THE COLLEGE NEWS

THE LAND BEYOND MEXICO

By Dr. Ringe Carpenter
Specially Contributed

To travel on mule back and almost a thousand miles through remote and barren country is an advantage. It may be as Dr.
Carpenter suggests, that we in our easy climate and up to our necks in books, that the good soldier of fortune who travels through Guatemalan and Salvador is naively mistaken as to how it sounds.
There is not the slightest doubt that the government is good, as Dr. Carpenter tells the world, but it is not so unpromising. Badger, of Boston, "The Land Beyond Mexico." If you set out to follow the railroad, you will have the terror of turning back until the end of the trip—until you have reached, the very last station.

Dr. Carpenter is more than a Professor of Archaeology bent on research. He is a tourism agent and reader of wide experience, and a pope with two published volumes to his credit. His work is proportionately in allusion to some other professor or the least known, one of the best beautiful countries in the New World. He says to the spokesmen and "The Land Beyond Mexico." Your book is the perfect guide for the promenading tourist. The native Maya are the land of the ancient Mayas, and the places of their visits to Long Island; that their shall be mort
race, said. . ..

C. Donnelly's Report Praised

During this week, Holbein prints will be

What Is Air Pressure?

The air is composed of molecules. They constantly bombard you from all sides. A thousand taps by a thousand knuckles will close a barn door. The taps as a whole constitute a push. So the constant bombardment of the air molecules constitutes a push. At sea-level the air molecules push against every square inch of you with a total pressure of nearly fifteen pounds.

Pressure, then, is merely a matter of bombarding molecules.

When you boil water you make its molecules fly off. The water molecules collide with the air molecules. It takes a higher temperature to boil water at sea-level than on Pike's Peak. Why? Because there are more bombarding molecules at sea-level—more pressure.

Take away all the air pressure and you have a perfect vacuum. A perfect vacuum has never been created. In the best vacuum obtainable there are still over two billion molecules of air per cubic centimeter, or about as many as there are people on the whole earth.

Heat a substance in a vacuum and you may discover properties not revealed under ordinary pressure. A new field for scientific exploration is opened.

Into this field the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company have penetrated. Thus one of the chemists in the Research Laboratories studied the disintegration of heated metals in highly exhausted bulbs. What happened to the glowing filament of a lamp, for example? The glass blackened. But why? He discovered that the metal distilled in the vacuum deposited on the glass.

This was research in pure science—research in which may be called the chemistry and physics of high vacua. It was undertaken to answer a question. It ended in the discovery of a method of filling lamp bulbs with an inert gas under pressure so that the filament will last much longer. Thus the efficient gas-filled lamp of today grew out of a purely scientific inquiry.

So, unforeseen, practical benefits often result when research is broadly applied.

Hoping to achieve a goal of $1,000, the Bryn Mawr Society of Music planned a dance & do for money to run the vacation house next summer in addition to the one from the Christ Library Association. At least this amount must be obtained if Bates House, Inc. is to be run at all. Latest plans will be determined, because of the lack of sup;rt from the college it will only be attempted for six weeks this summer.

Fourth-minute speeches at some of the lower team gymnasium classes and at folk dances, are held each week by A. Smith, L. Rathbun, C. Franklin, P. Smith, A. Neville, M. Kardosch, and H. Smith, all of whom have been to Bates. Pledge slips were distributed Monday night, in order to make the plans for the coming week easier, and today's contributions and pledges were taken in Taylor. Further donations may be given to W. Worcester, chairman of the committee.

PLAN FOR GIFT TO SORBONNE DESCRIBED BY MISS SCHENK

Bryn Mawr will supply the library of the Sorbonne with American books if the fund described by Miss Schenk, Professor of French, in chapel, Wednesday morning, can be gathered. The idea has been approved by the alumnus and Board of Directors. The Bryn Mawr Society of France has been started, and it only remains, according to Miss Schenk, to receive the reproductions. The library of the Sorbonne, Miss Schenk said, has almost no American books. In 1918, as a natural result of the war, a department of American civilization and literature was opened and Professor Creare, a Harvard graduate student and exchange professor called to its head. A meager collection of old history, poetry, economic and sociological books was made. Nevertheless there was a very great demand for books of American literature, all the educational departments of the Sorbonne have to go to the rebuilding of destroyed schoolhouses. As a member of the committee, Miss Schenk guaranteed that if the fund be established, each year, a collection of carefully chosen books and other books can be gathered in a department of eager students. That the administration of this fund will be authorized and that the authors will be asked to contribute their own books whenever feasible. All of these books will be sent to the state of France with invaluable comments on each.

NEW AND OLD ITALIAN CLUB MEMBERS TO SEE PICTURES

Roberts, teacher in Italian at the Shipley School, some of the leading Italian Club of the Italian Club, both new and old, will see some Italian pictures and curios Monday evening at 7:30, in Low Buildings. Miss Roberts, who has a villa in Italy, brought back Italian pictures and souvenirs and sold in the streets of Siena. Several men are eligible for membership and the committee decided that the club will be composed of all the students who have Italian, or in fact, any kind of talent. The members are to be chosen from the students of the class. The committee decided that the club will be composed of all the students who have Italian talent.
