Students of Bryn Mawr College
Burlch of Tufts
To Give Lecture
On “Universals”
George Beesworth Burch, professor of history, will give the third of the de Laguna lectures in Philosophy on Thursday, October 30, at 8:15 p.m. Dr. Burch’s choice of a topic arises from his primary interest, the philosophy of the Middle Ages.

The de Laguna lectures are sponsored by a fund which was raised by the former students of Theodore A. de Laguna, who taught at the Liberal Arts College of Haverford College until his death in 1930, and Mrs. Grace A. de Laguna, professor emerita, who retired from teaching several years ago. Mrs. de Laguna has been a member of the faculty since 1907. The two previous de Laguna philosophy lectures were given by Professor Dorothy Walsh, of Bryn Mawr College, and Professor Bertram Morris, of Northwestern University. Professor Morris, who has held a faculty position at Bryn Mawr since 1940, is the chairman of the Committee on the International Inter-cultural Committee.

Professor Morris will discuss the following questions for the new American student of the Middle Ages:

1. Why are the Crusades important?
2. What is the significance of the Albigensian Crusade?
3. What is the role of the Inquisition?
4. What is the significance of the Fourth Lateran Council?

These topics will be discussed in the context of the Middle Ages as a whole, and the lecture will be of more than ordinary interest to Tufts students.

The lecture will be held in the Goodhart Hall on Wednesday, October 30, at 8:15 p.m.

A. A. to Present Festive Carnival With Games, Balloons and Food
By Laura Brennan, '19
Marion Green will emerge on Friday as the theme of a gay carnival, with the best in entertainment and food. The entertainment is divided into two sections: a free dance and a costumed parade. The dance will be held in the gymnasium from 8 p.m. to 12:00 a.m., and the parade will begin at 12:00 a.m. on Main Street.

The carnival will feature a variety of games and activities, including a dance contest, a talent show, and a costumed parade. The games will include a tug of war, a sack race, and a limbo dance. Prizes will be awarded for the winners of each game.

The food will consist of a mix of American and international dishes, with a focus on vegetarian and vegan options. There will be a variety of hot and cold dishes, including sandwiches, salads, and a variety of desserts. The food will be served from 8:00 p.m. to 12:00 a.m., and there will be a cash bar available.

The carnival will be free to all Tufts students, and there will be an entry fee of $2 for non-students. All proceeds will be donated to a local charity.

The event is being organized by the Tufts University Activities Committee, with the support of the Tufts University Programming Board and the Tufts University Student Government.
War Mongering is Dangerous

Today the United States is committed to a policy of establishing an understanding with the Soviet Union and taking an active part in the construction of a lasting world peace. Secretary of State Byrnes made this clear in his report to the nation on the Paris Conference. Equally clear was Mr. Byrnes' rejection of the current belief that deep-seated differences among nations make another war inevitable.

An acceptance of the inevitability of war must not be allowed to grip the United States. Constantly we hear allusions made, even by people whom we respect as intellectual and social leaders, to the "next war," as if such an event were a certainty in the near future. Such allusions evidence an attempt to nullify efforts for peace from the start. "We will never be able to rid the world of this blight," stated Mr. Byrnes, "if we ourselves become victims to it."

That is not to say that we should become complacent and over-optimistic. International affairs are in a serious state, and the construction of a permanent peace is a long, arduous process. We must be realistic and face the existence of strong American-Russian tensions. But we must go beyond this and adopt the positive concept that states with different systems of life can exist alongside of each other and reach a common basis of understanding. Above all, we must achieve an understanding of Russia, as well as an understanding with her.

Biologists Observe Phagocytosis, Experiment on Rats in Summer

By Helen Martin '49

While summer vacation students dropped their work to while away the summer interval, members of the biology department remained at the college to carry on research work. One of these workers is Ruth Leyendecker studied the process of phagocytosis, or measuring the capacity of the bloodstream, to check its reliability, while Mr. Barry and Evelyn do. Mr. Barry and Evelyn do. Mr. Barry and Evelyn do.

