Clariifes Issues About About
Inflammable Club

Philosophers from neighboring colleges attended the annual meeting of the Fuller Club on Tuesday, April 15. The session was held in the Dye Assembly Hall in the morning and two in the afternoon.

Professor Hajo Holborn, of Yale University, opened the discussion with a paper on "Greek and Modern Concepts of History." According to Professor Holborn, "In the intellectual history of modern philosophy, there has been a tremendous revolution in the way of thinking about history. The great contribution of Thucydides was his attempt to replace myths with a credible interpretation of history. The fruits of Thucydides work, however, may be found in the philosophy of Plato and Aristotle. Which group of Greek thought toward a common concept or vision of history revolution is the wave in the waters of Polybious. With the coming of Christology the new term and a theology of history was created. Machiavelli contributed greatly to the breakdown of this theology of history by reverting to the concepts of Thucydides and Polybios. Professor Holborn concluded by explaining that modern thought has attempted to fill the void which the departure from a religious concept of history has created.

Dialectic is an important aspect of historical reality, said Professor Helmut Kohl, of the University of North Carolina, in an analysis of "Dialectic in History." "It is also dangerous in an institutionalization of historiography." Professor Kohl demonstrated that the danger lies in the uniformization of individuality.

Top Secret

Certain tantalizing facts and allusions may now be published in regard to the Faculty Show. Program notes were not printed for Saturday's performance of "Top Secret" disclosed to students.

The faculty show Top Secret revealed unexpected talent in some and enthusiasm in all. After the initial stage-fright and lightfoot terror, the actors drowned their inhibitions in self-expression, cut loose in the song of Queen Manning, sometime head of the history department, the "Great Flexible Lecture" and "Spring in a Roman Garden.

This clever little show contained the most applauded piece of the evening, The place of honor was occupied by a boat of Aeschylus whose aura was reflected by the surrounding statues to such an extent that Miss Robinson, Berlin, Aynsley, Mackinton, and Berry were scarcely recognizable. Accompanied by Louise Evins' "I Will Always Mate Merchandise Bases on" and Emily Townsend's "Goodhart, May 10.

The BST Secret was finally unmasked in closing vaudeville, the male section or can-can chorus, kick in ahead of the female section, which one imagined to be a farming melody provided by Mrs. Bacon's violin, pianist Mr. Berumen and Mr. Immwollachs on the flute. Four ephemeral nymphs fitted into the garden. Graceful as they were, Mrs. Crumb, Miss Manning, Mrs. Lattimore, and Miss Clayton were temporally eclipsed by the entrance of Dr. Humeston. He told what the faculty do in their spare time: as Mrs. Manning remarked, "I wish to state I shall always mate merchandise bases on the faculty."

Dr. Humeston's lecture was then followed by a lecture on "The Great Contribution of Thucydides to Modern Thought," by Professor Rolborn, "The fruits of Thucydides work, however, may be found in the philosophy of Plato and Aristotle. British Novelist Reads Passages From His Works

E. M. Forster Selects Musical References in Novels

Godfllld Hall, May 7; Mr. E. M. Forster, British novelist, read selec­ tions from his works, naming to a large and appreciative audience. The author, who is now at home in the United States, was the first to state his range. Brny Mawr is the only college to be visited by Mr. For­ ster during his American sojourn.

The author announced that since he had spoken on music to the students of the University of London, a continuation of the same duties is being performed at the University College of the City of London. The speech was given on advice given to the production.

Forster to Tour the States

Mr. Forster, who has been touring the States, will be in the East in the next few weeks to promote interest in local college radio stations. WPEN arranges for Mr. Forster to join the college radio stations. WPEN arranges for a series of lectures to take place on college campuses, in a kind of quiz tournament to be held in various parts of the States. Mr. Forster was invited to the University of California by the University Museum and to the University of Pennsylvania by the University Museum.

International Chit Chat

This broadcast, the last of this year, was followed by a number of questions from listeners who were present at the broadcast. The broadcast was held in an informal talk with the English team being treated.

The questions covered a wide va­ riety of topics, including the war in the middle east, the current political situation in Europe, and the war in the middle east. Forster was unable to answer in an in­ formal talk with the English team being treated.

The broadcast was broadcasted on the radio by WPEN, a New York station, and was followed by a number of questions from listeners who were present at the broadcast. The broadcast was held in an informal talk with the English team being treated.

Rannels Explains Personnel Work

Thursday, May 8. Miss Frances Rannels, expert in personnel work, gave a short talk on this profession at a vocational conference. Personnel work is necessary for industries of all types, and in some cases, office efficiency is desired. Miss Rannels said. Often a woman, understanding the human side of her work, would help her in personnel work, as there is often a current labor problem. In such a magnitude, as many workers are employed to handle personnel.

Miss Rannels explained the problems as a way to talk to men with directions and plan for the future. It is possible to give not only sympathy but help.

‘Secret’ Discovered To Be Hilarious

There was a spontaneous, informal char to the Faculty Show Saturday night. The other side of the faculty really delighted us. We were not aware that some of these artists were among us—rich baritones and tenors, a coloratura soprano, premiers danseurs and danseuses, and natural comedians. And it was especially nice to meet some of the faculty wives for the first time across the footlights.

In May when the greatest number of visitors come to the college, we are made more conscious than ever of the disgraceful appearance of the halls. And even the grounds might be made more presentable if we adopted the Army practice of flagging-striped cigarette papers.
"Top Secret" Discloses Faculty Stamina; Lyrics and Ballet Contribute Variety

The quartet was visibly affected by the pathetic sentiment of the final song: "I wanna kiss Papa goodnight!"

The academic atmosphere was restored by the "Great Flexible Lecture." In spite of competition from the stories of the slide man (strangely enough his corner faculty member, most masculine in not be expected before the end), he managed to make ideas recognizable. His "This is not Venice; this is the linoleum. A Local Variant of "trial to make ideas forces, history."

Swarthmore, the B. M. football team was victorious 11-7. The high point of the game was Carol Seman's home run for Bryn Mawr. The team was defeated, however, by Ursinus, 11-1, in a game which, according to the captain was "savage" and "full of errors." The lacrosse team played Baltimore on Sunday, and with the help of 6 Baltimore players—owing to a slight deficiency of numbers—defeated the others 8-2. The team tied 3-3 with Beaver.
