more hours a week of lecture courses or its equivalent in laboratory courses are charged a laboratory fee of eighteen dollars a semester, with the following exceptions: if the student takes, as a regular student, courses in subjects not enumerated above amounting to six hours a week the laboratory fee is reduced to twelve dollars a semester; and if she takes, as a regular student, courses in subjects not enumerated above amounting to ten hours a week the laboratory fee is reduced to six dollars a semester.

Graduate students taking less than six hours a week of lectures, or its equivalent in laboratory work, are charged a laboratory fee of ten dollars a semester for every laboratory course of four or more hours a week, and of five dollars a semester for every laboratory course of less than four hours a week.

Residence in the college buildings is optional except for holders of resident fellowships and scholarships. In each hall of residence, except Merion Hall, a special wing or corridor is reserved for graduate students, and in order to secure entire quiet no undergraduate students are permitted to engage rooms in the graduate wings. The expense of board and residence in the graduate wings of the college halls is two hundred and seventy-five dollars.

Residence for Graduate Students.

of laboratory work in addition with no extra charge except the laboratory fee. Students registered for laboratory work only, are charged the following tuition fee: for each two and one-half hours of undergraduate laboratory course and for each five hours of graduate laboratory course the same fee as for a one hour lecture course. The laboratory fees as stated on page 71 are charged in addition to the charge for tuition.
Of this amount two hundred dollars is the charge for board, and is payable half-yearly in advance; the remainder is room-rent, and is payable yearly in advance. Every student has a separate bedroom. Room-rent includes all expenses of furnishing, service, heating, and light.*

A deposit of fifteen dollars is required from each graduate student, fellow, or scholar who desires to reserve a room in a hall of residence. The amount of this deposit will be deducted from the rent if the room is occupied by the student; it will be refunded if the student gives formal notice to the Secretary of the College before the fifteenth of July preceding the academic year for which the application is made that she wishes to withdraw her application. In other cases the deposit will be forfeited.

Laboratory fees for the academic year ....................... $10 to $36

For undergraduate students and hearers the charge for tuition is two hundred dollars a year, irrespective of the number of courses attended or the actual time of attendance, and is payable in advance.‡ No reduction of this fee can be made on account

---

* Rugs and towels must be furnished by the students themselves. Graduate students will, on request, be supplied with rugs.

† See footnote, page 70.

‡ Students that intend to take the degree of Bachelor of Arts in February will be charged only one half the regular tuition fee if they register this intention in the controller's office before beginning their college work, provided their entire academic work can be completed in the first semester.
of absence or for any other reason whatsoever. Every student who enters the college must register immediately at the comptroller’s office, and must register her courses at the president’s office within two weeks after entrance under penalty of exclusion from the college. Any change made later in the courses registered must be reported immediately to the president’s office, or the courses will not be permitted to count, and a charge of one dollar will be made for each change made in the course after it has been definitely registered.

For undergraduate students there is an additional charge of ten dollars a semester for materials and apparatus for every laboratory course of four or more hours a week, and of five dollars a semester for every laboratory course of less than four hours a week.

In courses in Geology each hour of field work is counted as one hour of laboratory work. Not more than one laboratory course is required of candidates for a degree.

Residence in the college buildings is required of all undergraduate students except those who reside with their families in Philadelphia or in the neighborhood. The expense of board and residence in the college halls for undergraduate students is three hundred dollars a year and upwards, according to the room or rooms occupied by the student; in about one-third of the college rooms the expense of board and residence is three hundred or three hundred and twenty-five dollars. Of this charge two hundred dollars is the charge for board, and is payable half-yearly in advance; the remainder is room-rent, and is payable yearly in advance. Every student has a separate bedroom. Room-rent includes all expense of furnishing, service, heating, and light.*

The health of the students is under the charge of a Health Committee consisting of the President, the Dean of the College, the Director of Athletics, the Senior Warden, and the physicians of the College. See page 171 of this Calendar.

Every student entering the college will be vaccinated unless she can furnish satisfactory proof that she has been successfully vaccinated not more than two years previously.

The conduct of the students in all matters not purely academic, or affecting the management of the halls of residence, or the student body as a whole, is in the hands of the Students’ Association for Self-Government, which was organised in 1892. All persons studying in Bryn Mawr College, whether graduates or undergraduates, are members of this association.

*Rugs and towels must be furnished by the students themselves.
The College reserves the right to exclude at any time students whose conduct or academic standing renders them undesirable members of the college community, and in such cases the fees due to the college are not refunded or remitted.

Plans and descriptions of the academic buildings and of the halls of residence, Merion Hall, Radnor Hall, Denbigh Hall, Pembroke Hall West, Pembroke Hall East, and Rockefeller Hall, with a full account of the halls and tariff of rooms, are published as Part 4 of the Bryn Mawr College Calendar and may be obtained by application to the Secretary of the College. Each of the halls of residence (except Pembroke, which has a common dining-hall and kitchen for the two wings) has its separate kitchen and dining-hall, provides accommodation for from sixty to seventy students, and is under the charge of a resident warden. Application for rooms should be made as early as possible. The demand for rooms is very great and since every room unnecessarily reserved may prevent some other student from entering the college, every application for a room or suite of rooms, whether made by a student already in residence or by a candidate for admission to the college, must be accompanied by a deposit of fifteen dollars, otherwise the application will not be registered. The amount of this deposit will be deducted from the rent if the room or suite of rooms assigned be occupied by the applicant. The amount of this deposit will be refunded in the following cases:

a. If an applicant who is a student of the college gives formal notice to the Secretary of the College that she wishes to withdraw her application before the first of May preceding the academic year for which the application is made.

b. If a candidate who has applied for admission to the college in October gives formal notice to the Secretary of the College that she wishes to withdraw her application before the fifteenth of July preceding the academic year for which the application is made.

c. If a candidate who has applied for admission to the college in February gives formal notice to the Secretary of the College that she wishes to withdraw her application before the first of December preceding the semester for which the application is made.
In all other cases the deposit will be forfeited to the college.

The above mentioned deposit of fifteen dollars must also be made by each student in residence in order to insure the tenure of her room for the following academic year.*

Every applicant giving up later than the first of September the room or suite of rooms assigned to her for the ensuing academic year is responsible for the rent thereof for the whole year; exception will be made only in the case of applicants that take, and fail to pass, the autumn examinations for matriculation, but even in such case the deposit cannot be refunded. Every applicant for a room in February will, with the above exceptions, be responsible for the rent of the room or suite of rooms assigned to her for one semester, unless she gives formal notice of withdrawal to the Secretary before the first of January. The charges for room-rent are not subject to remission or deduction under any circumstances, being considered forfeit in case of withdrawal for any cause whatever. The applicant is not entitled to relet the rooms thus left vacant, this right being reserved exclusively by the college, no refund being made to the applicant in case the room or suite of rooms thus left vacant are relet. Every student who changes her room is required to pay an extra fee of fifteen dollars.

In case of prolonged illness and absence from the college extending over six weeks or more, there will be a proportionate reduction in the charge for board.

Rooms are assigned to the entering class during the summer preceding the academic year for which application is made. No particular room or set of rooms may be applied for. Applicants are allowed to choose in turn from among all the rooms left vacant, the order of choice being determined by the date at which the application is registered. Cheques should be drawn payable to Bryn Mawr College.

Students are expected to provide their own rugs and towels, but in every other respect the rooms are completely furnished. Electric reading lamps, table napkins, sheets, etc., are provided by the college. No part whatever need be taken by the students in the care of their own rooms.

There are open fire-places in nearly all the studies and in many single rooms, but the rooms are sufficiently heated by steam; the air in each room is changed every ten minutes, and the temperature is regulated by a thermostat in each room. Electric reading lamps are provided in every room. The students' personal washing may be done by any laundry recommended by the college for 50 cents a dozen, or about $8 a half-year for one dozen pieces a week. On account of the danger of infectious diseases students in residence are not permitted to send their washing to private laundresses.

*Every student except a member of the freshman class who moves from one hall to another is charged a fee of ten dollars for moving, and every student except a member of the freshman class who moves from one room to another in the same hall is charged a fee of five dollars. This fee entitles a student to have five pieces moved free of charge.

No charge is made for sending meals to students that are in the infirmaries by the order of the physicians of the college.

Accommodation is provided for students that wish to remain at the college during the Christmas and Easter vacations at $1.25 a day or $8.75 a week for graduate, and $1.50 a day or $10.50 a week for undergraduate students.

Students who expect to spend any part of the Christmas or Easter vacations in Bryn Mawr, Philadelphia, or the immediate neighborhood, not in their own homes and not in the college halls of residence, are required to consult the Secretary in regard to the arrangements that they wish to make.

The Students' Loan Fund of Bryn Mawr College was founded by the Class of 1890 for the purpose of receiving contributions, however small, from those who are interested in aiding students to obtain an education. The money thus contributed is distributed in the form of partial aid, and as a loan. It is as a rule applied to the assistance of those students only who have attended courses in the college for at least one year. The Fund is managed by a committee consisting of the President of the College and representatives of the Alumnae Association of Bryn Mawr College. The committee reports yearly to the Board of Trustees and to the Alumnae Association. The committee consists of the following members: President M. Carey Thomas; Miss Martha G. Thomas, Secretary and Treasurer, Bryn Mawr College; Miss Mary Taylor Mason, School House Lane, Germantown, Philadelphia; Mrs. Bernard Todd Converse, Ardmore, Pa., and Miss Anne Hampton Todd, 2115 Spruce Street, Philadelphia. Contributions may be sent to any member of the committee. Applications for loans should be sent to the Treasurer of the committee, and all applications for loans for any given year should be made before April 20th, of the preceding academic year.

* In about one-sixth of the college rooms the rent is $100, making the cost of board, residence, and tuition for undergraduate students $500; but students desiring to apply for rooms at $100 must file a statement at the president's office that they are unable to afford rooms at a higher price.
Scholarships — Eight competitive entrance scholarships, four of the value of $300 and four of the value of $200, were founded by the College in 1896. They are awarded annually to candidates receiving their final certificates in the spring matriculation examinations of Bryn Mawr College, a first scholarship of the value of $300 and a second of the value of $200 being open to candidates from each of the following districts:—(a) The New England States; (b) New York, New Jersey, and Delaware; (c) Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin, and the States west of the Mississippi River; (d) Pennsylvania and all places not included in (a), (b), and (c). The district to which a candidate is considered to belong is determined by the school at which she receives her final preparation, or in case of preparation by private study by the place of residence during the year preceding the final examination; but candidates may present themselves for examination at any place where such examination is held. These scholarships, which are to be held for one year only, are awarded in each of the above named districts on the basis of the sum total of marks obtained by the candidate, but no one is eligible for the first scholarship who has received more than two conditions in the twenty sections of the examination, and no one is eligible for the second scholarship who has received more than four conditions in the twenty sections of the examination. When the examination has been divided no account is taken of those conditions incurred in the first division which have been passed off in the final examination. The competition is limited to those who intend to spend at least one year in residence at Bryn Mawr College, who have not studied at any other college, and have not cancelled any division of the Bryn Mawr College matriculation examinations. All those who present themselves are ipso facto candidates for these scholarships, no formal declaration of candidacy being required.

Eight scholarships for non-resident students of $200 each, entitling the holder to free tuition, renewable for four consecutive years, were founded by the College in 1893, and were presented to the public schools of Philadelphia through Dr. Brooks, the Superintendent of the Public Schools of Philadelphia, on the following terms: 1. The candidate shall have complied with the requirements for admission to Bryn Mawr College, and shall have received all her preparation for the entrance examination of Bryn Mawr College in the High School for Girls, Philadelphia; 2. She shall have been recommended by the Board of Education of Philadelphia, and their recommendation shall have been approved by the Directors of Bryn Mawr College; 3. The scholarship shall be renewed annually by the Directors, until the holder has completed her fourth year at college, provided her conduct and academic work have been satisfactory to the authorities of the college.

The L. C. B. Saul Memorial Scholarship. In 1893 the Alumnae Association of the Girls' High and Normal School of Philadelphia founded at Bryn Mawr College a scholarship entitling the holder to free tuition, renewable for four years. This scholarship is awarded every four years to the graduate of the Girls' High School who passes the matriculation examination of Bryn Mawr College for that year with the highest credit. In 1904 the scholarship was renamed the L. C. B. Saul Memorial Scholarship.

One scholarship of $200 entitling the holder to one year's free tuition, was founded by the College in 1895, and was presented to the School Board of Education of Lower Merion Township, Montgomery County, Pa., for the benefit of graduates of the High School of Lower Merion Township, Ardmore, Pa., on the following terms: 1. The candidate shall have complied with the requirements for admission to Bryn Mawr College, and shall have received all her preparation for the entrance examinations in the Lower Merion High School; 2. She shall have been recommended by the School Board of Education of Lower Merion Township, and their recommendation shall have been approved by the Directors of Bryn Mawr College; 3. If in any year there shall be, in the judgment of the School Board of Education of Lower Merion Township, no satisfactory candidate in the graduating class, the scholarship may be renewed during the following year for the benefit of a former holder, provided her conduct and academic work have been satisfactory to the authorities of the college.
One scholarship of $200 entitling the holder to one year's free tuition was founded by the Directors in 1909 and was presented to the School Board of Education of Norristown, Pa., for the benefit of graduates of Norristown High School, on the following terms: 1. That the candidate shall have received all her preparation for Bryn Mawr College in the Norristown High School; 2. That she shall have successfully passed the entrance examinations of Bryn Mawr College not later than the June preceding the autumn in which she wishes to enter the college; 3. That this scholarship shall not be awarded twice to the same person unless the Superintendent of Schools shall file in the office of the President of the College a statement to the effect that no other member of the graduating class is able to compete for the scholarship; 4. That the candidate shall have been nominated to the Board of Directors of Bryn Mawr College by the Superintendent of Schools or by the Board of Education and that such nomination shall have been duly approved by the Board of Directors of Bryn Mawr College.

One competitive scholarship of the value of $200, renewable till graduation, is open annually for competition to members of the Society of Friends who are unable to pay the full charge for tuition and residence. This scholarship is awarded, as far as possible, under the same rules as those governing the award of the eight competitive entrance scholarships of Bryn Mawr College. Two additional scholarships of the value of $200 each are open for competition to graduate students who are members of the Society of Friends and need financial assistance. Three scholarships, of $400 each, for one year, are open to those graduates of Earlham, Penn, and Guilford Colleges respectively, who in the preceding year have completed the course of their several colleges with most distinction. These scholarships have been established by the Trustees in accordance with the desire of the Founder of the college to promote the advanced education of women in the Society of Friends, of which he was a member.

Four scholarships of $500 each, renewable for four consecutive years, were founded in 1885 by the Board of Managers of the Bryn Mawr School, of Baltimore, Maryland. One of these scholarships is open annually to the graduate of the Bryn Mawr School who has completed the school course with most distinction.

The James E. Rhoads Memorial Scholarships, two in number, each of the value of $250 for one year, were founded in 1897 by the Alumnae Association of Bryn Mawr College, in memory of the first President of the College, Dr. James E. Rhoads. The first of these scholarships is the James E. Rhoads Sophomore Scholarship, and is open to those students only who have completed college work amounting to not less than ten and not more than twenty-two and a half hours (three semesters' work) for a year, and have been in attendance upon lectures at Bryn Mawr College not less than one semester. The second of these scholarships is the James E. Rhoads Junior Scholarship, and is open to those students only who have completed college work amounting to not less than twenty and not more than thirty-seven and a half hours (five semesters' work) for a year, and have been in attendance upon lectures at Bryn Mawr College not less than three semesters. To be eligible for either of these two scholarships a student shall have obtained a high degree of excellence in her work, shall express her intention of fulfilling the requirements for the degree of A.B. at Bryn Mawr College, and shall prove her need of financial aid to the satisfaction of the nominating committee. In case either scholarship is awarded to a non-resident student, its value shall not exceed $150. The nominating committee consists of the President of Bryn Mawr College, two members of the Academic Council of the College, appointed annually by the Council, the President of the Alumnae Association of Bryn Mawr College and three other members of the Alumnae Association appointed by the executive committee of the Alumnae Association. Applications for the scholarships should be addressed to the Assistant to the President, Bryn Mawr College, to be forwarded to the Chairman of the Committee.

The Mary E. Stevens Scholarship of the value of $160 founded in 1896 by former pupils of Miss Mary E. Stevens's School is awarded to a member of the Sophomore class who needs financial assistance, to be held at Bryn Mawr College during the junior year. It is open to those students only who have registered for college work amounting to not less than forty and not more than sixty-five hours for a semester and have been in attendance upon lectures at Bryn Mawr College not less than three semesters. Applications for this Scholarship should be addressed to the President of Bryn Mawr College.

Two Maria Hopper Scholarships of the value of $200 each were founded in 1901 by the bequest of the late Maria Hopper of Philadelphia. They are awarded, on the ground of excellence in scholarship, to two members of the freshman class who need financial assistance, to be held at Bryn Mawr College during the sophomore year. They are open to those students only who have registered for college work amounting to not less than twenty and not more than forty-five hours for a semester and have been in attendance upon lectures at Bryn Mawr College not less than one semester. Applications for these scholarships should be addressed to the President of Bryn Mawr College.

The Anna M. Powers Memorial Scholarship of the value of $200 was founded in 1902 by Mrs. J. Campbell Harris in memory of her mother, Anna M. Powers. The scholarship is open to members of the junior class who need financial aid in order to complete the work for the degree and is to be held in the senior year. The holder is nominated by the donor subject to the approval of the President and Faculty of the College.

The Maria L. Eastman Brooke Hall Memorial Scholarship of the value of $100 was founded in 1901 in memory of Maria L. Eastman, Principal of Brooke Hall School for Girls, Media, Pa., by the Alumnae and former pupils of the school. It is awarded each year on the ground of scholarship, irrespective of the need of financial aid, to a member of the junior class to be held during the senior year. No application for the scholarship is necessary.

A special Thomas H. Powers Memorial Scholarship of the value of $200 is given in 1910 by Mrs. J. Campbell Harris in memory of her father, Thomas H. Powers. The holder is nominated by the donor subject to the approval of the President and Faculty of the College.

The Elizabeth Duane Gillespie Scholarship in American History of the value of $60 was founded in 1903 by the Pennsylvania Society of Colonial Dames of America, in memory of Elizabeth Duane Gillespie. It is awarded annually to a member of the sophomore or junior class, on condition that the holder of the scholarship devote to the study of American history at least four hours a week for one year during the last two years of her college course. The candidate is to be selected by the Faculty of Bryn Mawr College on the ground of excellence in scholarship.

The Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania presented to Bryn Mawr College in 1910 a scholarship to be awarded to a graduate of the college recommended by the President and Faculty as in their opinion qualified to take up the study of medicine. The holder is given free tuition for one year at the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania and the scholarship will be renewed for the three remaining years of the medical course if the holder's record prove satisfactory.

Foundation of Scholarships.— The sum of five thousand dollars given or left by will to the Directors of Bryn Mawr College, will found a perpetual scholarship giving free tuition to one student every year. The scholarship may be given in memory of and named after any person designated by the donor.

Form of Bequest.*

*I give, devise and bequeath ................................................................................................................

...................................................................................................................to the Trustees of Bryn Mawr College.

*The bequest may be made, if desired, for endowment, foundation 'of professors' chairs, scholarships, fellowships, or for some other specified purpose.
INSTRUCTION.

Libraries. The fact that the college is situated in the suburbs of Philadelphia enables the student to make use of all the resources of the libraries of Philadelphia, as well as of those of the college proper.

The college library has been collected within the past twenty-four years, and is designed to be, as far as possible, a library for special study. There are at present on its shelves about sixty thousand bound volumes, and ten thousand doctors' dissertations and pamphlets, the collection including the classical library of the late Professor Sauppe, of Gottingen, which was presented to the college in 1894, and the Semitic library of the late Professor Amiaud, of Paris, acquired in 1892. A more detailed description of these two collections may be found on pages 90 and 128.

The books needed principally for graduate and research work are shelved in the fourteen seminary libraries and the books on physics, chemistry, geology and biology in the departmental libraries in Dalton Hall adjoining the laboratories in these subjects. The books of reference, sets of periodicals, and proceedings of societies and the main collection of the library are kept in the stack room.

In each of the six halls of residence are collections of from five to six hundred volumes each, consisting of books useful to undergraduate students, not only supplementing their private libraries, but duplicating such books in the general library as are most used. A seventh collection of this character is kept in the main library for the use of non-resident students.

Students may take from the general and departmental libraries for periods of two weeks each, any books except reference books and books reserved for special use. Books in the hall libraries and books reserved for special use may be taken for two hours.

The sum of about five thousand dollars is expended yearly for books under the direction of the heads of the several collegiate departments, and, in addition to many gifts of books, about twenty thousand dollars has been presented to the library during the past ten years for expenditure in special departments. Over four hundred publications and reviews in the English, German,
Greek, French, Italian, Spanish, Norse, and Swedish languages, are taken by the library, as follows:

The library is open daily from eight A.M. to ten P.M. Books may be taken out by the students unless specially reserved for library reference use.

There are in Philadelphia the following important libraries which are available for students:

The Philadelphia Library Company, which contains about 227,000 volumes and 30,000 pamphlets, and is at all times open to the students for consultation. Private subscription, for four volumes, $12 a year, or $10 for nine months.

The Mercantile Library, which contains about 190,000 volumes and 10,000 pamphlets. Private subscription, $2.00 a year for two separate works at a time.

The Library of the Academy of Natural Sciences, which contains about 60,000 volumes. The Council of the Academy has generously conceded the use of its library and of its museum to the students of Bryn Mawr College.

The Library of the University of Pennsylvania, which contains about 300,000 volumes and 50,000 pamphlets. The custodians of this library have always shown great courtesy in placing rare volumes at the disposal of the college.

The Free Library of Philadelphia, which contains about 340,000 volumes and 59,000 pamphlets, and is at all times open to the students for consultation.

Courses of Study.

There are offered each year to undergraduates major courses of five hours a week, for two years, in the following subjects: Greek, Latin, English, German, French, Italian and Spanish, Comparative Literature, History, Economics and Politics, Philosophy, Archaeology and History of Art, Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry, Geology, and Biology; and elective courses in the above and in Biblical Literature, Experimental Psychology, Education, Meteorology and Oceanography.

Graduate courses are offered in Sanskrit, and Indo-European Philology, Greek, Latin, English Philology including Anglo-Saxon, Early and Middle English, English Literature, German Literature, Gothic, Teutonic Philology, Old Norse, Old High German, Middle High German, Old Saxon, Modern and Old French, Italian, Spanish, and other Romance Languages, Hebrew, Aramaic, Assyrian, Biblical Literature, History, Economics and Politics, Philosophy, Experimental Psychology, Education, Classical Archaeology, History of Art, and Mathematics, Physics, Chemistry, Physical Chemistry, Geology, Mineralogy, Palaeontology, Morphology, Physiology, and Physiological Chemistry.

The courses in language and literature are meant, first of all, to be complete in themselves, and extensive enough to meet the needs of special students, and secondly, to facilitate the study of comparative philology or of comparative literature. Whenever it has been practicable, as in Greek and Latin and in the modern languages, one half of the major course has been devoted to strictly linguistic studies, and the other half to the history of literature. The group work in English is constructed on this model, one half of the course being devoted to philology, and the other half to literary interpretation. Courses of parallel reading are required of all students of language and literature, precisely as laboratory work is required of the students of chemistry or biology; these courses are intended to acquaint the students with the works of numerous authors, and it is especially hoped that students of Greek and Latin will, by this means, accustom themselves to read these languages without assistance.

The courses in ancient and modern languages are of equal difficulty, and are placed on a footing of equality. The traditional separation between ancient and modern languages has been disregarded, because, although strictly classical students may always be inclined to combine Greek and Latin, there is, nevertheless, no modern literature of which the study may not fitly be preceded, or supplemented, by the study of Latin or Greek. Whenever possible, as in the courses in Greek, Latin, English, German, and French literature, in history, politics, philosophy, the history of art, mathematics, and science, the instruction is given by means of lectures. It is the object of these lectures to give a clear and succinct statement of facts and principles; to enumerate and criticise with frankness hand-books, authorities, and editions; to bring the student’s knowledge up to date, and to inform her, step by step, what things have been definitely ascertained and what things remain to be investigated. It is intended that the notes taken on these lectures, in addition to their immediate practical use, shall be of lasting value for reference, and be the starting-point, or at least the schedule, of studies to be undertaken at some future day. Every isolated student knows how difficult it is to be initiated into the modern scholastic movement otherwise than orally; and, therefore, in addition to the lectures, the several instructors appoint certain hours in which the students may consult them freely. The lectures are accompanied by class work, prescribed reading, and by frequent examinations; they are strictly special, not popular.

The Professors or Associates appointed are the recognised heads of their departments, and only such instructors have been chosen as are qualified to direct both graduate and undergraduate work.

The undergraduate and graduate courses offered in the years 1909-10 and 1910-11 are as follows:

Sanskrit, Greek, and Latin.

Professors and instructors: Dr. Arthur Leslie Wheeler, Dr. Henry Nevill Sanders, Dr. Wilmer Cave Wright, Dr. George A. Barton, Dr. Tenney Frank, Dr. Caroline Louise Ransom, Dr. Hans Weyhe, Dr. Roland G. Kent, Miss Abby Kirk, Miss Elizabeth Andros Foster, and Dr. Isabelle Stone.

Exceptional facilities for the study of all departments of classical philology are offered by the large classical library owned by the college. The greater part of this library is formed by the well-known collection of the late Professor Hermann Sauppe, of Göttingen, which was acquired in 1894. This has been supplemented by purchases made by the college library, so that the classical library now numbers some seven thousand volumes, including complete sets of most of the important journals, and about seven thousand dissertations and monographs.

Sanskrit and Comparative Philology.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Hans Weyhe, Associate in Teutonic Philology and Sanskrit, and Dr. Roland G. Kent, Non-resident Lecturer in Sanskrit.

Graduate Courses.

Graduate Courses. Lectures on Comparative Philology, and Philological Seminary, Dr. Weyhe. Two hours a week throughout the year.

Students entering this course are expected to be familiar with German and French; a short preliminary course in Sanskrit is also of great aid to the student. The lectures on comparative philology treat of the connection of the Greek and Latin languages with the related languages of the Aryan group, first, phonetically, secondly, from the point of view of grammatical forms, and lastly, from the point of view of syntax. In the first part of the course, which covers what during the last few years has been the field of the most active research, the student is introduced to the latest theories and discoveries in Aryan phonetics, and is expected to read and criticize the articles appearing from time to time in the philological journals, and to prepare reports on these articles. The same method is pursued during the investigation of the history of forms; and in the third part of the course the student begins the study of comparative syntax by a close comparison of the use of cases and verbal forms in Sanskrit, Greek, and Latin.

Elementary Sanskrit, Dr. Weyhe. Two hours a week throughout the year.

Whitney's Grammar and Lanman's Reader are used.

The courses in Comparative Philology and in Elementary Sanskrit will not, as a rule, be given in the same year.