The project of the research was an attempt to find a means of detecting whether or not rats could be infected by white blood cells which contain bacteria. Dr. Leyendecker repeated the experiment with rabbits, which were infected with bacteria and kept alive. He found that the experiment was successful in detecting the presence of white blood cells which contained bacteria.

Ideas Exchanged During Weekend At Lab School by Allen Wadsworth '49

This past weekend a group of people were brought together at the Hoxie Shore Labor School with a desire to know each other and their ideas, and except for the fact that there had little in common. A majority were college students, some junior, few senior, from Haverford, Swarthmore, Mt. Holyoke, Connecticut College, Bryn Mawr; some represented Trade Unions, others, different colleges; some were instructors at, or otherwise connected with, the Hoxie Shore Labor School. The meeting was the result of an idea which represented the fundamental principle of the school: that by living and working together, by discussing subjects of mutual interest, people can learn from each other.

The weekend was opened at 8:00 on Friday night, with a talk by Mr. Stephen Vadeck, Research, Economic, and Labor Union's, national Association of Machinists. This talk and subsequent discussion about the current labor movement in Britain. "The whole com..." stated Mr. Vadeck, "and I, as a socialist, cannot agree with the economic and social theories that British workers put up by the Tories in Parliament to the various policies of the Labor Party. Widely Varied Aims, Interests Shown by Foreign Undergrads

By Katrina Thom© "P"

The number of foreign students enrolled in Bryn Mawr this year is one of the largest in the college's history, comprising 15 per cent of the entering students. Despite the number of foreign students here, as individuals they never cease to interest us.

Nineteen years old, Justice I. enrolled in America. She lived in Shanghai until it was occupied by the Japanese. They were immediately occupied by the Japanese. They moved in as best they could, the students carrying the equipment on their backs, books and food, and teachers, and were bombed. When Justice had a chance to come to America, she did, entering the Princeton Schools. She wants to help educate the Indians and to better their living conditions. There was wishing that there was a more comprehensive Romance language major, there, whereas there will probably remain in France or Italian.

Penn Offers B.M. Hard Competition

The hockey game with Penn, at Bryn Mawr on October 17, started the season with a loss for Bryn Mawr. The final score was 3-3. The first half was a particularly hard one for Bryn Mawr, as the Penn team made five goals, three of them made by Joan Penley. Penn's all college center forward. Sheila Easton received a pass from Nancy Bierwirth to make Bryn Mawr's only goal for that half. The second half showed a great recovery in the Bryn Mawr team, when Ellen Cary sent two balls into the cage. Frances Edwards followed them with another. Penn ended thecontres with two more goals. The Penn team was stronger than the Bryn Mawr team, despite the stiff competition which marked the second half. The Bryn Mawr forward line shows promise of more success in future games. difficult for the people to keep up with the many new regulations. Interpretation of the acts is in the hands of the various ministers, and there is no recourse to the courts. This is one of the greatest in refrigerations upon personal liberty. As to the actual make-up of the Labor Party, it includes a left and a right wing. The present government takes the middle road, leaning more to the right than the left. Its object is to finish the socialization as rapidly and with as much efficiency as possible. The left wing, the social democrats, want strict socialism with its exceptions made, and are much more inclined to use ruthless methods to attain their ends than those on the right.

Wants to Meet a Nice Big Family?

Telephone workers make up a big family . . . more than 575,000 in the Bell System . . . more than 27,000 in The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania. These workers are your friends and neighbors and they're nice people to meet, to know, and to do business with. You'll find them everywhere. For the Telephone Company is mainly a local business, multiplied by the many localities it serves, and operated by home-town people.

We're proud of our telephone family. You can be, too.

Biologists Ober e Phagocytosis Process: Conduct Experiments on Rats in Summer

Phagocytosis was necessary, and this problem occupied Ruth Leyer-decker this summer. She tested various chemicals to find one which would have the same effect as anemia.

As to the general success of the summer's work in this field, Mr. Perry termed the results as definitely hopeful. No sweeping claims can be made of the immediate practical value of their findings, but the theory has been proved and the biologists hope to find better chemicals to effectively prevent infection by artificial increase of phagocytosis.
