Lawrence Urges
"Closer Relations With Gt. Britain"

Talk Accompanied by Films
Showing War Efforts of Allies

Goodhart, January 11—In the interest of better Anglo-American relations, Miss Gertrude Lawrence presented three British Information Service films to explain the spirit of the all-out war effort of Great Britain and Russia. In a short introductory speech, Miss Lawrence stressed the importance of having more confidence in our allies and of trying to do whatever we can to prevent the war from spreading.

L. Granger Discusses
Inter-racial Problems

Philadelphia, January 13—The increased racial tension in this country indicated the absolute necessity for a "closer adjustment in the future," said Luster E. Granger, Execu· tive Secretary of the National Urban League, in a discussion of the "Technique of Inter-Racial Adjustment" at the Philadelphia local chapter of the American Association of Social Workers. Emphasizing the part which social workers should play in alleviating the conditions and terrors of Negroes, Mr. Granger stressed the great possibility of such an undertaking.

The acute racial tension arises, Mr. Granger explained, from the tradition of exploiting minority groups as labor, one of the natural resources. Increased discussion of democratic ideals, he said, have developed during the war and have resulted in new demands of minority groups.

Migration of Negroes from rural to urban districts and from Southern to Northern cities has been taking place since World War I. Mr. Granger pointed out, and it is a process that is not a continuous one. The result, he said, would make it necessary for Negroes to do their work more for better adjustment to the tensions and conditions of their new surroundings. The Negro, Mr. Granger stressed, is the only group that has never been submerged with a complete loss of identity, and therefore is the one that can be reintegrated into the community. He has never had a lower place than he has today.

Mr. Granger stressed the great possibility of such an undertaking.

The acute racial tension arises, Mr. Granger explained, from the tradition of exploiting minority groups as labor, one of the natural resources. Increased discussion of democratic ideals, he said, have developed during the war and have resulted in new demands of minority groups.

Migration of Negroes from rural to urban districts and from Southern to Northern cities has been taking place since World War I. He has never had a lower place than he has today.
The strain incident to having both examinations and papers due at the end of a long, unbroken fall term was the chief objection voiced to last week's editorial proposing alterations in the college calendar. Another criticism pointed out that, in order to make the new arrangement possible, the first semester would have to commence earlier in September than we had calculated.

Considering these criticisms, we would like to propose modifications. The semester should begin two weeks earlier than it now does, around September 15. Classes should end December 15 for vacation. After vacation there should be a ten day reading period without classes, in which all students could write the papers and prepare for examinations. The Seniors' traditional 'reading period' would take place as usual. Since papers are not usually due as close as exams in the spring, and since the examination period is longer, no corresponding reading period would be necessary then. The second semester would then begin January 22.

This revision of the college calendar brings no extreme change of the opening and closing dates of the academic year, but the change is sufficient to make the total number of hours demanded for daily work, papers and examinations much easier tolerable. Mid-semester quizzes have been spaced over such an extensive period that there is little time to account for this work before Christmas vacation. We believe that by inserting two extra weeks into the college calendar we shall obtain a better distribution of work and relieve the pressure of the present system.
Council Deliberates
On Freshman Hazing

Pegy Green, January 11. Freshman-Club members may soon face a certain level of discipline for any harmful behavior during the social event known as "Hazing." The administration is expected to announce the details of the new policy this week, which has been prevalent, during the past five years or so, among freshmen. In addition, the policy will affect other events in which freshmen participate, as well. It is not clear if the new policy will be applicable to upperclassmen.

In the past, hazing has been a common practice among freshmen, with some members engaging in acts of physical and emotional abuse. The new policy is expected to include strict penalties for those found guilty of such behavior, as well as mandatory counseling for offenders.

The Freshman-Club members are expected to meet with the administration this week to discuss the new policy and its implications. It is hoped that the new policy will help to create a safer and more welcoming environment for all students.

Amelia Williams, January 11. The administration has announced that a new policy regarding hazing will be implemented on campus. The policy is expected to take effect in the near future, and will apply to all freshmen.

The new policy is expected to include strict penalties for those found guilty of hazing, as well as mandatory counseling for offenders. It is hoped that the new policy will help to create a safer and more welcoming environment for all students.