Advanced Sanskrit, Dr. Kent. One hour a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1909-10.)

Lectures are given on the phonology and morphology of Sanskrit. The study of Lanman's Reader is continued and Kalidasa's Sakuntala, Act I. is read.

Greek.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Henry Nevill Sanders*, Professor of Greek; Dr. Wilmer Cave Wright, Associate Professor of Greek; Dr. George A. Barton, Professor of Biblical Literature and Semitic Languages; Dr. Caroline Louise Ransom, Associate Professor in the History of Art and Classical Archæology, Miss Abby Kirk, Reader in Elementary Greek and Dr. Isabelle Stone, Reader in Greek. The instruction offered in Classical Greek covers twenty-three hours of lectures and recitations a week apart from courses in Classical Art and Archaeology and New Testament Greek; it includes five hours a week of Matriculation Greek; ten hours a week of undergraduate major and minor work; three hours a week of post-major work, open only to graduates and to undergraduates that have completed the major course in Greek; and five hours a week of graduate work.

A course of five hours a week throughout the year is provided for those students that wish to study Greek, and whose examination for matriculation did not include it. Grammar and Composition are studied. Xenophon's Anabasis or Memorabilia and selections from Homer are read. Students that wish may substitute for this course the minor, or first year's course in Latin. Either the matriculation course in Greek or the minor course in Latin is required of all candidates for the degree of Bachelor of Arts that have not passed the matriculation examination in Greek. This course is given by Miss Kirk under the direction of Dr. Wright.

Matriculation Course.

First Year.

(Minor Course.)

1st Semester. (Given in each year.)

- Plato, Apology, Crito, Dr. Sanders.
- Greek Prose Composition, Dr. Sanders.
- Homer, Odyssey, Dr. Wright.

(May be taken as a free elective.)

The Greek courses may not be offered for examination for advanced standing without class attendance.

Private reading: Euripides, Alcestis, II. 1 to end must be read by students taking the five-hour course; Euripides, Alcestis, II. 1–475 must be read by students taking the course in Homer only; Sophocles, Philoctetes, II. 1–728 must be read by students taking the courses in Plato and in Greek Prose Composition, omitting the course in Homer. Examinations on the private reading must be taken at one of two stated times during the semester by all students pursuing the Greek courses.

2nd Semester.

- Euripides, Medea, Dr. Sanders.
- Greek Prose Composition, Dr. Sanders.
- Homer, Iliad, Dr. Wright.

(May be taken as a free elective.)

The Greek courses may not be offered for examination for advanced standing without class attendance.

Private reading: Sophocles, Philoctetes, II. 1–1080 and 1218–1313 must be read by students taking the five-hour course; Euripides, Alcestis, II. 476–961 must be read.

This course was given by Dr. Stone in 1909-10.
by students taking the course in Homer only; Sophocles, Philoctetes, ll. 729 to end must be read by students taking the courses in Euripides and Greek Prose Composition, omitting the course in Homer. Examinations on the private reading must be taken at one of two stated times during the semester by all students pursuing the Greek courses.

Second Year.

1st Semester.

(Given in each year.)

Demosthenes, Dr. Sanders.
Aristophanes, Frogs, Dr. Sanders.
History of Greek Literature, Ionio-Dorian, and Attic periods, Dr. Wright.

No student is admitted to any part of the major course in Greek who has not completed all the work of the minor course.

Private reading: Æschylus, Prometheus Vinctus, ll. 1 to end must be read by students taking the five-hour course; Æschylus, Persæ, ll. 1-680 must be read by students taking the courses in Demosthenes and Aristophanes, omitting the course in Greek literature; Æschylus, Prometheus Vinctus, ll. 1-436 must be read by students taking the course in Greek literature, omitting the courses in Demosthenes and Aristophanes. Examinations on the private reading must be taken at one of two stated times during the semester by all students pursuing the Greek courses.

2nd Semester

Æschylus, Agamemnon, Dr. Sanders.
Sophocles, Œdipus Rex, Dr. Sanders.
History of Greek Literature, Attic, Alexandrine, and Græco-Roman periods, Dr. Wright.

No student is admitted to any part of the major course in Greek who has not completed all the work of the minor course.

The second year's work of the major course may be divided so as to cover a period of two years; but if elected for the first semester, the lectures on literature must be elected for the second semester also. The lectures on Demosthenes and Æschylus and the one-hour courses in Aristophanes and Sophocles may not be elected separately.

Private reading: Æschylus, Persæ, ll. 1 to end must be read by students taking the five-hour course; Æschylus, Persæ, ll. 681 to end must be read by students taking the courses in Æschylus and Sophocles, omitting the course in Greek literature; Æschylus, Prometheus Vinctus, ll. 437-876 must be read by students taking the course in Greek literature, omitting the courses in Æschylus and Sophocles. Examinations on the private reading must be taken at one of two stated times during the semester by all students pursuing the Greek courses.

Group: Greek with any language, or with Philosophy, or with Archaeology and Art, or with Mathematics.

Free Elective Courses.

Minor courses, amounting to five hours a week which may be taken as free electives, are offered in Classical Archaeology and the History of Art. See pages 145 to 147.

This course was given by Dr. Stone in 1909-10.
Post-major Courses.

The post-major courses are designed to bridge over the interval between the ordinary undergraduate studies and graduate work. As the amount of time given to undergraduate subjects differs in different colleges, graduate students frequently find it advisable to elect some of these courses. Post-major courses are offered in Classical Archaeology and History of Art; see page 147. No student that has not completed the minor and major courses in Greek is admitted to any post-major course in Greek.

In 1909–10 the following post-major courses are offered:

1st Semester
- Æschylus, Oresteia, Dr. Sanders.
- Aristophanes, Acharnians, Knights, Dr. Sanders.

2nd Semester.
- Theocritus, Dr. Wright.
- Pindar, Dr. Stone.
- Sophocles, Electra, Dr. Stone.

In 1910–11 the following post-major courses are offered.

1st Semester.
- Private Orations of the Attic Orators, Dr. Sanders.
- Sophocles, Antigone, Dr. Sanders.

2nd Semester.
- Thucydides, Dr. Sanders.
- Aristotle, Poetics, Bacchylides, Dr. Sanders.

In 1911–12 the following post-major courses are offered:

1st Semester.
- Lucian, Dr. Sanders.
- Sophocles, Trachiniae, Dr. Sanders.

2nd Semester.
- Melic Poets, Dr. Sanders.
- Greek Prose Composition, Rhetoric, and the Theory of Imitative Writing, Dr. Sanders.
- Euripides, Heracles, Dr. Sanders.

Graduate Courses.

Five hours a week of seminary work are offered each year to graduate students of Greek, accompanied by the direction of private reading and original research. The books needed by the graduate students are collected in the seminary library of the department. No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses or to the seminary library, but the post-major courses of the department amounting to three hours a week may be selected by graduates.

The seminary subjects in Greek are varied from year to year in two series, Attic Tragedy, Orators, and Historians, and the Homeric Question, Me-nander, Plato, and Aristophanes, in order that they may be pursued by a student for consecutive years. Students electing Greek as part of the work for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy are required to offer with each three hour seminary a two hour seminary and vice versa, so as to make up two hours of seminar work, but both seminars need not be taken in the same year. Three five hour courses are required of students who offer Greek as a major subject in the examination for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy; two five hour courses are required when Greek is the only minor subject offered, and one five hour course when two minors are offered. A large part of the work expected of graduate students consists of courses of reading pursued under the direction of the department; and reports of this reading are from time to time required of the students. A reading knowledge of French and German is required. The course in comparative philology conducted by Dr. Weyhe is recommended to graduate students of Greek. For graduate courses in History of Art and Classical Archaeology, which may be offered as a minor by students taking Greek as a subject for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, see pages 147-148.

Greek Seminary, Dr. Sanders. Three hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in each year.)

In 1909-10 Greek orators are studied in the seminary. The work consists of the reading of large portions of all the orators and the critical interpretation of a selected part of each. Lectures are given on legal antiquities, the syntax, and the style of the various authors, in conjunction with which Dionysius of Halicarnassus and the Greek Rhetoricians are studied. The later rhetoricians are treated and their criticism of antiquity investigated. Students are expected to provide themselves with the Teubner text editions of Antiphon, Andocides, Lysias, Isocrates, Iseus, Æschines, Hy-perides, and Demosthenes. The classical library is well equipped with works on the orators. This seminary met in 1909-10 during the first semester only.

In 1910-11 the main subject of the seminary is the Greek Historians. Thucydides is studied in detail and reports are made on data of history contained in Greek literature in general. Lectures are given by the instructor on subjects connected with Greek historiography, such as the composition of Thucydides's history, the syntax and style of Thucydides, the history of early prose, Greek historical inscriptions.

In 1911-12 the subject of the seminary is Attic Tragedy. The special work of the seminary is devoted to the editing of Euripides's Orestea. Members of the seminary report on special subjects and give critical summaries of current classical literature.

Greek Seminary, Dr. Wright. Two hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in each year.)

In 1909-10 the subject of the seminary in the first semester is Menander. A thorough study of all the extant fragments of Menander is made with reports by the students on Menander's style, metres, text, and influence on Latin Comedy. The recent discoveries of considerable remains of Menander's Comedies and the publication of the Cairo Menander (1907) have provided sufficient material to make such a course profitable to students of the Greek drama.
In the second semester the subject of the seminar is the Homeric Question, and the work consists of a review of the discussions of the Homeric poems since the publication of Wolf's Prolegomena. The various tests that have been applied to the poems by archaeologists, linguists, historians of myths, and aesthetic critics are taken up and criticised in detail.

In 1901-11 the subject of the seminar is Aristophanes. The aim of the seminar is to make the students familiar with the more important Aristophanic literature up to the present day. Portions of the text are interpreted by the class and reports on assigned topics, literary, historical, and archaeological, connected with the plays are expected from all the members. All the comedies of Aristophanes are read in the course of the year; lectures are given by the instructor on the metres and syntax of Aristophanes, on the dramatic structure of the plays and on the history of Attic comedy. Part of the work consists of analyses of Latin and German dissertations on Aristophanes which are presented by members of the class. Every member of the class should provide herself in advance with a complete text of Aristophanes. The Teubner (Leipsic) or Clarendon Press (Oxford) editions are recommended.

In 1911-12 the seminar will be on Plato. The work is mainly literary and critical. Lectures on the style, philosophy, and chronology of the dialogues are given by the instructor; a detailed interpretation of a portion of Plato, and reports on topics set for discussion are given by the class. The students are expected to read the Republic, Theaetetus, Parmenides, and Sophist and discuss certain problems arising from these dialogues. The aim of the course is to lay a foundation for independent work by familiarising the students with the achievements of German scholarship and the general field of Platonic literature up to the present day. Analyses of German and Latin dissertations are expected from the class. Lutoslawski's Origin and Growth of Plato's Logic will be studied and criticised in detail. Every member of the seminar should provide herself in advance with a complete text of Plato. The Teubner (Leipsic) or Clarendon Press (Oxford) editions are recommended.

Seminary in Plato, Dr. Wright. Two hours a week during the second semester. (Given in 1909-10.)

Latin.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Arthur Leslie Wheeler, Professor of Latin, Dr. Tenney Frank, Associate Professor of Latin, and Miss Elizabeth Andros Foster, Reader in Latin. The instruction offered in Latin covers twenty-four hours of lectures and recitations a week, and includes ten hours a week of undergraduate major and minor work; eight hours a week of post-major work open only to graduates and to undergraduates that have completed the major course in Latin; and six hours a week of graduate work.

First Year.

(Minor Course)*

1st Semester.

(Given in each year.)

Livy, Books xxi and xxi, Dr. Wheeler. Two hours a week. Major Course.

* For regulations regarding the passing off of the Minor Latin, see footnote, page 53. Students passing off the Minor Latin course for advanced standing are not required to take the separate examinations in private reading.
Latin Prose Composition, Dr. Wheeler.
Horace, Odes, Dr. Frank.

(May be taken as a free elective.)

Private reading: Stories from Gellius (first half) must be read by students taking the courses in Livy and Latin Prose Composition; Sallust, Catilina (first half) must be read by students taking the course in Horace. Examinations on the private reading must be taken at one of two stated times during the semester by all students pursuing the Latin courses.

2nd Semester

Latin Prose Composition, Dr. Wheeler.

(May be taken as a free elective.)

Private reading: Stories from Gellius (second half) must be read by students taking the courses in Cicero and Latin Prose Composition; Sallust, Catilina (second half) must be read by students taking the course in Horace. Examinations on the private reading must be taken at one of two stated times during the semester by all students pursuing the Latin courses.

Second Year.

1st Semester.
(Given in each year.)

Tacitus, Annals, Dr. Wheeler.

The reading is devoted chiefly to those parts of Books i–vi bearing on the character of Tiberius, a study of which forms one of the main objects of the course. Other important topics are Tacitus's method as a historian, his style as a writer, the peculiarities of "Silver" Latin, etc. Several lectures are given on these and other subjects.

No student is admitted to any part of the major course in Latin who has not completed the work of the minor course. The major courses may not be offered for examination for advanced standing without class attendance.

Lectures on Latin Literature, Dr. Frank.

The lectures in this course treat the history of Latin Literature from its earliest beginnings down to the end of the second century of the Christian era, including all the authors from whose writings any important remains have been preserved. The libraries in each hall contain texts and translations of the most important authors and extensive reading is required.

Private reading: Cicero, De Senectute (first half) must be read by students taking the course in Tacitus; Tacitus, Agricola (first half) must be read by students taking the course in Latin Literature. Examinations on the private reading must be taken at one of two stated times during the semester by all students pursuing the Latin courses.

2nd Semester.

Latin Comedy, Plautus and Terence, Dr. Wheeler.

The origin, development, and characteristics of Roman comedy are studied. Much attention is devoted to the peculiarities of archaic and colloquial Latin and to the reading of the simpler metres. Such topics as the theatre, stage, and actors receive special treatment in lectures. Three or four plays are read in class.

Lectures on Latin Literature (continued), Dr. Frank.

The second year’s work of the major course may be divided so as to cover a period of two years; but if elected for the first semester, the lectures on literature must be elected for the second semester also.
No student is admitted to any part of the major course in Latin who has not completed the work of the minor course. The major courses may not be offered for examination for advanced standing without class attendance.

Private reading: Cicero, De Senectute (second half) must be read by students taking the course in Latin Comedy; Tacitus, Agricola (second half) must be read by students taking the course in Latin Literature. Examinations on the private reading must be taken at one of two stated times during the semester by all students pursuing the Latin courses.

Group: Latin with any language, or with Archaeology and Art, or with Mathematics.

Post-major Courses.

The post-major courses are designed to bridge over the interval between the ordinary undergraduate studies and graduate work. As the amount of time given to undergraduate subjects differs in different colleges graduate students frequently find it advisable to elect some of these courses. No student that has not completed the minor and major courses in Latin is admitted to any post-major course in Latin.

In 1909-10 and again in 1911-12 the following post-major courses are offered:

1st Semester.

Roman Satire, its Origin and Development, Dr. Wheeler.

Two hours a week.

The subject is treated historically in order to give an outline of the origin and development of Satire. The class reads selections from Horace, Persius, Seneca, Petronius, and Juvenal, together with some of the fragments of Ennius, Lucilius, and Varro. The readings are supplemented by occasional lectures. Each student is required to prepare at least one paper on an assigned topic in each semester.

Lectures on Roman History, Dr. Frank.

Three hours a week.

Collateral reading will be assigned from the Latin sources and independent reports on special topics required.

Lucretius, Dr. Frank.

Two hours a week.

The first three books of the De Rerum Natura and selections from the remaining books are studied.

Advanced Latin Prose Composition, Dr. Frank.

One hour a week.

Roman Satire (continued), Dr. Wheeler.

Two hours a week.

Cicero and Caesar, Dr. Frank.

Three hours a week.

An effort will be made by means of lectures, discussions and extensive reading to gain an intimate acquaintance with the literary work and the political careers of Cicero and Caesar.

Catullus and Horace, Epistles, Dr. Frank.

Two hours a week.

In connection with the reading of Horace's Ars Poetica special stress will be laid upon his theories of literary criticism.

Advanced Latin Prose Composition (continued), Dr. Frank.

One hour a week.
In 1910–11 and again in 1912–13 the following post-major courses are offered:

1st Semester.

Roman Elegy, its Origin and Development, Dr. Wheeler.

Two hours a week.

An effort is made to trace historically the development of this branch of poetry among the Romans. Selections from Catullus, Tibullus, Propertius, and Ovid are read and the readings are supplemented by occasional lectures. Special attention is devoted to the structure and reading of the elegiac distich and to the characteristics of Roman poetic diction. Each student is required to prepare papers on assigned topics in each semester.

The Life and Works of Vergil, Dr Frank.

Three hours a week.

The larger part of the Aeneid, two books of the Georgics and some of the Eclogues and Pseudo-Vergiliana are read and discussed.

Pliny, Letters, Martial, Dr. Frank.

Two hours a week.

Special attention is paid to a study of the political and social conditions of the period embraced in the course.

Advanced Latin Prose Composition, Dr. Frank

One hour a week.

2nd Semester.

Roman Elegy (continued), Dr. Wheeler.

Two hours a week.

Roman Prose of the Empire, Dr. Frank.

Three hours a week.

Selections from Velleius, Seneca, Quintilian, Tacitus, Suetonius, Apuleius and Minucius Felix will be read.

Seneca and Lucan, Dr. Frank.

Two hours a week.

Three tragedies of Seneca and portions of Lucan’s Pharsalia will be read.

Advanced Latin Prose Composition (continued), Dr. Frank.

One hour a week.

Graduate Courses.

Six hours a week of seminar work and graduate lectures are offered each year to graduate students of Latin accompanied by the direction of private reading and original research. The books needed by graduate students are collected in the seminary library of the department. No under-graduates are admitted to graduate courses or to the seminary library, but the post-major courses of the department amounting to eight hours a week may be elected by graduates.

The graduate work in Latin is conducted according to the seminary method, and is intended not only to broaden the student’s knowledge, but also to teach methods of work. The graduate courses in Latin are varied from year to year in two series, Roman Comedy, Lyric Poetry and Elegy, and Roman History, Epigraphy and Literature, or Syntax. Students electing Latin as part of the work for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy are required to offer with each three hour seminary a two hour seminary and vice versa, so as to make up five hours of seminary work, but both seminaries need not be taken in the same year. Such students are recommended to attend the Journal Club. Three five hour courses are required of students who offer Latin as a major subject in the examination for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy; two five hour courses are required when Latin is the only minor subject offered and one five hour course when two minors are offered. It is desirable that all students who intend to do advanced work in Latin should have some knowledge of Greek. A reading knowledge of French and German is also necessary.

Latin Seminary, Dr. Wheeler. Three hours a week throughout the year.

In 1909–10 the subject of the seminar is Latin Comedy. All the plays of Plautus and Terence are read by the students: single plays form the basis of special work on the language, text, metres, etc.

In 1910–11 the subject of the seminar will be the Roman Lyric in the Period of the Republic. After a rapid survey of the fragmentary lyric remains of the predecessors and contemporaries of Catullus, the poems of Catullus himself will be studied in detail. Students should have Catulli carmina (Oxford text, 1904), edited by Robinson Ellis, and either the same scholar’s Commentary on Catullus, Oxford, Clarendon Press, 1889 (second edition), or G. Friedrich’s Catulli Veronensis liber, Leipzig and Berlin, 1908 (Teubner).

In 1911–12 Roman Elegy as represented by Tibullus, Propertius, and Ovid is the subject of the seminar. In addition to a careful study of selected poems an effort is made to trace the history of elegy among the Romans. The various topics connected with the subject are treated in detail as far as time permits, and the students are encouraged to familiarise themselves with the best literature in editions, periodicals, and dissertations. The text recommended is the Oxford Clarendon Press edition of Catullus, Tibullus, and Propertius edited by Ellis, Postgate, and Phillimore, 1906 (one volume).

Latin Seminary, Dr. Frank. Two hours a week throughout the year.

In 1909–10 Roman History from the sources is the subject of the seminar. The object of this study is to examine in detail the course of events during the last years of the Roman Republic, and to familiarise the student with the sources of historical knowledge for that period. The course consists largely of research work on the part of the student.

In 1910–11 the work of the seminar is Latin Epigraphy and Palaeography. About two-thirds of the course is devoted to the study of the Corpus Inscriptionum. The questions assigned for investigation deal mainly with Roman political institutions, public and private life, and with historical grammar. Dessau’s Inscriptiones Latinae Selectae is used in the class room. The palaeographical facsimiles of Chatelain, Zangemeister and Wattenbach, and Arndt form the basis for work in the latter part of the course.

In 1911–12 selected topics in Roman Literature will be studied. The work consists of studies in the beginning of the Roman epic, tragedy, and prose, special attention being paid to the relation of the literature to historical events and native influences. The students will read reports on special subjects assigned to them. A study of Latin Syntax may be substituted.

Latin Journal Club, Dr. Wheeler and Dr. Frank. One and a half hours once a fortnight throughout the year.

The instructors and the advanced students meet to report on and discuss recent articles and books.
Modern Languages.

Professors and instructors: Dr. M. Carey Thomas, Dr. Fonger DeHaan, Dr. Albert Schinz, Miss Lucy Martin Donnelly, Dr. Karl Detlev Jessen, Dr. Clarence Carroll Clark, Dr. Carleton Fairchild Brown, Dr. Richard Thayer Holbrook, Dr. Hans Weyhe, Dr. Alfred Horatio Upham (elect), Mr. Samuel Arthur King, Mr. Frederick A. Blossom, Dr. Orie Latham Hatcher, Miss Rose Chamberlin, Miss Katharine Fullerton, Dr. Regina Katharine Crandall, Miss Georgiana Goddard King, Dr. Clara Leonora Nicolay, Dr. Lillie Deming Loshe, Miss Content Shepard Nichols, Dr. Emma Haeberli (elect), and Miss Martha Plaisted (elect).

English.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. M. Carey Thomas, Professor of English, Miss Lucy Martin Donnelly, Associate Professor of English, Dr. Clarence Carroll Clark, Associate Professor of English, Dr. Carleton Fairchild Brown, Associate Professor and Professor (elect) of English Philology, Dr. Alfred Horatio Upham, Associate Professor (elect) of English Literature, Mr. Samuel Arthur King, Non-resident Lecturer in English Diction, Dr. Orie Latham Hatcher; Lecturer in Elizabethan Literature and Associate (elect), in Comparative Literature and Elizabethan Literature, Miss Katharine Fullerton, Dr. Regina Katharine Crandall, Miss Georgiana Goddard King, Dr. Lillie Deming Loshe, and Miss Content Shepard Nichols, Readers in English, and Miss Martha Plaisted, Reader (elect) in English. The instruction offered in English covers forty-four hours of lectures and recitations a week, and includes two years of lectures on literature and language required of every candidate for the Bachelor’s degree; two years of Minor and Major English, which presuppose as much information as is contained in the required course, and may be elected in combination with the major course in any other language, or with comparative literature, or as a free elective; eight hours a week of free elective work; two hours a week of elective courses in elocution, and graduate courses in English literature, Anglo-Saxon, and Early and Middle English, and Elizabethan Literature.
The required course consists of lectures on literature and language, in which the history of English literature is regarded as far as possible from the point of view of European literature generally; a study of the principles of English composition with constant practice in writing; and courses of private reading, which are meant to familiarize the student with English authors. The instruction in English composition is given in three ways: in introductory lectures, in written corrections on papers written by the students, and in conferences between the instructors and students. The course in English composition and rhetoric is connected with the lectures on literature and language and may not be elected separately.

First Year.

1st Semester.

(Let given in each year.)

Lectures on the history of the English language and Anglo-Saxon literature, with an introduction into the study of early Teutonic literature and mythology, Miss Donnelly. Three hours a week.

The Principles of Articulation, Mr. King. One hour a fortnight.

This course deals with a system of oral gymnastics, by which a distinct, firm, and fluent articulation can be acquired. The means of instruction for improving the quality of the speaking voice, and for acquiring a correct production, are pointed out. Special attention is paid to the cure of nasality and other vicious habits of speaking. The common errors of articulation and the vulgarisms constantly heard in everyday speech are clearly defined. A special class will be formed to assist those students whose defects of articulation are so marked as to make it difficult for them to work with the other members of the class.

English Composition and Rhetoric, Miss Donnelly, Miss Fullerton, Dr. Crandall, Miss King, Dr. Loshe, Miss Nichols. One and half hours a week.

The lectures on the history of the English language and the course in English composition and rhetoric may not be elected separately. The work in English composition consists of five short papers each week on subjects drawn from the student's personal experience, and one longer paper each fortnight on a subject drawn from the lectures on the history of the English language and literature. In the rhetoric course the principles of English composition are studied and their practice taught in the papers written by the students. A written examination is held on the work in English composition and rhetoric at the end of the semester. Written examinations on the lectures are held from time to time during the semester and credit is given for the style and structure of the papers.

2nd Semester.

Lectures on the history of English literature to the death of Spenser, inclusive, with an introduction into the study of mediaeval literature, Miss Donnelly. Three hours a week.

The Principles of Articulation (continued), Mr. King. One hour a fortnight.

English Composition and Rhetoric, Miss Donnelly, Dr. Crandall, Miss Fullerton, Miss King, Dr. Loshe, Miss Nichols. One and half hours a week.

The lectures on the history of English literature and the course in English composition and rhetoric may not be elected separately. The work of the second semester is divided into two parts. The first part exactly continues the arrangement of the first semester: in the second part the work consists of one short paper each fortnight on a subject drawn from the student's personal experience and two long papers on a subject drawn from the lectures. In the rhetoric course the principles of English composition are studied throughout the semester and their practice taught in the papers written by the students. A written examination on the work in English composition and rhetoric is held at the end of each semester. Written examinations on the lectures on the history of English literature are held from time to time during the semester and credit is given for the style and structure of the papers.

Second Year.

1st Semester.

(Lessons in each year.)

Lectures on the history of English literature from the death of Spenser to the Restoration, inclusive, with a short account of the influences of the contemporary continental literatures, Miss Donnelly. Three hours a week.

The Sonant Properties of Speech, Mr. King. One hour a fortnight.

This course consists of a detailed study of the principles of inflection, pitch, and rhythm, together with special treatment of emphasis and rules on pausing. Students are required from time to time to read aloud in order that individual faults may be corrected.

English Composition, Miss Donnelly, Miss Fullerton, Dr. Crandall, Miss King, Dr. Loshe, Miss Nichols. One and a half hours a week.

The lectures on the history of English literature and the course in English composition may not be elected separately. The course in English composition consists of one short paper each week on a subject drawn from the student's personal experience, two argumentative papers, and one critical paper on a subject drawn from the lectures on the history of English literature. A written examination on the work in English composition is held at the end of each semester. Written examinations on the lectures on the history of English literature are held from time to time during the semester and at the end of each semester and credit is given for the style and structure of the papers.

2nd Semester.

