President Park Will Hold Office Again Next Year

Board of Directors, Faculty Committee Search for New President

Goodhart Auditorium, Friday, February 11. - In a meeting of all graduates and undergraduates, Mr. Thor, O. B. O., confirmed Oxford Latin, and chairman of the Faculty Committee which has been acting in collaboration with the Board of Directors, made the following announcement:

"At the urgent request of the Board of Directors, Miss Marion E. Park, a member and the present President of Bryn Mawr College for another year, the decision of the Board of the remaining members of the Board in collaboration with the Faculty Committee will continue the present successor to Miss Park.

"The result for me to express the need of gratitude and appreciation of having the honor of being selected to continue Park for her loyalty, good spirit and sportsmanship in consenting to remain, and the assurance of the same in the future.

"We assure her by her decision that she will be thrown in her debt, and that she is doing an exceedingly great service to Bryn Mawr College, for the benefit of one and all of us.

"In the spirit to express publically to you how greatly we of the Faculty Committee appreciate the sympathy and support which the Committee of the Board has shown for the entire committee, and the members and the faculty body for generous help in getting information at our call and for the truly noble self-restraint that governs their attitude toward us while we deal with important and con-

Students Visit Bethlehem; Expose Conditions

The Athletic Association has nominated three candidates for the 1941-1942 President of the Athletic Association. She is the president of the Athletic Association. She is the vice-president of the association this year. She is the captain of the varsity tennis team this year. She is the captain of the varsity basketball team this year.

"But I'm not very funny," said Mimi. "You've read the Declara- tion of independence. What did you have in your head?" "I had my husband would not eat if I didn't cook the food." "American women grew old before their time, they are so busy. They are too independent." "We protected, but the economist was adamant and alleged that unemployment conditions would be greatly alleviated if the American woman would only stay at home where she belonged. Tea cups crashed to the floor."

"Don't be frightened. It's nothing," said the one who had been introduced to us as the Hungarian lady. "Every few minutes someone said, "Oh, but you must meet Mr. Stern, the president, of our Baby Club. Perhaps he will be back soon." At last he came. "Here's Mr. Stern," said Mrs. Marmorek, "the head of the Biological Institute for Students." "I am the All-American baby," announced Mr. Stern, "my eyes without a single word and no sentence." "As for the other things did you learn first?"

"First I learned 'I,'" he said, "but if I had known you I would have learned 'you' first."
President Park

We have waited with curiosity and some fear for the day of announcement. When the day came and we heard that President Park had agreed to continue for another year, the cheering was loud and long. Perhaps the most important reason is our belief in her understanding of democracy. Many presidents of organizations advocate the idea that they are not as important as her own. Park's attitude, any individual at Bryn Mawr finds herself forced to make her own decisions and accept the responsibilities as well as the privileges of a democratic community. Not only has she stood by democracy, but she has taught many of us its meaning.

There were other reasons for our cheering Friday. Plans begun by President Park such as the three college cooperation will now have another year, in which to become more firmly rooted. For the meetings the changes bound to occur when a new president takes over.

You can be our joy and feel guilty. President Park had made all her plans for next year, even to the building of a house in Maine. What it must cost her to give up all this expected and deserved freedom in order to assume again the task of college president who can add. President Park since 1938-39 has had a claim to a sabbatical leave. Instead of taking time off she has stayed to make the job of building a college work. No wonder that during the college year, but she also staged one summer to work in the Hudson Shore Labor School. Despite all this she has accepted the presidency, and to all outward appearances has done so gladly. That we are grateful needs hardly to be said. Although we may feel guilty we cannot help being happy about next year.

Job of League Head Requires Diplomatic Executive Capability

The president of the Bryn Mawr League is the head of the executive branch which is made up of the chairmen of all organizations included in the League. All policy decisions are made at the board meetings and the president must be the diplomat who dissolves all the petty quarrels arising between the various committees. One requisite of the president is, therefore, to see the League as a whole and not as one particular committee. To do this she must be interested in all kinds of community work for the League which includes the activities of the Ardmore Y. M. C. A., the Better Baby Clinics, Blind School, Chapel, Havergal Community Center, Hudson House Labor School, Industrial Group, Maids and Porters, Refugees, and the Berenice Club.

