Colleage Chorus Plans Concerts

Orchid of the College, repi' erated in the Bryn Mawr College Chorus—the amalgamation of the old English Chorus and the Philharmonic—will have its first concert this year. The chorus will perform after the college athletes meet the Yale Glee Club and will give a concert of choral music.

The height of the season will come when the college choirs, participating in the Millbank Festival in Princeton, will perform in cooperation with the Princeton Glee Club and members of the New York Philharmonic Orchestra. The college choirs will present one of the great oratorios of Handel and Haydn.

Because the chorus has one hundred members this year, each musical social will have a party the following alternate Sundays. An innovation to improve the quality of the members in the quartet-teams, scheduled for the first week in November is the system of Miss Dever's and the officers will direct the quartet leaders to follow the conductor, notes, and style. In this way, the chorus will have a more unified and blendable sound, and these trials will help in the selection of new members.

Five officers of the chorus met with Mrs. Dever on Tuesday morning to discuss the plans of the chorus and to bring up any problems or criticisms of the members.

B. M. Team Opens Hockey Season

Owls Defeat Drexel; Lose To MCC

Playing its first opponents of the year, the Bryn Mawr Varsity Hockey team lost to the Merion Cricket Club in a fast match, 4-3, on October 17, but on October 19, the Owls broke through the Drexel line to win 4-0.

The long class passes, perfect teamwork, and skillfully-placed shots all at goal of the well-seasoned Merion Cricket Club players were a joy to watch. Although they lacked a goalie-keeper in the first half, the score stood in their favor 2-2. In the second half, the Bryn Mawr left wing, Bette McClure, 48, carried the ball the full length of the field to pass it to her inner, Ellen Casey 47, who kicked it into Merion's goal. But the Club players had already scored their fourth goal, and despite the Owls' strong and determined defense and well-coordinated forward line, Merion won 4-3.

Drexel

In both halves of the Drexel game, most of the play centered around the Drexel goal except for a spirited dash by a Drexel forward in the second half, who lost the ball only to the B. M. goalie, Hyaet 47. The Owl goals were made by Kaufman 48, playing right wing who hit a superb shot from the side, Richardson 46, Carl 48, and Edwards 48. Coordination between the members of the team characterized the game, with the backs keeping the ball in the circle by hard hits and skillful passing.

In the second team game with Drexel, the Owls were again victorious 5-0. In the first half only one goal was made by B. M., but in the second half, a stronger and harder hitting raised the score to five.

Incidentally...

The Student Advisor system often confuses freshmen, but we heard yesterday of a Haverford man who is now thoroughly suspicious of all Bryn Mawr girls. His state had turned seventy-five in him ad said, "Today I got my permanent S. A. and didn't find she meant "easy" either.

One of our wardens couldn't understand why Mr. Dier gave her the cold shoulder the other morning. She went to greet him with a cheery "Good day," and instead came out with "Gutt Gott!" She couldn't speak German at night.

The life of the editors of the News during tryout time is one of fear ad trembling as they face multitudes of high-school adorers with "professional" experience. We had just finished explaining to one Freshman that a news article is similar to an "inverted pyramid," with the essence of the story at the top, dwindling into nothingness at the bottom of the pyramid. With distinctly worried mood she shook her head and said, "But, gee, can't type that well!"

And incidentally, there was the Freshman we met the other day who is still wondering where, why, and how she's going to matriculate, and would she have to do it in public.

Haverford men invaded the Soda Fountain last night to sell souvenirs on a Silver Fox Nerlopkeh, whose probable origin was a pawn shop. Their advances were delayed by a suspicous Bryn Magyky who retaliated, "I don't accept silver foxes from wolves."

Ghoul’s Inspire Merion’s Victory Over Rockefelder

Arrayed in black tunics emblazoned with white skulls and crossedbones, the Ghoul, Ghoulie emerged on Sunday afternoon from the dark bowels of Merion toium up over the Rockefelder home. 6-0. The Ghoulies were well assisted by Hupa Kauusen of the Spanish house as right inner, Canta of the Owls as center, and an "unknown." In the first minute of play, Rock’s star center forward, Bob Boss 46, shot the ball into the Merion net, making the score 1-0. The Owls, who were not only fast but also popular, got together the following forwards for 1944-45:

President—Betsy McIlroy; Vice-president—Lobby Bagley; Secretary—Calvina Spence. Song Mistress—Betty Smith.

The Freshman Class takes pleasure in announcing the election of Barbara Bentley, Pembroke East, as the fourth Freshman chairman of the First Merion Cricket Club.

Vogue To Explain “Prix de Paris”

On Friday, October 26, at 7:30, Miss Anne Huhlin will speak in the Deane Auditorium on Thursday, October 26, as the second lecture in the series on French fashion. Miss Huhlin graduated from Smith in 1944 and won the Prix de Paris in France that year. She was a Powers model while in college and is now a Junior Fashion Editor of Vogue. At the present moment Miss Huhlin is traveling for Vogue to Europe, where she is also writing for the Vogue Paris Office, where she is still doing work for Vogue Paris Office as soon as the office opens.

Escape Story Told By Roumanian Girl

In order to reach safety it was necessary to cross the suffered white zone, which was completely patrolled by the Germans. While one contingent of German troops marched through, they stood in the woods along the side of the road and covered their heads with leaves. In spite of the crying of a three-weeks-old baby, their presence was not discovered. Then, before the next German troops arrived, they were forced to run the two miles to safety. But Fanita's earliest memory is that many others have been subjected to similar experiences and that "I was lucky."

Fanita next went to Mexico where she lived for four years prior to coming to Bryn Mawr.