Lectures on the history of English literature from the Restoration to the present time, Miss Donnelly. Three hours a week.

The Sonant Properties of Speech (continued), Mr. King. One hour a fortnight.

English Composition, Miss Donnelly, Miss Fullerton, Dr. Crandall, Miss King, Dr. Loshe, Miss Nichols. One and a half hours a week.

The lectures on the history of English literature and the course in English composition may not be elected separately. The work of the semester in English composition consists of one short paper each week on a subject drawn from the student's personal experience, one twenty-four page critical paper on an author chosen by the student with the approval of her instructor, and two shorter so-called imitative papers during the writing of which the principles of imitative writing are discussed in the lectures. A written examination is held on the work at the end of each semester. Written examinations on the lectures on the history of English literature are held from time to time during the semester and at the end of each semester and credit is given for the style and structure of the papers.

Major Course.

The major course in English differs slightly from the other major courses of the college, in that it must always have been preceded by two years' study of English in the required undergraduate courses, and is intended for graduate students or for those undergraduate students who are anxious to specialise in English. Any of the courses, except the courses in English Drama, in Classical and Romantic Prose, and in Middle English Poetry and Chaucer, may be taken separately as free electives by students that have completed the required course. Students wishing to specialise in language may substitute the course in Middle English Romances or the courses in Middle English Poetry and Chaucer for the course in Classical and Romantic Prose, and the course in Anglo-Saxon for either the course in English Poetry from 1780 to 1832 or the course in English Drama, but all students taking a major course in English must take either the course in Anglo-Saxon or the course in Middle English Romances, or the courses in Middle English Poetry and Chaucer.

First Year.

Minor Course. (Literature.)

English Critics of the Nineteenth Century, Dr. Clark.
Three hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in each year.)

The essayists and critics after 1832 are studied. In the first semester the authors usually chosen are Carlyle, Matthew Arnold, and Newman; in the second semester Ruskin, Pater, and Swinburne are discussed. Short papers and one long essay must be prepared by the students attending the course.

This course will be given in 1910-11 by Dr. Upham.

English Poetry from 1780 to 1832, Miss Donnelly.
Two hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13.)

This course consists of a detailed study of the poetry of Cowper, Burns, Wordsworth, Coleridge, Scott, Byron, Shelley, and Keats: special attention is paid to the rise and development of the Romantic movement in English poetry, with occasional reference to similar movements in France and Germany. The course in English Drama or the course in Anglo-Saxon may be substituted for this course if desired.

Minor Course. (Language.)

Anglo-Saxon, Dr. Brown.
Two hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in each year.)

The course begins with an outline of Anglo-Saxon grammar as presented in Bright's Anglo-Saxon Reader. Selections in prose and verse from Bright's reader are next read with the class. In the second semester after a brief study of alliterative verse selections from Beowulf are read. Throughout the year lectures are given outlining the literature of the period and texts are read in translation. The course on English Poetry from 1780 to 1832, or the course on English Drama may be substituted for this course if desired.

Middle English Romances, Dr. Brown.
Three hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13.)

Selected romances are read by the members of the class. The lectures treat the development of romance literature in English with special reference to the romances of Germanic origin and the Arthurian cycle. The course in Classical and Romantic Prose or the courses in Middle English Poetry and Chaucer may be substituted for this course if desired.
SECOND YEAR.

(Literature.)

Classical and Romantic Prose, Dr. Clark.

Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

In the first semester the writings of Edmund Burke are considered with special reference to Classicism and Romanticism, and to the ideas of the French revolution. In the second semester the works of Lamb, Hazlitt, and De Quincey are studied. This course is open only to those students who have taken the course in English Critics of the Nineteenth Century. The courses in Middle English Poetry and Chaucer, or the course in Middle English Romances may be substituted for this course if desired.

This course will be given in 1910-11 by Dr. Upham.

English Drama, Miss Donnelly.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12.)

This course is intended to give students that have completed the required course in English a more intimate knowledge of the later Elizabethan and the Jacobean drama. The lectures follow the development of the realistic and romantic tendencies in the comedy and tragedy of the period both as an expression of the national life and of the individual genius of the various dramatists. Selected plays of Shakespeare, Middleton, Ben Jonson, Beaumont and Fletcher, and other dramatists are read in connection with the lectures. This course is open only to those students who are taking the English group. The course in English Poetry from 1750 to 1832, or the course in Anglo-Saxon may be substituted for this course if desired.

This course was given in 1909-10 by Dr. Hatcher.

(Language.)

Middle English Poetry, Dr. Brown. Three hours a week during the first semester.

(Given in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12.)

The purpose of the course is to give the student a direct acquaintance with some of the more important pieces of Middle English verse. Selections are read from Layamon's Brut, Robert of Gloucester's Chronicle, Laurence Minot, Robert of Brunne's Handlyng Synne, and Langland's Vision of Piers the Plowman. The Owl and the Nightingale and Pearl will be read in full. In connection with the reading of these texts lectures are given on the development of the language and literature during the Middle English period. The course is designed as an introduction to the course on Chaucer given in the second semester but may be taken independently. This course is open only to those students who are taking or have taken at least one other course in English in addition to the required courses. The course in Classical and Romantic Prose or the course in Middle English Romances may be substituted for this course and the course on Chaucer if desired.

Chaucer, Dr. Brown.

Three hours a week during the second semester.

(Given in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12.)

In this course the best of the Canterbury Tales are studied, also the Legend of Good Women, The House of Fame, and portions of Troilus and Criseyde. The lectures discuss Chaucer's sources and literary art, and his relation to the English, French, and Italian literature of his time. It is desirable but not essential that this course should be preceded by the course in Middle English Poetry. This course is open only to those students who are taking at least one other course in English in addition to the required courses.

The course in Classical and Romantic Prose or the course in Middle English Romances may be substituted for this course if desired.

Group: English with any language, or English with comparative literature, or English with philosophy.
Free Elective Courses.

Prose Writers of the Queen Anne Period, Miss Donnelly.
One hour a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1911-12.)

Among the writers studied will be Addison, Steele, Swift, and Bolingbroke. Two short papers will be required in each semester. This course is open only to those students who have attended the first and second year general courses in English literature and have received no grade below that of merit or have received the grade of credit in at least two semesters of these courses.

English Letter Writers, Miss Donnelly.  One hour a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1912-13.)

The more important letter writers of the seventeenth, eighteenth, and nineteenth centuries will be studied and special stress will be laid on their characters, their relation to their times, and their style. The students will be required to write short papers from time to time. This course is open only to those students who have attended the first and second year general courses in English literature and have received no grade below that of merit or have received the grade of credit in at least two semesters of these courses.

Victorian Poets, Dr. Clark.  Two hours a week during the first semester.
(Given in 1909-10 and again in 1910-11.)

The works of Tennyson, Arnold, Clough, Fitzgerald, and Landor are studied. The course is open only to those students who have completed the two years' required course in English. The course will be given by Miss King in 1910-11.

Victorian Poets (continued), Dr. Clark.  Two hours a week during the second semester.
(Given in 1909-10 and again in 1910-11.)

The Pre-Raphaelite movement is considered and the works of Morris, Rossetti, Swinburne, and Browning are studied. The course is open only to those students who have completed the two years' required course in English. The course will be given by Miss King in 1910-11.

The English Ballad, Dr. Brown.  One hour a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1909-10.)

This course is designed as an introduction to the study of popular poetry. Selections from the ballad literature of England and Scotland, representative of various types and periods, are read in class. The lectures illustrate the origins and history of the ballad as developed in English and other literatures, together with a study of various imitations of the genuine ballad. The course is open only to those students who have completed the two years' required course in English.

The Elizabethan Age in Non-dramatic Literature, Dr. Hatcher.  Two hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1909-10.)

The lectures trace the national and foreign influences creating the first great body of English literature, and show the making of vocabulary, critical theories of prose and poetry, and the development of various types of literature,—epic, pastoral, novel, sonnet, and minor lyric and prose forms. The reading involves the best representatives of each of these types and some acquaintance with the critical literature of the period. The course is open only to those students who have completed the two years' required course in English.

Descriptive and Narrative Writing, Miss Fullerton.  Two hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in each year.)
Lectures are given on the theory and practice of description and on the style and methods of the best modern writers of short stories, both English and French. Students are required to write papers each week. The course is open to qualified graduate students, to undergraduate students who have completed the two years of required English Composition and have obtained the grade of merit in two semesters or the grade of credit in one semester of the work, and to students that have taken the major course in English literature. It may not be substituted for any other essay course or for any part of the major English course, and no student may take this course at the same time that she is taking another course in English Composition.

Argumentation, Dr. Crandall.
Two hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in each year.)

In the first semester the course takes up the technique of Argumentation, and in the second semester establishes the relation between the laws of thought emphasized in the first semester and the ordinary forms of prose composition. The course is open to students who have obtained the grade of merit in two semesters, or of credit in one semester of the required course in English Composition, but no student may take this course at the same time that she is taking another course in English Composition.

Imitative Writing, Miss King.
Two hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12.)

This course consists of a study of the formation of style by the method of imitation. The lectures deal with the elements and the psychology of style, and as far as may be necessary, with the authors selected for imitation. The course is open to students who have obtained the grade of merit in two semesters or of credit in one semester of the required course in English Composition, but no student may take this course at the same time that she is taking another course in English Composition.

Theory and Practice of Verse Composition, Miss King.
Two hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1910-11.)

This course is not historical but theoretical and practical. The lectures deal with the theory of poetry, the difference between poetry and prose and the laws of verse in English. Students are required to write short exercises in verse every week. The course is open to students who have obtained the grade of merit in two semesters or of credit in one semester of the required course in English Composition, but no student may take this course at the same time that she is taking another course in English Composition.

Reading of Shakespeare, Mr. King.
One hour a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12.)

This course is open only to those students who have attended the lectures in English diction given in the general course. A special study is made of the principles of correct delivery of blank verse. The needs of those students who expect to teach English literature, and desire to read Shakespeare to their pupils, are given special attention.

General Reading of Prose Authors, Mr. King.
One hour a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13.)

This course is open only to those students who have attended the lectures in English diction given in the general course.

Graduate Courses.

Twelve hours a week of seminary work and graduate lectures are offered each year to graduate students of English, accompanied by the direction of private reading and original research, and the courses are varied from year to year, so that they may be pursued by students through three or more consecutive years. The books needed by the graduate students are collected in the seminary library of the department. No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses or to the seminary libraries, but the major or third and fourth year courses of the department amounting to ten hours a week may be elected by graduate students. There are offered each year two graduate seminaries in English literature and one in English language. The graduate seminaries in literature presuppose at least as much knowledge as is obtained in the two years' course of undergraduate lectures on English literature and in one of the literature years of the English group; and the graduate courses in Anglo-Saxon presuppose as much knowledge of Anglo-Saxon as is obtained in the language year in the English group.

Students who choose English as the chief subject in their examination for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy must have, if they specialise in literature, at least as much knowledge of Anglo-Saxon, and, if they specialise in language, at least as much knowledge of literature, as is obtained in the courses required of those students who make English one of the chief subjects of undergraduate study, and must have taken at least the equivalent of the English Composition in the required English course.

Seminary in Middle English, Dr. Brown.

Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

In 1909-10 the beginnings of English Drama are the subject of the seminary. Though the cycles of the mystery plays are considered in general, the larger part of the time is devoted to the study of the English morality plays. Particular attention is given to the connection between the moralities and the didactic treatises and the debates. The moralities and the secular drama are studied historically up to the time of Heywood. In addition to the reading and discussion of selected plays, lectures are given by the instructor with the object of setting various elements of dramatic development in proper proportion. Critical reports on assigned topics are required from the students.

In 1910-11 the subject will be the Middle English Romances. All the romances represented in Middle English will be read, and the relation of these English versions to their Latin and Old French originals will be discussed. The romance cycles will be taken up in the following order: Troy story, Alexander saga, romances of Germanic origin, Arthurian cycle, Charlemagne cycle. Special investigations of various elements in individual romances will be undertaken from time to time by the members of the seminary.

In 1911-12 the seminary will undertake the study of The Vision of Piers the Plowman and the works of Chaucer. Attention will be devoted not so much to the critical reading of the texts themselves as to the examination of the questions of authorship and chronology which have recently been raised. These poems will also be discussed in their relation to the other literature of the fourteenth century. Special subjects for individual investigation will be assigned to the members of the seminary.

Cynewulf and Cædmon, Dr. Brown. Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12.)

Several of the poems traditionally ascribed to these authors are critically studied. Lectures will be given furnishing an introduction to Anglo-Saxon Christian poetry and the literary problems connected with it. This course is open to graduate students who have already taken the course in Anglo-Saxon Grammar and reading of Anglo-Saxon Texts, or its equivalent.
Beowulf, Dr. Brown.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13.)

This course gives in the first place a general survey of Beowulf criticism, including textual problems, theories as to the composition of the poem, and an enquiry into its historical and mythological elements. In this connection a study is also made of the other pieces of Anglo-Saxon heathen poetry. This course is open to graduate students who have already taken the course in Anglo-Saxon or its equivalent.

English Historical Grammar, Dr. Brown.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13.)

In this course the development of the English language is traced from the earliest times. After an outline of the history and external relations of English, the change and decay of inflections, the use of prepositions and the more important points in historical syntax are discussed. The course presupposes a knowledge of Anglo-Saxon and Middle English.

Seminary in English Literature, Dr. Upham.

Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

In 1909-10 Seventeenth Century Prose writers were studied, the authors chosen were Bacon, Milton and Hooker. The seminary was conducted by Dr. Clark.

In 1910-11 the subject of the seminary will be the literary and critical activity of the mid-eighteenth century, centering in Dr. Johnson and his circle. Particular attention will be given to the breaking down of classical standards, the manifestations of romanticism and their effect at home and abroad, the rise of periodical literature, etc.

The seminary for 1911-12 will deal with English sentimentalism in its relations with the continental movement. Richardson, Sterne and minor novelists will be considered, as well as similar tendencies displayed in the domestic drama of the period.

In 1912-13 the seminary will consider the liberal or revolutionary phase of the Romantic movement, as seen particularly in the work of Byron and Shelley. Careful study will be made of the relations of these poets to their contemporaries and to various foreign influences.

Seminary in Elizabethan Drama, Dr. Hatcher.

Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

Shakespeare is the subject of the seminary in 1909-10. In the first semester as detailed a review as is practicable is made of the results of Shakespearean scholarship as regards critical problems of biography, authorship, chronology and source material of the plays, comparison of varying versions of separate plays, the influence of earlier and contemporary dramatists, etc. Dramatic records relating to Shakespeare are also examined at first hand, and evidences of his participation in the general dramatic activities of his time noted. In the second semester students are given individual problems for investigation.

In 1910-11 Spenser will be studied in the light of medieval and Renaissance culture. Inquiry will be made into the inspiration, models, and sources of Spenser's poetry; the many influences working upon him, and those emanating from him, as shown in the significant blending of classical, medieval, and Renaissance tendencies in his poetry, and his initiative in solving the literary problems of his time. In the first semester all the works of Spenser will be read and the results of Spenserian research examined. The second semester will be devoted largely to the investigation by each student of some special problem.

In 1911-12 English drama from 1558 to 1642 will be studied, as the chief literary expression of the period. The conditions of its origin and continued production, its nature, extent, variety, development, and decadence will be discussed and a reasonable proportion of the extant plays of the period read continuously as a background for other work. A brief introductory study is made of dramatic genres and of the broader principles of dramatic construction, and the remainder of the first semester is devoted to the examination of contemporary documents and other sources of information in regard to Elizabethan drama. In the latter half of the year each student investigates some special problem, such as dramatic inter-relationship or authorship, and gives reports upon her work.

English Journal Club, Miss Donnelly, Dr. Clark, Dr. Brown, and Dr. Hatcher.
One and a half hours a fortnight throughout the year.
(Given in each year.)

The advanced students and the instructors meet to report on and discuss recent reviews and critical articles.

German.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Karl Detlev Jessen, Associate Professor of German Literature, Dr. Hans Weyhe, Associate in Teutonic Philology and Sanskrit, and Miss Rose Chamberlin, Reader in German.

The instruction offered in German covers thirty-one hours of lectures and recitations a week; it includes five hours a week of matriculation German; ten hours a week of undergraduate major and minor work; two hours of free elective; four hours a week of post-major work, open only to graduates and to undergraduates that have completed the major course in German, and ten hours a week of graduate work in modern German literature and in Teutonic philology.

A class for beginners in German, under the direction of Miss Rose Chamberlin, five hours a week throughout the year, is provided, in order that those students whose matriculation examination did not include German may with less difficulty obtain the reading knowledge of it that they must possess before receiving a degree. By great diligence such students may acquire sufficient knowledge to be admitted, should they desire it, into the first year of the major course in German.

The major course in German presupposes as much knowledge as is required to pass the matriculation examination in this subject.

Matriculation Course.

First Year.
(Minor Course.)
(Given in each year.)

Two hours a week throughout the year.

These lectures are delivered in German and discuss the masterpieces of German literature in the nineteenth century. Weicher's Deutsche Literaturgeschichte is recommended for reference.
This course is open as a free elective to all students that have passed the matriculation examination in German.

Private reading: Grillparzer, Sappho, must be read by students taking the course in the first semester; Sudermann, Die Heimat, must be read by students taking the course in the second semester. Examinations on the private reading must be taken at one of two stated times during the semester for which the reading is assigned by all students pursuing the German courses.

Critical Reading of Modern German Authors, Dr. Jessen.

German Grammar and Prose Composition, Dr. Weyhe.

The course in critical reading consists of translations of modern German novels such as G. Keller's Kleider machen Leute; E. von Wildenbruch's Der Letzte; H. Böhlau's Ratsmädelsgeschichten and especially of modern German essay prose. For translation of English into German, Hawthorne's Tales of the White Hills and Sketches, or texts of similar difficulty are used. German grammar is carefully reviewed in von Jagemann's German Syntax (Henry Holt and Co., New York).

The course in Critical Reading and the course in Grammar and Prose Composition may not be elected separately, and the examination in these subjects may not be divided. The courses are open as a free elective to all students that have passed the matriculation examination in German.

Private reading: Schiller, Geschichte des dreissigjährigen Krieges, Book III, (Ed Palmer, New York; Henry Holt & Co.), must be read by students taking the courses in the first semester; Goethe, Hermann und Dorothea, and Schiller, Braut v. Messina, must be read by students taking the courses in the second semester. Examinations on the private reading must be taken at one of two stated times during the semester for which the reading is assigned by all students pursuing the German courses.

The advanced standing examinations, or examinations taken without attendance on college classes, in the reading and grammar of the minor, three hours a week for two semesters, may be taken by those students only who are able to submit satisfactory evidence that they have obtained before entering the college, by regular and systematic study, or by residence abroad or work under German governesses the necessary advanced knowledge, and are able to pass the examination in the first three weeks after entering the college. Failure to pass at the first trial will disqualify from further trials. The examination on the private reading that accompanies these courses must be taken not later than the third semester after that in which the advanced standing examination is offered.

Second Year.

(Given in each year.)

Lectures on the History of German Literature from Luther to the Romantic School, Dr. Jessen. Two hours a week throughout the year.

These lectures are delivered in German and discuss the great classical authors, as well as the most modern poets and novelists.

Selected Reading, Dr. Jessen. One hour a week throughout the year.

This course in selected reading is planned to illustrate the lectures on literature. Neither the lectures nor the reading may be elected separately.

Private reading: Goethe, Iphigenie, and Lessing, Nathan der Weise, must be read by students taking the courses in the first semester; Sudermann, Frau Sorge and Hauptmann, Die Versunkene Glocke, (New York: Henry Holt & Co.), must be read by students taking the courses in the second semester. Examinations on the private reading must be taken at one of two stated times during the semester for which the reading is assigned, by all students pursuing the German courses.
Goethe, Faust (2nd Part), Dr. Jessen.
One hour a week throughout the year.

German Prose Composition, Dr. Weyhe.
One hour a week throughout the year.

In the course in Prose Composition the students translate selected passages of difficult English prose into German.

The course in Faust and the course in Prose Composition may not be elected separately, and the examination in these subjects may not be divided.

Private reading: Goethe, Faust, (1st part), must be read by students taking the courses in the first semester; Goethe, Tasso, must be read by students taking the courses in the second semester. Examinations on the private reading must be taken at one of two stated times during the semester for which the reading is assigned by all students pursuing the German courses.

An advanced standing examination, or an examination taken without attendance on the college class, in the prose composition of the major, one hour a week for two semesters, may be taken by those students only who are able to submit satisfactory evidence that they have obtained before entering the college, by regular and systematic study, or by residence abroad or work under German governnesses the necessary advanced knowledge, and are able to pass the examination in the first three weeks after entering the college. Failure to pass at the first trial will disqualify from further trials. The examination on the private reading that accompanies this course must be taken not later than the third semester after that in which the advanced standing examination is offered.

Group: German with any language.

Free Elective Course.

Advanced German Composition and Reading of Modern Prose, Miss Chamberlin.
Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

Attention is given in this course to the needs of students wishing to make teaching their profession. Each student is required to lecture to the class at least once during the year.

Post-major Courses.

The post-major courses are designed to bridge over the interval between the ordinary undergraduate studies and graduate work. As the amount of time given to undergraduate subjects differs in different colleges graduate students frequently find it advisable to elect some of these courses.

Lectures on the History of German Literature from the Romantic School till 1850, Dr. Jessen.
Two hours a week during the first semester.

(Given in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12.)

This course begins with a general study of the principles of philosophy, life, art, and poetry, as represented by the Romantic School, which is followed by lectures on the literary movements, expressed mainly in lyric poetry and in the novel, which supersede the Romantic Weltanschauung. The lyrics of the war of liberation, the Welt schmerz, and the political revolution; the novel of Jungdeutschland; the drama of Heinrich von Kleist; the works of the Schlegels, Tieck, Hölderlin, Jean Paul, Novalis, Uhland, Lenau, Heine, Immermann, Freiligrath, Herwegh, Gutzkow, Mörike, and Gotthelf, are the principal topics discussed.

German Drama in the Nineteenth Century, Dr. Jessen.
Two hours a week during the second semester.

(Given in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12.)
The drama of Heinrich von Kleist is studied with special reference to that of the classical period, and to the dramatic efforts of the Romanticists. The place of Grillparzer in German literature is defined, as well as the significance of Grabbe and Raimund. This leads to Otto Ludwig and to Friedrich Hebbel, who is the central figure, chronologically as well as in importance, of the German drama during the nineteenth century. The course ends with a review of Anzengruber, Wildenbruch, Sudermann, Hauptmann, and of other modern writers of less importance.

German Literature from 1850 to the Present Time, Dr. Jessen.

Two hours a week during the first semester.

(Given in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13.)

The subject of this course is, in the first semester, the Epigonen-Literatur. The development of the modern German Novelle is discussed and Keller’s, Storm’s, and C. F. Meyer’s works are specially studied. A full account of the poets of the Münchener Schule is given, as well as of Richard Wagner, Reuter, Groth, Freytag, Spielhagen, Scheffel, Raabe, Geibel, Heyse, and Schack.

German Literature from 1850 to the Present Time (continued), Dr. Jessen.

Two hours a week during the second semester.

(Given in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13.)

In the second semester among the subjects discussed are the influence of French, Russian, and Scandinavian literatures, especially of the work of Zola and Ibsen on German literature; modern German realism and naturalism, as represented by Fontane, Anzengruber, Wildenbruch, Hauptmann, Sudermann, Lillencron, and Rosegger; the increased importance of women in literature, and the work of Marie von Ebner-Eschenbach, Luise von François, Ricarda Huch, Helene Böllau, Isolde Kurz, Clara Viebig, and others; the significance of Nietzsche for German life and literature; Neo-romanticism and Heimatdichtung.

Advanced Critical Reading, Dr. Jessen. One hour a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

The reading is selected from works discussed in the post-major lectures on literature. The students give reports on dramas or novels, the object of the discussion being to trace the characteristics of the author, as shown in his works. Special attention will be paid to the needs of students who intend to teach German.

Elementary Middle High German, Dr. Weyhe.

One hour a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

This course has been arranged primarily for undergraduate students who wish to be able to read the Middle High German classics in the original. A general acquaintance with the history of early German literature, such as may be obtained from the lectures on the history of German literature in the minor course, is presupposed. Wright’s Middle High German Primer (2nd edition, Oxford, 1899) is used.

Graduate Courses.

Ten hours a week of seminary work and graduate lectures are offered each year to graduate students of German and Teutonic Philology accompanied by the direction of private reading and original research. The books needed by the graduate students are collected in the seminary library of the department. No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses or to the seminary libraries, but the post-major courses of the department, amounting to four hours a week, may be elected by graduate students.
The graduate courses offered in German Philology may be found under the head of General Teutonic Philology.

Graduate work in the history of modern German literature is conducted according to the seminary method. The courses are varied so that they may be followed by graduate students throughout three successive years and cover the work required of students who offer German literature as a major or minor for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

Seminary in German Literature, Dr. Jessen.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

Although the seminary meets only two hours a week throughout the year, the amount of reading required makes the course equivalent to five hours a week. It is hoped that the students will become familiar in these courses with the methods of scientific literary criticism and investigation.

In 1909–10 Goethe as a lyrical poet is studied.

In 1910–11 Goethe’s life and works will be the subject of the seminary. Goethe’s views on aesthetics and philosophy, translations by and from Goethe, Goethe and romanticism, text criticism applied to selected works, studies of Goethe’s style and use of words, and similar subjects are investigated.

In 1911–12 the Romantic School and the Volkslied will be studied.

Goethe’s Weltanschauung, Dr. Jessen.

One hour a week during the first semester.

(Given in 1909–10 and again in 1912–13.)

In this course the philosophy of Goethe is studied with a view to its importance in understanding the currents of thought underlying modern German culture. Its unscholastic character gives it special interest. The students are referred to the writings of Wilhelm Bode, Moritz Heynacher, Hermann Siebeck, and others on the subject.

Germanic Antiquities, Dr. Jessen. One hour a week during the second semester.

(Given in 1909–10 and again in 1912–13.)

This course deals with the study of ethnic conditions and characteristics, the racial and social conditions of the Germanic peoples and the important influences exerted by classical study and the Christian religion. The recent scientific discussions of Comte Gobineau, H. St. Chamberlain, and others have emphasised the importance of the subject. Tacitus’s Germania will be read with reference to Mullenhoff, Deutsche Altertumskunde.

German Metrics, Dr. Jessen. One hour a week during the first semester.

(Given in 1910–11.)

This course consists of lectures on Deutsche Metrik or Verslehre, with an introduction to phonetics, this being an indispensable Hilfswissenschaft for the study of German literature.

German Poetics, Dr. Jessen. One hour a week during the second semester.

(Given in 1910–11.)

Lectures will be given on Deutsche Poetik and Stilistik.

German Literary Criticism, Dr. Jessen.

One hour a week during the first semester.

(Given in 1911–12.)

