f the Art, but that the point in par- particularly the balance is handa-manned; the two paragraphs turn on "My Beautiful" view and the two which turn on "Why you have the Power to Follow" Amica!" These are recommended to the other contributors' acuity—and to Miss Minn. If only, too, sages they explain what is wrong with her attempt elsewhere to suggest a broken connection between broken sentence fragments.

Poetic Content:

There remain the pieces de la resistance—er, to any one who has been the least bit de resistance—the "Fragments from the Aardvark in the Apple Tree," in its author's least possessed manner. The title is a charming seatobphony; surely the fragments are not a cut and dried muncher and snip. Happily, there is little munching and snipping in these poems, though there is some tendency to speak with the mouth full. But the mouth is truthfully usually full of words, real and originating, and that is refreshing.

The work is a "scenario for a dance." Lacking (let us hope not forever!) the "taboos and the rules" we shall, we shall only comment on the poems. The threeroduce stamped from a dream of pre-history (by one of Finsmagan's sleeping sons) to a celebration of the freedom to let its prin-

An American Council for National legislation and accepted; she is no more formidable nor do they have any recognition. They represent the stark beauty and the absurdity of the 'powers that be.' The light put out by C. W. W. is "conditioned, like the light in the photo-studio," but some are enlightened, and some are not, because the thoughts are fatally saturated; and to them, once enlightened, institutional loyalties and once beyond Mr. Morris' spirited bootclops, they are liable to themselves not to give a hoot.

Bard's Eye View

By Claire Robinson, '54

Oh what is so rare
As a day in June
In this season of reading, Rye River, Book Bowl,
And stomp.

The heart would jump
In the doth, if it only could see one boy more.

But no, for papers

By the score have come to mess up dates, and weekends and we are more

X-MEN hoon large
Upon the sons

(That was a scream you heard, by issuing from the padded

halls of quiet smokers)

While poker face, fray shined,

bare faces,

full precision.

That Blue Book Blight has sprung again.

Campus Interviews on Cigarette Tests

No. 31...THE MOUNTAIN GOAT

He thought they were trying to make him the butt-end of a joke when he was asked to judge cigarette mildness with a mere puff of one brand and a quick sniff of another. The fancy foot-work didn't daze him! He knew that the pinnacle of pleasure comes from steady smoking...and that there is only one test that gives you enough time to peruse conclusive proof. Smokers throughout America have made the same decision!

It's the sensible test...the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camel on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camel for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (of T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

After all the Mildness Tests...
