Between the Past and the Future

At the end of this year Bryn Mawr College is witnessing the gathering of some of the most distinguished people in the country who could not have been here at the beginning. For the final time, we ourselves gain from the experience and the knowledge of the men and women who have participated in this college generation extends to our generation. Between the Past and the Future.

Stanley Walker's long awaited book, Mrs. Astor's House, has at last made its appearance, taking the place beside Mr. Astor's Book on the shelf. Mrs. Astor's House is charmingly written, informative, and humorous. It describes the years between 1920 and 1930—the absurd and mad events, the celebrities, and the things they did in a world which seemed to be at the peak of its importance. In the book, Mrs. Astor's House is a most interesting, informative, and humorous guide to the society and the fashion of the day. The author has made a valuable contribution to the history of our time. Because of its completeness, Mrs. Astor's House should be a valuable book for everyone who is interested in fashion and society.

Bryn Mawr, Saturday, Oct. 26.—The Bryn Mawr hockey team, that nearly disastrously defeated, nevertheless managed to get into the quarterfinals over Ursinus by 10-0 score of 6-0. The play was not up to the standards of earlier games, and our team seemed to be stuck or at least stuck in a backwash. It seemed as if the whole game was being played in the town; everybody was there, and the game was continually delayed to call fouls, which were repeatedly called, even though there were none. The whole thing seemed to be remade of last week's game by fate itself. The coaching seemed to have no idea as to where to turn, even though the attacking game they had earlier seemed to have been abandoned. Although the Ursinus goal was good, the shooting was noticeably weak.

Bryn Mawr started off by putting themselves on the offensive instead of the defensive. Both teams fought hard, although the play was concentrated for the most part on Bryn Mawr's right-hand side of the field. Peggy Martin at center half did her best here, and she seemed to be17 able to make up for the fact that the Bryn Mawr defense was on their right field weak, always passing to the left or right, our defense was always tormented by our opponents. A goal was threatened on our goal several times, but the backs were able to make up for the fact that they had not been able to score and the backs unable to make up for the fact that they had not been able to score, so the score stood 1-0.

We had high hopes when the two teams met for the second time. Bryn Mawr has so far this season shown the better of the two teams, and Saturday's game was an exception to this. The Bryn Mawr defense was able to score and the backs unable to score, so the score lined up at 1-0.

BRYN MAWR, Oct. 28.—The second Varsity hockey team of Bryn Mawr defeated the University of Pennsylvania by the decisive score of 6-0. Though the Black and Blue team had already played several times, they were on the defensive most of the time, giving the Bryn Mawr guy an easy going over. Jo Taggart tallied the first point for Bryn Mawr with a hard drive from the edge of the circle. Bryn Mawr continued her surprising winning streak soon Jo scored another point. A. C. J. Chucey followed suit, and Harrington, a flyer. At this point Bryn Mawr seemed to consider herself safe, and there the score stood. As the whistle blew, however, leaving Leighton's goal line still unscathed, Bryn Mawr with a total of one victory and one defeat in the Monday League.

Syranos, N. Y.—You're a red head girl don't like it, or a brunette who is going to turn blond, don't worry. Perm is the only real cure that will work. If those wavy or flat bangs are unbecoming to you, X-ray field has few scientists to believe, and soon will cease to change a person's complexion and the color of his hair. (A. C. P.)

The PLACE TO STAY when you come to PHILADELPHIA FOR BRYN MAWR'S 50TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

The floor length cape dominated the Paris collections of evening fashions—it is undoubtedly one of the most important wares of the season. Flattering to all figures, adaptable to slip on without frowns, and economical because it covers the wearer completely, the long velvet cape is booked for a big success. The model pictured is a favorite—its cleverly cut "hood" looks equally well worn over the head or down as a collar. Satin lined. Sizes 14 to 20.

Summer School Work
At Camp Success

Although the Bryn Mawr Summer School was held for the fifteen-ninth session, only one course was not conducted on the campus as usual. The institution for the blind is, for the most part, a summer school, and its aim is to train blind students to lead the most useful lives possible. The summer school provides a number of courses for students, including those who are blind or visually impaired. These courses include a wide range of subjects, from English and history to psychology and philosophy.

The student body is made up of students who have come from various parts of the United States, as well as from other countries. The summer school is open to students of all ages, from high school to college level. The courses are designed to help students develop the skills they need to succeed in today's competitive world.

The summer school is located on the campus of Bryn Mawr College, which is situated in the beautiful countryside of Pennsylvania. The campus is home to a number of historic buildings, including the Main Building, which was completed in 1861. The campus is also home to a number of beautiful gardens, including the wildlife garden, which is designed to attract a variety of wildlife.

The summer school offers a number of activities for students, including sports, music, and drama. The summer school also offers a number of opportunities for students to engage in service learning, such as a project to build a new playground for a local elementary school.

The summer school is a great opportunity for students to develop the skills they need to succeed in today's competitive world. The summer school is open to students of all ages, from high school to college level. The summer school is a great place to learn and grow, and to make lifelong friends.

We suggest a return engagement saw it would come again; and the actual performance takes so little time past, evidently see ad classrooms, with the names McViel and Sterling printed on the front of their middies. "Oh!" shrieked one of the girls to another, "Sterling's name isn't here!" "He used to be a plebe a year or so ago," explained one of the Navy juniors who lived in the same dormitory as the girls. "He got a job with Warner Brothers New York about a week ago."

Yard, real and synthetic with crowd, of the few weeks between June and the end of the summer, and the Naval Academy opened. The second, charm, began a concerted rush toward the gymnasium, and hoping everyone was all set. That other one with him is Don Powell. Mr. Powell, who smiled obligingly, was one of the Navy juniors who had just returned from Annapolis. In order to make the pictures just as accurate as possible, Warners, for example, was advised by a Naval officer who had just finished his three years' tour of duty at the Naval Academy, where he had been discipline officer in charge of the sixth company of midshipmen. He was given a script to check over, and was-at hand when a great deal of actual shooting went on. Strangely enough, the plots of the two pictures which were being made are very similar. In each case a boy enters the Naval Academy intending to resign his commission on graduation, but makes himself very popular with his classmates, is brought to his senses by the very death of one of his patriotic friends, for two days, and at the end is exulted with tears and the Spirit of the Navy. With two deaths, naturally, there had to be two funerals in the graveyard just across the river from the Yard. Taps floated over the water all day long.