The lectures trace the development of literary and aesthetic criticism in Germany from Leibniz to Schiller and Goethe. The course is comparative in character, and French and English literary criticism are also considered. Lessing's Laokoön and Hamburgische Dramaturgie and Schiller's essays on aesthetics are studied. A good reading knowledge of French and German is required.

The German Essay, Dr. Jessen.
One hour a week during the second semester.

(Given in 1911–12.)

The history of the essay in German literature is studied, and the most eminent German essayists, Schopenhauer, Herman Grimm, Karl Hillebrand, Friedrich Nietzsche, etc., are discussed; the influence of French, English, and American writers, in particular Montaigne, Macaulay, and Emerson, is investigated. Incidentally questions touching on the evolution of modern German prose style are dealt with.

Goethe's Faust, Dr. Jessen.
Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year when the time of the department permits.)

This course is intended as an introduction to the problems of Faustphilologie, dealing with both the first and second parts.

General Teutonic Philology.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Hans Weyhe, Associate in Teutonic Philology and Sanskrit. Special attention is called to the facilities for the study of comparative Teutonic philology offered by Bryn Mawr College. The English and the German departments together have provided for a complete course in Teutonic philology, comprising both the study of the individual languages (Gothic, Norse, Anglo-Saxon, Old Saxon, Old High German, Middle High German, Platt-Deutsch, etc.) and the study of general comparative philology.

The courses in introduction to the study of Teutonic philology, Gothic and Middle High German grammar (first year course), are designed for students in their first year of graduate study in Teutonic languages and the remaining courses for students in their second or third year. The courses given in each year will be planned to meet the needs of the graduate students.

Students intending to elect Teutonic philology are advised to study Greek for at least one year during their undergraduate course.

Graduate Courses.

(Given in each year.)

Graduate Courses.
Introduction to the study of Teutonic Philology, Dr. Weyhe.
One hour a week throughout the year.

These lectures deal with the following topics: a discussion of Teutonic in its relation to the cognate Aryan languages; a brief sketch of the various Teutonic languages, accompanied by an account of the chief grammatical and lexicographic works on each; a discussion of the aim and method of historical and comparative grammar, including problems such as the relationship of dialects, and the consistency of phonetic laws; a brief history of Teutonic philology, and the outlines of general phonetics.
Gothic, Dr. Weyhe.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

Gothic phonetics and inflection are studied in connection with the elements of comparative Aryan grammar. Braune's Gotische Grammatik (6th ed., Halle, 1905), or Streitberg's Gotisches Elementarbuch (2nd ed., Heidelberg, 1900) are used as text-books.

As a thorough knowledge of Gothic is the foundation of the study of historical and comparative Teutonic grammar, every graduate student of Teutonic grammar is advised to take this course as early as possible.

Middle High German Grammar and reading of Middle High German Texts (first year course), Dr. Weyhe.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

This course includes a brief abstract of Middle High German grammar, with special reference to the difference between Middle High German and Modern German, and a study of the most prominent authors in Middle High German. Part of Hartmann's Armer Heinrich is read; it is followed by selections from the Nibelungenlied, a brief account being given of the "Nibelungenfrage" and of the manuscripts of the Nibelungenlied.

Students of Middle High German should be provided with Paul's Mittelhochd. Grammatik (6th ed., Halle, 1904), or Michels's Mittelhochd. Elementarbuch (Heidelberg, 1900). For a more complete treatment of the subject T. Wright's Historical German Grammar (Vol. 1, Oxford, 1907) is recommended. The private reading includes the works of the authors treated in the course.

This course is required of all students that make German the minor subject in their examination for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

Old High German, Dr. Weyhe.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

This course is offered to students acquainted with Gothic and Middle High German, or at least modern German, and includes a practical study of Old High German grammar, and a comparison of the Old High German sounds and forms with those of Middle and Modern High German. Selections are read from Old High German texts, arranged so as to proceed from easy to more difficult pieces, and to illustrate the differences between the Old High German dialects.

Middle High German (second year course), Dr. Weyhe.

One hour a week throughout the year.

This course is intended for students that have followed the first year's course in Middle High German. The first semester is devoted to the Höfisches Epos (Veldeke, Wolfram, Gottfried von Strassburg, Rudolf von Ems, Konrad von Würzburg), and the second semester to Minnesangs Frühling and Walther von der Vogelweide.

Old Saxon, Dr. Weyhe.

Two hours a week during the second semester.

The work presupposes on the part of the students a sufficient knowledge of Gothic and Anglo-Saxon. Holthausen's Altsächsisches Elementarbuch (Heidelberg, 1899); the Hidiland (in Sievers's or Heyne's or Behagel's edition), and Zangemeister-Braune's Bruchstücke der altsächsischen Bibeldichtung (Heidelberg, 1894) are used. The reading is supplemented by a discussion of the West Germanic alliterative verse with reference to versification and poetic style in Anglo-Saxon.

Old Norse, Dr. Weyhe.

Two hours a week during the second semester.

This course may, by request, be substituted for the course in Old Saxon.

Students entering this course are supposed to be acquainted with Gothic and with Anglo-Saxon or Old High German grammar. In the grammatical part of the course attention is paid to the relation between Gothic and Norse, and to the differences between the East Teutonic and West Teutonic branches. Among the texts read, selections from the younger and the older Eddas take a prominent place.

The books used are Sweet's Icelandic Primer (Oxford, 1880), or Holthausen's Altsächsisches Elementarbuch (Weimar, 1895); and Hildebrand's Edda (2nd edition, Paderborn, 1904), with Gering's Glossar (3rd edition, Paderborn, 1907). For advanced students the reading of one of the larger Islendingaögur, preceded by an introduction to the history of Iceland, may be substituted.
Attention is called to the facilities afforded for the study of Old Norse. A considerable portion of the library of the late philologist, Th. Wisén, of Lund, was acquired by Bryn Mawr College, and hence the library is probably as well supplied as any other college library in the United States with Old Norse texts, Norse periodicals, and works on Old Norse language and literature.

Comparative Teutonic Grammar, Dr. Weyhe.

One hour a week throughout the year.

The study of comparative Teutonic philology is recommended to those students only who are acquainted with the single old Teutonic languages, and have studied Gothic, Old High German, Old Saxon, Anglo-Saxon, and Norse. The object of the course is to compare the various old Teutonic languages with each other and with the related Aryan languages,—or in other words (1) to reconstruct the primitive Teutonic language; (2) to point out the characteristic features of primitive Teutonic as distinguished from primitive Aryan; (3) to carry down the history of early Teutonic from the period of unity into the early stages of the individual Teutonic languages.

Teutonic Seminary, Dr. Weyhe.

One hour a week throughout the year.

This seminar is arranged for the benefit of the most advanced students in Teutonic philology. Its object is to encourage independent work on the part of the students. The exercises consist mainly of the discussion of special topics by the instructor and the students. The subjects for discussion are announced in advance, and the members of the seminar are expected to study the literature on these subjects, and to make an effort to contribute some additional material, or an independent opinion of their own.

In addition to the above courses, others in Old Frisian, Middle Low German, or Modern Low German may be arranged for students that have previously studied Gothic, Old and Middle High German, Anglo-Saxon, and Old Saxon.

French

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Albert Schinz, Associate Professor of French Literature, Dr. Richard Thayer Holbrook, Associate Professor of French Philology and Italian, Mr. Frederick A. Blossom, Lecturer in French, Dr. Clara Leonora Nicolay,* Reader in Elementary French, and Miss Emma Haeberli, Reader (elect) in Elementary French.

The instruction offered in French covers thirty-three hours of lectures and recitations a week; it includes five hours a week of matriculation French; ten hours a week of undergraduate major and minor work; five hours a week of post-major work, open only to graduates and to undergraduates that have completed the major course in French; and thirteen hours a week of graduate work in modern French literature and in Old French literature and language.

Resigned March 1, 1910. The course given by her was continued by Miss Marie Seward King.
A class for beginners in French, five hours a week throughout the year, is provided, in order that those students whose matriculation examination did not include French may with less difficulty obtain the reading knowledge of it that they must possess before receiving a degree. By great diligence such students may acquire sufficient knowledge to be admitted, should they desire it, into the first year of the major course in French. This course is given by Dr. Haeberli under the direction of Dr. Schinz.

Entrance to the major course in French presupposes as much knowledge as is required to pass the matriculation examination in this subject. All the courses in French are conducted in the French language.

First Year.

(Major Course.)

(Lectures, given in each year.)

Lectures on the history of French Literature of the eighteenth century, accompanied by collateral readings of representative French authors, Mr. Blossom.

Three hours a week throughout the year.

These lectures are delivered in French, and students are expected to take notes and answer questions in French. The aim of the lectures is to familiarise the students with the spoken language of France and form and direct their literary taste.

Private reading: Lesage, Gil Blas (Heath, Boston); Montesquieu, Lettres Persanes; Marmontel, Les fausses confidences (Macmillan), must be read by students taking the course in the first semester. Voltaire, Zaire (Scott, Foresman Co., Chicago); Buffon, Extracts, Bernardin de St. Pierre, Paul et Virginie (Holt and Co., New York), must be read by students taking the course in the second semester. Examinations on the private reading must be taken at one of two stated times during the semester for which the reading is assigned, by all students pursuing the French courses.

Critical Readings in French prose and poetry. Practical Exercises in French Syntax and Composition, Dr. Schinz.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

The class is conducted in French, and students are expected to take notes and to answer questions in French.

Private reading: Balzac, Les Chouans, must be read by students taking the course in the first semester; de Vigny, Grandeure et Servitude Militaire must be read by students taking the course in the second semester. Examinations on the private reading must be taken at one of two stated times during the semester for which the reading is assigned by all students pursuing the French courses.

The advanced standing examinations, or examinations taken without attendance on the college classes, in the reading and composition of the minor, two hours a week for two semesters, may be taken by those students only who are able to submit satisfactory evidence that they have obtained before entering the college, by regular and systematic study, or by residence abroad or work under French governnesses the necessary advanced knowledge and are able to pass the examination in the first three weeks after entering the college. Failure to pass at the first trial will disqualify from further trials. The examination in translation will consist of sight translation from French (usually poetry) into English. V. Hugo's Les Châtiments (Hachette, Paris), La Légende des Siècles, id. (the first two volumes), or Schinz's Selections from Victor Hugo (Heath, Boston), will give an idea of the kind of translation required. The examination in composition will as a rule consist in translating a few detached sentences of every-day idiomatic English, such as may be found in Sweet's Primer of Spoken English, or the German edition of it (Elementarbuch des Gesprochenen Englisch; Oxford, Clarendon Press), or Chardenal's French Exercice for Advanced Pupils (Allyn and Bacon, Boston). The private reading examinations must be taken not later than the third semester after that in which the advanced standing examination is offered.
SECOND YEAR.

(Given in each year.)

Lectures on the history of French Literature from the earliest times to the end of the seventeenth century, accompanied by collateral reading, Dr. Schinz.

Three hours a week throughout the year.

These lectures are delivered in French. The collateral reading in connection with the lectures, on which examinations are held at stated intervals, consists, for the period preceding the seventeenth century, of passages chosen from such works as Gautier’s Épopées Françaises or Petit de Julleville’s Histoire du Théâtre en France; and for the seventeenth century of selections from the leading authors of the time. Molière, Boileau, Corneille, Racine, Molière, La Fontaine, Descartes, Pascal, La Rochefoucauld, Mme. de Sévigné, the great pulpit orators, and others, find a place in the course. During the first semester a number of selections from sixteenth century writers are also read in class, one hour out of the three being specially devoted to this purpose.

Private reading: Chanson de Roland (traduction Gautier), and Bédier, Tristan et Isolde, must be read by students taking the course in the first semester; Corneille, Le Cid, Cinna; Racine, Andromaque, Athalie; Molière, Tartuffe; Boileau, Art Poétique (Chant I), Pascal, Lettre Provinciale, V; Bossuet, Oraison funèbre de Condé must be read by students taking the course in the second semester. Examinations on the private reading must be taken at one of two stated times during the semester for which the reading is assigned by all students pursuing the French courses.

Critical Readings and Studies in Classical French Comedy, Mr. Blossom.

One hour a week throughout the year.

Molière, Théâtre Choisi (ed. Thirion, Hachette, Paris) is used in both semesters.

Studies in French Style, Composition, etc., Mr. Blossom.

One hour a week throughout the year.

The two one-hour courses given by Mr. Blossom may not be elected separately.

Private reading: Corneille, Le Menteur (ed. P. de Julleville, Hachette, Paris) Molière, Théâtre Choisi (ed. Thirion, Hachette, Paris), Le Marriage Forcé, Don Juan, Le Médecin Malgré lui, and Les Fourberies de Scapin, must be read by students taking the courses in the first semester; Racine, Les Plaideurs (ed. G. Lansot, Hachette, Paris); Regnard, Scènes Choisis par Charles Bouchard (Hachette, Paris), Le Joueur and Les Folies Amoureuses; Lesage, Turcaret (ed. by Kerr, O. C., Heath, Boston), must be read by students taking the courses in the second semester. Examinations on the private reading must be taken at one of two stated times during the semester for which the reading is assigned by all students pursuing the French courses.

The advanced standing examinations or examinations taken without attendance on the college classes in the reading and composition of the major, two hours a week for two semesters, may be taken by those students only who are able to submit satisfactory evidence that they have obtained before entering the college by regular and systematic study, or by residence abroad or work under French governesses, the necessary advanced knowledge and are able to pass the examination in the first three weeks after entering the college. Failure to pass at the first trial will disqualify from further trials. The examination in translation will consist of sight translation from French (usually poetry), into English. V. Hugo’s Les Châtiments (Hachette, Paris), La Légende des Siècles, id. (the first two volumes), or Warren’s Selections from Victor Hugo (Holt, New York) will give an idea of the kind of translation required. More difficult passages will be selected than for the minor advanced standing examination. The composition consists of one or two pieces of connected English, taken from such books as Stevenson’s Treasure Island, Jerome K. Jerome’s Idle Thoughts of an Idle Fellow. No specific question on French grammar is asked; students are expected to show their knowledge of grammar in the composition. Cameron’s The Elements of French Composition (Holt, New York), and Storm’s French Dialogues (Macmillan, London) will be found useful in composition work. The private reading examinations must be taken not later than the third semester after that in which the advanced standing examination is offered.

Group: French with Italian and Spanish, or with any language.

Post-major Courses.

The post-major courses are designed to bridge over the interval between the ordinary undergraduate studies and graduate work. As the amount of time given to undergraduate subjects differs in different colleges graduate students frequently find it advisable to elect some of these courses.

The short story (nouvelle) in the nineteenth century, Dr. Schinz.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1909–10 and again in 1911–12.)

The genre nouvelle is studied in connection with the following writers: Xavier de Maistre, Chateaubriand, Nodier, de Vigny, de Musset, Balzac, Mérimée, Flaubert, Gautier, Laboulaye, Daudet, Bourget, Maupassant, France, Coppée, Loti, Villiers de l’Isle Adam, de Régnier, and others. In 1909–10 the course was given only one hour a week throughout the year.

French Lyric Poetry of the nineteenth century, Dr. Schinz.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1910–11 and again in 1912–13.)

In the first semester the lectures treat lyric poetry until the year 1866. Special attention is paid to the period from 1850 to 1866, while Lamartine, Hugo, Sainte Beuve, de Vigny, and de Musset are treated only so far as is necessary for the understanding of the evolution of lyric poetry in their successors, Baudelaire, Gautier, de Banville, Leconte de Lisle, etc. The lectures of the second semester treat contemporary lyric poetry from 1866 to 1900. A careful study is made of the Parnassian and Symbolist schools.

Teachers’ Course in Advanced French, Mr. Blossom.

One hour a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

This course is especially intended to give students the practical knowledge of French required for teaching the language. A correct pronunciation is taught by means of a study of French phonetics, of the comparative value of sounds, of the tonic and oratorical accents, and of the rhythmical language. Classical texts are analysed as a preparation for exercises in composition and lectures on the principles of French rhetoric are given.

The Evolution of the French Novel, Mr. Blossom.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1909–10.)

In this course the development of the novel is studied from its rise with Astrée through the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries to the end of the romantic period. Students are required to read and report on representative novels of each epoch.

French Lyric Poetry to the End of the Eighteenth Century, Mr. Blossom.

One hour a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1910–11.)

After a study of the principles of French versification, the history of lyric poetry in France is studied from its origin to the end of the eighteenth century, particular attention being paid to the works of Rutebeauf, Charles d’Orleans, Villon, Marot, and Ronsard.
The Romantic Drama of the nineteenth century, Mr. Blossom.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1911-12.)

The lectures deal with the origin and development of the romantic drama in the works of Victor Hugo, Alexandre Dumas père, Alfred de Vigny, and Alfred de Musset. Its renaissance in the latter part of the century in Richépin and Edmond Rostand is then discussed.

Origin, development, and decline of realistic comedy, Mr. Blossom.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1912-13.)

The lectures treat of the origin of realistic comedy in Beaumarchais; its period of highest development in Augier, Dumas fils, Pailleron, and Sardou; its decline, the comédie naturaliste; new systems and new writers, Jules Lemaître and Edmond Rostand.

Graduate Courses.

Thirteen hours a week of seminary work and graduate lectures are offered each year to graduate students of French, accompanied by the direction of private reading and original research. The books needed by the graduate students are collected in the seminary library of the department. No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses or to the seminary libraries, but the post-major courses of the department amounting to four or five hours a week may be elected by graduate students. Graduate students interested in the study of literature will also find it to their advantage to attend the lectures on French literature two hours a week throughout the two years of the major course in French.

There are offered each year three distinct graduate courses in French, two in literature and one in language, and these courses are varied so that they may be followed by graduate students throughout three years, and cover the work required of students who offer French language or literature as a major or minor for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

Literature. Seminary in French Literature, Dr. Schinz.

Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

In 1909-10 and again in 1911-12 the subject of the seminary is Victor Hugo. The seminary deals with his lyrical works. The following subjects are treated: Victor Hugo as a Royalist and Catholic poet; his indebtedness to Chateaubriand, Sainte-Beuve, Nodier and other contemporaries; his attitude towards Napoleon I, the République of 1848 and Napoleon III.; and his social, political and religious ideas in the period of his maturity and of his old age.

In 1910-11 Rousseau is the subject of the seminary. In the first semester, after a discussion of his life, a study is made of the Confessions, Réveries, and Correspondance. Special attention is paid to the controversy Confessiona versus Mémoires d’Épinay, as transformed by the discoveries of Mrs. MacDonald. The questions of Rousseau’s insanity and suicide are discussed. The second semester is devoted chiefly to the study of Texte’s Jean Jacques Rousseau et le cosmopolitisme littéraire. La Lettre à d’Alembert and La Nouvelle Héloïse will serve as a text to this theory.

In 1912-13 the subject of the seminary will be Montaigne. Various problems connected with his life, his relations to Protestantism and to the political problems of his time, the question of the authorship of the Discours sur la servitude volontaire, the origin and sources of the essays, Montaigne and the Renaissance, and Montaigne and Plutarch will be discussed. A special study will be made of Montaigne's style and of the Apologie de Raymond de Sebond.

Seminary in French Language and Literature, Mr. Blossom.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

Given in each year.

In 1910-11 the work of the seminary is an analytical study of the modern French language. Questions of syntax, style and vocabulary are discussed with a view to acquiring a thorough command of the idiomatic language. In 1913-14 the seminary in Molière will be substituted for the above. The subjects studied will be: French Comedy before Molière, Molière's comedies, their Latin, Italian, and French sources, his style and method of composition, the nature of his "comique," his philosophy and his morality are discussed.

In 1911-12 the subject of the seminary is La 'Matière de Bretagne' et l'épopée courtoise. The course includes a careful study of the Lais de Marie de France, the poems referring to Tristan, and the Romans of Chrétien de Troie; these are studied in connection with the question of their origin in Celtic countries and their later development in France. The different theories that have been proposed as to their origin and evolution are examined and discussed and an attempt is made to determine their comparative value.

The subject of the seminary in 1912-13 is Ronsard and the Péiade, the object being to determine the origin, the extent, and the success of the Renaissance movement in France. The chief works of Ronsard and his successors, especially Du Bellay and Baff, will be read and discussed.

The course in Old French Philology is intended for students in their first year of graduate study; that in Old Provençal and the Old French Seminary for students in their second or third year of graduate study; the Journal Club may be attended by students in their first, second, or third year of graduate study. The course in Old French Readings is designed to be taken in connection with the seminary in Old French Literature.

Old French Philology, Dr. Holbrook. Two hours a week throughout the year.

Given in each year.

This course consists of lectures on the Phonology, Morphology, and Syntax of Old French, and is designed not only for students whose main pursuit is Romance philology, but also for those who wish to acquire more precise knowledge of the French elements in Middle English. The main principles of Historical Grammar will be studied in the Extrait de la Chanson de Roland, published by Gaston Paris, and in various texts in L. Constâne's Chrestomathie. Other books used are Pussey's Sounds of the French Language, Grandgent's Introduction to Vulgar Latin, Nyrop's Grammaire Historique de l'Ancien Français, and Schwan's Grammaire de l'Ancien Français.

Old French Readings, Dr. Holbrook. One hour a week throughout the year.

Various typical Old French masterpieces are studied from a scientific standpoint. The essential facts of Old French grammar are reviewed and rare or difficult locutions will be minutely examined for the sake of precise interpretation; dialectal features are considered and attention is given to the relation of manuscripts to printed texts. In addition to the works named below, students are expected to supply themselves with Gaston Paris's Littérature française au moyen âge.

The following courses may be rearranged to suit the needs of students in any particular year.

In 1909-10 and again in 1911-12 epic and historical literature is the subject of the course. The texts required are Stengel's edition of the Chanson de Roland (Leipsic

Old French Seminary, Dr. Holbrook. Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

The work of the seminary is on the most important Old French dialects. Texts in Norman, Picard, Francian and Franco-Provençal are studied with reference to their dialectal features in order that the student may acquire the power to determine approximately the origin of other texts in which the same dialectal features occur.

Old Provençal, Dr. Holbrook. Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

This course is intended for students of Old French who wish to begin the study of the language and literature of the Troubadours. The books required are Grandgent's Outline of the Phonology and Morphology of Old Provençal (Boston, 1905) and Appel's Provenzalische Chrestomathie (latest edition).

Romance Languages Journal Club, Dr. DeHaan, Dr. Schinz, Dr. Holbrook, Mr. Blossom. One and a half hours a fortnight throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

The instructors and advanced students meet to report on and discuss recent reviews and critical articles.

Italian.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Richard Thayer Holbrook, Associate Professor of French Philology and Italian.

The instruction offered in Italian covers ten hours of lectures and recitations a week; it includes eight hours a week of undergraduate minor and major work; and two hours a week of graduate work.

A combination of five hours a week for one year of the minor course in Italian with five hours a week for one year of the minor course in Spanish forms a major course and may be taken with any other language or with comparative literature to form a group. Any of the undergraduate courses in Italian may be taken as free elective courses.

First Year.

(Minor Course.)

(Given in each year.)

Major Course. Italian, Dr. Holbrook. Three hours a week throughout the year.

(May be taken as a free elective.)
This course is designed to prepare beginners for the study of Italian literature, as well as for the practical use of the language. Reading is taken up from the start, a careful pronunciation is insisted upon, and the essentials of the grammar are taught by a critical observation of the texts used and by graded exercises in the rendering of English into Italian. The books read are the following: C. H. Grandgent's Italian Grammar; Bowen's Italian Reader and Hecker's Il Piccolo Italiano; Giuseppe Finzi's Petrarca (1900); De Marchi's Storie; also selections from the verse and prose of Renato Fucini.

Representative Italian Classics in English Translations, Dr. Holbrook.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

(May be taken as a free elective.)

This course deals with typical masterpieces of Italian literature from Dante to Cellini. The author's life, character, and surroundings, his place in literary history, and his translators are discussed.

The works studied are as follows: Dante and his Circle (for early lyrics), Vita Nuova, most of the Inferno, parts of the Purgatorio and Paradiso; Boccaccio, Life of Dante and several tales translated by John Payne and J. M. Rigg; Petrarch, selected Letters, Sonnets and Triumphs; Ariosto, Orlando Furioso; Tasso, Jerusalem Delivered; Castiglione, The Courtier; Cellini, Life. Knowledge of Italian is not required.

Second Year.

(Given in each year.)

Italian Classical Literature, Dr. Holbrook.

Three hours a week throughout the year.

The work in this course is to translate most of the Inferno and parts of the Purgatorio and Paradiso; then selections from Ariosto and Tasso. For these two the study of difficult modern prose and poetry may be substituted, with exercises in writing and speaking. Training in pronunciation will be given throughout the course.

Group: Italian and Spanish with any language, or with comparative literature.

Graduate Courses.

Three hours a week of seminar work and graduate lectures are offered each year to graduate students of Italian accompanied by the direction of private reading and original research. The books needed by the graduate students are collected in the seminar library of the department. No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses or to the seminar libraries.

Italian Philology, Dr. Holbrook.

One hour a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

This course presupposes a knowledge of Old French philology and the equivalent of the minor and major courses in Italian offered at Bryn Mawr College. The work is founded upon the treatise entitled Die italienische Sprache by D'Ovidio and Mayer Lübke in Grüber's Grundrisse (Strassburg, 1906). Various passages from thirteenth and fourteenth century authors are examined critically from a phonological and morphological point of view.

Old Italian Readings, Dr. Holbrook.

One hour a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

Students should provide themselves with the first volume of D'Ancona and Bacci's Manuale della Letteratura Italiana (Florence, 1904).
Romance Languages Journal Club, Dr. DeHaan, Dr. Schinz, Dr. Holbrook, Mr. Blossom.

The instructors and advanced students meet to report on and discuss recent reviews and critical articles.

Spanish.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Fonger DeHaan, Professor of Spanish.

The instruction offered in Spanish covers eighteen hours of lectures and recitations a week; it includes ten hours a week of undergraduate minor and major work; two hours a week of post-major work open only to graduates and to undergraduates that have completed the major course in Spanish; and six hours a week of graduate work.

A combination of five hours a week for one year of the minor course in Spanish with five hours a week for one year of the minor course in Italian forms a major course, and may be taken with any other language to form a group. Students may thus elect ten hours of Spanish, or five hours of Spanish and five hours of Italian to form a major course.

First Year.

(Minor Course.)

(Given in each year.)

Major Course.

Spanish, Dr. DeHaan. Five hours a week throughout the year.

The object of this course is to give beginners a good knowledge of modern Spanish, and to ground them thoroughly in the essentials of the grammar. As a preparation for understanding the spoken language, two half-hours a week during the second semester are devoted to dictation. The books studied are the following (taken up in the order indicated): DeHaan’s Cuentos Modernos; Pérez Nieva, Tamás el torero (Madrid, Colección Klong); DeHaan’s Selected Works of G. A. Bequer; Hartzenbusch, Los Amantes de Teruel (Obras, vol. III.); Zorrilla, Granada (Madrid, 1885, 2 vols.).

Private reading: Palacio Valdés, José; Galdós, Marianela.

Second Year.

