JUNIOR PLAY "TRELAWNEY OF THE WELLS"

Phoebe Norcross Proves Charming Heroine. Octavia Howard Stars

Mid-Victorian customs and costumes lent amusement and picturesqueness to "Trelawney of the Wells," by Arthur Wing Pinero, given by 1922 last Friday and Saturday night, at 6 & 8 o'clock in the gymnasium. The Saturday performance was a repetition of the traditional Junior-Senior supper-play held the night before. The opening scene, with its fair-haired red-taughtkett, and wax wraith, created admirably the illusion of Victorian mediocrity, which was soon dispelled by capable and spirited acting. The bright colors of the ladies large hoop dresses relieved the dull setting, and with the men's tails coats and tails shawls later laid at once into the atmosphere of movement of the sino-needing.- The lighting effects were very successful throughout, and especially used in the fourth act, which showed the studio of the Strattonian Theatre filled with bright morning sunlight.

Spirited Acting by Octavia Howard

The greatest warmth and laughter of the play was the make-up, which made much to interpret the characters. In this respect, as in all others, Sir William Gower was most admirable. Miss Howard's interpretation of the Vice Chancellor will stand as one of Bryn Mawr's greatest historic successes. The totals of the intangible and semi-material assistants were the most amusing part of the play, but it called forth more laughter than as well controlled as well controlled and, even in its bluster could be heard distinctly.

Character Possesses Individuality

The cast, as a whole, was chosen and of a higher general quality than last year in "Bacchanalia," when there was a tendency to rely too much on the principal.

The characters, with definite personalities and individual gestures, and the by-play to entertaining that at times it detracted from the long speeches, were excellent. In the first act mum might have been picked up more quickly to counteract the uneven quality of the lines. At the supper party, for example, the picture made by Miss Norcross, in her part as Trelawney, was one of the most delightful stunts, and her whole scene with the ending tangs was natural enough to be even more funny.

Miss Brush a Picturing Contrast

Simonne Perrot, through whom Miss Norcross played the part, was an unmitigated and determined young lady with attracts good heart under it all. Miss Norcross acted consistently, leaving her audience, like the Vice Chancellor, delighted.

JANUARY 24 TAKES FIRST PLACE IN PRELIMINARY TRACK MEET

Raymonde Noel '22 Breaks Record for Throwing "B" seil II

Taking first place in the preliminary competition last Monday afternoon, Raymonde Noel wins the first track meet held in two years, with a score of 31 points. Noel breaking the record for the throw on the first two places tied with it for first score. Hazel Neel, '22, established the baseball throw at 189 feet 6 inches. The 75-yard relay, with twenty persons to a team, a new event, was won by 1924, who also won the regular 100-yard relay. There was an unusual number of ties in the race. They established the time for the new relay at 2 minutes 25.5 seconds.

First and second places—Tie—E. Stites, '22, and M. Platt, '22—6-6-5 seconds.

Third place—Tie—E. Cecil, '21, and M. Palache, '21—4-7-7 seconds.

100-Yard Dash

Running High Jump

First place—F. Martin, '23—4 feet 3 inches.

TRADITIONAL CELEBRATION OF MAY DAY COMES FRIDAY

E. Taylor '21's, May Queen

The traditional May Day celebration at Bryn Mawr will be held on Friday, following custom the Seniors, after singing to President Thomas in front of the Dormitory, march on Rockefeller, singing "The Hunt Is Up." Three from the tower they welcome the day, singing the Magnificat Hymn.

Elizabeth Taylor, president of the Senior Class, will march from the tower to the Senior breakfast at Rockefeller dining room, will be crowned Queen of the May by H. Rice, Sophomore president.

Dancing on the green and winding the May poles to the tune of the village band, will last until chapel time, when the winners of prizes and scholarships will be announced.
Elisabeth Child and Police Dept. were assisting editors this week.

