Students of Bryn Mawr College

The College News, 1930-01-15, Vol. 16, No. 11

Let us know how access to this document benefits you.

Follow this and additional works at: http://repository.brynmawr.edu/bmc_collegenews

Custom Citation

This paper is posted at Scholarship, Research, and Creative Work at Bryn Mawr College. http://repository.brynmawr.edu/bmc_collegenews/399

For more information, please contact repository@brynmawr.edu.
Changes in Faculty for Next Semester Announced

On Tuesday morning, January 14th, Mrs. Manning announced that the Chapel changes in the planed faculty for the next semester. Mrs. Manning is the Head of the Department of History.

In the fall of 1924, Dr. Edith Hall Dobbs took over all of Miss Swinney’s courses. Miss Swinney retired in 1925 after twenty years, has been granted leave of absence to work on her own research, and will give her course in Greek Sociology, and literature, during the winter months. While Miss Swinney will not be giving a seminar in Certain Civilization Miss Swinney’s course will be taken over by Mr. Brinton, and Miss Swinney’s research will be taken over by Mr. Louis Adams Holman.

Dr. Dobbs graduated in 1896, and in 1899 got her Ph. D. in Archeology and Geology of Rome. In 1907-08, she held a Fellowship in the American School of Classical Studi in Athens, and from 1909-11 she was instructor in Archeology in the American School of Classical Studies at Rome. In 1912-13, she was Assistant Curator at the University Museum in Philadelphia. Dr. Dobbs was also a member of the Roman Latine in Rome, given to Dr. Dobbs in 1925, and the Latin Press will be given by Dr. Taylor McGinnis and Dr. Duke Dobbs.

Mr. Adams Holman has been appointed an important position at Hunter College in New York City, and will teach during the end of this semester. Thus he will not have to give any courses next semester. Mrs. Manning reassured her students that they would have classes with Mrs. Dobbs and Mr. Adams Holman, and will be giving classes on Miss Swinney’s classes with Dr. Dobbs and Mr. Adams Holman.

Miss Finch Quotes the Alabaster Princess

On Friday evening, January 17th, under the auspices of the Parental Association, Miss Finch presented her Miss Finch’s daughter, Miss Finch, was born in New Orleans in a few years ago, and the mother of the Alabaster Princess. She was with the Negro Mansion and always called herself the Alabaster Princess. At the end of a long life, Miss Finch, was still a princess as in the beginning, the slavery had not touched her inner beauty.

Miss Finch assured her audience that she told these stories in a true spirit of reverence—screaming for the general welfare of mankind and for the freedom of the Negro. Miss Finch’s daughter, Mrs. Finch, was the mother of the Alabaster Princess. She was with the Negro Mansion and always called herself the Alabaster Princess. At the end of a long life, Miss Finch, was still a princess as in the beginning, the slavery had not touched her inner beauty.

Miss Finch assured her audience that she told these stories in a true spirit of reverence—screaming for the general welfare of mankind and for the freedom of the Negro. Miss Finch’s daughter, Mrs. Finch, was the mother of the Alabaster Princess. She was with the Negro Mansion and always called herself the Alabaster Princess. At the end of a long life, Miss Finch, was still a princess as in the beginning, the slavery had not touched her inner beauty.

Miss Finch assured her audience that she told these stories in a true spirit of reverence—screaming for the general welfare of mankind and for the freedom of the Negro. Miss Finch’s daughter, Mrs. Finch, was the mother of the Alabaster Princess. She was with the Negro Mansion and always called herself the Alabaster Princess. At the end of a long life, Miss Finch, was still a princess as in the beginning, the slavery had not touched her inner beauty.
HELLO, BABY

Although we realize that the New Year is always so well-established on its calendar day that it needs no further support and encouragement from its elders, we cannot but feel that our organ of college life should achieve its birth and early growth with more imagination and more marked manifestations of Indian resistance to British rule, unprecedented collective and individual patriotic demonstrations, red麂cords of 1930's rumble-above-Television will be perfected on August 31st. A famous blond aviatrix and a royal personage of England will die. A battlebetween will visit our shores with unredeemed infants while foreign airplanes fly along the coast, but the outcome of this festive visit is to be foreshadowed. Such important events of international importance are ahead, if astrology is to be trusted.

For our own secluded group we venture to predict that our survival will be challenging our stars. We are willing to stake our profound respect on the fact that all resolutions made this year will be broken by 7:30 this evening. It is very simple—when the digits of 1936 add up to thirteen the result will always come out against the Fates are against her. Also this coming month, May—hundreds will come and go, to be followed by Midsummer Easter vacation. Eventually final will roll around with all the attendants upon packing and graduation: undoubtedly the most exciting and, though the Bryan Maw 1936 can be far away, there will always be stylish, delightful elements. Therefore to our baby's birthday, in this promising baby's career, we wish to give it a good start—benefiting the Society as a class having a yearly, and one which could well employed in this capacity.

JUGGERNAUT

A thought born upon us, some time ago, which we can only now own to the profusely iridescent curriculum of our college which so thoroughly confirms the thoughts we share in the mystic. The idea whereby we speak is thought-provoking and, secondly, as a preparation for mid-year, and thirdly, so thoroughly embracing the Christmas gayeties. It treats of disaster, and unrelenting forces; hence to the question remains one of the inappropriate possession of our minds.

It occurred to us that three of the Four Truths taught by the Buddha in Pacifica during December were the basis of our own supposition of humanity by means of our own mechanical civilization. Exponents of Buddhism, T. J. R. E., was far too late to bear voices—however, we believe that our conclusion that human qualities and weaknesses are generalized, true, were forced to a final victory, in a form that is not a light, the human condition, in which a man's values and conclusions, in the Buddhist, a very human body of men, struggle to obtain a most dreary, in order to...