(Given in each year.)

Lectures in Spanish on Spanish Literary History of the Nineteenth Century, Dr. DeHaan. Two hours a week throughout the year.

Spanish Composition, Dr. DeHaan. One hour a week throughout the year.

Critical Reading in Spanish, Dr. DeHaan. Two hours a week throughout the year.

Private reading supplementing the lectures on literary history comprises representative works in the various branches of literature.

Group: Spanish, or Italian and Spanish with any language, or with comparative literature.
Post-Major Course.
The post-major course is designed to bridge over the interval between the ordinary undergraduate studies and graduate work. As the amount of time given to undergraduate subjects differs in different colleges graduate students frequently find it advisable to elect this course.

Advanced Spanish, Dr. DeHaan.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

The course consists of readings of classical, pre-classical and modern literature, translation of English prose into Spanish, and the writing of compositions in Spanish. Some time is devoted to the study of the history of Spanish literature.

Graduate Courses.
Six hours a week of seminar work and graduate lectures are offered each year to graduate students of Spanish accompanied by the direction of private reading and original research. The books needed by the graduate students are collected in the seminar library of the department. No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses or to the seminar libraries, but the post-major course of the department amounting to two hours a week may be elected by graduate students.

Spanish Philology, Dr. DeHaan.

One hour a week throughout the year.

Old Spanish Readings, Dr. DeHaan.

One hour a week throughout the year.

Lectures in Spanish on Spanish Literary History till the death of Calderon (1681), Dr. DeHaan.

One hour a week throughout the year.

The lectures are supplemented by extensive private reading of important works.

Essays in Spanish, Dr. DeHaan.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

Romance Languages Journal Club, Dr. DeHaan, Dr. Schinz, Dr. Holbrook, Mr. Blossom.

One and a half hours a fortnight throughout the year.

The instructors and advanced students meet to report on and discuss recent reviews and critical articles.

Comparative Literature.
The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Orie Latham Hatcher, Lecturer in Elizabethan Literature and Associate (elect) in Comparative and Elizabethan Literatures, and Dr. Alfred Horatio Upham, Associate Professor (elect) of English Literature.

The instruction offered in comparative literature covers nine hours of lectures and recitations a week; it includes eight hours a week of undergraduate minor and major work and one hour a week of graduate work. Any of the undergraduate courses may be taken as free elective courses.
First Year.
(Minor Course.)

Major Course.

The Epic, Dr. Hatcher. Three hours a week during the first semester.
(Given in 1910-11 and in each succeeding year.)

The lectures discuss the origins and significance of epic poetry, include some mention of oriental and early Teutonic epic literature, and relate the artistic form of the epics studied to the critical theories of Aristotle, and those of the Italian Renaissance. The required reading includes the Iliad, the Odyssey and the Aeneid, the greater Renaissance epics, Orlando Furioso, Jerusalem Delivered and The Faerie Queene; and Paradise Lost.

The Pastoral, Dr. Hatcher. Three hours a week during the second semester.
(Given in 1910-11 and in each succeeding year.)

The course deals with the best literature associated with the pastoral tradition. The lectures supplement the range of the acquired reading, and trace the pastoral idea from its rise in the Idylls of Theocritus through the later classical eclogue and pastoral romance into the Renaissance types of eclogue, pastoral lyric, novel and drama. The reading will include the Idylls of Theocritus, Bion and Moschus, Daphnis and Chloe, Tasso’s Aminta, Sidney’s Arcadia, Lodge’s Rosalynd, Spenser’s Shepherd’s Calendar, Fletcher’s Faithful Shepherdess, Jonson’s Sad Shepherd, etc.

Neo-classicism in France and England, Dr. Upham. Two hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13.)

This course is concerned with the influence exercised by French critical theory and literary practice upon the literature of England from the Restoration to the death of Pope (1744). The lectures consider the rise of Deism and the enthronement of reason and good taste, the conflict of the Ancients and Moderns, the vogue of satire and didacticism, and the application of theory to the various literary types. Careful outside reading is required.

Second Year.

The Sonnet and Minor Lyric Forms, Dr. Hatcher. Three hours a week during the first semester.
(Given in 1911-12 and in each succeeding year.)

The lectures trace the rise of modern lyric poetry among the Troubadours and the spread of Provençal and other early Romance lyric forms from Italy, France, and Spain into England. The development of the sonnet form is emphasised and the English sonnet studied from its beginnings down to the present time with special reference to the sonnets of Sidney, Spenser, Shakespeare, Milton, Wordsworth, and Rossetti. The reading includes Ballades and Rondels, Scott’s translations; Ballads and Lyrics of Old France, Andrew Lang’s translations; Rossetti’s Early Italian Poets, Petrarch’s Sonnets, Bullen’s Elizabethan Lyrics, Sidney Lee’s Elizabethan Sonnets, etc. Previous study of Latin and French is assumed.

The Drama, Dr. Hatcher. Three hours a week during the second semester.
(Given in 1911-12 and in each succeeding year.)

The object of the course is to suggest the many forms in which the human instinct for dramatic expression has manifested itself in different countries and periods, and to acquaint the student with the more significant of these forms in their historical order. The lectures inquire into the nature of the dramatic essence underlying all these forms, and attempt some comparison of the dramatic ideals and canons of the classical period with those of the Renaissance, and with those of our own time. A few representative types of drama are studied in plays selected from different literatures and periods.
The Foreign Relations of Nineteenth Century Romanticism, Dr. Upham.

_Two hours a week throughout the year._

(Given in 1911-12 and again in 1913-14.)

A study of the various phases of the general Romantic movement in their effect on English thought and letters after 1800. Attention will be given to the influence of philosophical idealism, the final shaping of the medieval element, the revolutionary impulse, the relation of nature and art, the Hellenistic reaction, the Italian revival, and the diffusion of romanticism in later literature. Careful outside reading is required.

Group: Comparative Literature with English, or with Italian, or with Spanish, or with Italian and Spanish.

Graduate Courses.

The graduate courses in comparative literature change from year to year throughout a cycle of three years. They may be taken by graduate students of English in connection with the seminary in Elizabethan literature or may be elected separately.

Dramatic Theory and Technique in England until 1642, Dr. Hatcher.

_One hour a week throughout the year._

(Given in 1909-10.)

The course inquires into the critical origins of English dramatic theory and into the technique of the various types of drama appearing in England before the closing of the theatres in 1642. An attempt is made to differentiate important sub-types of comedy and tragedy, and the essential characteristics of tragi-comedy, masque, and pastoral are noted. The inquiry includes references to foreign models and analyses of representative English plays of each type. The course is related to the seminary for 1909-10, dealing with Shakespeare, but may be elected separately.

Drama as a Reflection of Contemporary Life, Dr. Hatcher.

_One hour a week throughout the year._

(Given in 1910-11.)

Some one period in the development of the drama is chosen as the basis of study, as, for example, the Elizabethan, or the modern, and the drama of that period is related as far as practicable to the social, economic and religious conditions of the time. The themes, situations, moral codes, and technical construction of plays of the period selected are examined. The course is related to the seminary in Elizabethan literature but may be elected separately.

The Indebtedness of Elizabethan Literature to Continental, Dr. Hatcher.

_One hour a week throughout the year._

(Given in 1911-12.)

The course deals with the stimulus felt in Elizabethan England from the earlier literary activity in the Romance countries and the consequent earlier development there of critical theories, the arts of versification, and of definite literary types. The models contributed to English literature by Italy, France, and Spain in epic, pastoral, tragedy, comedy, lyric, etc., are studied as well as the material actually borrowed and incorporated into Elizabethan literature. The significance of Elizabethan translations is emphasised. The course is related to the seminary in Elizabethan literature but may be elected separately.
SEMITIC LANGUAGES AND BIBLICAL LITERATURE.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. George A. Barton, Professor of Biblical Literature and Semitic Languages and Miss Maud Downing, Reader in Semitic Languages. The instruction offered in this department includes five hours a week of Oriental History, three hours a week of free elective courses in Biblical Literature, and eight hours a week of graduate courses in Semitic Languages.

The college was particularly fortunate in securing in the year 1892 the library of the late M. Arthur Amiaud, of Paris. While M. Amiaud was especially eminent as an Assyriologist, he was also prominent as a general Semitic student. His library was the collection of an active scholar, and forms a working library for the student in every department of Semitic study. It is especially rich in the Hebrew, Syriac, and Assyrian languages, containing several works, indispensable to the student, which are now out of print. Another Semitic library containing many works on the Talmud and on Jewish literature was acquired in 1904. In 1907 Mr. Albert J. Edmunds presented to the college his library of 200 volumes on the history of religion. The contents of these libraries, together with the books already owned by the college and those easily accessible in neighboring libraries, form an exceptionally good collection of material for the specialist in Semitic languages. A good working collection of cuneiform tablets is under the control of the department, and affords an excellent opportunity for students of Assyrian to become familiar with original documents.

MINOR COURSE.

(Given in each year.)

Oriental History, Dr. Barton. Five hours a week throughout the year.

(May be taken as a free elective or may be substituted for the second year of required science.)

This course treats in broad outlines the history and civilisation of the classical orient. The beginnings of the Hamito-Semitic race, and the influence of environment upon its primitive institutions are first studied. The separation of the races into the different nations is then traced, and the history of the principal oriental nations, Egyptians, Babylonians, Assyrians, Phoenicians, Hebrews, Hittites, Sabaeans, and Persians; of Alexander and his successors; of the Parthians, and the oriental empire of the Romans, is followed in outline. Special attention is paid to the history of the Hebrews, and to their unique religious contribution to the civilisation of the world. The course concludes with a study of the Arabic caliphates, and of Mohammedan civilisation. The lectures are illustrated by archaeological specimens and by photographs. Either semester may be elected separately.
Free Elective Courses.

The courses in Biblical Literature are intended primarily for undergraduate students, but may be elected by graduate students also.

History of the Old Testament Canon, Dr. Barton.

One hour a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12.)

In this course the history of the composition and collection of the books of the Old Testament is studied. The instruction is given in lectures, and readings are assigned in the Old Testament itself and in modern literature concerning it.

New Testament Biography, Dr. Barton.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12.)

The first semester of this course is devoted to a careful study of the life and teaching of Christ: the second semester, to the life and teaching of St. Paul. The instruction is given in lectures, and the Gospels and Epistles are read together with the most helpful of the modern works on these topics. The course is illustrated by photographs of the most important places connected with the lives of Christ and St. Paul.

History of the New Testament Canon, Dr. Barton.

One hour a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13.)

This course, which alternates with the course on the Old Testament Canon, consists of a study of the New Testament.

The History of Christian Doctrine, Dr. Barton.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13.)

In the first semester Christianity is studied as presented by its Founder and by the apostles, and in the second semester the history of Christian doctrine from 100 A.D. to the present time is briefly reviewed, and problems presented by modern thought are touched upon.

Graduate Courses.

Seminary work and graduate lectures amounting to at least five hours a week are offered each year to graduate students of Semitic languages and Biblical Literature accompanied by the direction of private reading and original research. The books needed by the graduate students are collected in the seminary library of the department. No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses or to the seminary library, but the elective courses of the department amounting to three hours a week may be elected by graduate students.

The graduate courses in Semitic languages are varied from year to year as indicated below, so that they may be pursued by a student for four successive years. Those who offer Semitic languages as the major subject in the examination for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy are required to spend in Semitic work half their time for at least three years.

The work of the department is so arranged that students may specialise in Hebrew or Assyrian. Students who offer either of these languages as the major subject in the examination for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, must possess a knowledge of the grammatical forms of five Semitic languages. In this enumeration Syriac and Jewish Aramaic may not count as separate languages. Students that offer Semitic languages as the minor subject in the examination for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy must show that they have a knowledge of three Semitic languages.
There will be afforded each year an opportunity for graduate students to begin Hebrew.
The following courses are offered in 1909–10:

Assyrian Seminary, Dr. Barton. One hour a week throughout the year.
The work of the seminary consists of a critical study of Sumerian texts.

Hebrew Seminary, Dr. Barton. One hour a week throughout the year.
The Psalter and the book of Job, Canticles, Ecclesiastes or one of the historical or prophetic books is discussed.

Aramaic Seminary, Dr. Barton. One hour a week throughout the year.
One hour of the course is devoted to Jewish Aramaic including a study of the Talmud and Aramaic inscriptions. The remaining hour is spent on Syriac and the Sinai gospels and the poetry of Ephraim are studied.

Comparative Semitic Grammar, Dr. Barton. One hour a week throughout the year.
The course is devoted to Semitic phonetics and grammatical forms with a comparison of old Hamite. In connection with the work selected Egyptian texts are read, to supply the student with Hamite linguistic material. The first semester is devoted to phonetic material and its laws, the second to the pronoun and the verb.

Ethiopic, Dr. Barton. One hour a week throughout the year.
The grammar and Chrestomathia of Praetorius and Dillmann are used, and in the latter part of the course selections are read from the book of Enoch.

Seminary in Arabic Literature, Dr. Barton. One hour a week throughout the year.
The work of the seminary is a study of the pre-Islamic poets, the Coran, and the traditions.

The following courses are offered in 1910–11:

Semitic Seminary, Dr. Barton. Two hours a week throughout the year.
This seminary is devoted to Hebrew or Assyrian, the languages that may be offered as major subjects for the doctor's degree. The time may be devoted to one of these languages, or may be divided between the two, according to the needs of the students.
In Assyrian the subject may be chosen from one of the following: the oldest Babylonian inscriptions, temple archives of Telloh, Sumerian hymns, the code of Hammurabi or mythological poetry. In Hebrew, one of the following subjects may be selected:
Job, the Psalter, Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ecclesiastes and the Song of Songs, or Hebrew Epigraphy. In the Hebrew seminary the students are trained in textual criticism through the use of the ancient versions.

Elementary Semitic Languages, Dr. Barton. Two hours a week throughout the year.
This course may be devoted to the elements of Hebrew, or of Aramaic (Syriac and Jewish Aramaic), or Assyrian, or Arabic according to the needs of the students. The time may, if necessary, be divided between two of these languages.

Hebrew, The Prophets, Dr. Barton. One hour a week throughout the year.
The text of one or more of the Prophets is critically interpreted, and Hebrew syntax and composition are studied.
Hebrew Literature, Dr. Barton.  Two hours a week throughout the year.  This course is devoted to a study of the Prophets, the Pentateuch, and the historical books of the Old Testament.

Ethiopic, Dr. Barton.  One hour a week throughout the year.  This course is a continuation of that given in 1909–10.

The following courses are offered in 1911–12:

Semitic Seminary, Dr. Barton.  Two hours a week throughout the year.  The work of the seminary is continued as given in 1910–11.

Seminary in Aramaic and Arabic, Dr. Barton.  Two hours a week throughout the year.  This seminary is devoted to Arabic or Aramaic, the languages that may be offered as minor subjects for the doctor's degree.  The time may be devoted to one of the languages, or may be divided between the two, according to the needs of the students.  In Arabic the subject may be chosen from one of the following: the Coran, pre-Islamic poetry, Arabic geographers, or South Arabic inscriptions.  In Aramaic, one of the following subjects may be selected: a comparative study of the Syriac Versions of the Gospels, the Syriac Version of one of the Old Testament books, the writings of Gregory Bar Hebraeus, or of Efraem, the Targum or one of the Old Testament books, the Talmud, or Aramaic inscriptions.

Comparative Semitic Grammar, Dr. Barton.  One hour a week throughout the year.  The grammar of Brockelmann is used as a basis with comparisons from the Egyptian and other Hamitic languages.

Egyptian, Dr. Barton.  One hour a week throughout the year.  The elements of Egyptian and Coptic grammar are taught, and some texts in each language interpreted.

Seminary in New Testament Greek, Dr. Barton.  One hour a week throughout the year.  A thorough study is made of some book of the New Testament, and the students are guided in critical studies, both textual and historical.

The following courses are offered in 1909–10:

Elementary Aramaic, Miss Downing.  One hour a week throughout the year.
Elementary Arabic, Miss Downing.  Two hours a week throughout the year.  This course consists of a study of the elements of the language, the interpretation of selections from Brünnow's Chrestomathia and from the Thousand and One Nights, together with Arabic prose composition.

History.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. William Henry Allison,* Associate in History, and Dr. William Roy Smith, Associate Professor of History.  The instruction offered in History covers twenty-two hours of lectures a week; it includes ten hours a week of undergraduate major and minor work; five hours a week of post-major work, open only to graduates and undergraduates that have completed the major course in history; and seven hours a week of graduate work.

The object of the major course in history is three-fold. Primarily, history is taught for its own sake as a record of the development of humanity; secondarily, as a necessary accompaniment to the study of political institutions; and finally, as a framework for other forms of research, linguistic, religious, or archaeological. The course is planned to develop in the students a reader historical sense, and a consciousness of historical growth, rather than to give them a mere outline of general history. The instruction consists mainly of lectures, which are designed to create interest in the broad lines of historical development; the lectures are accompanied by constant references for private reading, to stimulate accuracy in detail and independence in judgment.

First Year.

Minor Course. (Given in each year.)

1st Semester. Major Course.

The History of Europe to the Period of the Renaissance, Dr. Allison. Five hours a week.

This course opens with a few lectures on the contribution of ancient civilisation to mediæval life, with special reference to the influence of Rome. From this point the design is to trace the fall of Rome and the rise of new nationalities; the growth of Frankish power; the empire of Charles the Great; the gradual nationalisation of France and Germany; the growth and influence of the Church; the Feudal System and the rise of French monarchy; the rapid extension of Mohammedanism and its points of contact with Europe; the struggle between the Papacy and the Holy Roman Empire; the scope and results of the crusading movement.

2nd Semester.

The History of Europe from the Period of the Renaissance to the close of the Religious Wars, Dr. Smith. Five hours a week.

The lectures trace the growth of the humanities and the phases of religious change; the broadening of knowledge in letters, geography, and science; the extension of commerce and the struggle for privileges and constitutional liberty; the weakening of the Papacy and the failure of the Holy Roman Empire; the spirit of reform; the growth of Protestantism and the counter measures; the war in the Netherlands; the religious and political struggles in France, and the Thirty Years' War. The course closes with the Treaty of Westphalia.

Second Year.

1st Semester. (Given in each year.)

The History of Europe from the Treaty of Westphalia to the close of the Napoleonic Campaigns, Dr. Smith. Five hours a week.
This course, which is a continuation of the previous year's work, treats of the territorial expansion of France in the seventeenth century: the rise of French absolutism; the theory of the balance of power; the growth of nationality and international relations; the rise of Prussia; the Seven Years' War, and the expansion of England; the political, social, economic, religious, and philosophical conditions of France leading to reform and revolution; the growth of the moderate spirit under the Directory; the rise of Napoleon and the Empire, and the general European war until the Congress of Vienna.

2nd Semester.

The History of Europe from the Congress of Vienna to the Present Time, Dr. Allison.
Five hours a week.

This course is planned to give a general outline of the history of the nineteenth century, with special reference to Western Europe. The lectures trace broadly the phases of reaction against legitimism and Metternichism, the growth of liberal ideas and constitutional government, and the conditions and circumstances which have led to the reorganisation of the political map of Europe. The course concludes with a general survey of world politics from 1878 to the present day.

Group: History with Economics and Politics.

Post-major Courses.

The post-major courses are designed to bridge over the interval between the ordinary undergraduate studies and graduate work. As the amount of time for undergraduate subjects differs in different colleges graduate students frequently find it advisable to elect some of these courses.

The Reform Period of English History, 1815-1845, Dr. Allison.
Two hours a week during the first semester.

(Given in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12.)

Beginning with a brief survey of conditions at the close of the Napoleonic period, the various liberalising and reform movements are considered both in their internal developments and in their reactions upon English life. Among the movements considered are Catholic emancipation, parliamentary reform, philanthropic enterprise, the Chartist agitation, the repeal of the corn laws.

British Imperialism, Dr. Allison.
Two hours a week during the second semester.

(Given in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12.)

This course deals with the causes of British expansion and its directions, the events in colonial history important in their reaction upon English politics, and especially the history of the British imperial system.

England in the Tudor Period, Dr. Allison.*
Two hours a week during the first semester.

(Given in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13.)

This course consists of a survey of English history during the reigns of the five Tudor sovereigns, noting particularly the significance of the period for the constitutional, political, social, and religious development of England.

England in the Stuart Period, Dr. Allison.*
Two hours a week during the second semester.

(Given in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13.)

This course follows the same general lines as the course on the Tudor period.

*See footnote, page 131.
American Constitutional History to 1789, Dr. Smith.

Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12.)

The text-books used in the course are MacDonald's Select Charters of American History and Select Documents of the History of the United States. The members of the class are also systematically referred, not only to the general authorities, but also to colonial charters and constitutions, the records of the colonial governments as far as they are available, the journals of Congress, and other documentary materials.

American Constitutional History from 1789 to the present time, Dr. Smith.

Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13.)

The lectures deal with the leading aspects of the political, constitutional, and economic history of the United States from the ratification of the constitution to the present time. The text-books used are MacDonald's Select Documents of the History of the United States and Select Statutes of United States History, but frequent additional references are given to the leading secondary authorities. To a limited extent use will be made of such documents as are available in the library, and special topics will be assigned for discussion and report.

Graduate Courses.

Seven hours a week of seminary work and graduate lectures are offered each year to graduate students of History, accompanied by the direction of private reading and original research, and the courses are varied from year to year so that they may be pursued by students through three or more successive years. The books needed by the graduate students are collected in the seminary library of the department. No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses or to the seminary library, but the post-major courses of the department amounting to five hours a week may be elected by graduate students.

Seminary in English History, Dr. Allison.

Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

In 1909-10 the subject of the seminary is special privileges in England, 1559 to 1660. The social, political, and economic conditions in England in the period from the accession of Elizabeth to the Restoration are investigated for the purpose of discovering the special privileges enjoyed by particular classes, local groups or individuals. The origin and nature of some of these are further studied with their general and specific effects as discernible in English history. In part it will be a study of feudal survivals, in part a study of post-Reformation developments.

In 1910-11 seventeenth century English Puritanism will be the subject of the seminary. Problems in the historical development of Puritanism will be assigned to the students for investigation and some of the typical writings examined. Each student will make a special study of one particular Puritan of the period.

In 1911-12 genetic studies in the reform period of English history, 1815 to 1845, will be the subject of the seminary. The reform movements which sought legislative support in Parliament will be discussed and an attempt will be made to discover the various forces, especially the organised forces, favoring or opposing these movements.

Historical Method and Criticism, Dr. Allison.

Two hours once a fortnight throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

The questions dealt with in this course are the scope of historical work and its relations to allied subjects; the outlines of historical bibliography; the great collections of printed material; archives and MSS.; editing, criticism, and evidence.
Seminary in American History, Dr. Smith.

_Three hours a week throughout the year._

(Given in each year.)

In 1909-10 the revolution, the confederation and the constitution are the subjects of study. American history from 1776 to 1789 is discussed primarily from the local point of view as a step in the conflict between the seacoast aristocracy and the democracy of the frontier. The social and economic forces which led to the adoption of the Federal Constitution and the subsequent formation of national political parties are investigated.

In 1910-11 the American colonies in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries will be the subject of the seminary. The political, constitutional, and social problems of the colonies in the seventeenth century will be studied in the first semester. In the second semester special stress is laid upon the development in the eighteenth century of the imperial administrative machinery and upon the ethical distribution of population in the colonies.

In 1911-12 the subject of the seminary will be slavery and the negro problem. After a preliminary survey of the history of slavery in the colonial period such topics as the slavery compromises of the constitution, the growth of slavery in the South, the abolition of the slave trade, the Missouri Compromise, the anti-Slavery movement, nullification, the Mexican War, the Wilmot Proviso, the compromise measures of 1850, the Kansas-Nebraska bill, the Dred Scott decision, the abolition of slavery, and the adoption of the thirteenth, fourteenth, and fifteenth amendments are discussed. Special attention is paid to the conflict between sectionalism and nationalism and to the connection between slavery, territorial expansion, and the development of constitutional theories.

_Historical Journal Club, Dr. Allison and Dr. Smith._

_Two hours once a fortnight throughout the year._

The instructors in the department of history and the graduate students who are pursuing advanced courses in history meet once a fortnight to make reports upon assigned topics, review recent articles and books, and present the results of special investigations.

Economics and Politics.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Charles Clarence Williamson, Associate in Economics and Politics, and Dr. Marion Parris, Associate in Economics and Politics. The instruction offered by this department covers twenty-three hours of lectures and recitations a week; it includes ten hours a week of undergraduate minor and major work; two hours a week of free elective work; five hours a week of post-major work open only to graduates and to undergraduates who have completed the major course in economics and politics; and six hours a week of graduate work.

The object of the undergraduate courses in economics and politics is three-fold: first, to trace the history of economic and political thought; second, to describe the development of economic and political institutions; and third, to consider the practical economic and political questions of the day. Instruction is given by lectures. The lectures are supplemented by private reading, by oral and written quizzes, by written theses and reports, and by such special class-room exercises as the different subjects require.

First Year.

(Minor Course.)

1st Semester.

Major Course.

Introduction to Economics, Dr. Parris.
Five hours a week.

The objects of this course are to introduce the students to the economic problems in the modern state, to familiarise them with the main problems in economic science, and to train them to think clearly on economic subjects. The main work of the semester is the study of the nature and extent of supply, including a brief outline of economic geography, the nature and laws of demand, an introduction to the theory of wants, value and fixing of price, and the theory of economic institutions, methods of production, methods of exchange, international exchange, and transportation problems. The lectures are supplemented by a large amount of reading from standard economic authors. Numerous short papers are required and oral and written quizzes are frequently held.

2nd Semester.

Introduction to Politics, Dr. Williamson.
Five hours a week.

This is an introduction to the principles of political science with special reference to the organisation and workings of American political institutions. The legislative, executive and judicial branches of the national and state governments are studied, with some attention to their origin and development, and with special reference to their efficiency and amenability to popular control. Lectures are given on the organisation and legislative methods of the United States Senate and House of Representatives, the election and powers of the president, the civil service and the federal courts. A brief time is allotted to a similar study of the state governments, after which problems of municipal government, political parties, suffrage and elections are treated. Lastly, the functions of the modern state are examined with special reference to the contentions of individualism and socialism.

Second Year.

(Given in each year.)

1st Semester.

Social Politics, Dr. Williamson.
Five hours a week.

The work of the preceding year is continued by a thorough study of the economic position of the working classes under the industrial regime. The rise of the problem is traced; radical and conservative programmes of reform are examined; the arguments for and against state action are discussed in connection with a concrete study of legislation in various countries designed to ameliorate the conditions of employment and to promote the economic and social well-being of the weaker classes of society. The methods of securing legal enactment, constitutional hindrances, and the difficulties of enforcing factory laws are treated with special reference to the experience of American states. The chief topics taken up are the industrial revolution and the factory system, socialism and the labor movement, labor organisations and the methods of securing industrial peace, the labor of women and children, factory inspection, employers' liability, workmen's insurance, and industrial education.

2nd Semester.

