MOVIES AN SLIDES TELL TALE OF WAR ON EAST

The freeing of Palestine and Arabia from the Turks was discussed in Mr. Lo- well's Thomas' pictures, "The Last of the Crusaders," in the gymnasium last night. The pictures were for the bene- fit of the Endowment Fund, under the auspices of the Harvard Club. Mr. Thomas, as war correspondent, photo- graphed the Pyramids, the Nile, and the Red Sea. From the day of the last of the Crusaders, coming over Bethlehem in a spinning nose dive. "He probably saw more of the world war than any human being," says The New York Globe.

Mr. Dale Carnegie, who assisted Mr. Thomas in getting the films explained the story of the pictures.

SECRETARY OF KERENSKY'S MINISTRY HERE SATURDAY

Mr. Gregory Zilboorg, of Bryn Mawr, will give an Un- biased View of "Inside Workings" of the Russian government. The lecture will be under the auspices of the History Club. Tickets are twenty-five cents.

Mr. Zilboorg has come to America to continue scientific studies, and in eight months has learned English, which he speaks fluently and with spell-binding power, according to P. Ostroff, 21, who heard him speak on "The Story of the Pictures." Mr. Zilboorg adds to the same meeting. "Mr. Zilboorg is unbiased and impresses one as an ideal intellec- tual type, because he has his ideas to his bearers with poise, but with vitality, and youth enough to make them seem more vivid than the products of mere erudition.

PUBLICITY SKETCHED BY MRS. JARRETT

Publicity problems were described by Mrs. Edwin S. Jarrett, National Public- ity Chairman of the Bryn Mawr En- quire Society, which met in Taylor last Wednesday. Mrs. Jarrett came down from New York at the request of the Student Undergraduate Committee to discuss the publicity situation before the Under- graduates.

"The only way to get money from the public is to interest them," said Mrs. Jarrett. "And we have also to dispose of two objections sometimes made against Bryn Mawr—first that she is too exclusive and aristocratic, and secondly too radical and extreme. The only way to do this is to get people thinking and talking about Bryn Mawr, through the use of pictures, stories, and other publicity."

"But the papers tell us that ‘a sub- ject, Bryn Mawr is dull!’ So we have to use special stories, and good-looking photographs. Even the Red Cross had to resort to ‘stunts’ and carry propaganda to get their needs visible."

At the suggestion of the Alumnae, the Student Undergraduate Committee, which consists of the chairmen of both the president and the Undergraduate Asso- ciation, are to act as “censors” of all publicity pictures taken on the campus.

To the Editor of the College News:

The Philadelphia Bureau of Occupations for Trained Women, after a year with the Federal Employment Service, has opened its office for placement work at 306 South 13th Street, Philadelphia, in September last year. The bureau, in our expectations the demand for trained and experienced workers is much greater than was the case in the war, and we feel that there must be many who would now be interested in the opportunities offered through the Bureau. May we ask you to print this letter in your paper?

We need at present trained and experienced women for the following positions: secretaries, with a knowledge of stenography, for specialized lines of work; experienced case workers, social workers, and liked to their special interests; public nurses, arts and crafts instructors, institutional managers, and experienced teachers.

The war has developed a number of new types of positions, as yet unexplored, requiring very diverse qualifications and experience. We need candidates in all these lines for preparation than ever before. We shall be grateful if through your paper we can make known to interested women the large number of Bryn Mawr women. The Bureau makes no charge for information or service and will make a fee for placement.

Very sincerely yours,

M ARION C. REILLY, '01.
Acting Chairman of the Board of Directors.

A wireless message was sent by the Amateur Radio League, in Boston, through a brother of a Bryn Mawr alumnus, to Mrs. Jarrett, National Publicity Chairman, to express willingness to help in the campaign.

NEW YORK'S AIM $1,000,000

The New York district, up to March 10, had raised a total of $124,426, of which $201,241 was from the alumni, $71,695 from donors, and $5300 from undergraduate.

To increase this amount to their quota of $1,000,000, the canvassers are holding weekly meetings, at the first of which Mr. James Craft, of the Guarantors Trust, spoke on salesmanship, Mr. Gay Emerson, father of the Liberty Loan publicity, is to speak at another meeting.

Three Colleges Combine in St. Louis

To Give "Atlantic City Boardwalk"

The St. Louis committee of the Bryn Mawr Endowment believes that it has exhausted its field for individual donations in raising its first quota of $13,000, and is depending upon features and entertainments for raising the extra $19,000 which it has accepted.

Bryn Mawr alumnae have combined with the alumnae of Smith College and Washington University, St. Louis, to give, from April 5 to 15, a large joint fair, entitled "The Atlantic City Boardwalk." They expect that this will net between $60,000 and $90,000 which is to be divided equally among the three colleges. Emily Westwood Lewis (Mrs. Joseph W. Lewis), graduate student '07-'08, chairman of the program committee, has already cleared $7000 on advertisements. The advance publicity has been managed by Edna Fischel Gellhorn (Mrs. George Gellhorn), '06.

First Game For 1921, 8-0
Playing a hard, fast game, 1921's first team forced the first game of the season from 1920 Thursday night with a score of 8 to 0.

The red team was fast and showed good teamwork throughout the game in contrast to the senior forward line which was weak and had no good passing. The playing of R. Cope, junior half-back, was the most noticeable feature of the game, while H. Holmes provided the back-bone of the blue team.

Line-up:
1920

1921 Wins Second Game, 10 to 2
From an advantage of one point at the end of the first half, last Monday, 1921 piled up a score of 10 to 2, winning a place in the first team finals.

Except for two goals in the first half, one made by B. Weaver from the center of the pool during the first minute of the game, 1920 failed to score. K. Woodward and 1921's perfectly coordinated forward line. Townsend, '20, showed skill at goal, facing the whole shot weakly and without careful aim, often sending the ball to their opponents.

The freshmen showed promising material in A. Smith and V. Corse, but on the whole shot weakly and without careful aim, often sending the ball to their opponents.

Line-up:
1922
A. Nicoll...F. F. Young* E. Hobbys...C. A. Smith P. Smith...F. A. Fitzgerald E. Anderson...H. V. Corse D. Dennis...F. B. E. Page O. Howard...F.B. V. Brokaw M. K. Cary...F K. Woodward*

1922 Wins Second Game, 10-1
Using E. Anderson as the pivot of every play, offensive and defensive, 1922 put the Freshmen first team out of the running last Monday with a score of 10 to 1.

In the first half, E. Anderson skillfully avoided the determined interference of A. Smith, 23, and H. Rice, '23, by twisting on her back with the ball over her head, and slammed in five goals in a brilliant series of long throws of more than half the length of the pool. With the exception of one other goal by E. Anderson in the second half, A. Nicoll, shooting with great accuracy from sharp angles, made the four remaining Sophomore points. A. Fitzgerald made the one goal for 1920.

As 1920 has no third team, 1921's third puts the Freshmen first team out of the running last Monday with a score of 10 to 1.

Winning the preliminaries last Thursday with a score of 10-1, 1922 walked away with the first game of the preliminaries last Thursday with a score of 10-1.

The game was marked by lack of teamwork and wild shooting in the first half, but in the second, under the vigorous offensive of E. Anderson and A. Nicoll, the Sophomores buckled down and made six goals.

The Freshmen showed promising material in A. Smith and V. Corse, but on the whole shot weakly and without careful aim, often sending the ball to their opponents.