Papers on the Undergraduate Théâtre are the rage this week, and tell—what various and countless tasks have this year fallen to its lot to accomplish. The adoption of college cards, the appointment of student monitors, the change in the freshest song for Lantern Night are only a few of the many, obvious achievements. Bryn Mawr offers a great deal to the present president, under whose effective and able leadership, the college is once more a "live" organization, one of the most potent and valuable forces in college life.

The Community

Community Missions states the Community in Philadelphia papers have given the impression that the College may express a desire to the Bryn Mawer Community Center that is undeclared by the people of the town. The College has no official connection with the Center however. The undergraduates are only temporary residents in Bryn Mawer, some of whom are able to give their time to teaching classes and serving the Center in other ways. At the annual meeting concerning the point of view of the town people expressed only a more active interest, but it should be no more than an optimistic sign that the town is beginning to realize what the Center is and to accept it as its own.

The Senior class has decided to take the old tradition of "Maypole" and "Maypole" and to do the names of erection in the "Maypole is up."

Letter to the Editor of the College News:

Dear Sirs:

Many thanks for your deep and steadfast sympathies. For my sake, I know many. During last year, the attendants at every meeting exceedingly increased. Every Frau Miss Smith spent her eighty minutes attentive to average. The Mission Meetings at the different schools could proceed. At last the Christ- mas, we received the converted nine people. We have about twenty-five people came to the service. The members belonged to our mission have been greatly encouraged.

A letter from a friend to tell the sad accident that took place at П. M. 30 on the 27th of last December. The fire broke out of front house from mine crowded the street. Unfortunately my house burned down. But I am sure of the wind burnt down in seven minutes. At first, the College Chapel and the Gymnasium seemed to be saved from fire, but the wind changed its direction and fire spread very rapidly to the west. It has burnt up in a short time. It had been built eighty years ago through God's mercy and your generous sympathy. It had been a very effectively as only a machine both for the spiritual and physical salvation. We were saved because the chapel and my house.

I am very much thankful to God and the College community.

A letter to Help to Build New Chapel

As you can easily suppose, it being the present pressing need to build a new chapel and dispensary, I am busy every day. And there are more than 20,000 yen needed for the new building. The old Chapel will be put on fire for 3,600 yen, 14,400 yen are to be collected from the students. To us, we are doing our best efforts. I am very earnestly expecting with prayer that the building will be going up. I should be very much appreciated your special help in this time and your earnest prayers.

Hoping and praying the abundant blessings upon you and all the sisters of the Christian Association, I am sincerely yours, T. T. Tomomura.

BUSINESS MEN INTERESTED IN COMMUNITY CENTER MANAGEMENT

Dr. C. R. Richards, of the W. M. C. Committee, was elected president of the Bryn Mawer Community Association to succeed Miss Smith. Smith, who was present, month and month ago, April 15 in the fire house. Miss Smith was re-elected as a member of the Executive Committee.

The businessmen of Bryn Mawer are taking a more active and interested in the community, according to Miss Helen Barrett, manager, and its influence will make a deep impression. At the meeting, the William was brought out strongly. Stronger than ever before than even the College president, although all the offices do not stand for anything revolutionary in the attitude of the Association.

An exhibition of handwork done by classes at the College was held, according to Dr. J. G. F, who first brought to the work of the dressmaking class, and second in the same class, the girls basket. The first basket, led by J. G. F., was won first in the demonstrations given.

HISTORICAL CLASS HOLDS DEBATES

Instead of a second quiz the class in "United States history" is holding three debates. As there are twelve in the class, two will debate on a side each time. The subjects are: "Free Trade," "The Cancellation of War Debt," and "The Problem of Toil in the Parma Farm." The first debate was yesterday; the others will be announced and next Tuesday.

LOWER TEAMS PLAY TENNIS MATCHES THIS WEEK

Seniors Compete With Freshmen

For the second time class teams are competing in tennis as in other M. I. A. sports for points toward the all-around athletic champion. The class winning first-team events will hang its banner on the gymnasium.