History of Economic Thought, Dr. Parris.
Five hours a week.

The object of this course is twofold. First, to trace the development of certain of the most fundamental concepts in modern economic theory, such as the theories of value, concepts of capital and interest, rent, wages, monopoly, etc., in order to appreciate critically modern economic theory. Secondly, by relating economic thinking to the political and economic history, and to the religious and philosophical thinking of the successive historical epochs studied, to give the student a proper historical background for further study.

The students will be required to read critically portions of Aristotle’s Ethics and Politics in translation, also selections from the medieval canonist writers: Adam Smith’s Wealth of Nations, Vol. 1; Ricardo’s Principles of Political Economy and Taxation; Malthus’s Principles of Population; and selections from Senior’s Political Economy, John Stuart Mill’s Principles of Political Economy, and Jevons’s Political Economy. Numerous short papers, written quizzes, and one report on some specially assigned subject will be required.

Group: Economics and Politics, with History, or with Philosophy.

Free Elective Courses.

Methods of Social Research, Dr. Parris.
Two hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1909–10 and again in 1911–12.)

The course begins with a brief account of modern institutions for social research and social reform. Various methods of social research will then be studied and reports required on special problems in social statistics, and the collection and graphical representation of material. Booth’s Life and Labour in London, Bailey’s Modern Social Conditions and Henderson’s Modern Methods of Charity will be used as textbooks. The course is open only to those students who have attended the minor course in economics and politics.

Municipal Problems, Dr. Williamson.
Two hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1910–11 and again in 1912–13.)

This course consists of a general survey of the more important social, political, and economic problems of American cities. The chief topics treated are, the growth of urban population with its economic and political results, political parties in municipal government, civil service reform, the municipal functions such as police and fire protection, police courts, sanitation and public health, education, institutions of public charity and correction, playgrounds, parks, city planning, and the liquor traffic. The policy of municipal ownership of public utilities will be examined in its various aspects. The course is open only to those students who have attended the minor course in economics and politics.

Post-major Courses.

The post-major courses are designed to bridge over the interval between the ordinary undergraduate studies and graduate work. As the amount of time given to undergraduate subjects differs in different colleges, graduate students frequently find it advisable to elect some of these courses.

Industrial Problems, Dr. Williamson.
Three hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1909–10 and again in 1911–12.)

The lectures of this course deal with certain economic problems which involve political action. Among the more important subjects taken up are the following: problems of money and banking; the commercial policy of the principal countries with special reference to the tariff situation in the United States; the rise of the transportation problem and a comparison of the methods of government control in use in various countries; industrial combinations, their development and their relation to the state.
Typical combinations will be studied and the results of anti-trust legislation examined. The aim is to put before the student the significant facts of our commercial and industrial development, accompanied by an economic analysis of the problems created and a discussion of the political factors to be reckoned with in their solution.

Public Economy, Dr. Williamson. Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1910–11 and again in 1912–13.)

This course begins with a discussion of the nature of the public economy and its relation to private economics. An examination of theories of the economic activity of the modern state is followed by a discussion of public expenditure, its objects, its growth in modern democratic societies, and its social and industrial effects. Problems of public health, care of the dependent classes, the economic burden of war and the preparation for war, state forestry and the general problem of the conservation of natural resources, are discussed in this connection. The tax system in American states and cities, together with the general principles of taxation, are discussed fully. Attention is also called to the nature and significance of the non-tax revenues. The course concludes with a brief study of state and local budgets and public debts.

Theoretical Sociology, Dr. Parris. Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1909–10 and again in 1911–12.)

The first semester's work is a history of sociological theory. The students read selections from Auguste Comte, Herbert Spencer, Professor Giddings, and others. In the second semester the various social problems confronting the modern state are considered, such as the congestion of population, housing and transportation problems in American and Continental cities, immigration and race problems in America, the standard of living among various economic groups, etc.

The lectures are supplemented by written reports on specially assigned reading and by written and oral quizzes.

Utilitarian Theory in Economics, Dr. Parris.

Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1910–11 and again in 1912–13.)

The object of this course is to study the influence of utilitarian ethical theory in shaping the thought of the English classical school. Hume, Paley, Bentham, Adam Smith, James Mill, Ricardo, Malthus and J. S. Mill are read critically. The lectures are supplemented by written reports on specially assigned reading and by oral and written quizzes.

Graduate Courses.

Six hours a week of seminary work and graduate lectures are offered each year to graduate students of economics and politics accompanied by the direction of private reading and original research, and the courses are varied from year to year so that they may be pursued by students through three or more consecutive years. The books needed by the graduate students are collected in the seminary library of the department. No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses or to the seminary library, but the post-major courses of the department amounting to five hours a week may be elected by graduate students.

Economic Seminary, Dr. Williamson. Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

The methods of instruction in the seminary are designed to guide advanced students in special research work along the lines indicated by the titles of the courses. Some lectures are given but the main attention is devoted to the presentation and criticism of the results of studies made by the students themselves.
In 1909–10 labor problems are studied in the seminar. The rise of the problems is traced, the history and functions of labor organisations are discussed and considerable attention is paid to the principles of labor legislation.

In 1910–11 various important social and economic problems caused by the growth of monopolies will be studied. The aim is to develop general principles upon which a democratic state should proceed in an effort to subject its railroads, trusts, and other more or less non-competitive industries to a wise social control.

In 1911–12 the seminar will make a study of the history and theories of socialism, the purpose being to trace the origin and development of current socialist doctrines and movements and to examine carefully the arguments for and against socialism in order to reach some conclusion as to the possibility or practicability of making socialist theories a basis for economic and social reforms.

Economic Seminar, Dr. Parris. Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

In 1909–10 the subject of the seminar is a critical study of modern theories of value. A short historical introduction serves as a review of the principal economic theories of value in the English and German schools.

In 1910–11 the modern German theory of value is the subject of the seminar. The main object of the seminar is to define certain psychological and philosophical positions. The works of Ehrenfels, Meinong, Kraus, Kreibig, and Chuel are studied and criticised.

In 1911–12 the theories of capital and interest of modern German, Italian, and American economists will be studied and critically compared.

Economic Journal Club, Dr. Williamson and Dr. Parris. Two hours once a fortnight throughout the year.

At the meetings recent books and articles are reviewed and the results of special investigations are presented for discussion, comment, and criticism.

Philosophy.

This instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Theodore de Leo de Laguna, Associate Professor of Philosophy, Dr. James H. Leuba, Professor of Psychology and Education and Director of the Psychological Laboratory, Dr. M. Phillips Mason, Associate in Philosophy, Dr. Clarence Errol Ferree, Associate in Psychology, and Miss Marion Reilly, Reader in Philosophy. The instruction offered in this department covers thirty-nine hours of lectures a week: it includes a required course of five hours a week; ten hours a week of undergraduate major and minor work; two hours a week of free elective work; eight hours a week of post-major work open only to graduates and undergraduates who have completed the major course in philosophy; and fourteen hours a week of graduate work.

A course in philosophy, five hours a week throughout one year, is required of all candidates for a degree.

The major course in philosophy presupposes as much information as is contained in the required course, and may be elected as a group in combination with the major course in Greek, English, economics and politics, mathematics, or physics.

Required Course.

History of Philosophy, Dr. de Laguna. Three hours a week throughout the year. (Given in each year.)

The object of this course is to give a general survey of the history of philosophy. The first semester is devoted to a study of Greek and medieval thought. In the second semester the lectures deal with the development of modern philosophy from Descartes to Kant. In conclusion the main features of post-Kantian idealism are briefly indicated.

Psychology, Dr. Leuba. Two hours a week throughout the year. (Given in each year.)

The text-book used is James's Psychology, Briefer Course. In connection with the lectures there are demonstrations of pertinent psycho-physical facts.

First Year.

(Minor Course.)

1st Semester.

Elementary Ethics, Dr. de Laguna. Three hours a week. (Given in each year.)

(Open only to those students who have taken the general course in the History of Philosophy. May be taken as a free elective by students not electing the philosophical group, or may be counted as part of the second year of required science.)

This course forms a critical and historical introduction to ethical science. It is conducted by means of lectures, discussions, and supplementary reading.

The Psychology of Instinct, Emotion, and the Will, Dr. Leuba. Two hours a week. (Open only to those students who have taken the general course in Psychology. May be taken as a free elective by students not electing the philosophical group, or may be counted as part of the second year of required science.)

2nd Semester.

Problems in Metaphysics, Dr. Mason. Three hours a week. (Open only to those students who have taken the general course in the History of Philosophy. May be taken as a free elective by students not electing the philosophical group, or may be counted as part of the second year of required science.)

In this course certain fundamental questions in philosophy are discussed in detail, such as substance and cause, mechanism and teleology, monism and pluralism, idealism and materialism, optimism and pessimism.

Experimental Psychology, Dr. Ferrce. Two hours a week. (Open only to those students who have taken the general course in Psychology. May be taken as a free elective by students not electing the philosophical group, or may be counted as part of the second year of required science.)

This course counts as the equivalent of two hours a week for one semester; one hour a week is given to lectures on experimental psychology and two and a half hours a week to laboratory work.

Second Year.

1st Semester.

Empiricism and Rationalism, Dr. Mason. Three hours a week.
(Open only to those students who have taken the minor course in Philosophy. May be taken as a free elective by students not electing the philosophical group.)

The course is devoted to a discussion of selected works of Descartes, Spinoza, Leibnitz, and Hume.

Experimental Psychology, Dr. Ferree.
Two hours a week.

(Open only to those students who have taken the minor course in Psychology. May be taken as a free elective by students not electing the philosophical group.)

This course counts as equivalent to two hours a week; during the first semester two and a half hours of laboratory work and one hour of lectures are given in place of two hours of lectures. In the laboratory the experimental work of the minor year is continued.

2nd Semester.

The Philosophy of Kant, Dr. de Laguna.
Three hours a week.
(Given in 1909-10.)

(Open only to those students who have taken the minor course in Philosophy. May be taken as a free elective by students not electing the philosophical group.)

The course consists of a general introduction to Kant's system, with an intensive study of portions of the Critique of Pure Reason.

Philosophy in the Nineteenth Century, Dr. de Laguna.
Three hours a week.
(Given in 1910-11.)

(Open only to those students who have taken the minor course in Philosophy. May be taken as a free elective by students not electing the philosophical group.)

The course is introduced by a series of lectures upon Kant's system. The post-Kantian idealism and the philosophies of Comte and Spencer occupy the greater part of the semester.

Psychology (Animal Psychology), Dr. Leuba.
Two hours a week.
(Open only to those students who have taken the minor course in Psychology. May be taken as a free elective by students not electing the philosophical group.)

In this semester the laboratory work is discontinued and two hours a week of lectures are given. The growth and development of mental life with reference to animal psychology are treated.

Group: Philosophy with Greek, or with English, or with economics and politics, or with mathematics, or with physics.

Free Elective Courses.

Rousseau's Social Philosophy, Dr. de Laguna.
One hour a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12.)

In this course Rousseau's theories of art, politics, and religion are discussed. A reading knowledge of French is necessary for all students attending this course.

Theory of Pragmatism, Dr. de Laguna.
One hour a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13.)

A brief introduction gives a sketch of the Darwinian theory of evolution and of its application to functional psychology. The greater part of the second semester is devoted to class discussion of Professor James's book on Pragmatism.
Elementary Logic, Dr. Mason.
One hour a week during the first semester.

(Given in each year.)

An introduction to deductive and inductive logic, including the theories of definition, classification, the transformation of judgments, the canons of the syllogism, the formation of concepts, the general methods of observation and experiment, analogy, and the use of hypotheses.

The Philosophy of Nature, Dr. Mason.
One hour a week during the second semester.

(Given in each year.)

This course is an introduction to the study of the fundamental postulates of natural science. Such problems as the following will be discussed: the value of mathematical principles in natural science, the necessity of time and space as fundamental principles, the meaning of induction, the relation of the inorganic world to the organic, the relation of psychology to natural science, and finally the place of natural science in the world of knowledge and its relation to ethics and aesthetics.

Post-major Courses.

The post-major courses are designed to bridge over the interval between the ordinary undergraduate studies and graduate work. As the amount of time given to undergraduate subjects differs in different colleges graduate students frequently find it advisable to elect some of these courses.

Types of Metaphysical Theory, Dr. Mason.
Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

Each semester is devoted to the examination of some important type of metaphysical theory. After the historical development of the theory under investigation has been traced its implications and relationships are examined and criticised. The particular subjects selected vary from year to year. This course is open to those students only who have completed the two years of the major course in philosophy or have done equivalent work.

Studies in the Theory of Knowledge, Dr. Mason.
Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

Typical theories of knowledge, both idealistic and empirical, are examined. The discussion centres around the nature of truth, and an attempt is made to show how it is related to the mind and to the empirical world.

Advanced Experimental Psychology, Dr. Leuba and Dr. Ferree.
Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

This course is intended to prepare students to take up graduate work in psychology. It consists of one lecture a week given by Dr. Ferree and of five hours laboratory work in qualitative and quantitative psychology under the direction of Dr. Leuba and Dr. Ferree.

Graduate Courses.

Fourteen hours a week of seminary work and graduate lectures are offered each year to graduate students of philosophy and psychology accompanied by the direction of private reading and original research, and the courses are varied from year to year so that they may be pursued Ethical Seminary, Dr. de Laguna. Three hours a week throughout the year.

Given in each year.

The subject of the seminary is either a study of one of the chief problems of ethics or metaphysics or a critical examination of some important movement of thought.

In 1909-10 Hume and his contemporaries are studied. A brief preliminary survey is made of the course of English ethical thought from Hobbes to Shaftesbury. This is followed by a more careful examination of selected writings of Mandeville, Butler, and Hutcheson, with a view to tracing their probable influence upon Hume. Finally, the principal task of the year is a comparative study of the ethical doctrines of Hume's Treatise on Human Nature and Enquiry into the Principles of Morals, with incidental reference to Hartley and Adam Smith.

In 1910-11, the subject will be English evolutionary ethics, as exemplified in the writings of Darwin, Clifford, Spencer, Stephen, Alexander, and Hobhouse, and as criticized by Green, Sorley, Huxley, and Pringle-Pattison. Special attention will be given to the problem of determining the nature and limitations of the genetic method as applied in ethical research.

In 1911-12 the subject of the seminary will be the ethics of Plato. The dialogues in which moral questions are prominently discussed are read in approximately chronological order; and the development of Plato's ethics is studied in the light of its interrelations with his theories of knowledge and of reality.

Metaphysical Seminary, Dr. Mason. Two hours a week throughout the year.

Given in each year.

The subject of the seminary is usually an examination of one of the more important metaphysical theories of recent times. The chief object of the inquiry is to indicate the fundamental postulates and tacit agreements of contemporary philosophical thought.

In 1910-11 the subject of the seminary will be the theory of knowledge. The general nature of knowledge, its structure and its relation to the mind, are studied. An attempt is made to develop the criteria of truth and to show what bearing these criteria have on experience. The work centres in a study of Kant's Critique of Pure Reason.

In 1911-12 the subject of the seminary will be the relation of knowledge to natural science and to the normative sciences. The fundamental postulates of the world of facts and the world of values are studied critically, and special attention is given to the logical basis of psychology. Pearson's Grammar of Science is used as the foundation of the work.

In 1912-13 the subject of the seminary will be the relation of knowledge to being. Various ontological systems are studied with a view to determining the limits of knowledge and the ultimate nature of reality. Bradley's Appearance and Reality is used as the foundation of the work.

Modern Problems in Logic, Miss Reilly. Two hours a week throughout the year.

Given in 1910-11.

This course is conducted according to seminary method.

Philosophical Journal Club, Dr. de Laguna and Dr. Mason.

Two hours once a fortnight throughout the year.

The advanced students and the instructors meet to report on and discuss recent reviews and critical articles.
Psychological Seminary, Dr. Leuba.  Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

The work is conducted mainly according to the seminary method. One or two of the following subjects will be chosen each year: a comparative study of Wundt, William James, James Ward, Stout, and other psychologists; language, myths, customs, attention, apperception, the will; the psychology of religion and of ethics; psychology of the beautiful; psychiatry and criminology; animal and child psychology, comparative psychology.

Systematic Psychology, Dr. Ferree.  Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

This course is intended, primarily, to give a systematic presentation of the literature of experimental psychology. Due consideration, however, will be given to all points of systematic importance. The work is grouped about the following topics: sensation, the simpler sense complexes, perception and idea, feeling and the affective processes, attention, action, and the intellectual processes (memory, association, imagination, etc.). The course covers three years; but the topics chosen and the time devoted to each vary from year to year according to the needs of the students.

Psychological Journal Club, Dr. Leuba and Dr. Ferree.  One hour a week throughout the year.

The advanced students meet with the instructors once a week to hear or read reports on the literature of the subject and on the work done in the laboratory.

Psychological Laboratory Work, Dr. Leuba and Dr. Ferree.

The laboratory work consists of individual practice and research.

Education.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. James H. Leuba, Professor of Psychology and Education and Director of the Psychological Laboratory. The instruction offered covers five hours of lectures a week; it includes two hours a week of free elective work, and three hours a week of graduate work.

It is the purpose of the department to offer to students intending to become teachers an opportunity to obtain a technical preparation sufficient for their profession. Hitherto practical training has been thought necessary for teachers of primary schools only, but similar training is very desirable for teachers in high schools and colleges also. Indeed it is already becoming increasingly difficult for college graduates without practical and theoretical pedagogical knowledge to secure good positions. In addition to the lectures open to undergraduates, courses will be organised for graduate students only, conducted with special reference to preparation for the headship and superintendence of schools. Education cannot be studied to the best advantage unless an acquaintance with at least the rudiments of psychology is presupposed. The elementary experimental course in psychology is therefore earnestly recommended to all students of education.

Free Elective Course.

Education, Dr. Leuba. Two hours a week throughout the year. (Given in each year.)

This course deals with the great educators and their systems considered with reference to modern educational methods and the problems of to-day.

Graduate Courses.

Graduate students are recommended to follow the work offered in the free elective course.

No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses.

Lectures upon school-hygiene; physical training; organisation of education in the United States and in Europe; the training of teachers, etc., Dr. Leuba. Two hours a week throughout the year. (Given in each year.)

The Psychology of Mental and Bodily Growth with reference to Education, Dr. Leuba. One hour a week throughout the year. (Given in 1909–10 and again in 1911–12.)

A knowledge of elementary psychology is assumed in this course.

The Methods and Principles of Teaching, Dr. Leuba. One hour a week throughout the year. (Given in 1910–11.)

This course is open only to graduate students who have already taught or to those who take the practice work announced below.

Archæology and History of Art.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Caroline Louise Ransom, Associate Professor of the History of Art and Classical Archæology, and Miss Georgiana Goddard King, Reader in English, and Miss Caroline Vinia Lynch, Demonstrator in Archæology and the History of Art. The instruction offered in this department covers ten hours a week of lectures; it includes five hours a week of undergraduate minor and major work; one post-major course of two hours a week open only to graduates and to undergraduates who have completed the major course in Archæology and the History of Art, and three hours a week of graduate work.

The major course is planned to give an introduction to the study of classical archæology and a brief survey of Early Christian.
medieval and Renaissance art. It is intended especially for classical students, to supplement their work in classical languages and literature by acquainting them with the material remains of antiquity and with Greek and Roman life as illustrated by the monuments. It is hoped that the courses offered will give classical students a better appreciation both of the artistic achievement of the Greeks and Romans and of its influence on later art. The post-major and graduate courses provide for advanced work in classical archaeology and in Egyptian art.

First Year.

(Minor Course.)

Major Course.

Introduction to Classical Archaeology, Dr. Ransom.

Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1910–11 and in each succeeding year.)

Greek and Roman architecture, coins, small bronzes, and terra-cottas are studied in the first semester and Greek and Roman sculpture in the second semester. The work of the two semesters may be elected separately. The course is illustrated with lantern slides.

Gothic Architecture, Miss King.

Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1910–11.)

The first semester is devoted to Romanesque and pointed architecture in Italy and Germany, with special attention to the introduction of Gothic into Italy by the Cistercians, and the second semester to the development of Gothic in France with parallels from English ecclesiastical architecture. In 1912–13 this course will be given again as a free elective course. It is illustrated by photographs and lantern slides.

European Architecture.*

Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1911–12 and in each succeeding year.)

This course is an introduction to the study of the Early Christian, medieval and Renaissance styles of architecture. Some attention will be paid to architectural sculpture. The course is illustrated with lantern slides.

Second Year.

Ancient Painting, Dr. Ransom.

Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1911–12 and in each succeeding year.)

This course is concerned chiefly with vases and with Pompeian wall-paintings. A good collection of original material for the illustration of Greek vases is in the possession of the department. The course is illustrated with lantern slides.

Renaissance Painting.*

Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1911–12 and in each succeeding year.)

*This course will be given by an instructor whose appointment will be announced later.

Group: Archaeology and History of Art with Greek or with Latin.
Free Elective Courses.

History of Architecture, Dr. Ransom. Three hours a week throughout the year. (Given in 1909-10.)

This course consists of a survey of Greek, Roman, Early Christian, medieval, and Renaissance architecture; it is illustrated with lantern slides.

Egyptian Art, Dr. Ransom. Two hours a week throughout the year. (Given in 1909-10.)

The architecture, sculpture, pottery, and other material remains of ancient Egypt are considered, beginning with the prehistoric period and continuing to the time of the Roman supremacy in Egypt. Special attention is given to subjects bearing on the art of Greece. The lectures are illustrated with lantern slides.

Italian Renaissance Painting from the Middle of the Thirteenth to the Middle of the Sixteenth Century, Miss King. Two hours a week throughout the year. (Given in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12.)

In the first semester the Italian Primitives are studied chiefly in the schools of Florence, Siena, and Umbria; in the second semester the painters of the High Renaissance are studied with special attention to those of Venice and the north of Italy.

Post-major Courses.

Prehistoric Sites, Dr. Ransom. Two hours a week throughout the year. (Given in 1910-11 and again in 1913-14.)

This course deals chiefly with Troy, Mycena, Tiryns and Cnossus.

Egyptian Art, Dr. Ransom. Two hours a week throughout the year. (Given in 1911-12.)

The architecture, sculpture and products of the minor arts of ancient Egypt are considered, beginning with the prehistoric period and continuing to the time of the Roman supremacy in Egypt. Special attention is given to subjects bearing on the art of Greece. The lectures are illustrated with lantern slides.

Greek and Roman Minor Arts, Dr. Ranson. Two hours a week throughout the year. (Given in 1912-13.)

Graduate Courses.

Three hours a week of seminar work and graduate lectures are offered each year to graduate students of archaeology accompanied by the direction of private reading and original research, and the courses are varied from year to year so that they may be pursued by students through three or more successive years. The books needed by the graduate students are collected in the seminar library of the department. No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses or to the seminar library, but the minor, elective and post-major courses of the department amounting to seven hours a week may be elected by graduate students.

Archæological Seminary, Dr. Ransom. Two hours a week throughout the year. (Given in each year.)

This seminar is open only to graduate students who have had some previous training in classical archaeology.
In 1909-10 Roman architecture and topography are the subjects of the seminary in the first semester, and Greek vases of the fifth century are studied in the second semester.

In 1910-11 special work in Greek sculpture will be given in the first semester and Roman pottery will be studied in the second semester.

In 1911-12 Greek and Roman coins will occupy the seminary throughout the year.

In 1912-13 the subject of the seminary will be Greek vases of the fifth century B.C. in the first semester, and topography and monuments of Rome in the second semester.

Archeological Journal Club, Dr. Ransom.

One and a half hours once a fortnight throughout the year

(Given in each year.)

The graduate students and the instructors meet for the presentation and discussion of topics of current archeological literature.

Mathematics.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Charlotte Angas Scott, Professor of Mathematics, Mr. J. Edmund Wright,* Associate Professor of Mathematics, Dr. Isabel Maddison, Associate in Mathematics, and Dr. Virginia Ragsdale, and Dr. Helen Elizabeth Huff, Readers in Mathematics. The instruction offered in mathematics covers twenty-four and a half hours of lectures and recitations a week, in addition to the time devoted to the seminary work in the graduate department; it includes two hours a week of a preparatory course in trigonometry and solid geometry, ten hours a week of undergraduate minor and major work, three hours a week of free elective work, four or five hours a week of post-major work open only to graduates and to undergraduates who have completed the major course in mathematics, and four and a half hours a week of graduate work.

In the major course the students are able to gain a fair knowledge of the principal subjects belonging to the department of pure mathematics. The points of contact of mathematics with other branches of mental and physical science are indicated as far as possible throughout the course, special attention being paid to the nature of mathematical reasoning, and to the true relation and mutual dependence of mathematics and physics. The course of lectures on the history of mathematics in the second year is intended to give an outline of the development of the subject from its beginning to 1700 A. D.

* Died, February 20th, 1910. The courses offered by Professor Wright will be given by an instructor whose appointment will be announced later.
A knowledge of elementary trigonometry is necessary for students entering the minor course in mathematics or the major course in physics. A course in trigonometry of two hours a week throughout the first semester is offered in each year. This course may either be taken as a free elective or be counted as part of the year of mathematics which may be taken as an alternative for the second year of required science, and those who do not elect the course must pass the examination for advanced standing before admission to the courses mentioned above.

First Year.
(Minor Course.)
(Given in each year.)

1st Semester.
Analytical Conics, Dr. Scott. Three hours a week.
Theory of Equations, Dr. Scott. Two hours a week.

2nd Semester.
Elementary Differential and Integral Calculus,* Dr. Huff. Three hours a week.
Algebra and Advanced Trigonometry,* Dr. Ragsdale. Two hours a week.
The three hour and two hour courses in each semester may not be elected separately.

Second Year.
(Given in each year.)

1st Semester.
Differential and Integral Calculus, Mr. Wright.† Three hours a week.
Theory of Equations, Determinants, and Differential Equations, Mr. Wright.† Two hours a week.

2nd Semester.
Analytical Geometry of two and three Dimensions, History of Mathematics, Dr. Scott. Three hours a week.
Curve Tracing, Dr. Scott. Two hours a week.
The three hour and two hour courses in each semester may not be elected separately.

Group: Mathematics with Greek, or with Latin, or with Philosophy, or with Physics, or with Chemistry, or with Geology.

Free Elective Courses.

Preparatory Course, Dr. Ragsdale. Two hours a week throughout the year.

Free Elective Courses.

*This course will be given in 1910–11 by an instructor whose appointment will be announced later.
† See footnote, page 148.
Graphical Mathematics, Dr. Scott.

_Given in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12._

The course deals with statistical work, probability, and theory of errors. It is recommended to students of economics as well as to students of physics. No knowledge of mathematics beyond the requirements for matriculation is presupposed. This course may be combined with the preparatory course and the course in applied mathematics or with post-major courses to make up the year of elective or post-major mathematics which may be taken as an alternative for the second year of required science.

Fundamental Theorems of Algebra and Geometry, Dr. Scott.