The League president must try to keep one step ahead of changes taking place on the campus and to direct the League's policy accordingly. The president must also be a representative for the college as a whole, for she is a member of the College Council, the Quote Committee and the Vocational Committee.

INTERNATIONAL TRADE

The development of a morale Community Center, Hudson House. Ardmore, would be the most important step in prison work. To minimize temptation men are kept busy all day and, for eight hours a day, since idleness leads to the discussion of what all the inmates day after day, and idleness leads to the sin of crime.

Morale is also maintained by a system of privileges, by which men may become more and more trusted until they are allowed to live in the Honor Cottage, which has no guard, and where the men may come and go as they please.

The results of this free treatment have been gratifying to Mr. Sauter, head of the Annandale Reformatory in New Jersey. Annandale has never been, for she is a member of the Annandale's "elad Council, and the men may Committee.

Place of Morale In Prisons Stressed By Annandale's Head

Common Room, February 29.—On Wednesday evening the Graduates Association of the Department of Social Economy presented Mr. Sauter, head of the Annandale Reformatory in New Jersey, Annandale, for boys from 18 to 28, is 12 years old and one of the most progressive schools of reform in the country. It is unlawful, unfeared, has no devices of restraint, and, in it there is an emphasis, unique in prisons, on individual psychology.

Stage Guild Plans Work Distribution

A meeting of the Stage Guild last week discussed a new name and new members. Known as "The Tooth and Nail," the club includes everybody and everybody who is interested enough in back-stage work to want to belong. Instead of one person being overworked and other aspirants being idle, jobs are now distributed among those who have the time and the ability.

The "Tooth and Nail" has no more connection with Players' Club than with the French Club, for instance, and membership is completely voluntary. Any club which wants to give a performance may notify the club's president, Joselyn Fleming, and then have a meeting to portion out the workers.

"The Tooth and Nail" has been instrumental in playing a large part of the work of the Players' Club, The Glee Club, and the dancing class. The French Club and the granite squad have benefited from its staging work, conservation of ham- and property managers, costume and property managers, running and costume managers, and the various crews.

The result of all this organization is intended to be more efficient stage work, conservation of men-ers and nails, and fewer headaches for stage managers. The club asks for cooperation from any organization which is planning a performance involving technical work.

Benedict Discusses Socialization of Child

The children of tommorow are not excluded from deathbeds or childbirth. Where there is the existence of forbidden facts, there is no prying.

Our dominance-submissive culture establishes a disciplinary admist-ent-child relationship. In some tribes however, a reciprocal relation of mutual respect exists between adults and children. The extent of the child are those to whom the adult is also subjected.

From this training there is no renunciation of private guilt. The sanction is not obedience, but respect for public approval. The only misconduct is that which hurts the community; misconduct is punished by feelings of shame and not of guilt.

Thus, the socialization of the child implies not only the universal aspects of behavior, but also pol-ics of the specific culture and its specific system of child-marring.

Entertainment Series Presents Monologist

Cornelia Otis Skinner

At the fourth presentation in the Entertainment series at Goodhart Hall the Committee will present Miss Cornelia Otis Skinner, well-known actress, dramatic monologist, authoress, and radio artist, on Friday, March 7, at 9 o'clock. Miss Skinner has appeared many years before at Bryn Mawr, and her penetratimg character sketches have always been enthusiastically accepted.

Miss Skinner, the daughter of Ote Skinner, so-called dean of the American theatre, attended Balo-win School, and Bryn Mawr for two years. She left Bryn Mawr to study acting in France. Following three years of experience on Broadway she developed and perfected her character sketches which deftly portray life in its humorous, po-thetic, tender, and satirical aspects. She also wrote and acted.

In addition she has played the title role in Candide and lately the part of Angelica in the Player's Club production of "Candide, Love for Love." It is her success as a monologist, however, which won her the title of "the greatest single attention in the American theatre."
