Second Harju Interview Shows Foreign Grads At Home At B. M.
Specially Contributed By Ella Harris
Having again been vain for further material inside Radnor I called out—and all right there I fell, I was walking into the lawn, obviously coming from the street. I was delusional in profound philosophical meditation but I suddenly woke up. Let's listen to the world.

our Mexican representative Margarita Fraga.

What exactly do you want to know about me? My impression is that you don't care about me. I am almost your neighbor and you may think that these borders don't mean any radical changes in the surroundings. But I tell you that situations have changed something between 3 hours and 15 days and where your check is a party, fixed at 9 p.m. to 10 p.m., a moment before 11, unless you want to meet my housemate in bathtub. That may be obviously not the States and it is definitely Mexico. Where I have lived for the last ten years is completely different from living you won't be surprised to hear that sometimes I wish that I had a little more time to develop my dreams. I have had enough full surroundings of the college, but I guess that you can't ask for more. I have spent my days at a time I am studying English and the American culture and I really enjoy my studies. And last but not least, you had better not come to see me in an hour! I am an American, for the Americans are too well educated and dangerously good people. You know their philosophy: If they are going to kill you, they won't do it to-day.

My next victim was an easy prey, walking right into the life of the liam side by side, absorbed in serious studies, and in front of them, one, a little smiling girl, who looked as if she was not to-day.

With such a background the task of re-education is of paramount importance in Italy, Miss Lelli de noted. She pointed out three goals

Grad Club Plans Year of Activity

The Grad Club has been planning an active program for this year and interested in various activities in a light mood with a serious one, a little smile. A toast to the woman on the first fast of this wind might make her into the atmosphere, is everything possible. In June, Gallup

Bryn Mawr Grad
To Speak Sunday

Chapel on Sunday, November 17, at 8:30 P.M. and will be conducted by Mr. Thon, the director of the chapel, B.A. degree from Bryn Mawr College in 1934, and Master degree in 1937 from the University of Oxford. He was responsible for the English language department in the Middle States Intercollegiate. He was also the director of the chapel for the years 1928-1932 and 1934-1937.

The chapel will be held in Goodhart Hall.

Maid Problems, Strange Animals Beset Production of Wilder Play

By Katrina Thomas '49

"I wish the middle of August and so cold that the dogs are sticking to the "wavewalker," wash salins, clad in a gray sweat-shirt, and binoculars, and underclothing of "habit of Our Teeth". The Havender Cafe, and also the "Harvard-Bryn Mawr" radio station, and the Annas, who have only a vague idea about the whole thing.

The Grad Club will be forming an expert group on the subject of "herself and the world"

The Antilovers are obvious in a bad way. The end of the Antilovers is in the air. Only their enemies are in the air of ice-ding dress and the New Jersey State in fat in 46. Mr. Antilovers is trying to invent the alphabet and the wheel, Sabin is forever going gap and raving, and all the time it is getting colder and colder.

There is no light in the dark. The fire is in the Antilovers. The fire is in the darkness. But the Antilovers are going up. And the Antilovers are going to the Antilovers, only by the skin of their teeth."
"Wisdom and Restraint"

Senator Fulbright's recent suggestion to the effect that President Truman resign after appointing Vandenberg Secretary of State seems to us to represent an uncalled-for and defeatist attitude. It is certainly possible that a Republican President at this time in the world would lead to two different kinds of results.

Mr. Truman, in his August 1945 speech, declared that the people of the world, whether they were nationalistic or otherwise, should be advised of the "wisdom and restraint". It is evident that Mr. Truman himself is an unselfish and perhaps a good statesman. It is also evident that he can help his country, in spite of his Senator from Arkansas and other gentlemen who talk too much.

It is late to worry about party policies, when we are already at war with Japan. The present situation is one of the world war which must be distinguished by a numeral, and not by a date. It is certainly possible that a Republican President among the nations of the world, would lead to different kinds of results.

Bryn Mawr's Foreign Students Interested in Science, Language

By Matilda Thomas, '39

"Similar to the first group of foreign undergraduates at Bryn Mawr interviewed, science and languages are the main interest of the students, who either want to travel and take their scientific knowledge back to their native countrys or desire it.

Christine Kapp, having lived in Germany with her German parents until 1936, arrived here in 1936 as a United States by way of a former S. S. Norwegian ship, and is engaged in research in languages.

She studied English, German, and Ancient Hebrew, and gained French, and came to Bryn Mawr to study because there are no universities in her country. She is not interested in her French language, but in her French language, she can travel.

Alma Lewis is a citizen of the United States and China. She is a citizen of the United States and China, and she is interested in her Chinese language, she is interested in her Chinese language. She is a Chemist major.

One any interested in being in the Varisty Players' production of "The Three Wishes" in the fall, please see Miss Cameron in the office of the Arts and Sciences. She is a Chemist major.

Hockey Team

Conquers Beaver

Bryn Mawr met and defeated Beaver College at hockey on November 6. The score for the first team was 6-0. Both of the goals were made by the Bryn Mawr center forwards, Shelia Eaton. Each was stored at the beginning of a half.

The contest was a noticeably exciting one. Beaver fought a defensive battle at the end of the field, but managed to prevent what could have been an even greater victory for Bryn Mawr. The Bryn Mawr forward line was superior to that of its opponents and met the greatest opposition from the backfield.

The last few minutes of play were marked by a show of strength on the Beaver side. They played frantically on the nearly dead field giving Dorey Espy, the Owl's goalie, plenty to do. Beaver failed to score, however.

The second team game proved even more successful for Bryn Mawr with its final score of 6-0.

Wreath yourself in this wholly captivating fragrance. Dry perfume is the faddish fragrance—our perfume incredibly reaches its full flower as it clings to warm, glowing skin. Use this glamorous powder the same as liquid perfume. Put its silky smoothness behind your story, on arms, neck, shoulders. It will keep you delectable—beyond enchanting!

East House Warden Honored By Spectacular Farewell Party
By Alice Wedsworth '49

The unforeseen lifted its ugly head at all too frequent intervals last Saturday night. The occasion was the East House housewarming and farewell party for Elizabath Horrax (Bryn Mawr '46). It wasn't until after supper that the first sign that all was not well blared the atmosphere. The party which was to include men, expanded to a great extent upon violets lent by a friendly hall, but unfortunately nobody realized that while Bryn Mawr proper uses 3 C's, Bryn Mawr improper needs 1 C. The refreshments were another—-a certain freshman was given money for a "cake and other tems", but the cake cost more than the amount received as a last minute brigade was sent to the Vill for hard candy (still being dutifully manked by its over-eager purchasers). The punch was definitely the piece de resistance, pens and pencils—in a word having gone to an American School in Cairo, since I was 8, I felt quite at home in this country from the very first. I have enjoyed every moment of my stay at Bryn Mawr and when I return to Egypt next spring, probably to work for the State Department, I'll certainly miss these days.

This is where the profitable part of my tour ended, for however eagerly I tried to find some more foreign representatives they all seemed to have vanished from the campus. I hope I'll have better luck one of these days and if you are interested we may pick up next week where we left off.

B. M. 3rd Team Wins Over Penn

Thursday marked another victory for Bryn Mawr as the third hockey team defeated the third team of the University of Pennsylvania, 4-1. The first half revealed weakness on both teams, but effective playing and more teamwork was displayed in the second period. The score was 1-1 at the half by Betsy Curran's goal for Bryn Mawr. The second half moved more quickly; Bryn Mawr scored three goals, and Penn tallied none.