_Given in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13._

Certain standard problems of historical interest are considered in order to elucidate some of the fundamental principles of mathematics. Either semester may be taken separately. No knowledge of mathematics beyond the requirements for matriculation is presupposed. It is hoped that the work will prove useful not only to students electing mathematics as a major, but also to those intending to teach elementary mathematics. It may be taken as a free elective and may be counted as part of the five hours of elective or post-major mathematics which may be taken as an alternative for the second year of required science.

Elementary Course in Applied Mathematics, Mr. Wright.*

_Given in each year._

This course is intended for students who are taking or have already taken either the minor course in mathematics. It comprises an elementary treatment of the most important mathematical problems of statics, dynamics, hydrodynamics, optics, heat, sound, astronomy, an account of Newton's Principia, and a brief historical sketch.

This course may be combined with the courses in trigonometry or solid geometry or graphical mathematics or with post-major mathematics to make up the year of elective or post-major mathematics which may be taken as an alternative for the second year of required science.

Post-major Courses.

The post-major courses in mathematics are designed to bridge over the interval between the ordinary undergraduate studies and graduate work. As the amount of time given to mathematical studies differs in different colleges, graduate students frequently find it advisable to elect some of these courses. Regular written work is expected from all mathematical students, and a reading knowledge of French and German is presupposed.

The post-major courses in any one year amount to four or five hours a week. The courses given are the following, with occasional modifications:

I. (a.) Lectures introductory to Modern Analytical Geometry, in connection with Salmon's _Conic Sections_ and Scott's _Modern Analytical Geometry_, Dr. Scott.

or, I. (b.) Lectures on Modern Pure Geometry, Dr. Scott.

or, I. (c.) Lectures on Special Topics in Geometry, such as Homogeneous Coordinates, Circular Coordinates, Families of Curves, certain Transcendental Curves, Geometrical Transformations, etc., Dr. Scott.

*See footnote, page 148.
Special permission to take this course before completing the two years of the major course may be granted to students whose work in the major course has shown that they are able to profit by the lectures.

II. (a.) Lectures Introductory to Modern Algebra, in connection with Salmon's Modern Higher Algebra, and Elliott's Algebra of Quantics, Mr. Wright.*

or, II. (b.) Lectures preparatory to the Theory of Functions, in connection with Harkness and Morley's Introduction to the Theory of Analytic Functions and Chrystal's Algebra, Vol. II, Mr. Wright.*

or, II. (c.) Lectures on Differential Equations, ordinary and partial, Mr. Wright.*

or, II. (d.) A general course in Analysis, dealing with the higher development of subjects only touched upon in the major course, such as Determinants, Fourier's Series, Infinite Series, Definite Integrals, etc., Mr. Wright.*

III. (a.) Lectures on Analytical Geometry of Three Dimensions, Dr. Maddison.

or, III. (b.) A practical course in Differential Equations, Dr. Maddison.

or, III. (c.) Lectures on the Theory of Envelopes, Dr. Maddison.

In 1909-10 the following post-major courses are offered:

I. (a.) Dr. Scott. Two hours a week throughout the year.

II. (b.) Mr. Wright. Two hours a week during the first semester.

III. (a.) Dr. Maddison. One hour a week throughout the year.

In 1910-11 the following post-major courses are offered:

I. (c.) Dr. Scott. Two hours a week throughout the year.

II. (d.) Two hours a week during the first semester.

II. (c.) Two hours a week during the second semester.

III. (a.) Dr. Maddison. One hour a week throughout the year.

In 1911-12 the following post-major courses are offered:

I. (a.) Dr. Scott. One hour a week throughout the year.

II. (a.) Two hours a week throughout the year.

III. (c.) Dr. Maddison. One hour a week throughout the year.

Graduate Courses.

Four and a half hours a week of seminar work and graduate lectures are offered each year to graduate students of mathematics accompanied by the direction of private reading and original research. The courses vary from year to year so that they may be pursued by candidates for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy for three or more successive years. The books needed by the graduate students are collected in the seminar library of the department. No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses or to the seminary library, but the post-major courses of the department amounting to four or five hours a week may be elected by graduate students.

Theory of Algebraic Invariants, Dr. Scott.
Two hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1909-10.)

In this course binary and ternary forms are considered by means of Aronhold’s symbolic notation. During the first semester the work is purely algebraic, during the second semester more attention is paid to the geometrical applications. A general knowledge of plane algebraic curves is necessary for students taking this course.

Seminary in the Theory of Plane Algebraic Curves, Dr. Scott.
Two hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1909-10.)

Theory of Surfaces, Dr. Scott.
Two hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1910-11.)

A general knowledge of plane algebraic curves is necessary for students taking this course.

Plane Algebraic Curves, Dr. Scott.
Two hours a week throughout the year.
The course deals with the general theory of plane algebraic curves, with special attention to topological investigations.

Elliptic Functions.*
Two hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1910-11.)

A knowledge of the elementary properties of elliptic functions is presupposed; the properties of the theta functions are considered and some time is spent on the transformation theory. In the latter portion of the course the properties of modular functions are discussed.

Theory of Functions.*
Two hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1911-12.)

A knowledge of the elements of the theory is presupposed. The course will contain some account of the theory of functions of more than one independent variable and in particular will include a discussion of the properties of multiply periodic functions.

Linear Differential Equations.*
Two hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1912-13.)

This course consists of a discussion of the general theory of these equations, particular attention being paid to those of the second order. A detailed account is given of those equations whose singular points are regular. The expression of the variables as uniform functions of a parameter is dealt with and in this connection the elementary properties of automorphic functions are given. Solution by means of definite integrals and equations of the type which arise in connection with mathematical physics are discussed.

Mathematical Seminary and Journal Club, Dr. Scott and Mr. Wright.*
One hour a fortnight throughout the year.

Fortnightly meetings are held at which reports on special topics or memoirs are presented by the instructors and the graduate students.

*See footnote, page 149.
Science.

Physics, Chemistry, Geology, Biology.

In January, 1893, the trustees opened Dalton Hall, a large building containing ample laboratories, lecture-rooms, research-rooms, special libraries, and professors' rooms for the work of the scientific departments. The physical, chemical, and biological laboratories are open to students from nine to six daily.

The attention of graduates of medical colleges and of undergraduate and graduate students intending to take the degree of Doctor of Medicine is called to the facilities offered by the laboratories, and to the resolutions of the Trustees of the Johns Hopkins University in regard to the admission of students to the Medical School of that University, which opened in the autumn of 1893, and has from the first admitted women on the same terms as men.*

The value of a practical knowledge of biology and chemistry as preliminary or accessory to the professional study of medicine

---

* RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED BY THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF THE JOHNS HOPKINS UNIVERSITY, ON FEB. 6TH, 1893.

"A course of four years' instruction will be provided leading to the degree of Doctor of Medicine.

To this course there will be admitted as Candidates for the degree:
1. Those who have satisfactorily completed the Chemical-Biological Course which leads to the A.B. degree in this University.
2. Graduates of approved Colleges or Scientific Schools who can furnish evidence:
   (a) That they have acquaintance with Latin and a reading knowledge of French and German; (b) That they have such knowledge of Physics, Chemistry, and Biology as is imparted by the regular minor courses† given in these subjects in this University.
3. Those who give evidence by examination that they possess the general education implied by a degree in arts or in science from an approved college or scientific school and the knowledge of French, German, Latin, Physics, Chemistry, and Biology above indicated."

† By a minor course is understood one that requires one year for its completion. In the languages, the course involves five class-room exercises a week; in Physics, four class-room exercises and three hours a week in the laboratory; and in Chemistry and Biology, four class-room exercises and five hours a week in the laboratory in each subject.
is generally recognised. Through the courtesy of the Woman's Medical College of Pennsylvania, allowance is made in its professional courses for work carried on at Bryn Mawr in the scientific laboratories. Students of Bryn Mawr College that have completed major courses in chemistry and biology are released from the primary, or first year's examination in this college, and from laboratory practice in chemistry and biology. The courses of Bryn Mawr College in physics, chemistry, and biology correspond to those of the Johns Hopkins University, and it is easy for a student to elect a course corresponding exactly to the Preliminary Medical Course of the Johns Hopkins University. Every effort is made to enable students of medicine to complete the studies necessary to their purposes in the shortest possible time.

Physics.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. William B. Huff, Associate Professor of Physics, Dr. James Barnes, Associate in Physics, and Dr. Frances Lowater, Demonstrator in Physics. The instruction offered in physics covers eighteen hours of lectures a week; it includes ten hours a week of undergraduate minor and major work, one hour a week of free elective work, three hours a week of post-major work, open only to graduates and to undergraduates that have completed the major course in physics; and four hours a week of graduate lectures and seminary work.

The first year of the major course deals principally with the development of physical facts and is accordingly mainly experimental and descriptive in its nature. A wide range of physical phenomena and the elements of physical theories are treated. The course is planned to cover the whole subject from this point of view so as to give those who do not intend to pursue physics further, such a knowledge of its principles as will enable them to follow its recent development and applications, and also to provide those electing physics as a group with a good foundation for more advanced work. No knowledge of physics is presupposed. In the second year the course is intended to serve as an introduction to the theories to which experimental evidence has led. The treatment is accordingly more mathematical than in the first year, but the experimental side of the subject is still emphasised. A knowledge of trigonometry is required, and some familiarity with the methods of the calculus will be of assistance.

First Year.

(Minor Course.)

(Given in each year.)

1st Semester.

Laboratory Work, Dr. Huff and Dr. Lowater.

2nd Semester.

Electricity, Magnetism, and Light, Dr. Barnes.
Laboratory Work, Dr. Barnes and Dr. Lowater.

The instruction in this course is given by means of lectures, daily oral quizzes, occasional written quizzes, regular problem papers and required private reading. Students are expected to use, in connection with the lectures, text-books on the special part of the subject under discussion; at present Crew's General Physics is used for reference; also the text-books of Ames and Glazebrook. The lectures are illustrated throughout by means of the lantern, by demonstrations on the lecture table, and by the exhibition of apparatus, etc.

In the laboratory, the students are first instructed in the methods of accurate measurement of the simple quantities, length, time, and mass; later, they make a series of determinations, mainly quantitative, on the part of the subject under discussion in the lecture room at the time. Ames and Bliss's Manual of Experiments in Physics is found useful as a reference work for part of this course. A system of laboratory lectures has also been developed to supplement the class-room work, to point out sources of error and their treatment, to demonstrate methods of manipulation, and, in general, to give directions for working which are applicable to the class as a whole; they are given at the beginning of each week's laboratory work. The object of the work is to familiarise the students with the instruments and methods used in physical measurements, with special reference to the quantitative laws upon which the science is based. The laboratory is equipped with this object in view, and the apparatus is all of the most modern design.

Second Year.

(Given in each year.)

1st Semester.

Theoretical Mechanics, Theory of Light, Dr. Barnes.
Laboratory Work, Dr. Barnes and Dr. Lowater.

2nd Semester.

Theory of Heat, Theory of Electricity and Magnetism, Dr. Huff.
Laboratory Work, Dr. Huff and Dr. Lowater.

The instruction is given by lectures, supplemented by the discussion of weekly problem papers; the text-books mentioned below indicate the character of the ground covered, and form the basis of the lectures. An endeavour is made to bring the students into contact with the work of original investigators.

The general text-book used is Watson, Physics; the books used in special subjects are as follows: heat: Maxwell, Theory of Heat, Preston, Theory of Heat; dynamics:
selections from Tait and Steele's Dynamics of a Particle, Jeans's Theoretical Mechanics; and special lectures dealing with the applications of dynamics to physical problems; electricity and magnetism: J. J. Thomson, Elements of the Mathematical Theory of Electricity and Magnetism; optics, physical and geometrical: Preston, Theory of Light, Edser, Light.

The laboratory work of the second year is designed to follow and illustrate the subject-matter of the lectures. The student is taught the use of accurate instruments and the methods of physical investigation. A special study is made of the sources and amounts of the errors involved in the different operations, and the problems assigned are adapted as far as possible to the requirements and wishes of the individual students.

Group: Physics with Philosophy, or with Mathematics, or with Chemistry, or with Geology, or with Biology.

Free Elective Course.

Historical Development of Physics, Dr. Huff.

One hour a week throughout the year.

The work of this course consists of lectures, required reading and class-room discussions. The lectures give an elementary presentation of some of the more important ideas and results of physics. The reading is intended to supplement the lectures and to provide additional material for general discussion. The course is open to students who have had a minor course in science or its equivalent.

Post-major Courses.

The post-major courses are designed to bridge over the interval between the ordinary undergraduate studies and graduate work. As the amount of time given to undergraduate subjects differs in different colleges graduate students frequently find it advisable to elect some of these courses. A knowledge of differential and integral calculus is required. These lectures deal not only with the theoretical development of the subject, but great stress is laid on the important experimental work which has been done in it, and methods and results are criticised and opportunities for further investigation pointed out. The object of the courses is to prepare students to undertake independent work. The laboratory work is planned with this object in view and is arranged to meet the special needs of each individual student. Graduate students may be permitted to take the lectures without the laboratory work. In addition to the laboratory work which accompanies the lectures a student may take extra laboratory work sufficient to make the courses equivalent to five hours a week.

Properties of Matter, Dr. Huff.

Three hours a week during the first semester.

(Given in 1909-10.)

The lectures cover the general subject of the properties of matter studied from the point of view of the Molecular Theory. The different theories of matter are discussed and an account of recent investigations concerning the relations of matter and electricity is given. Poynting and Thomson's Properties of Matter is read in connection with the course.

Theory of Sound, Dr. Huff.

Three hours a week during the second semester.

(Given in 1909-10.)

The lectures form an introduction to the theory of modes of vibration of pipes, strings, and rods. The theory of music and of musical instruments is then studied. Poynting and Thomson's Sound is used during the earlier part of the course, and frequent references are made to Helmholtz and Rayleigh.

Spectroscopy, Dr. Barnes.
Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1910-11.)

The course begins with a complete discussion of the apparatus used in this subject; the results of past and present investigations are then considered, and problems for investigation are pointed out. The many important applications of spectroscopy to astronomy are not neglected. The standard book of reference is Kayser's Hand-buch der Spectroscopie. Detailed reports of laboratory investigations are required and in this work Mann's Manual of Advanced Optics will be found useful.

Electricity and Magnetism, Dr. Huff.
Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1911-12.)

The lectures of this course treat typical mathematical and experimental problems chosen from the various parts of the entire subject. Emphasis is laid upon giving clear ideas of physical phenomena. A large number of problems on potential and attraction are assigned.

General Optics, Dr. Barnes.
Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1912-13.)

These lectures give a general discussion of the theories advanced to explain many phenomena in light. Students are required to have a good knowledge of elementary optics and to be sufficiently familiar with optical apparatus to undertake a detailed study of some special problem.

Graduate Courses.

Four hours a week of seminar work and graduate lectures are offered each year to graduate students of physics accompanied by the direction of private reading, laboratory work and original research, and these courses are varied from year to year so that they may be pursued by students through three or more successive years. The books needed by the graduate students are collected in the library of the department. No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses, but the post-major courses of the department amounting to three hours a week may be elected by graduate students.

Thermo-dynamics and Radiation, Dr. Barnes.
Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1909-10.)

The modern developments of thermo-dynamics and radiation are considered. Attention is paid to the application of the laws of thermo-dynamics in physical chemistry.

Radioactivity, Dr. Huff.
Three hours a week during the first semester.

(Given in 1910-11.)

The earlier lectures deal with the motion of a charged particle in the field. A discussion of the methods of measuring the velocity of a moving charged particle, and the ratio of its charge to its mass follows. After a discussion of the various radioactive processes a brief account of the theories of the structure of the atom is given.

Discharge of Electricity through Gases, Dr. Huff.
Three hours a week during the second semester.

(Given in 1910-11.)

The lectures deal primarily with the study of ions and the part they play in the mechanism of the electric discharge.
Physical Optics, Dr. Barnes.
Three hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1911-12.)

This course gives a general mathematical discussion of physical optics. Attention is paid to the methods and results of important investigations, bringing in the essential points.

Mathematical Theory of Electricity and Magnetism, Dr. Huff.
Three hours a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1912-13.)

The lectures are based on Maxwell's standard work, and include a somewhat detailed account of the later development of the theory.

Physical Journal Club, Dr. Huff and Dr. Barnes.
One hour a week throughout the year.
(Given in each year.)

The advanced students and the instructors meet to hear reports and discuss recent scientific articles.

Laboratory Work, Dr. Huff and Dr. Barnes.

The laboratory work is arranged for the purpose of familiarising the student with methods of research; the student begins by repeating methods and investigations of well-known experimenters, with any modifications that may be suggested, passing on to points of investigation left untouched by previous experimenters, and finally to the study of new methods and the prosecution of original research. Students taking physics as their chief subject for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy are expected to spend all the time possible in work in the laboratory. The laboratory is provided with special rooms for magnetic, optical, and electrical work, and in the basement is a constant-temperature vault designed for accurate comparison of lengths, etc. The stock of apparatus is being added to yearly. A well-equipped shop and a skilled mechanic make it possible to construct special forms of apparatus designed for research.

Chemistry.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Elmer P. Kohler, Professor of Chemistry, Dr. Frederick Hutton Getman, Associate in Chemistry, and Miss Gertrude Langden Heritage, Demonstrator in Chemistry. The instruction offered in chemistry covers nineteen hours of lectures a week; it includes ten hours a week of undergraduate major and minor work, three hours a week of post-major work open only to graduates and to undergraduates that have completed the major course in chemistry, and six hours a week of graduate work.

The first year's work, or minor course, is a general introduction to the subject. Lectures are given in both inorganic and organic chemistry, making an elementary course that is complete in itself.

In the second year particular attention is paid to the quantitative side of chemical phenomena. The lectures are mainly on theoretical and organic chemistry.
The post-major courses are intended to prepare students for independent work, particular attention being paid to laboratory methods.

First Year.

(Minor Course.)

(Given in each year.)

1st Semester.

Introduction to General Chemistry, Dr. Kohler.
Laboratory Work, Dr. Kohler and Miss Heritage.

The course does not presuppose any knowledge of chemistry. In the class-room the nature of chemical action is taught by lectures that are illustrated by a series of experiments in which the more important substances are made and transformed. Throughout the semester the lectures and the laboratory work are complementary. The laboratory work of each day is outlined in the lecture, sufficient instruction being given to enable the students to observe intelligently. After all the experiments on a given subject have been made, the results are discussed in the class-room.

2nd Semester.

Introduction to Organic Chemistry, Dr. Getman.

This course is designed to meet the needs of students who take only one year of chemistry; but the material is so selected that it serves as an introduction to the more systematic course given in the second year. An effort is made to give an accurate conception of the underlying principles of organic chemistry.

Qualitative Analysis, Dr. Getman.
Laboratory Work, Dr. Getman and Miss Heritage.

This course consists of lectures, reviews, and laboratory work in qualitative analysis, the object being to familiarise the students with the properties and distinguishing characteristics of inorganic substances, and with the help of a systematic scheme of analysis to separate and identify various substances.

Second Year.

(Given in each year.)

1st Semester.

Lectures on Theoretical Chemistry, Dr. Getman.

In this course chemical facts are considered from the point of view of common and exact relations and from these relations the laws and theories of chemistry are developed. Special attention is paid to the atomic theory, the laws of gases, the theory of solutions and simple equilibria.

Laboratory Work, Dr. Getman.

The laboratory work consists of quantitative analyses. Each exercise is important in itself and illustrates some principle or involves some manipulation of general application in analytical work.

2nd Semester.

Organic Chemistry, Dr. Kohler.

This course presupposes a knowledge of the elements of organic chemistry as given in the first year, and is devoted to a systematic and detailed study of organic compounds. In the lectures the typical compounds are studied in detail; the general relations existing between classes of compounds, as well as the methods of transforming one class into another, are discussed. The experimental processes and the reasoning employed in determining constitutional or structural formulas are considered, and an attempt is made to trace the influence of organic investigations on the development of general chemistry.

Laboratory Work, Dr. Kohler and Miss Heritage. Five hours a week.

The laboratory work is devoted to organic preparations. A few simple substances are first studied with care. These are then transformed in a variety of ways to illustrate the relations on which the method of classifying organic compounds is based. Finally the same substances are used as material with which to build up more complex compounds in order to illustrate the synthetical methods by which the complicated organic compounds occurring in nature can be prepared in the laboratory.

Group: Chemistry with Mathematics, or with Physics, or with Geology, or with Biology.

Post-major Courses.

The post-major courses are designed to bridge over the interval between the ordinary undergraduate studies and graduate work. As the amount of time given to undergraduate subjects differs in different colleges graduate students frequently find it advisable to elect some of these courses.

Organic Chemistry, selected topics, Dr. Kohler. Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1909-10 and again in 1911-12.)

The aim of this course is to lay the foundation for independent work in organic chemistry. The lectures begin with a study of current problems as illustrated by some particular class of organic compounds. This is followed by a discussion of the laboratory methods available for the solution of such problems.

The laboratory work is varied to meet the wants of the individual students. In general, the student begins with the preparation of some of the more important substances that are discussed in the lectures. This is followed by organic analyses, molecular weight determinations, and the transformations necessary to establish the structural formulas of the substances prepared. In the second semester some elementary problem in organic chemistry is assigned to each student.

Inorganic Chemistry, Dr. Getman. Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1910-11 and again in 1912-13.)

The aim of the lectures is to extend the students' knowledge of inorganic and theoretical chemistry and to lay a foundation for independent work in this subject. One hour a week is given to a discussion of the laboratory work and subjects suggested directly by it.

The laboratory work includes the calibration of instruments; the preparation of pure substances; advanced quantitative analysis, comprising the elements of gas and water analysis; and such physico-chemical measurements as the needs of the individual student may indicate.

Graduate Courses.

Six hours a week of seminary work and graduate lectures are offered each year to graduate students of chemistry accompanied by the direction of private reading, laboratory work, and original research. The lecture courses are varied from year to year to meet the requirements of students and to form a consecutive course for those who wish to make chemistry the chief subject in the examination for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.
Such students may specialise either in organic chemistry, under the direction of Dr. Kohler, or in inorganic and physical chemistry, under the direction of Dr. Getman, but students who make organic chemistry the major subject of examination must take physical chemistry as one of their minor subjects, and students who make inorganic chemistry the major subject, must take organic chemistry as one of their minor subjects. The books needed by the graduate students are collected in the library of the department. No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses, but the post-major courses of the department amounting to three hours a week may be elected by graduate students.

Chemical Seminary, Organic Chemistry, Dr. Kohler.

One hour a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

The students who specialise in organic chemistry present formal reports upon assigned topics.

Chemical Seminary, Inorganic Chemistry, Dr. Getman.

One hour a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

The course consists of lectures, required reading, and reports on various topics. Modern determinations of atomic weight, the constitution of the chronic chlorides, the separation of the rare earths and radio-activity have been among the subjects treated. The needs of the individual students are considered in selecting the subjects for discussion.

Advanced Organic Chemistry, Dr. Kohler.

Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1910–11 and again in 1912–13.)

Physical Chemistry, Dr. Getman. Three hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1909–10 and again in 1911–12)

The lectures give a general survey of the subject, including the laws of gases, the elements of thermodynamics, the theory of solutions, chemical kinetics, equilibria and thermo-chemistry and electro-chemistry. The laboratory work in connection with the course includes the determination of specific gravities of solids and liquids, the molecular weights of vapors and dissolved substances, the study of reaction velocities, calorimetry, and electro-chemical measurements.

Chemical Journal Club, Dr. Kohler and Dr. Getman.

One hour a week throughout the year.

The advanced students and the instructors meet to hear reports and discuss recent scientific articles.

Geology.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. Florence Bascom, Professor of Geology, and Mr. Chester Albert Reeds, Lecturer in Geology.

The instruction offered in geology covers twenty hours of lectures a week; it includes ten hours a week of undergraduate major and minor work, two hours a week of free elective work, two post-major courses equivalent to three hours a week open only to graduates and to undergraduates that have completed the major course in geology and three graduate courses equivalent to five, three and two hours a week respectively.

The first year of the major course in geology is arranged to give a general survey of two divisions of the science and at the same time to introduce the student to the larger field of geology. It may be taken as a free elective or as a year of required science or as the first year of the group course in geology. The purpose of the course is to make clear to the student the present constitution and form of the earth's crust, to promote keen and accurate observation of natural phenomena, and to give some insight into the nature of geological problems. The second year of the major course deals with the evolution of the earth's crust, and affords training in palaeontology, stratigraphy, and structural geology.

Post-major courses in petrography and palaeontology are offered in each year, and are designed to train the student in petrographic methods for the exact determination of rock species and rock families and in the principles of invertebrate and vertebrate palaeontology. They are an essential preliminary to research work in the science.

Excellent illustrative material for the graduate and undergraduate courses is furnished by the geological collections of the college, including the Theodore D. Rand rock and mineral collection, which alone contains over 20,000 specimens, by the private collections of the instructors, and by material lent by the United States Geological Survey. The department is also fortunate in its proximity to the museum of the Academy of Natural Sciences of Philadelphia. Within easy reach of the college are good collecting fields for fossil, mineral, and rock specimens.

First Year.
(Minor Course.)
(Given in each year.)

1st Semester.

Major Course.
Lectures on Physiography, Dr. Bascom.  Five hours a week.
Field Work, Dr. Bascom.  Three hours a week.
Laboratory Work, Dr. Bascom.  Two hours a week.

The lectures first deal with the character and action of the forces which control the landscape; subsequently the features produced by these physiographic processes are treated; finally physiographic regions are discussed. The lectures are illustrated by photographs, lantern slides, geographical relief models, and maps. No text-book is used, but standard manuals are accessible for reference.

In the laboratory the student is occupied with a study of the development of physiographic forms. This is conducted with the use of Davis’ Atlas for Practical Exercises in Physical Geography assisted by models, photographs, topographic maps, and natural illustrations.

For the field work, excursions are made into the immediate neighborhood on Mondays from 2 to 5 p.m. during the autumn and spring. As the course progresses, more extended excursions may be taken among the crystalline rocks of the South Mountain Range or the fossiliferous formations of the Coastal Plain. On all excursions instruction in field geology is given, areal mapping is accomplished, and reports of the areas covered are required of the students. Reading amounting to three hours will be required of students absent from a field trip. During the winter months laboratory work replaces the field excursions.

2nd Semester.

Lectures on Megascopic Petrology, Mr. Reeds. Five hours a week.
Field Work, Mr. Reeds. Three hours a week.
Laboratory Work, Mr. Reeds. Two hours a week.

The lectures discuss the materials which constitute the earth’s crust; the chief precious stones, the principal rock-forming minerals and others of special economic importance are first described; the important rock types, sedimentary, igneous, and metamorphic are described and their relations shown. The course closes with a discussion of the phenomena and principles of vulcanism and seismology. The lectures are illustrated by mineral and rock specimens, photographs, lantern slides, and wooden models.

In the laboratory crystal forms, rock-forming minerals, and rock types are systematically studied.

Field mapping similar to that of the first semester is continued throughout the semester.

Second Year.

