Bryn Mawr College’s Educational Technology Services

- Moved from Provost Office to Library & Information Technology Services (LITS) August 2015
- Office of 15 people to a department of 75 people
- Strategic partnership between faculty, staff, and students
“Five Colleges, Incorporated promotes and administers long-term forms of cooperation that benefit faculty and staff members and students. These include:

1. Shared use of educational and cultural resources and facilities, including a joint automated library system, open cross registration, and open theater auditions;
2. Joint departments and programs;
3. Inter-campus transportation”

Grants: Five College Blended Learning Initiative and the Innovative Language Teaching grant
“Students...are referred to as ‘digital natives’ because they were raised on technology from a very young age. But their relationship has been largely passive: switch on the device and use it.”

Selingo, Jeffrey J. “Here are the five critical skills that every college graduate should have”. April 18, 2016 Washington Post https://www.washingtonpost.com/news/grade-point/wp/2016/04/18/here-are-the-five-critical-skills-every-new-college-graduate-should-have/
Consumer to Creator: Post-Bac Experience

“Being digitally aware [is] about moving from a passive relationship with technology to a more active one — especially in understanding the how and why behind machines, not just the what.”