Third, fourth, fifth and sixth teams, of five players each, are playing match games this week, 1921 competing with 1928, 1922 with 1923, in the first round. Upper teams will play the preliminaries May 2, 3, & 4; first-team finals will be on May 11. Tennis captains are: 1921, H. James; 1922, K. Gardner; 1923, R. Beardsley; 1924, T. Palmer.

BACCALAOURED SERMON TO BE PREACHED BY DR. ALBERT FITCH

An usher of university and an assistant of the "housing self-complete college woman." Dr. Albert Parker Fitch will give the baccalaureate sermon in the gymnasium on Sunday, May 29. Dr. Fitch is a teacher of systematic history at Amherst, and is ex-president of Andover Theological Seminary. The last four years Dr. Fitch has spoken at Bryn Mawr; in his talk last March he discussed the various phases of truth.

WELLESLEY HAS LARGEST LIBRARY OF ANY WOMEN'S COLLEGE

Recent additions to the Wellesley College library have made it the largest library of any women's college in the country, its shelves holding more than 100,000 volumes. It contains the Plimpton collection of Italian books and manuscripts, presented by George Plimpton, New York, in memory of his wife, Fran a Parsons Plimpton, '04. It represents the Renaissance period in Italian literature, and includes the best collection of Savonarola pamphlets in the United States, a collection surpassing by only two or three in Europe. Some of the manuscripts have uncial inscription in the handwriting of Petrarch. There are complete collections of the first editions of Tennyson and the Browning, and the most complete collection of Russian editions in this country.

The library contains a small but unusual collection of German manuscripts of the time of the Reformation, to which period dates the Melanclhon Billie, from which a psalm is read in Latin at every commencement.

Two famous curators are among the library's prizes in what is known as the "Treasure Rooms." One is the original charter given by the Emperor Otto III to a monastery in Rome, and the other is a charter granting mining rights to the dominions of Emperor Charles V and signed by that monarch.

American Red Cross to Train Workers at Bryn Mawr College

The College Workmen’s Department of Normal Alumni, Bryn Mawr, will be leased by the American Red Cross as one of its centers for training workers in community work, especially in rural districts. Scholarships of the value of $600, with loan privileges of $400, are offered. In rendering scholarships are expected to accept a position under the Red Cross for at least one year after completion of their academic work. The first year with the Red Cross carries a salary, and is planned to give the student necessary training for a public health position. The course consists of two semesters of academic work at Bryn Mawr, with one semester of laboratory work in community work, consisting of field experience, suggested as six months. One-half day may be given for field work at the Community Center.

This year field work has been carried on by the students in Phoenixville and Coatesville. The location of Bryn Mawr provides opportunities for observation and experience in the congested areas of Philadelphia and in the rural areas on fifteen miles distant on the other side where population is scattered.

Mr. Frayne Speaks on Aims and Principles of Organized Labor

“Organized Labor, its Principles and Activities” were discussed Wednesday evening by Mr. Hugh Frayne, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor, who spoke in Taylor Hall, under the auspices of the World Citizenship Committee.

Mr. Frayne described the organization of the American Federation of Labor, and then went on to speak of its aims in connection with the day-old meetings of labor problems. Open shop, he said, is no solution for the shop which is becoming one for unorganized labor. On the other hand “collective bargaining,” between labor and employers, is a step in the right direction, and will lead to better understanding and conditions for labor.

You Have Written Poems

Do you care to have them revised or commented on by a critic? Mr. Howard S. McCord, of Bryn Mawr, will criticize, and place them should they prove to be acceptable for publication. There is no charge for our services. If, however, you have not previously consulted with the advisory department of this column, we suggest that you write a note requesting the initial fee of two dollars, which we must ask of each new contributor. There is no additional charge, however, on second or subsequent requests.

It must be realized that we can only be of aid to those of serious intent. If you do mean to attempt serious literary work, we can help you on the way to its success. If you are merely seeking information, we cannot supply it.

This column will be closed to further assignments. Those who are interested are urged to make haste.

