EVEN CLASS AGAIN ROLLS HOOPS

Four Oral Finals for Last Red Class

Preserving unbroken the record of the even classes, 1916 rolled their hoops after the fourth French and German oral last Saturday. The last odd class which could not roll hoops was a red class, 1913.

In the German oral, which came second, two persons were called back to read again and the suspense of the seniors, sitting with their hoops on Senior Steps, was to be broken when the announcement was made that the Sophomore runner brought the glad word, relayed down through Taylor, of "Passed".

After the rolling of the hoops, it was learned that E. Washburn, '16, taking the Orals Saturday for the first time, had taken the new bin Nets as Mr. Morgan is technically 1917, 1916 could have rolled their hoops even if she had failed.

1919 WIN CLOSE GAME WITH 1917

The Freshmen defeated the Juniors Tuesday 15 to 12 in the first game of the finals. The playing was fast but spectacular. The chief interest of the game lay in the steady goal throwing of M. F. Markin.

Outlook for last December said that this is "music such as only Russia could produce. It is the expression of a people who have developed a keen sense of beauty of cost among their suffering. In contrat to the Anglican music which we

FRENCH WAR SLANG TRANSLATED

Two French books, "Gaspard," by René de Mornay for the year 1915 and "Les Argonaux de Tranchées" by Salis, have been put in the New Book Room. "Gaspard," a story of the French Army at the front, is full of the slang which has come back from the trenches since the beginning of the war. M. Salis's book is a dictionary of this vocabulary and the author uses "Gaspard" as one of the documents which supply his glossary. He attempts to trace the origin of such words as "Boche", "Poilu", etc.

It is impossible to say how many of these words will remain in the French language; it is however, equally impossible to read the French of today without some such special dictionary.

Not long ago at an undergraduate meeting a motion was passed to have several simple changes made in the morning Chapel service. A committee was appointed, the changes were brought about, but from the murmur frequently heard, satisfaction has not been secured. There are two opinions on this: either the unmanifiled were not at the meeting, or they did not express their opinions. Will we ever learn that all Association meetings are important, that sooner or later the business transacted in them will effect the life or fortunes of our students in a major way, that then is the time to make our criticisms; that they must be constructive and not destructive.

At last a logical method for awarding the Helen Ritchie Memorial Prize has been devised. To discover which one of the Seniors has the finest character: high courage, faithfulness and joyousness, is a difficult task at best and heretofore, when the election has rested only in the hands of a committee composed of President Thomas, the Dean of Women, and the presidents of Self-Government, the Athletic Association, and the Undergraduate Association, the choice has seldom been satisfactory. This year the Seniors, who might be helped by adding the presidents of the Undergraduate and the Senior Class to the committee.

C. A. ADOPTS NEW CONSTITUTION

All Committees Have Class Representation

The new Constitution of the Christian Association, drawn up by the Constitution Committee along the lines of the motions passed at a former meeting, was accepted without any objections last Tuesday. It embodied provisions for the representation of each class on each committee, for the meeting of the committees with the central Board of the four officers, and for Cabinet meetings of all committees.

Two changes have been made in committee names. "Bates Camp Committee" was changed to "Bates House Committee"; "Student Health and Hospitals Committee" was changed to "Social Service Committee".

The President announced that since morning Chapel has been changed by President Thomas, at the request of the Undergraduate Association, to include the Lord's Prayer and responsive reading, so that the students may have more part in it.
