Malik Foresees Vital World Role In India's Future

"If India can develop materially along Western progressive lines, she will contain her spirit in the future, she can play a significant role in the international future by bringing about the adjustment between East and West," declared Harvil Shri, leader of the Indian Trade Union. "We are the Indian and Indian representative to Canada, in the Current Events Assembly."

Although India was the victim of Britain economically, he pointed out, Indian industry has been developed. "By 1960, India has a future role of the world, and will be a strong competitor."}

Ferrer Describes Current Theatre, Acting Profession

On Thursday night Jose Ferrer gave the Mariner Edwards Park Dinner under the direction of Mr. Pemberton on Phases of Contemporary Theatre. Mr. Pemberton will be present to say that the audiences to-morrow exist in the colleges and the students present will shape the cultural climate of the day.

He spoke of the struggle playing, because it has taken me twenty years to write a play which may close in the theatre because of the reviews it received. "On Wednesday morning nine men decide whether they like it or not, and if they don't, you can just kiss it goodbye—that's the trouble." (Continued on Page 2)

The Helburn Chair

Theatre at Bryn Mawr is booming! In the past few years, we have seen a higher and higher standard of campus productions, with constantly growing interest and enthusiasm in theatre. The Helburn Chair in the Student Union, home to the Dramatic Guild and the Helburn Club, has increased in attendance and activity. The theatre is a place where students can perform, experiment, and learn about drama. This year, the Helburn Club is planning to host several productions, including a new addition to the fall schedule: "Daisies" (revised version); "The Chapel Speaker"; and "The Bicentennial Plays." The club also plans to hold workshops and discussions on theatre-related topics. In short, the Helburn Chair is a great place to be for those interested in theatre! - B. B.
Polymyxin, New Miracle Drug, Described by Dr. Bliss, B. M. '21

In a moment between a tour of Radnor and a meeting of the Board of Directors of Bryn Mawr College of which she is an Associate, a little boy with an acute ass infection which had developed after he had used a skin ointment to which he was allergic. The area affected had not only streptococcus bacteria but also bacillus pyocyaneus. When polymyxin was administered, the latter bacteria which had been left intact despite the use of penicillin, were destroyed. In clinical work polymyxin has also been administered to two infants with whooping cough and was instrumental in helping them recover; in the test tube it has been effective against the bacteria which cause typhoid, undulant fever, whooping cough, brucellosis and Friedlander's bacillus. "Try still very new though, and has been proved in only five cases since it is difficult to find the right kind of case," Dr. Bliss added. "Tuberculosis which is caused by a gram positive bacteria has not been successfully treated with polymyxin," she continued.

Dr. Bliss, who is the discoverer of the minute haemolytic streptococcus now known as Group F, and co-discoverer and developer of the sulphonamide compounds emphasized that polymyxin is still very much in the experimental stage but she said, "It is a different organism which may add to the knowledge of the bacteria of other cells."

It’s "AIRIZAY" (Arizay) - RCA Victor’s new platter by Ray McKinley and his band

RAY MCKINLEY’S styling of the New Orleans ditty, “Airizay,” is attracting lots of fans. If you ask Ray about it, he says: "There may be an experience where style of music we do best—just as I’ve learned from experience that Camel suit is in right now to a ‘r.’"

Try Camel! Learn it for yourself, with smokers who have tried and compared. Camels are the “choice of experience.”

And here’s another great record—More people are smoking CAMELS than ever before!

Polymyxin, New Miracle Drug, Wins Latin Fellowship to Rome by Myra Uhlfelder

Myra Uhlfelder Takes Lucky 13; Wins Latin Fellowship to Rome by Celia Moncure '30

For the thirteenth time a Bryn Mawr woman has been awarded the fellowship given by the American Academy in Rome. Myra Uhlfelder, whose A. B. and M. A. are from the University of Cincinnati, has recently received the fellowship, and hopes to spend next winter in Rome. If all goes well she will sail on September 26, and will probably stay until June.

Myra seems to have her plans all made in the expectation that "Manet et L'Espaces!"

Painting, realism, while the influence on painters was of a more stylistic type.

Many of Manet’s early paintings have Spanish subjects, simply executed against an empty background. There is a passage from darkness to light in Manet’s painting. After complaining that too much painting had been done in the studio and that artists should paint outdoors, Manet found the ideal of a living person surrounding him in air in Velasquez.

In his later work Manet developed his lightest and tighter background well as a certain flatness in painting them. He attained a gray tone which was almost completely flat. "But although Manet wanted to paint Spanish subject, he did not forget Spain nor the influence of Velasquez against Italianism," concluded Professor Galliard.
Quartet's Hollers Result in Dollars

by Blakie Forsyth '51

Two masked marvins armed with water pistols invaded the Rhoda smoker last Wednesday night, loudly demanded cash, and then proceeded to rob their victims the renovated 45 Quartet. Ann Elnaborst, Sue Henderson, Kathy Renaud and Sally Loomis appeared to ring bells of indignity. If I Had My Way, Embraceable You, My Sweet and other popular standbys. The hat was passed frequently by the guardians, who then turned to the occasional plug for the Bingo in Penn. The acrobats' blackface and close harmony of the Quartet were much appreciated by their audience, especially by the quartet themselves, who remained strictly modest, apologizing before each number. By a flood of pennes, the Quartet obliged with a special Elizabethan rendition of Lerain Leader as a grand finale and left their admiring audience with the knowledge that once again the Drive had benefited. The Quartet wishes to thank the halls for their contribution to the Drive--approximately $300--and hopes to do a great performance again.

Bryn, Hav. Present Anouilh's Comedy

Specially contributed by Phyllis Bolton '49

If you have noticed various Bryn Mawr or Haverfordians clustered around Bock Arch at 7:10 every evening and muttering such phrases as "Je ne suis pas Jacques Renard," or "Proustquet, c'est un peu faible," do not fear for their sanity. These are members of the cast of Le Vayruag Jean Bagne waiting for transportation to rehearsal, and they are only temporarily deranged. The evening of April 10 will find them returned to normal.

On tap at the French Club of Bryn Mawr and Haverford will be Jean Anouilh's comedy Le Vayruag Jean Bagne at Roberts Hall. This is the story of an enormous victim of the First World War. Gaston visits the Raul family in hopes that they will prove to be his own, family and that this memory will return. As he hears the part of the man whose life he must assume, his battles and his love affairs, he becomes more and more convinced he went no part of such a life. But can he avoid it when an indication points to his being Jacques Renard? A trip to Roberts Hall on April 10 will answer this question.

The cast includes: Gaston, Gomtner Frankl; Georges Renard, Charles Melchior; Madame Re- naud, Elizabette Gregor; Valentin Renard, Hilary; Gold; La Duchesse, Josephine Haskford, Julieta, Kath-...