Eleanor Collins, ‘23, has obtained a position to teach athletics and science at Miss Hepzibah School, Wilmington, Del. Karl, ’23, will head the English department at Miss Hepzibah School, Oakland, Calif.

Photographs of the Bryn Mawr track meet appeared last Sunday in the New York Herald.

Leaving for England this summer, Dr. A. S. MacFarlane will spend his Sabbatical leave of absence traveling in London from September to December, numerous trips in the British Museum. He will then tour Great Britain, spending a couple of months in Italy on his way there. During the following semester he is planning to travel in Italy, Switzerland, and France.

Washington Bryn Mawr Club Plans $100 Scholarship

The first local club to undertake making a scholarship under the plan approved by the Alumnae Association this spring, the Washington Bryn Mawr Club at a meeting last Thursday appointed a committee to start raising the necessary endowment. The meeting Washington alumnae was held at the house of Mrs. E. W. Sturdevant (Louise Stewart), executive secretary, executive secretary of the Alumnae Association.

The scholarship, according to present plans, will be offered in the fall of 1922 to a Freshman, $500 the first year and $300 the three succeeding years, making a total of $1,400. Preference will be given to a student from the District of Columbia.

Mendelssohn Club to Give Concert

The Mendelssohn Club of Philadelphia, will give a concert in the Glaster Garden on Saturday, May 14, at 8:15 P. M., for the benefit of the Junior Committee of the Undergraduate Alumnae Association. Admission will be $1; reserved seats, $2. Tickets may be purchased from the office of the Registering Clerk.

Mr. Charles W. Scab, tenor of the Secular Choral Club, will be the soloist, and there will be an accompaniment of mixed chorus of seventy-five voices. The program will include sacred and secular ancient and modern music, some Old English and modern Russian selections, and the prize composition of Miss Frances McCollin, sister of K. T. McCollin, A. B., Bryn Mawr ‘16.

Bryn Mawr's delegation to Silver Bay, chosen by the Christian Association, was composed of: Miss W. A. Miller, President; Miss Mary Goodwill, Delegate; Miss Mabel Swenson, Secretary; Miss Emily E. Egan, Clerk; Miss Eleanor Deming, Editor-in-chief; and Miss Ebe Deming.

MISS FREEDMAN ELECTED TO ORGANIZE LABOR SCHOOL

Denisq and Muriel, to be Used By Working Women in Next Summer.

Plans for the labor school, which will be held at Bryn Mawr next summer, were discussed during the week by Dr. Henry, Fellow, at New College, Oxford, and instructor of the classes of the Workers' Educational Association in England.

It is expected that Mr. Clay, who has given classes in Sociology in Oxford, Brussels, and Bradford, and who had been giving courses in economics at Amherst College for the last term, will present at the summer school to assist with the work for part of the session. Miss Freedman, Delegates from this meeting came to Bryn Mawr last year, and has taken up the organization of the school. Her office is in the social and economic department in the library.

The project of organizing a labor school at Bryn Mawr was undertaken by Miss Freedman, under the auspices of the Women's Federation, in order to understand the Orient to study education and economics in that country.

As usual, the program for the summer school includes a course in sociology, history, and economics, as well as some special courses in women's education, women's economic work, and foreign languages. The school will open on June 10 and continue until August 31.

Three Bryn Mawr Faculty Will Spend Sabbatical Years in Europe

They expect to spend the chief part of their sabbatical leave of absence.

Further lectures will be given by Dr. Legba at the Sorbonne, Paris, under the auspices of the Institut des Psychologies. He will deliver a series of lectures at King's College, London.

Miss Kingsbury will go to France in September to study the labor movement in Switzerland, in time for the second meeting of the International Congress of Working Women, to be held at the same time as the labor section of the League of Nations. Miss Kingsbury expects to study reconstruction methods and conditions in France and in the central countries, including Germany, Austria, and Poland. Dr. Kingsbury will visit England in order to understand the move ment of the Labor movement. She intends to spend some months in China.