1st Semester.
(Given in each year.)

Lectures on Historical Geology, Mr. Reeds. Five hours a week.
Field Work, Mr. Reeds. Three hours a week.
Laboratory Work, Mr. Reeds. Two hours a week.

The lectures deal with the evolution of continents and of life, and with the distribution and character of the various rock formations. Special attention is given to the development of life and to the theory of evolution.

In the laboratory the student becomes familiar with the typical flora and fauna of the successive geologic formations and with the development of the more important classes. The field work involves frequent excursions to fossiliferous localities in the Paleozoic formations of Pennsylvania and the Mesozoic and Cenozoic formations of New Jersey.

2nd Semester.

Lectures on Glaciology and Structural Geology, Dr. Bascom. Five hours a week.
Field Work, Dr. Bascom. Three hours a week.
Laboratory Work, Dr. Bascom. Two hours a week.

The lectures treat of the conditions, work and origin of the glacial period, the development of man, the causes and effects of crustal movements, and hypotheses of the origin and age of the earth. The course is illustrated with models, photographs and lantern slides.
In the laboratory topographic maps and models illustrating features due to glaciation and maps and models illustrating geologic structures are studied. Practice is given in topographic mapping from models, in modeling, and in drawing structure sections.

The field work of the first semester is continued and training in topographic mapping may also be given.

Group: Geology with Mathematics, or with Physics, or with Chemistry, or with Biology.

Free Elective Courses.

(Given in each year.)

1st Semester.

Lectures on Meteorology, Mr. Reeds.

Two hours a week during the first semester.

The course consists of lectures on atmospheric phenomena illustrated by a selected series of lantern slides. Weather maps and forecasts are received daily from Washington and Philadelphia, and, by means of these, weather conditions in the United States are studied and observations are made on phenomena attending storms.

2nd Semester.

Lectures on Oceanography, Mr. Reeds.

Two hours a week during the second semester.

The course consists of a study of the ocean. The lectures treat of the temperatures, salinity, movements, life and sedimentation of the ocean. They are illustrated by lantern slides.

Post-major Courses.

The post-major courses are designed to bridge over the interval between the ordinary undergraduate studies and graduate work. As the amount of time given to undergraduate subjects differs in different colleges graduate students frequently find it advisable to elect some of these courses.

Lectures on Petrography, Dr. Bascom.
Field Work, Dr. Bascom.
Laboratory Work, Dr. Bascom.

Two hours a week throughout the year.
Three hours a week throughout the year.
Two and a half hours a week throughout the year.

During the first semester the lectures deal with the principles of optical crystallography, the optical means of mineral determination, and the petrographic characters of rock-forming minerals. In the second semester the structure, composition, characters, origin, geographical distribution, and geological associations of the igneous rocks are treated. Practice is given in the quantitative chemical classification of igneous rocks for the purpose of determining their position in the new system. Petrographical investigation in the field and laboratory is included in the course. The works of Groth, Rosenbusch, Zirkel, and Michel Lévy are used for reference. Special field problems are given to the students for independent solution.

Lectures on Palæontology, Mr. Reeds.
Field Work, Mr. Reeds.
Laboratory Work, Mr. Reeds.

Two hours a week throughout the year.
Three hours a week throughout the year.
Two and a half hours a week throughout the year.

The course presupposes a knowledge of historical geology. A systematic study is made of the various classes of animals which are found in a fossil state. Special attention is given to the relations of these classes to each other as bearing on their origin and on the theory of evolution. Weekly excursions are made to neighboring fossiliferous localities to collect fossils, and to observe their occurrence in the rocks. The student has access, not only to the representative palaeontological collection of Bryn Mawr College, but also to the large collections of the several academies and institutes in Philadelphia.

Graduate Courses.

Four hours a week of seminary work and graduate lectures are offered each year to graduate students of geology accompanied by the direction of private reading, laboratory work, and original research. The books needed by the graduate students are collected in the library of the department. No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses, but the post-major courses of the department amounting to four hours a week may be elected by graduate students.

The graduate courses in petrology and mineralogy should be preceded by the major and post-major courses or their equivalents and are intended primarily for graduate students wishing to make geology a major subject for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. The graduate course in mineralogy is also intended to meet the needs of graduate students in chemistry who wish to make mineralogy a minor subject for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. The graduate course in historical geology is designed primarily for graduate students wishing to make geology a major subject for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy; it may also be taken by graduate students in biology who wish to make historical geology a minor subject for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. Further graduate courses in petrology will be arranged to suit the requirements of candidates for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy and research problems will be assigned.

Lectures on Petrology, Dr. Bascom. One hour a week throughout the year.
Field Work, Dr. Bascom. Four hours a week throughout the year.
Laboratory Work, Dr. Bascom. Eight hours a week throughout the year.

The lectures deal with the problems of metamorphism of both aqueous and igneous rocks. The character of metamorphic processes and the conditions which control these processes, the megascopic and microscopic structures, and the criteria determining the origin, classification, geographic distribution, and geologic occurrence of metamorphic rocks are treated. Direction is given in research-work, map making, and advanced field work. The amount of laboratory, field work, and private reading required makes the course the equivalent of five hours a week.

Lectures on Mineralogy, Dr. Bascom. One hour a week throughout the year.
Laboratory Work, Dr. Bascom. Three hours a week throughout the year.

Both the lectures and laboratory practice deal with crystal measurement by means of the two-circle goniometer, with crystal projection, and crystal drawing. Lectures on descriptive mineralogy or optical crystallography are included in this course when desired. The Theodore D. Rand mineral collection furnishes superior material for study and illustration.

The works of Goldschmidt, Hintze, Groth, Tschermak, and Dana are used as reference books.

Lectures on Advanced Historical Geology, Mr. Reeds. One hour a week throughout the year.
Field Work, Mr. Reeds. Three hours a week throughout the year.
Laboratory Work, Mr. Reeds.

Three and a half hours a week throughout the year.

A detailed study is made of the rocks of one or more geological periods. The faunas and floras in these rocks are studied with respect to their development and to their associations in the various geographic areas and zoologic provinces. The student will study the literature bearing on the periods under consideration, and in the field, will make a systematic investigation of an assigned area in the vicinity of the college.

Geological Journal Club, Dr. Bascom and Mr. Reeds.

One hour a week throughout the year.

The graduate students and the instructors meet for the presentation and discussion of recent geological literature.

Biology.

The instruction in this department is under the direction of Dr. David Hilt Tennent, Associate Professor of Biology, Dr. Joseph W. Warren, Associate Professor of Physiology, Dr. Nettie Maria Stevens, Associate in Experimental Morphology, and Dr. Harriet Randolph, Demonstrator in Biology and Reader in Botany. The instruction offered in biology covers twenty-two hours of lectures a week; it includes ten hours a week of undergraduate minor and major work; one hour a week of free elective work; seven hours a week of post-major work open only to graduates and to undergraduates that have completed the major course in biology, and four hours a week of graduate lectures and seminary work. The post-major work may be further extended by special laboratory courses.

The work of the first year, or minor course, forms a general introduction to the subject through a broad, comparative study of living things (general biology). In the second year the foundation of a minuter knowledge of animal morphology and physiology is laid. The third year's work, or post-major course, is devoted to the study of more advanced subjects and the practical investigation of simple problems. A knowledge of the elements of chemistry and physics is very desirable for students entering any course in biology, and is necessary for advanced work in the subject.

First Year.

(Minor Course.)

(Given in each year.)

1st Semester.

Major Course.

Lectures on General Biology, Dr. Tennent.
Four hours a week.
Lectures on Plants, Dr. Randolph.
One hour a week.
Laboratory Work, Dr. Tennent and Dr. Randolph.
Five hours a week.
2nd Semester.

Lectures on Vertebrates, Dr. Warren.
Five hours a week for the first nine weeks.

Lectures on the Embryology of the Chick, Dr. Tennent.
Five hours a week for the last four weeks.

Laboratory Work, Dr. Tennent, Dr. Warren, and Dr. Randolph.
Five hours a week.

It is the object of this course to give the student clear conceptions of the fundamental principles of vital structure and action, the outlines of general classification, and the relations of the biological sciences to one another and to other branches of science. The laboratory practice is designed to enable the student, as far as possible, to examine for herself the facts discussed in the lectures, to encourage the habit of exact observation, and to impart a knowledge of methods of practical work.

The general subject is treated in two courses which supplement each other and must be taken together. The course in the first semester deals especially with the lower forms of life, the relations of plants and animals, and the more general principles of the science. The course in the second semester is devoted more largely to the higher forms of animal life, with special reference to physiology.

The work is designed not simply to teach the elements of zoology and botany, as commonly understood, but in addition to this to treat plants and animals with constant reference to one another, both in their structure and in their mode of action. Stress is therefore laid on the essential facts of comparative morphology and physiology (general biology) as illustrated by the thorough study of a few types, rather than on the minutiae of classification. At the same time the work is arranged with reference to subsequent special work in zoology, botany, and physiology.

In the first semester the student examines a number of animals and plants, so arranged as to form a natural and progressive introduction to the general principles of biology. After certain general preliminary studies of familiar and highly organised forms, the student makes a detailed examination of unicellular organisms, and from these proceeds gradually to the complex conditions of structure and function found in higher plants and animals. In the second semester attention is given mainly to the biology of the higher animals. The course ends with a study of the embryology of the frog and, in greater detail, that of the chick.

Second Year.
(Given in each year.)

1st Semester.

Animal Physiology, Dr. Warren.
Five hours a week.

Laboratory Work, Dr. Warren and Dr. Randolph.
Five hours a week.

A knowledge of scientific physiology is conveyed by a detailed account of the microscopic structure and the mode of working of the higher animal organisms. The application of this knowledge to hygiene, medicine, and psychology is indicated.

The chief organs and tissues of the vertebrate body are examined with the microscope. Considerable time is given to familiarising the student with the preparation and mounting of material for microscopical study. The fundamental facts of physiology and the methods of physiological inquiry are taught by means of demonstrations and experiments by the students. The laboratory has a good equipment of apparatus, to which additions are constantly made.

2nd Semester.

General Zoology, Dr. Tennent.
Two hours a week.

The course in general zoology extends the work of the first year so as to include a survey of the phenomena of animal life and a systematic presentation of the more important facts of general morphology.
Comparative Anatomy of Mammals, Selected topics, Dr. Warren.

Two hours a week.

Theoretical Biology, Dr. Tennent.

In this course the student is introduced to some of the leading questions of theoretical general biology. The first part of the course treats of the history of biological discovery with special reference to the development of the more important generalisations and theories of the science. The latter part is mainly devoted to a critical analysis of the theory of evolution and discussions of the broader philosophical problems of biology, such as heredity, variation, adaptation, and kindred topics. These lectures vary somewhat from year to year, and are intended to be suggestive rather than exhaustive in character.

Laboratory Work, Dr. Tennent, Dr. Warren, and Dr. Randolph.

Five hours a week.

In the laboratory thorough dissections are made of typical forms, illustrating the leading groups of animals. A portion of the course is devoted to a study of the sense organs.

Group: Biology with Physics, or with Chemistry, or with Geology.

Free Elective Course.

Free Elective Course.

Theoretical Biology, Dr. Tennent.

One hour a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

This course deals chiefly with the subjects of evolution and heredity, and is open to students who have taken a minor course in biology, chemistry, geology, or physics, or have done equivalent work. A considerable amount of assigned reading will be required.

Post-major Courses.

The post-major courses are designed to bridge over the interval between the ordinary undergraduate studies and graduate work. As the amount of time given to undergraduate subjects differs in different colleges, graduate students frequently find it advisable to elect some of these courses.

Comparative Anatomy and Embryology of the Protochordates, Dr. Tennent.

One hour a week during the first semester.

(Given in 1909–10 and again in 1911–12.)

This course of lectures, assigned reading, and laboratory work is intended to supplement the major course in zoology. Types of the principal groups of the protochordates are studied in the laboratory and some individual work is assigned.

The Structure of Protoplasm and the Cell, Dr. Tennent.

One hour a week during the second semester.

(Given in 1909–10 and again in 1911–12.)

The structure of protoplasm, the mechanism of cell division, fertilisation, reduction, and some of the problems of cell organisation are described and studied.

Embryology, Dr. Tennent.

One hour a week throughout the year.

(Given in 1910–11 and again in 1912–13.)

This course consists of lectures and laboratory work on the embryology of the vertebrates. In the lectures an effort is made not only to discuss the embryology of specific forms but also to consider carefully the fundamental questions of embryological interest. The development of Amphioxus, Ascidian, Amia, Lepidosteus, Squalus, Ctenolabrus, Necturus, Rana, Chrysemys, Chick, and Mammal is studied. After the study of these forms some elementary problem in embryology is assigned to each student.

Advanced Physiology, Dr. Warren.
One hour a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

The topics selected depend upon the previous training of the students, and as far as possible the preferences of the students are consulted. Occasional conferences are held for the discussion of essays prepared by the students and presenting the more important evidence concerning the fundamental problems of physiology. By this means it is hoped to familiarise the student with the literature and with the methods of investigation. In suitable cases and by special permission of the instructor this course may be extended by laboratory work and private reading. In this way it may be made equivalent to a course of two or three hours a week.

Lectures on the Structure and Function of the Central Nervous System, Dr. Warren.
One hour a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

This course may, under special circumstances, be taken at the same time as the major course. The finer structure of the nervous system of the higher vertebrates is discussed in considerable detail. The physiology of the cord and brain is presented as fully as the time will permit. This course may also be taken as a one hour elective by properly qualified students.

Lectures and Demonstrations in Physiological Chemistry, Dr. Warren.
Two hours a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

The instruction in this course is given by lectures and conferences on selected topics and also by laboratory work of about three hours a week. It treats of the problems of secretion and excretion, and also of the principal questions of nutrition in considerable detail and with reference to the more modern theories relating to these processes. The lectures are intended to supplement those of the major year, and a preliminary training in chemistry at least equivalent to that obtained in the minor course is required. This course may be taken as a two hour elective by properly qualified students.

Human Osteology, Dr. Warren.
One hour a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

This course is intended for students in the preliminary medical course; it may also be taken as a free elective course by properly qualified students receiving special permission. Two hours laboratory work is required in connection with the course.

Problems in Experimental Morphology, Dr. Stevens.
One hour a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

The object of this course is to give a general historical view of experimental morphology, to discuss some of the methods employed, to point out the results already obtained, and to indicate the nature of the work now being done in this subject. The students are referred to the most recent literature on the subject and an attempt is made to make them familiar with the most interesting problems in experimental morphology and cytology. This course may be taken as a one hour course with one and a half hours laboratory work or assigned reading, but it is recommended that it be taken with four or more hours of laboratory work as a two, three, or four hour course.

Laboratory Work, Dr. Tennent, Dr. Warren, and Dr. Stevens.

It is desirable that as much laboratory work as possible should be done in connection with the lectures offered above. The time to be spent in the laboratory is not rigidly fixed, but the maximum requirement is such that the lectures count as equivalent to a full five hour course. Special problems, moreover, are assigned to each student, and at the end of the year the result of the work is presented in writing.
Graduate Courses.

Four hours a week of seminary work and graduate lectures are offered each year to graduate students of biology accompanied by the direction of private reading, laboratory work, and original research. The books needed by the graduate students are collected in the library of the department. No undergraduates are admitted to graduate courses, but the post-major courses of the department amounting to seven hours a week may be elected by graduate students. The advanced courses are varied from year to year, so as to form a consecutive course for students that wish to make biology one of the chief subjects of the examination for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. Such students may specialise either in animal morphology under the guidance of Dr. Tennent and Dr. Stevens, or in animal physiology under the guidance of Dr. Warren.

Problems in Embryology, Dr. Tennent. One hour a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1909–10.)

The embryology of invertebrates with special reference to germinal organisation, cleavage and differentiation and to the problems of inheritance and development is studied.

The Evolution of Organisms, Dr. Tennent.
One hour a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1910–11.)

This course of lectures deals with the growth of the idea of organic evolution, the greater part of the course being devoted to a critical examination of the work of Lamarck, Darwin, and De Vries.

Adaptation of Organisms, Dr. Tennent.
One hour a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1911–12.)

In this course the adaptation of organisms to environment, the origin of adaptations, and the theories that have been advanced to account for adaptation are considered.

Selected Problems of Nutrition with special reference to recent discussions of standard diets, Dr. Warren.
One hour a week throughout the year.
(Given in 1909–10.)

The Interstitial Secretion of Glands ("Internal Secretion"), Dr. Warren.
One hour a week during the first semester.
(Given in 1910–11.)

Selected Problems in Respiration and their bearing on the Nature of Metabolism, and The Problem of Animal Heat (Thermometry and Calorimetry), Dr. Warren.
One hour a week during the second semester.
(Given in 1910–11.)

An Introduction to the History and Literature of Animal Physiology, Dr. Warren.
One hour a week during the first semester.
(Given in 1911–12.)

The Problem of the Knee-jerk, and a Discussion of the Graphic Method in its Application to Physiology, Dr. Warren.
One hour a week during the second semester.
(Given in 1911–12.)
Advanced Experimental Morphology, Dr. Stevens.

One hour a week throughout the year.

(Given in each year.)

The topics treated in this course vary from year to year according to the needs of the graduate students attending the lectures and the work being done by prominent investigators in the field of experimental morphology. Special use is made of recent periodical literature. The subjects considered in 1905-10 were experimental morphology from a historical standpoint, Darwin’s experimental work, some problems in regeneration, problems in experimental embryology, statistical methods for the study of biological variation, sex determination, the mutation theory and Mendelism. A selection from these topics will be given in 1910-11, unless some other subjects seem more desirable. Problems for laboratory research are assigned to students who desire to do research work in experimental morphology or cytolgy.

Biological Journal Club, Dr. Tennent, Dr. Warren, and Dr. Stevens.

One hour a week throughout the year.

The advanced students and the instructors meet for the presentation and discussion of topics of current biological literature.

Laboratory Work, Dr. Tennent, Dr. Warren, and Dr. Stevens.

There is no regular course of laboratory instruction for graduates. Each student desiring to devote a considerable portion of her time to such work is given an experimental problem for verification or extension. The nature of the work depends in each case on the qualifications of the student.

Department of Health and Hygiene.

The health of the students is under the care of a Health Committee consisting of the President of the College ex officio, the Dean of the College, the Director of Athletics and Gymnastics, and the Physicians of the College.

Every undergraduate student and hearer must be examined each year by the Visiting Physician of the College, and twice each year by the Director of Athletics and Gymnastics with reference to physical development, strength of heart and lungs and general health. The eyes of students are examined by the Examining Oculist of the College during the first semester after entering the college and again during the first semester of the junior year. Students who cannot furnish evidence of successful vaccination within a period of two years are vaccinated by the college physicians.

Eminent specialists practicing in Philadelphia, whose names may be found in the list of Appointments, have consented to serve as consulting physicians of the college and will be consulted in cases requiring their advice. The Visiting Physician will be in her college office during the hours from four to six of every afternoon except Sunday and may be consulted by the students without charge.
Students on the sick list are under the care of the attending physicians and the Dean of the College. Students on the special supervision list and all other students not on the sick list are under the immediate care of the Director of Athletics and Gymnastics, who keeps careful records of the health of all students and endeavors by lectures, interviews, personal advice, exercise, and general hygiene to maintain and improve the health of the students.

All communications concerning the health of the students from parents and guardians, outside physicians, and others should be addressed to the Dean of the College, who will also excuse students on account of illness before and after vacations and from attendance on academic work:

Athletics and Gymnastics.

The exercise of the students is under the care of Miss Constance M. K. Applebee, Director of Athletics and Gymnastics, and Miss Elizabeth L. Gray, Assistant Director of Athletics and Gymnastics.

The gymnasium (see page 175) is open for the use of students from 7 A.M. to 10 P.M. daily. Four periods of exercise a week are required of all resident and non-resident undergraduate students and hearers throughout the year. From December first till April first attendance twice a week in the gymnasium is compulsory for all resident and non-resident undergraduate students and hearers. Students may take part during the year in the following forms of exercise which are organised by the Athletic Association under the supervision of the Director: in the autumn, tennis, hockey, and riding; in the winter, water polo, lacrosse, indoor base ball, skating, swimming meet, fencing, and indoor track athletics; in the spring, basket ball, cricket, and tennis. All students who cannot satisfy the swimming test are required to take six lessons in swimming. No undergraduate student will be excused from the required exercise except by order of the Director of Athletics and Gymnastics. Special exercises are prescribed for students needing individual corrective work, and these are taken in addition to the regular class work. Every student, while exercising in the gymnasium, must wear a gymnasium suit of the pattern prescribed by the Director.
Opportunities for Public Worship.

In the vicinity of the college there are churches of almost all the various religious denominations. Coaches are provided by the college on Sundays to enable students to attend the churches in the neighborhood.

Religious services are held every Sunday evening, under the auspices of the College and of the Students' Christian Association, and prominent clergymen of different denominations are invited to address the students. A service is held every Sunday afternoon and there is daily morning chapel. Attendance on all the religious exercises of the college is voluntary.

COLLEGE BUILDINGS.

The college buildings are situated at Bryn Mawr, in the suburbs of Philadelphia, five miles west of the city, on the main line of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The site of the college is four hundred and twenty feet above sea level in the midst of a beautiful rolling country made accessible by good roads in every direction. The college grounds cover fifty-two acres, and include lawns, tennis-courts, and two large athletic fields, one of which is converted in winter into a skating-pond.

Taylor Hall (named after the founder), a large building of Port Deposit stone, contains a general assembly room, eleven lecture-rooms, and the offices of administration.

The library, the gift of the friends, graduates, and students of the college, begun in April, 1903, was completed in February, 1907. It is built of gray stone in the Jacobean Gothic style of architecture of the period of 1630, and forms three sides of a closed quadrangle. The main building, devoted to the library proper, faces east and is opposite and parallel to Taylor Hall at a distance of about fifty yards; the principal entrances of the two buildings face each other and are connected by a broad cement path. The east front is one hundred and seventy-four feet long and contains a three story stack with accommodation for 88,000 volumes, and above this a large reading-room with desks for one hundred and thirty-six readers, each desk screened to a height of two feet, as in the British Museum reading-room, to secure privacy to the reader. No books of reference are kept in the main reading-room.
Beyond the reading-room on the south side are the newspaper and magazine rooms. On the north side is the Art Seminary, containing collections of photographs, vases, and coins. The main building contains offices for the librarians and cataloguers, a study room for the non-resident students, and four cloak rooms. The wings of the building, running symmetrically about two hundred feet in length from the north and south ends of the main building, contain fourteen seminary rooms and twenty-five professors' offices. The books needed for graduate study and research are kept in the seminary rooms and graduate lectures are held in them. The seminaries are arranged as follows: Greek, Latin, English, Art, Archæology, German, French, Italian and Spanish, and Philosophy in the north wing; Mathematics, History, Economics, Psychology, and Semitic Languages in the south wing. The total book capacity of the library, including the seminary libraries and the books for general study which are kept in the stack, is 168,449 volumes. The building is absolutely fireproof. Professors' offices for the senior professors in each department adjoin the seminary rooms. There are also two seminary lecture-rooms accommodating about fifteen students, one general lecture-room accommodating forty-two students, four interview rooms, and a library for the use of the Christian Union.

On the first floor of the south wing the department of experimental psychology has two large laboratories, one for general work and one for research. The basement of the north wing contains rooms for the Monograph Committee of the Faculty, the Alumnae Association, the Students' Association for Self-Government, and fireproof safe rooms for the records and archives of the college. The quadrangular court enclosed by the building is surrounded by cloisters and in the centre of the grass enclosure is a fountain, the gift of the class of 1901.

The library is open for students on week-days from 8 A.M. till 10 P.M. and on Sundays from 2 P.M. till 10 P.M. It is open for the faculty at all hours.

In January, 1893, the scientific departments of the college were transferred to Dalton Hall, a stone building erected by the trustees out of funds in large part contributed by the generosity of friends of the college. Dalton Hall is entirely occupied by the scientific departments, the special scientific libraries, and the consultation-rooms of the professors of science. The first floor and the basement are reserved for physics, the second floor is reserved for biology, the third floor for chemistry, and the fourth and fifth floors for geology. In December, 1893, a greenhouse designed for the use of the botanical department was added to Dalton Hall as the gift of the alumnae and students.

Around Taylor Hall the trustees have erected halls of residence for the accommodation of students. Plans and descriptions of the six halls of residence, Merion Hall, Radnor Hall, Denbigh Hall, Pembroke Hall East, Pembroke Hall West, and Rockefeller Hall, the gift of Mr. John D. Rockefeller, and of the academic buildings, Taylor Hall, the Library, and Dalton Hall, are published in Part 4 of the Bryn Mawr College Calendar to be obtained from the Secretary of the College.

Music-rooms with sound-proof walls and ceilings are provided in Pembroke Hall East, and rooms where the students can have hairdressing and dressmaking done, and a luncheon-room for non-resident students in Rockefeller Hall.

The new gymnasium, erected on the site of the first gymnasium and the gift of the Athletic Association, the alumnae and thirteen neighbors of the college, was completed in February, 1909. It is open to the students from 8 A.M. till 10 P.M., daily, contains a large hall for gymnastic exercises, with a running or walking track for use in rainy weather; a room for the director and an adjoining room for the examination and record of the physical development of the students, a waiting-room, and cloak rooms. In the basement are dressing-rooms and shower-baths for use after exercise and a swimming-tank, seventy feet long, twenty feet wide, and from four to seven and a half feet deep, given in 1894 by the alumnae, students, and friends of the college, and well supplied with spring boards, life preservers, and other apparatus for the teaching of swimming. The gymnasium is under the charge of a director and two assistants.

There is on the grounds, separated from the other buildings, a cottage infirmary, or hospital, with accommodation for patients and nurses, and its own kitchen and bathrooms.

A central power-house, which was erected in 1903 as part of the gift of Mr. John D. Rockefeller, furnishes heat, electric light, and hot water for all the college buildings. Steam is conducted through tunnels underground to coils in the basements of each building. Air brought in from the outside is blown through the heaters by powerful fans and distributed to the various rooms, and the system is so adjusted as to change the air completely in every room once in every ten minutes throughout the day and night. The temperature is regulated by thermostats in the heating coils as well as in the individual rooms. The electric lights, including electric reading-lamps for each student, are installed in the most approved manner and the voltage is kept constant so that there is no fluctuation. A constant and abundant supply of hot water is laid on and maintained at a temperature of 180 degrees during all the twenty-four hours of the day, in all the bathrooms and stationary wash-stands and tea pantries.

The Delaware and Atlantic Telegraph and Telephone Company, a branch of the long-distance Bell Telephone Company, maintains telephone pay stations in each of the halls of residence, in the library and in the gymnasium, by means of which the students may be communicated with at any time. Near the college are a Postal Telegraph-Cable Company office (service 6 A.M. to 12 P.M.), an Adams Express office, a United States money-order office, and two banks. There are good roads in every direction. Horses for riding and driving may be kept at livery near the college at a cost of twenty-five dollars a month.
